Total Number for Eight

During the month 16 new complaints were filed, exactly maintaining the monthly average for the previous seven months that the arbitration system has been in operation. The

Ministry to Aid Film Fight for Manpower

LONDON, Sept. 30. — Brendan Bracken, Minister of Information, has agreed to help the film industry in its fight to prevent the call to military service of technicians in numbers which, according to trade protests, would seriously affect the industry. Bracken has asked British and American producers to outline by Thursday production plans for the next year.

The Association of Cine Technicians has charged the Government with the intention of "wrecking" the industry as a result of the latest call of technicians for service. The organization's statement says only 450 technicians are to be left, and the calling of laboratory technicians will interfere also with the processing of American films.

Stress British Need Of Production Plan

The need of a planned schedule of British production is stressed in a survey of the industry's situation in the war, in the report of the Cinematograph Films Council for the year ended March 31, last.

The report blames the present condition on two chief factors, lack of financing and lack of coordination between Government departments interested in films. The report recommends the Government proceed with plans to preserve an industry nucleus. A record number of 12 distributor defaults on quota and 316 exhibitor defaults were noted for the quota year.

Who Cares About Grosses With 'Dem Bums' in Series

By EDWARD GREIF

"Oh, the outlook wasn't brilliant for the Brooklyn grosses that day. . . ." Are the Brooklyn theatre managers downhearted? No! They're looking forward to being able to listen to broadcasts of the World Series in the peace and quiet of their offices, today and for the rest of the week. The projectionists will have little portable radios in their booths and the electricians and ushers will be gathered in little knots listening to some more of the same. The kids who will pay their way into the theatre will also be carrying their portables and listening to

RKO Cancels Fight Film Distribution

Films of the Louis-Nova championship bout at the Polo Grounds Monday night will not be released by RKO as planned, it was announced yesterday. It was said that the coverage "did not contain sufficient pictorial ring action to measure up to the high standard of fight films heretofore released."

Demands of Studio Unions Presented; Answers Thursday

Cameramen and sound technicians' locals presented their demands to producers' labor representatives here yesterday, completing the submission of demands by the I.A.T.S.E. studio locals.

No meeting is scheduled for today because of the Jewish holiday but the negotiations will be resumed tomorrow at the office of Pat Casey, producers' labor representative, at which time the producers' response to the demands of some of the locals will be given.

Steve Newman and Carl Cooper, I. A. West Coast representatives, are sitting in on the negotiations in advisory capacities. Their presence, along with that of the business representatives of the locals, does not signify relinquishment of local autonomy by the studio unions nor does it presage in any way the re-entry of the I. A. into the studio basic agreement, it was said.

the games while watching the picture just as they have been doing for the past month of the hectic National League race.

Circuit operators have passed the word along to managers to take it easy on celebrants if Brooklyn wins. (Voice from the balcony: "Whaddya mean 'if Brooklyn wins?"). Instructions are to quiet the celebrants, if possible, and keep them from ripping up the chairs.

Scores will be announced in almost every Brooklyn house between features. Of course, if Pete Reiser puts ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—A bill providing for a one per cent tax on gross receipts of nearly 90 theatres in St. Louis, expected to yield about $1,100 a week, has been introduced in the Board of Aldermen.

Fred Wehrenberg, head of the MPTOA here, immediately announced a campaign to defeat the measure would be launched, pointing out a similar campaign was successful several years ago when a two per cent tax was proposed. At present all theatres in the city pay a flat $150 fee a year.

16 Complaints In Arbitration Filed in Sept.

total number of complaints for the eight months is 123.

Three arbitration boards still have had no complaints filed. They are Des Moines, Seattle and Indianapolis. New York continues to lead in number of complaints with 22, and Philadelphia is second with 13. Other boards have from one to eight complaints each, although eight boards, other than the three in which no complaints have been filed, have no cases on their dockets due to the fact that those filed have been disposed of by awards or settlements. The eight boards with no cases on their dockets are: Salt Lake City, New Orleans, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Denver, Cleveland, Albany and Oklahoma City.

Of the 28 boards in which cases have been filed 16 of them have had not more than three complaints filed in their eight months of operation. The Cleveland board has had but one complaint and that was filed last February. Oklahoma City and Albany have had but one complaint each and none filed since March. Salt Lake City has had but one complaint and none filed since May. Omaha has one case of record.

Few Complaints Filed

Milwaukee has had two cases, none since last March, while Atlanta, Charlotte, Memphis and Portland have had but two complaints during eight months. Stations which have had only three complaints in the eight-month period are Cincinnati, with none since May; Denver and Pittsburgh with none since April; New Orleans and Minneapolis, with none since March, and Kansas City.

Of the 123 complaints filed to date, 74 have been disposed of, 46 by arbitrators' awards and 28 by withdrawal, the latter for the most part represent settlements which were accepted by the complainants. Of the 46 decisions, 22 were in favor of distributor respondents and 18 were in favor of exhibitor complainants. Six awards were "split" decisions.

Clearance Complaint Is Filed in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—A clearance complaint was filed against all five consenting companies at the local arbitration board today by Columbus Stamper on behalf of his Rivoli Theatre. The complaint seeks an award granting the Rivoli the right to play no later than 28 days after first run in the West Philadelphia section and availability of seven days after Warners Commodore and/or first run in the Baltimore Ave. zone.

W. B. Dropped from Clearance Complaint

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—Warners has been dropped as a respondent in the clearance complaint of A. M. Ellis' Broad Theatre here. Warners' counsel successfully argued that under Section 16 of the consent decree a distributor may sell to its affiliated theatres at its own terms, and that Warners, therefore, were not properly involved in the case.

ALBANY, Sept. 30.—The action of Abe Stone, operator of the Eagle here, against Warners' Delaware and Albany theatres over product availability was settled today by stipulation. Under the settlement, the Eagle will be entitled to availability 35 days after the second run Madison Theatre. Stone had sought a temporary injunction against 20th Century-Fox and Warners to restrain them from supplying Warners' Delaware ahead of the Eagle. Twentieth Century-Fox later settled its phase of the action and, following a hearing on the Warner phase, the injunction was denied.

Under the terms of the settlement the Colonial, an independent house, and the Delaware will be seven days ahead of the Eagle, Paramount and Royal, but in no event will more than 21 days elapse before pictures are available.

"Dumbo"

(Disney-RKO-1941-'42 Release)

IN a word, "Dumbo" is delightful. Done in the Walt Disney tradition, its effects enhanced by the use of Technicolor, this latest cartoon feature from the hand of the master of his medium should be a delight for showmen, as it most certainly will be a delight for every child in the land, and should be for every adult who cares anything about remembering he once was a child.

The erudite perhaps will draw endless parallels between the adventures in disappointment of the little elephant with the enormous ears and the world of man, but that may be put aside for the sheer enjoyment the character and his animated friends will furnish in this day of worry and world alarm.

Disney based his little story on a book by Helen Aberson and Harold Pearl, but its intrinsic value has been merely a jumping-off place for the exercise of the Disney technique of fantasy and fun, whose appeal is universal, and whose audience is legion.

Poor Dumbo, brought by the stork to Mother Jumbo of the circus, finds his midget lot a hard one as his large ears bring ridicule upon him. His mother confined because of rage at the treatment her little one receives, he is befriended by a mouse-roustabout, who is the new counterpart of Jimminy Cricket of "Pinocchio" fame. Eventually comes the inspiration, Dumbo finds he can use his ears to fly, and the world is made very much all right again for him and his mother.

That is a bare outline. It takes no account of the innumerable wholly delightful scenes and songs, the color and the fantasy, the highlight kaleidoscopic color sequence which follows the accidental imbibing of champagne by Dumbo and the mouse, when their pink elephant vision comes to screen-life, a scene which should draw applause, or the expression of mother-love which goes behind the cartoon medium, and is made human and real under the Disney hand.

This is sheer entertainment, a treat for any audience anywhere, and if there is any justice in the world, it should be just as much a treat for the theatre operator.

Running time, 64 minutes. "G."*

"Desperate Cargo"

(Producers Releasing-1940-'41 Release)

THIS blending of good comedy and tense melodrama, neatly balanced, results in an excellent item of entertainment for the smaller theatres. The cast names have no great drawing power and the story is somewhat inconsequential, but it is well done all the way through.

In the cast are Ralph Byrd, Carol Hughes, Julie Duncan, Jack Mulhall, I. Stanford Jolley, Kenneth Harlan and others. Each performs effectively, which factor combines with brisk direction by William Beaudine to make the yarn sparkling and exciting.

Most of the comedy is in the first part as Byrd, airplane purser, and Mulhall, reporter, are awaiting the arrival of a trans-Caribbean airship, while Miss Hughes and Miss Duncan are conniving to obtain passage back to Broadway. Finally all board the plane which, is overtaken by Jolley and his gang. Byrd's heroics lead to the capture of the gang.

Running time, 69 minutes. "G."*

Wins Suit Against 306

Harry A. Harris and nine operating companies of the local Harris Circuit won their fight in court to prevent Local 306 from arbitrating the question of an increase in wage scales, when N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck upheld Harris's petition for a restraining order against the union. The court ruled the notice of arbitration served upon Harris and the operating companies to be "improper and illegal."

Chance Games Seen Killed In Kentucky

State Will Act Following Schine Judgment

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 1.—Chance games are believed to have been dealt their death blow in Kentucky as a result of a consent judgment which will soon be entered here against the Schine Theatres Corp. The judgment bars the circuit from further operation of the games and wins from it an admission that the practice violates the constitution and laws of the State.

The settlement is a compromise of court proceedings instituted against Schine's five local theatres by the State. When the judgment is entered, Attorney General Hubert Meredith will issue a statement that if any Kentucky theatre operates chance games it will be proceeded against and no further compromise will be accepted.

23d N. Y. Complaint Filed, Award Granted

The New York arbitration board's twenty-third complaint was filed yesterday and an award was entered at the same board reducing the clearance of competing theatres over the West End Theatre, Newark, in the latter's clearance complaint against the five consenting companies.

The West End is operated by Pausan Enterprises. The arbitrator found that the existing clearance affecting the theatre is "unreasonable" and ordered the 14-day clearance of the Warner Ritz over the West End reduced to seven days, and abolished the clearance of Warners' Savoy over the theatre in instances in which the (Continued on page 8)

TAX HAS NO EFFECT ON THEATRE GROSS

Hanson Leaves All Nathanson Canada Firms

TORONTO, Oct. 1.—Oscar R. Hanson has resigned as director of theatre operations for the new Nathanson Odeon Circuit and today announced his withdrawal from other Nathanson companies in which he held ranking executive posts.

Hanson said his resignations are effective today. In addition to the Odeon post, he relinquishes the presidency of Empire-Universal Films, Ltd., and similar posts with Associated Theatres, Ltd., Sterling Films, Ltd., and Sovereign Distributors, Ltd., in all of which he was closely associated with N. L. Nathanson for many years.

It is believed here that Hanson's withdrawal from the Nathanson concerns may be traced to a division of authority in Odeon management and operations and to recent Empire-Universal developments. Paul Nathanson, son of N. L. Nathanson, is president of Odeon and vice-president of Empire-Universal. It is expected that he will replace Hanson as presi- (Continued on page 8)

N.Y. Houses Pass Levy to Patrons; Neighborhoods Plan Children's Cut

The new Federal tax schedule, eliminating the exemption previously in force for admissions under 21 cents, went into operation smoothly here and throughout the country yesterday, representative circuit and independent operators reported last night. All adult admissions are now taxed 10 per cent.

Attendance was unaffected to any noticeable degree by the new levy, it was uniformly reported by theatres. Neighborhood houses, particularly in Brooklyn, experienced a general decline in matinee attendance but attributed it to the combination of the World Series opening game and the Jewish holiday, rather than to the new admission tax scales.

Substantiating their view was the traditionally substantial increase in attendance reported throughout the city for last night's performances, following the end of the holy days.

tional officers, as have others. "This is merely a matter of difference of opinion," said Dr. J. B. Fishman, president of Connecticut Allied, in commenting on the resolutions. In opposing the all-industry committee, he said, the organization felt that the interests of the independent exhibitor would be lost or subjugated if the proposal were to be placed in effect.

Start of New Tax Brings No Change at Box-Office

neighborhood houses plan to reduce the price of special children's matinees from 10 cents to 9 cents, which is not subject to tax.

National circuit operators were agreed that the first day's operation under the new tax levy bore out their belief that it would not adversely affect business. RKO, Loew's, Warner and National Theatres officials pointed out that the most tangible effect of the new scales will be noticed at Saturday matinees, since the new Federal levy relates most directly to juvenile admissions of 10 and 15 cents.

Circuit officials pointed out that adult admissions are negligibly affected by the new tax, having been in effect heretofore on admissions from 20 cents up. It was also indicated that the public is "tax conscious" and already has accepted the fact that the cost of virtually everything is up and likely to go higher. That acceptance has made the public philosophical about all new taxes, it was stated.

Most major Broadway houses reported excellent business yesterday. The Paramount, Roxy and Radio City Music Hall had standees during most of the afternoon and evening, according to the theatres. The Strand reported good business and the Capitol said attendance was better than average for the afternoon, with capacity business last night.

The Globe and Central reported business "rather slow" and the New York Theatre, first-run Western house, was off. Business also was slow at the New Amsterdam and other 42nd Street "grind" houses.

Many theatres along Broadway provided radio reports of the Brooklyn-Yankees game, and most reportedly benefited from the post-holiday trade last night. The influx of World Series visitors is considered a factor in theatre attendance.

Both first-run and neighborhood matinees in Brooklyn were below average. A matinee check showed 1,300 attendance at the Fox, 800 at the Paramount and about 1,000 at the Metropolitan. The borough's theatre operators, however, all attributed the decline to the holiday and the World Series, rather than to the new tax.

Small Manhattan theatres had few complaints and fewer comments to make on the new tax, all reporting that they were passing it on, with no noticeable effect on attendance resulting.

Few Complaints in Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—A check of Loop houses revealed no adverse reaction to the new tax. Theatre men reported a few mild complaints, but the ticket buying public generally is taking it good naturedly. Houses charging 15 and 20 cents have been preparing their patrons for the change with trailers on the screen and signs in the lobby for a week or more.

Reduce Children's Price

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 1.—Theatres here have reduced their children's admission price from 10 to 9 cents in order that the newly reduced exemption on amusements will not

Coast Exhibitors Report No Effect

Los Angeles, Oct. 1.—The start of the new Federal taxes showed no initial adverse effect at the box-office in this area, theatre men reported tonight. The feeling of theatre operators here is that no effect will be felt immediately, but that the tax would make itself felt over a period of months should curtailment of family entertainment budgets be necessary because of the higher cost of living.

force them to collect the extra penny.

Emmett Rogers, city manager for Wilby-Kincey, which operates the Tivoli, State, Rialto and Bijou here, said his theatres would charge 9 cents for children under 12 and adult admissions for all others.

The Wilby-Kincey circuit heretofore charged 10 cents for "children under 14." The new tax forces them to lower the age limit to 12 years.

All neighborhood theatres, owned by Independent Theatres, Inc., have also cut children's admission to 9 cents.

Cincinnati Scales Vary

CINCINNATI, Oct. 1.—No uniform scale of prices because of the tax was agreed upon at a meeting of the Greater Cincinnati Independent Exhibitors League yesterday. Some of the suburban houses, particularly in the lower admission brackets, will pass both the Federal impost and the three per cent State tax to the public, while others will add only the Federal tax.

Seattle Business Unaffected

SEATTLE, Oct. 1.—The new Federal tax had little noticeable effect on Seattle box-offices. Business during matinees and the dinner hour was reported equal to other Wednesdays, considering the attractions. Some comment by the public on the new tax charge was reported, but no adverse criticism or hesitation in buying tickets.

Rochester Adds Tax

ROCHESTER, Oct. 1.—Local theatres are adding the new tax to admissions but plan no general increase in scales, according to theatre men.

Little Reaction in Newark

NEWARK, Oct. 1.—The new tax schedule went into effect smoothly here. Surprise was expressed by some patrons at paying more for lower-priced tickets in some theaters. Attendance, however, was unaffected.

Slight Effect in Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 1.—Matinees were said only slightly affected here on the first day of the all-inclusive ticket tax. Evenings are expected to be affected negligibly. The new tax has been well publicized in newspapers.

Milwaukee Unchanged

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 1.—Reports today from local first-runs indicated no stated that every chance game operator will be on the same footing as the Schine theatres here after the judgment is entered and prompt action will be taken against any theatre which continues the practice. On that basis, he said, he expects the games to be eliminated throughout the State by the end of the week.

The action against the Schine theatres asked for the forfeiture of the company's charter and a fine sufficient to punish the company for a five-year violation of the law. The settlement provides for the abandonment by the State of both those objectives, but the company makes the admission that operation of the games is illegal and agrees that it will discontinue the practice.

Pathe Dissolution Plan Is Approved

Pathe Film Corp. shareholders, representing 80 per cent of the outstanding stock, meeting here yesterday, approved the company's plan to exchange its holdings of du Pont Film Manufacturing Corp. common for shares of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. common and to dissolve Pathe Film.

The stockholders also approved compensation to T. C. Davis, a director, of 300 shares of E. I. du Pont common.

Under the approved plan, Pathe will transfer its 3,500 shares of du Pont Film to E. I. du Pont, receiving in return 56,750 shares of the latter's common. In the dissolution of Pathe, holders of 7,469 shares of preferred will receive from current cash resources payment of $100 a share plus accrued dividends. Holders of Pathe common will receive one share of E. I. du Pont common for approximately each 10.3 shares of Pathe.

noticeable adverse effect on receipts as result of introduction of the new Federal tax schedule.

San Francisco Awaits Test

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—The big test of the new tax schedule is expected here on Saturday, when the levy will be added to children's tickets at matinees. Today, however, there was only slight reaction to the tax because only children's prices are affected at most theatres.

Des Moines Matinees Drop

DES MOINES, Oct. 1.—Although suburban houses here reported no drop in attendance on the first day of the new tax, downtown second runs reported a noticeable decrease in matinees before 2 P.M., where admissions were advanced from 16 to 20 cents. First-run houses were not affected and expect an increase in business because of the smaller difference now between their price and that of the downtown second-runs.

"Two Latins from Manhattan"

Hollywood, Oct. 1

A POORLY developed plot, containing many implausibilities, hampers this comedy with music. Jinx Falkenburg, model, makes an impressive film debut in the picture, in which she shares top billing with Joan Woodbury and Joan Davis.

In the story Miss Davis, press agent for a New York night club, has her two roommates impersonate Cuban dancers and singers, when the real artists are kidnapped. The pair make a hit, the real artists turn up, and all ends on a rather zany note.

Supporting the trio are Fortunio Bonanova, Don Beddoe, Marquita Madero, Carmen Morales, Lloyd Bridges, Sig Arno and Boyd Davis.

It is a modest production, supervised by Wallace MacDonald and directed by Charles Barton. Three songs—"The Kid with a Drum," "How Do You Say It?" and "Daddy"—are featured.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."*

Allied Ponders Its Minn. Law As Circuits Get Films

decision on the consenting distributors' action for an injunction to halt enforcement of the state anti-decree law. A decision is expected from the St. Paul district court next week.

The question was raised at the meeting whether Paramount, RKO and Minnesota Amusement had not violated the state law in the sale and exhibition of the pictures. Officials of the three companies, however, declined to divulge the nature of the deals that have been made, which left Allied in the dark as to the existence of a possible violation. In this connection it was pointed out that Paramount and RKO may sell to their affiliated theatres in any manner they choose, insofar as the consent decree is concerned, leaving open the possibility that they may have been sold the entire new season output of those companies, which would not be a violation of the Minnesota law. RKO has an interest in the Mort H. Singer Orpheum theatres here and in St. Paul. The Singer theatres also are tied up with Minnesota Amusement in a booking deal.

M-G-M new season product also is being exhibited here under a three-year franchise with Minnesota Amusement, which is not affected by the decree or the state law.

[That major companies were selling new season product in Minnesota was reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Aug. 18.]

The Allied meeting also surveyed the product situation in the small towns throughout the state and decided it was not serious. Some "A" theatres in larger towns might be forced to close for lack of product if the situation is not clarified by Nov. 1, it was said, but a court decision on the distributors' injunction case is expected before then.

Savoy takes pictures not played by the Ritz.

The twenty-third New York complaint was filed by the Rosyl Amusement Corp., operator of the Cameo, Jersey City, on clearance against all five consenting companies.

In the case of Loew's, the Cameo seeks product seven instead of 21 days after the Fulton. In the cases of RKO, Paramount and Warners, the Cameo seeks the elimination of seven days clearance over it now granted the Orient. Other adjustments of run also are sought.

dent of the Empire Universal company. N. L. Nathanson resigned as president of Famous Players Canadian last Summer and has been developing the rival Odeon circuit throughout the Dominion. Loew's recently closed with FPC for its new season product. It was known that Odeon had sought a 50-50 split of the M-G-M pictures.

Savini Sees Decree As Boon to Astor

A business increase of 33⅓ per cent was recorded by Astor Pictures during the nine months ended Sept. 30 over the corresponding period last year, R. M. Savini, president, states.

Savini attributed the increase to the slowness of many theatres in closing new season deals under the consent decree method which, he said, has left increased playing time open for independent product.

Efforts to reach Cohen yesterday for comment on the meeting with Wobber were unsuccessful as he was away from his office for the holiday.

N.E. Allied Ratifies Joint Industry Plan

Action Was Unexpected; Ohio Group Approves

Allied's New England affiliate, Independent Exhibitors, Inc., meeting in Boston yesterday, unanimously approved Allied States' plan for an industry joint conference committee, rejecting, however, the proposal that the committee study the possibility of making its setup "more elaborate and enduring."

This action, while approving the original proposal with a reservation, was unexpected in industry circles. It had been believed probable that since Nathan Yamins, chief opponent of the plan, is a leader in the New England unit, the meeting would reject the "unity" plan.

Independent Theatres Owners of Ohio, a leading Allied affiliate, also

Ernst Warns FCC on Link of Press, Radio

Chicago Operators Get 5% Wage Rise

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—An over-all increase of 5 per cent was granted Chicago operators today following long negotiations on a union contract with circuits and independents.

The increase is over the former base rate of $2.10 to $3.09 per hour. It was a counter offer of Allied of Illinois, Balaban & Katz, Warners and the Schoenstadt circuit to the union's original demand for a 10 per cent increase. The new contract will be for one year, retroactive to Sept. 1.

'Yank In RAF' Leads With $78,500 Week; 'Dawn' Big at Para.

Grosses on Broadway ranged from poor to "terrific" this week as the fair weather continued and the World Series stirred up tremendous excitement among New Yorkers.

"A Yank in the R. A. F.," at the Roxy, led the Broadway parade. With a stage show including the Nicholas Brothers, the 20th Century-Fox film finished its first week last night with a smash gross estimated at $78,500.

Similarly unaffected by the Yankee-Dodger fray at the Yankee Stadium was the Paramount which for Wednesday reported its third biggest opening day on record with "Hold Back the Dawn" and Xavier Cugat's orchestra on the stage. The first day's gross was estimated at $9,900.

"Lydia" at the Radio City Music Hall, with the stage presentation continued strong through its second week, drawing an estimated $81,500.

Senate Probe Hearing May Be Postponed

Tobey to Be Absent from Capital Next Week

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Possibilities that hearings of the Senate propaganda probe, scheduled for next Monday, may be postponed, were raised today when it became known that Senator Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire would not be in Washington next week.

Chairman D. Worth Clark of Idaho also is currently out of the city but is expected to return before the beginning of the week after a speech in Fort Wayne tomorrow night.

It was made known definitely that Charles Chaplin, scheduled as a witness for next Monday, will not testify at that time and the committee has informed him that his appearance will be deferred. There was some doubt as to when Will Hays will be heard and the question of the examination of William Wilkerson also remains to be settled.

No definite information of plans for Monday could be obtained from the committee, but it is probable that hearings will be postponed until Senator Tobey can be present.

unanimously approved the proposal yesterday, without reservation. Both organizations voted the national officers and board a vote of confidence.

Eleven regional units have ratified the local conference plan to date, with only one, Allied Theatre Owners of Connecticut, voting in opposition. Five units are still to be heard from.

Yamins vigorously attacked the plan at Allied's recent national convention in Philadelphia. He called it "poison," and particularly assailed Section 3 of the proposed resolution, looking toward a permanent committee, on the ground that the independent exhibitors would be outvoted by the groups representing other branches of the industry. Yamins is a former president of national Allied and now a member of the national board and chairman of New England Allied's executive committee.

Eastern Pennsylvania Allied also has rejected Section 3, while approving the resolution otherwise.

The Clifton Springs Theatre in Clifton Springs has been leased and reopened by Schine, according to C. C. Young, Schine district manager. Robert Emory, formerly of the Riverside in Buffalo, is the new manager. Alterations have been made.

Plan First Runs at Boston Repertory

The Metropolitan will change policy, featuring stage shows as well as first run pictures. Xavier Cugat and his orchestra will inaugurate the new policy on Nov. 14. Among representatives of the industry were Harry M. Warner, Joseph Bernhard and S. Charles Einfeld, as well as Martha Scott and Elizabeth Fraser of the picture's cast, and Irving Rapper, its director. The audience also included a group of trade press and newspapermen from New York.

The picture will open its regular run at the Earle tomorrow.

File Song Suit Pleas

Cross applications to dismiss the complaint and the answer in the $50,000 damage suit of B. G. de Sylva and Joseph Meyer against M. Witmark and Sons, music publishers, were filed yesterday in N. Y. million persons will see this picture," he declared. "We should do everything we can for it."

Seated in the audience were two members of the Nye-Clark subcommittee—Sen. Ernest W. McFarland of Arizona and Sen. C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois.

Dr. Poling reviewed for the audience the manner of the making of the picture, and after introducing Florence Eldridge, wife of Fredric March; Martha Scott and Elizabeth Fraser, the latter two of the film's cast, and the widow of the Rev. William A. Spence, Methodist minister whose life story is depicted in the film, he brought to the stage a surprise celebrity—none other than Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros. Pictures; and the audience of ministers, Government officials, and society and civic personalities heard Warner say:

"I am glad we made this picture. These are perilous times and Christianity is fighting to survive. I know that Christianity will survive, because Christianity is faith and faith is good.

"It makes no difference what your faith is because every faith is good."

The New York group of Warner executives and newspapermen who came here for the premiere will return to New York tomorrow.

Short Subject Reviews

"A Letter from Home"

(United Artists)

A propaganda subject from England which approaches the war's effects on Britons at home in a calm and wholly impressive fashion, this is distinguished by the expert direction of Carol Reed, who has made the film move slowly, tensely and realistically. Its main concern is with the manner of living to which English women have adjusted themselves, only commenting casually when a siren whines, a bomb is dropped and a building shattered. It is to be distributed by United Artists on a non-profit basis. Running time, 17 mins. Release, Oct. 3, 1941.

"Old MacDonald Duck"

(Disney Cartoon)

(RKO)

The Walt Disney cartoon makers have taken a simple situation like Farmer Donald Duck milking Clementine Cow and have given it a clever treatment that is certain to have audiences laughing. Running time, 8 mins. Release, Sept. 12, 1941.

"Pampas Paddock"

(Sportscope)

(RKO-Pathé)

This is an assortment of horsebreeding and racing scenes taken in Argentina and Chile and should be of special interest to devotees of the sport, since both republics are known for their fine stock. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Sept. 5, 1941.

"Half Shot at Sunrise"

(All Star Comedies)

(Columbia)

Roscoe Karns, a prankster in this little comedy, finds much to laugh at in his antics but they and the reactions of his victims may not be considered too funny by the audience in the theatre. The film uses the old-line situations—pie throwing and the like—in its effort to draw laughs. Running time, 16 mins. Release, Sept. 4, 1941.

"Community Sing, No. 2"

(Columbia)

Here the audience is asked to accompany Lew White at the organ and the "Song Spinners," unseen choral group, in a few tunes, such as "Amapola," which by this time have lost some of their value. Where audiences have reacted favorably to such fare in the past, this should be appropriate. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Sept. 5, 1941.

"Buenos Aires Today"

(Columbia Tour)

(Columbia)

This is the usual type of travelogue, touring the Argentine capital with stopovers at big buildings, the subway and such. Also, it takes time out to look at the city's means of solving traffic problems, and the cattle industry. Color would have enhanced the film, but as it stands rates as fair entertainment. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Sept. 26, 1941.

Mexican Industry Now Employs 12,300

Mexico City, Oct. 2.—The importance of the film industry to Mexican economy is indicated by figures released on the business.

day notice of cessation of film service last month in compliance with contract provisions. The 30-day period will expire Sunday.

Meanwhile, home office foreign departments have been advised by their Mexico City offices that negotiations for a settlement of the strike are progressing satisfactorily, with Mexican government officials participating. Arthur Pratchett, Central American manager for Paramount, was called to Mexico City from Havana a few days ago to attend the settlement negotiations.

New Film Regulations In Mexico Effective

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 2.—New regulations governing supervision of the picture industry have gone into effect. They regulate the commercial exhibition of films throughout Mexico and make national Federal approval or disapproval. Grade letters are assigned to pictures—"a," those suitable for children, adolescents and adults; "b," for adolescents and adults; "c," adults only, and "d," adults only under special authorization of the Federal Film Supervision and Censoring Department.

Exhibitors must abide strictly by these letter gradings in all screenings and are liable to fines of from $22.50 to $225 for violations.

"Sailors on Leave"

THIS is a story of a sailor who hates women in general and a lovely night club signer who hates sailors in particular. William Lundigan is the sailor and Shirley Ross, the girl. Although the complications which ensue are familiar enough, the dialogue is spiced with a number of lively lines and Cliff Nazarro amuses with his double-talk.

Lundigan, inspired by his shipmates, Nazarro and Chick Chandler, sells "shares" in an inheritance he is to get if he marries before a certain date. As the deadline draws near, the entire fleet has a financial stake in the marriage. Lundigan pretends to fall in love with Miss Ross, certain that his courtship will be futile.

She, however, is intrigued by his novel efforts to escape every time he is alone with her, and finally falls in love with him. Lundigan tries to effect an escape by having Miss Ross jailed but the sailors insist that he marry the first girl available. Everything ends happily, however, when Lundigan succeeds in stalling the marriage beyond the deadline, finally marries Miss Ross and pays off the fleet with money recovered as a reward for a stolen bracelet which manages to insinuate itself into the plot. Albert S. Rogell directed to make the most of a weak story. Albert Cohen produced.

Affiliates Slow in Voting on Ascaph; More Delays Seen

Ascaph contracts from NBC and CBS affiliates were reported by the networks yesterday as coming in "slowly." Some doubt was expressed by officials that it would be possible to have Ascaph music back on the air by Oct. 15, the date tentatively set in the CBS letter to station affiliates.

Meanwhile, the Ascaph board yesterday again approved the unlicensed use of Ascaph music on football broadcasts by the networks this weekend. Similar action was taken by the board for broadcasts of last week's games.

An Ascaph official said that, while there still is no definite indication of contracts with the major networks being closed, no criticism of the NBC and CBS procedure was voiced at yesterday's board meeting. It was stated that Ascaph is satisfied that the delay is unavoidable and that the networks will make renewed efforts early next week to hasten acceptance of the new Ascaph contracts by their affiliated stations if the volume of acceptances received by that time is not up to expectations.

Networks, meantime, report no difficulty with sponsors because of the lack of the Ascaph catalogues. It was pointed out that business has been steadily ahead of 1940, itself a record year, and that, with the end of the conflict in sight, there was no reason for holding off, in any event.

BMI announced that Ed Craney's three Montana stations had taken out BMI licenses. Craney, long a stormy petrel in the music dispute, operates KGIR, Butte; KRBM, Bozeman, and KPFA, Helena. These bring the number of stations using BMI music to a total of 716.

Seven New Stations Sign With Mutual

Seven new stations have joined the Mutual network, four of the North Central Broadcasting System, bringing to 182 the number of MBS outlets. The four North Central stations are KTRL, Sioux City, and KVFD, Fort Dodge, both Iowa; WJMS, Ironwood, Mich., and WATW, Ashland, Wis. The others are WGBF, Evansville, Ind.; WBBB, Burlington, N. C., and WEIM, Fitchburg, Mass., the last an affiliate of the Yankee and Colonial networks.

NBC Blue Gets Two New Stations

Two stations in Manchester, N. H., will affiliate with NBC today, WMUR as a basic supplementary outlet for the Blue network, and WFEA the same for the Red.

Chapman Doing Script

Tedwell Chapman, now in the East from Hollywood, is doing a screen treatment for Alfred T. Mannon of Cine-Grand Productions. The story, tentatively titled, "Gargantua, Ltd.," is a jungle story to be filmed in Mexico.

York Promotes Heckert

Edgar F. Heckert of the York Ice Machinery Corp., which manufactures air-conditioning equipment for theatres, has been advanced from head of the service department to special assistant to the general works manager.

Off the Antenna

FM receivers now in operation around the country total about 70,000, according to a survey made by FM Broadcasters, Inc. Armstrong licensees are turning out about 1,000 units a day, according to report, and manufacturers expect the 100,000 mark in sets in operation to be passed by a considerable margin by Christmas.

Purely Personal: Frank Danzig, WMCA production man, will give a course in radio production at Long Island University. . . . Richard Krotik has been named assistant to Lester Gottlieb, Mutual publicity director, succeeding Ed Nickel. . . . Bill Sonneman, Jr., son of the assistant to Charles Van Loan, WOR auditor, will appear on the Mutual Playhouse show Saturday.

WJZ will celebrate its 20th anniversary on the air Sunday.

A new commercial program which will get under way Sunday, 5:15-5:30 P.M., over 78 Mutual stations will feature music from Disney pictures exclusively. Parker Pen Co. will sponsor the show which will be called "Walt Disney's Song Parade." Music from "Dumbo," Disney's newest film, will be included.

Gene Autry, Republic Picture western star, and also featured player in "Melody Ranch," will be tendered a party by CBS at Toots Shor's restaurant next Wednesday evening just before the opening of the Rodeo at Madison Square Garden, in which he appears.

trol over the air, he had even greater fear of Government ownership of radio.

Ernst said that radio stations generally refused to accept controversial programs on what he described as "the time-worn excuse that they were libelous or smacked of scandal." Charging that there was a domination of radio by advertising, he urged that some means be found through which the FCC would have some power over program material.

Trial of George Browne, president of the IATSE, and William Bioff, Hollywood leader of the union, in the U. S. District Court here on Federal anti-racketeering charges is scheduled to begin Wednesday, it was reported in trade circles yesterday. Originally scheduled to open today, it is now stated that the trial has been put off two days because of the illness of the presiding judge. Browne and Bioff are charged with extorting about $50,000 from four major film companies under threats of strike.

Subpoenas were served recently on major company executives and studio labor leaders, ordering them to appear to testify for the Government in the

The picture approved is "Pimpernel Smith," starring Leslie Howard, which Jackson screened for local distribution officials over the weekend and then forwarded to Hollywood.

Chicago Exhibitors Discuss Scale Rise

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Independent exhibitors in Chicago and surrounding territory are discussing the possibility of increasing admissions in view of the new Federal tax. At an Illinois Allied meeting Friday some exhibitors suggested increasing scales from 15 cents plus two cents tax to 18 cents plus the tax, while 20-cent houses would increase to 25 cents, including two cents tax. The matter is to be discussed further.

J. E. Flynn, M-G-M district manager, addressed Friday's meeting on M-G-M's sales policy.

Senate Probe Is Postponed To October 13

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Further hearings in the motion picture propaganda probe being conducted by a subcommittee of the Senate have been postponed until Oct. 13.

Chairman D. Worth Clark of the subcommittee in a CBS radio address Saturday night said that radio was "eminently fair" but declared that the subcommittee has "procured evidence" that the film industry is a monopoly, although the extent to which war propaganda has been utilized in films is undetermined, he said. The Clark-Nye subcommittee has not yet inquired into war propaganda in radio although under the resolution by which it was created that was one of its specific purposes.

Last night, an overflow rally of the Fight for Freedom, Inc., attended by 20,000 persons at Madison Square Garden under the auspices of the Screen, Stage and Arts division of that group, confirmed unanimously Actors' Equity resolution calling for immediate dissolution of the Nye-Clark subcommittee. Wendell Willkie presided at the meeting. On the program were Helen Hayes, Lynn Fontanne, Albert Spalding, Ella Logan, Eddie Cantor, Burgess Meredith, Jack Benny, Tallulah Bankhead, George Jessel, Ethel Merman, Jan Kiepura, Bill Robinson, Carmen Miranda, and Commentators Wythe Williams, Major George Fielding Eliot, George Hamilton Coombs and Johannes Steel.

Minn. Anti-5 Statute Held Constitutional

Appeal by Six Companies Believed Certain

ST. PAUL, Oct. 5.—Judge Hugo O. Hanft, in Ramsey County District Court here yesterday, upheld constitutionality of the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law and denied a petition by six major film companies for a temporary injunction to halt its enforcement.

It was considered a virtual certainty that the decision would be appealed to the State Supreme Court, and, if necessary, to the United States Supreme Court. In a 29-page memorandum Judge Hanft said that 10 or 20 years ago the law might have been unconstitutional, but that in the light of economic and social change, it must be ruled valid.

Allied Theatre Owners of the Northwest hailed the decision as a "signal victory" and called a meeting of its Legislative Committee for tomorrow, when it is expected the committee will demand that the majors seek relief from the consent decree

Theatre Authority Ends Free Shows By Union Actors at Military Camps

Members of the actors' union affiliated with the Associated Actors and Artistes of America are forbidden to perform without pay at any Army or Navy camp, under an order issued by the Theatre Authority of New York and Hollywood.

Alan Corelli, executive secretary of the Theatre Authority in the East, stated Saturday that resolutions to that effect have been adopted by both branches. Free shows have been provided at camps under an understanding with Government officials that such a plan would be in effect for an emergency period, but that after a year the Government would provide compensation for the actors. However, he said, nothing has been done.

As a result, Corelli stated, the shows at all camps will be on a paying basis. Soldiers at Fort Monmouth, N. J., will pay 10 cents admission beginning tonight.

No Early Closing Seen in England

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Despite plans of joint industry-Government discussion over a proposed film theatre curfew it is understood any sudden move by the Government affecting all theatres in the country is unlikely.

Following the postponement of proposed conference between the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association and the Ministry of Transport, the CE now indicates it will go directly to the Prime Minister. However, it is believed the Home Office will not set a general curfew. It is indicated the Government will warn local authorities which have set early closing hours that such action is considered hasty by the Government. Officials in the Midlands have ordered theatres to close at 7 P.M. beginning next month.

action. Among those subpoenaed were: Nicholas M. Schenck, Loew's; Barney Balaban, Paramount; W. C. Michel, 20th Century-Fox; George J. Schaefer, RKO, and Pat Casey and Fred Pelton, producers' labor contacts.

Labor leaders subpoenaed included: Frank Carothers, William Hutchinson, Joseph Touhy, Joseph Cambrianni, Joseph N. Weber, Ed Brown and Walter Redmond.

Several postponements of the trial have occurred already. Mathias Correa, United States Attorney for this district, will prosecute the action. Martin Conboy is attorney for Browne.

Subsequent to the original Federal Grand Jury indictment obtained by Correa, Browne was ordered by the court to produce books and records of the IATSE, sought by Correa in the course of the Grand Jury investigation of the union's financial affairs.

The Government is trying to trace an alleged special assessment against union members which is estimated by Correa's office to amount to $6,500,000 annually, based on an average salary of $50 weekly for the union's 125,000 members throughout the country.

AFL May Act On Browne Post Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Possibilities that the reported plan of the American Federation of Labor executive council to drop George E. Browne, president of the IATSE, from the vice-presidency of the national body is to be pushed, were seen tonight in the annual report of the council to be submitted to the 61st annual A. F. of L. convention at Seattle tomorrow.

In that report, the council recommends that the number of vice-presidents, increased from eight to 15 in 1934, be reduced to 13. The reason given for the proposal is that it has been found increasingly difficult to secure a quorum at sessions of the council, because of the demands on the time of the vice-presidents. No mention is made of any particular official whom it is proposed to drop if the change is approved.

There is no mention of motion pictures in the report, but the council recommends that studies be made to determine how the use of radio programs may be more widely employed for the dissemination of labor news.

"Mob Town"

Hollywood, Oct. 5

HERE are some of the Dead End Kids and some others in another of those Tenth Avenue melodramas wherein the youngsters fascinated by the monetary display of criminals learn in due time and by experience what is wrong with crime as a vocation. In this number they do somewhat more of their rough-and-tumble scrapping than is average for their exercises and they also make their points a bit more convincingly. The film is a mite above par for the series.

Billy Halop, Huntz Hall, Gabriel Dell, Bernard Punsly, Dick Foran, Anne Gwynne, Samuel S. Hinds, Darryl Hickman, Victor Killian, Truman Bradley, John Butler and John Sheehan are in the cast.

Ken Goldsmith, producer, and William Nigh, director, get quite a lot out of their material, slipping most noticeably at midpoint where a continuity gap suggests the leaving out, inadvertently or otherwise, of some melodramatic incidents which might have given the picture more impact. The tale concerns some kids whose ambitions toward gangsterism are thwarted in time and to the end of reformation by a friendly policeman.

Running time, 62 minutes. "G."*

ROSCOE WILLIAMS

"Three Sons O' Guns"

(Warners—1940-'41 Release)

THIS little comedy has a group of "names" to offer which should be chiefly responsible for what results it might bring. The characters of the title and the situations in which they are involved are intentionally postposterous for laugh purposes, but are at times overdone and fall a bit short in achieving the desired result.

The cast members, well known in most circles, include Irene Rich, Wayne Morris, Tom Brown, Marjorie Rambeau and William T. Orr. Miss Rich and Miss Rambeau are mother and aunt, respectively, of the three irresponsible and mentally deficient boys, who are well-meaning but unproductive. The spirited playing helps to make some parts of the picture amusing. It is brought to a close with the sons victimized by the draft people, and Miss Rich, a widow, trotting off to the marriage bureau with a wealthy businessman. Ben Stoloff directed.

twice in the past few weeks, reportedly conferring on the new developments.

No Discussions, Say 'U' Officials

Universal home office officials stated over the weekend that there have been no discussions concerning any possible change in franchise arrangements for Canada.

Responsible home office executives stated that Universal has taken the position that its product may not be used to strengthen any circuit's position in Canada and that it will insist upon continued servicing of all of the company's established theatre accounts of good standing in the Dominion, and to this end will require submission of all contracts to the home office for approval.

"We will not approve contracts which involve the selling away from any long-established and acceptable customer of Universal," a home office executive stated.

Adjourn Clearance Hearing in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 5.—Hearing of the clearance complaint of Victor Thien, operator of the Palm, North St. Louis, was adjourned to Thursday after former Circuit Judge J. Wesley McAfee, arbitrator, heard the plaintiff.

Thien stated that his availability on Paramount and 20th Century-Fox product depended on whether the competing Aubert and Union theatres were operated by Fanchon & Marco's St. Louis Amusement Co. He testified that in no instance could he obtain pictures from the two companies until after the Aubert had played them, despite the fact that the house is farther from the Palm than it is from the Union. Despite this, he testified, he is required to wait 33 days after the second-run Union and seven days after the third-run Aubert.

He testified that his admission scale is approximately the same as the Union's and higher than the Aubert's. He is asking for availability ahead of the latter.

Phila. Clearance Hearing Continued

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—The hearing on the clearance complaint of Columbus Stamper, operator of the Great Northern here, was continued until Oct. 9 after an all-day session Friday. Possibly, it was said, to forestall an appeal of the case after its adjudication, all parties agreed that any rules made by the arbitrator shall be binding.

before Judge Goddard in New York in order to sell in Minnesota according to the terms of the Minnesota law. The statute requires sale of an entire season's product en bloc, with the privilege of canceling up to 20 per cent of the block. Exchanges in Minneapolis have been compelled to sell by blocks of five in their territory outside Minnesota, while some have sold no pictures in this State.

Their reported sales in the State, in blocks of five, or through distributor-theatre affiliations, will be scrutinized by the Allied Legislative Committee, it was reported, with a view to demanding action by law enforcement authorities.

Meanwhile the suit of the majors for a permanent injunction and final ruling of the law's constitutionality is still pending in Ramsey County District Court. It is expected this action will be deferred.

The Hanft ruling read: "Had the instant statute been enacted a decade or two ago, under decisions recognizing the inviolability of the right-to-contract doctrine, it would very likely have been held unconstitutional as a temerarious interference with the right of property and contract and the law of supply and demand. But the world moves, this country progressively.

"Within the last decade, vast social and economic changes have taken place with astonishing rapidity. Government found it necessary to take a decisive hand to meet new conditions. Modern problems had to be met by legislative, executive and the judicial departments of government. Laws originally sustained under police power as to safety and morals are now sustained upon the additional ground of health and 'welfare' of the people, and the term welfare has in the last two or three years vastly expanded to meet existing social and economic conditions."

As a "remarkable" example of how courts will adjust themselves to meet existing conditions, Judge Hanft pointed to the women's minimum wage law case in New York. He pointed out the U. S. Supreme Court in 1923 ruled against the law, but reversed itself in 1937.

Bernhard to Chicago Meet

Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner Theatres, and Harry Goldberg, director of advertising and publicity for the circuit, leave early this week for Chicago to preside over a meeting of Warner theatre managers.

The Pegler Method

When Arthur James Pegler, famous reporter, and father of Westbrook Pegler, also a famous reporter, began his metropolitan career many years ago in Chicago, his first and trial assignment was to get a picture of a certain beautiful lady, much in the news—but hard to get because the news was hard.

Every star reporter in Chicago had tried. They had searched the galleries, rifled trunks, bribed servants, stalked relatives. The skill of a dozen men, notable, even notorious, for their gimlet cunning failed.

An hour after Mr. Pegler got the assignment he was in the office with the picture. A half hour later it was in the paper, and his job was set.

As the edition rolled, the managing editor approached the new reporter's desk. "If you do not mind telling," he ventured with a deference extraordinary in that rude office, "I'd be interested to know how you got that picture." The whole city room was listening in a hush.

Certainly, sir," Mr. Pegler responded, with a tinge of something in his voice — "I just asked her for it."

The star picture chaser of them all cried out in pain. "We never thought of that!" The direct method — the Pegler method did it. Many another signal performance is just that simple, just that direct. Easy does it, but it's something hard to see.

For instance, six years ago Republic Pictures Corporation was launched, in the highly competitive, exceedingly complex motion picture industry, with the simple, direct conviction that money could be made making pictures on which theatres could make money.

Republic had nothing else to do but tend to business, and no way to make money except by tending to business. The program worked. It still works. It grows. Each year Republic has gained more accounts, more contracts. Republic has as many as 11,000 customer accounts.

It seemed possible that a great many things were being done at large expense and often much trouble that had nothing at all to do with what reached the screen.

Republic started to work with nothing to do but to tend to business, and no way to make money except by tending to business. Putting all it had on the screen where the customers could get it.

"A Girl Must Live"

(Gainsborough-Universal—1941-'42 Release)

PRODUCED in England by Gainsborough, and released here by Universal, "A Girl Must Live" is definitely light-weight screen fare, handicapped by a too-British accent on the part of most of its players, and an unconvincing story.

Margaret Lockwood, one of the best of English actresses, and well known to American audiences, is given herein a role far too lacking in backbone for her unquestioned talent. She plays a school girl who runs off to London in search of a theatrical career, becomes involved in the chorus girl scramble of a theatrical boarding house, where she is using the name of the daughter of a once famous actress, and winds up as the wife of an Earl.

Carol Reed, who directed, has done probably as well as could be expected in view of the basic story weakness. In support of Miss Lockwood are Hugh Sinclair as the young Earl, Renee Houston and Lilli Palmer as the pair of chorus girls who are after the title, and Naughton Wayne, as the crook friend of one of them, who connives a blackmailing plot against the Earl into which Miss Lockwood falls. When she takes the blame, the other two girls, conscience-stricken, confess, opening the way to the completion of the Lockwood-Sinclair romance.

Running time, 69 minutes. "G."*

"The Masked Rider"

LARGE doses of guitar strumming, dancing and vocalizing South of the Border delay the flow of the story, the plot of which concerns the attempt of the title character and his gang to relieve a Mexican gentleman of his hacienda. There is sufficient fighting and chasing for the action market but some of the sequences are impaired by the over-emphasized musical accompaniment.

Johnny Mack Brown is likeable in the role of the hero. Fuzzy Knight, Grant Withers, Nell O'Day meet requirements in supporting spots. Withers is the "Masked Rider," whose identity is fairly obvious long before he is unmasked. Ford Beebe directed the film.

Running time, 58 minutes. "G."*

EUGENE ARNEEL

*"G" denotes general classification.

The reel ends with Olive hanging on the uprights which formerly supported the scarecrow and the crows really scared this time. Good for a few laughs. Running time, 7 mins. Release, Sept. 19, 1941.

Short Subject Reviews

"Westward Ho-Hum"

(Edgar Kennedy Comedy)
(RKO)

This is best suited for those who enjoy the Edgar Kennedy comedy, which remains much the same through the seasons. The humor is of the slapstick sort. Sally Payne, Jack Rice and others are with Kennedy, who travels out West to operate his newly-acquired restaurant, which, he later discovers, is in a ghost town. Two outlaws also are involved, but Miss Payne captures them, it seems, and collects a reward. Running time, 16 mins. Release, Sept. 5, 1941.

"Man-i-Cured"

(Leon Errol Comedy)
(RKO)

This is a brisk little comedy of the house-detective and girl-in-room variety. Leon Errol is seen in a series of complications with the detective, his wife and a manicurist and manages to emerge with nothing more than a flower pot over his head. Although for the most part routine, it comes off with the proper effect. Running time, 20 mins. Release, Sept. 26, 1941.

"Picture People"

(RKO-Pathé)

Helen Broderick plays hostess in this first of the new season's series on Hollywood. It has to do with the part stars are taking in national defense, paying particular attention to Sigrid Gurie's party, to which the guests bring pots and pans. Reginald Denny is seen at his model plane factory, Margaret Lindsay and Marion Marsh working with the Red Cross, Victor McLaglen with his cavalry and motor corps, and other such items. It is an interesting short, and is out of the routine. Running time, 8 mins. Release, Sept. 12, 1941.

"Screen Snapshots, No. 1"

(Columbia)

Ken Murray escorts the Brewster twins to an eccentric Hollywood party, whose host is Milton Berle, and for which the guests don beach costumes which were in style a generation ago. Billy Gilbert, Joan Davis, Buster Keaton and Berle try to be funny, with little effect, for the cameraman. Others in attendance are Ann Miller, Brenda Joyce, Kay Harris, Ella Logan and Simone Simon. Miss Logan contributes to the entertainment with a swing song. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Sept. 15, 1941.

"From Nuts to Soup"

(Columbia)

Prof. Russell E. Oakes demonstrates for his graduating class an assortment of crackpot inventions. Gadgets for preventing the sleeve from touching the butter, and a broadened knife for carrying peas, are among the professor's creations. Topping them all is his doughnut dunking device. But with it all, there is a limited amount of good comedy in the film. Running time, 12 mins. Release, Sept. 5, 1941.

Plan Program For NBC Web Coordination

Closer coordination between the Red and Blue networks of NBC and their respective affiliated stations will be sought today in a letter by Niles Trammell, NBC president, to the 239 stations which comprise the two webs. Although the letter will stress the need for cooperation on matters of national defense, the Planning and Advisory Committee which will be set up for each network will also consider program and sales policies, the joint needs of network and station operation, and public service.

Niles Trammell

This plan for cooperation by the networks with the station affiliates comes while NBC is facing an FCC order to dispose of the Blue network and network monopoly regulations are pending before the commission.

The plan, as it will be outlined by Trammell, calls for the development of a "definite program to be organized on a cooperative basis between the 239 stations and the National Broadcasting Company." Each committee will consist of seven members.

Temporary members have been selected by Trammell and they will be asked to come to New York for an organization meeting. The Red network committee will meet Nov. 4 and the Blue, Nov. 5.

Temporary representatives of the Red are: Paul W. Morency, WTIC, Hartford, Conn.; James D. Shouse, WLW, Cincinnati; John J. Gillin, WOW, Omaha; Edwin W. Craig, WSM, Nashville; O. L. Taylor, KGNC, Amarillo, Tex.; Sid S. Fox, KDYL, Salt Lake City, and Harrison Hollihway, KFI, Los Angeles.

For the Blue: Harry C. Wilder, WSYR, Syracuse, and WTRY, Troy, N. Y.; Sam Rosenbaum, WFIL, Philadelphia; Elzey Roberts, KXOK, St. Louis; Henry P. Johnston, WSGN, Birmingham, Ala.; Harold Hough, KGKO, Dallas, and KTOK, Oklahoma City; Tracy McCracken, KFBC, Cheyenne, and Howard Lane, KFBK, Sacramento.

FCC Grants Power Increase Requests; FM Station Sought

Baltimore Radio Show, Inc., Baltimore, has asked for a construction permit for an FM station to operate on 45,900 kilocycles, covering 4,980 square miles with a population of 1,393,884.

The commission also ordered hearings on the applications of Stations WLWL, Minneapolis, for change of frequency to 630 kilocycles and increase of day power to 5,000 watts; WMIN, St. Paul, for change of frequency to 630 kilocycles and increase of power to 1,000 watts night, 5,000 watts day, and KSAN, San Francisco, for change of frequency to 1,460 kilocycles and increase of power to 1,000 watts.

Off the Antenna

BMI has announced that licenses for all transcriptions using BMI songs will be cleared at the source, thus permitting stations without BMI licenses to play the recordings. The recording company or advertising agency will pay the source license fee and the rate will be the same as if a station obtained a "per program" license. The maximum rate of 5.55 per cent will apply unless the station supplies the recorder or agency with data indicating that it is entitled to a lower income classification.

Divorce of Radio, Papers Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Divorce of newspapers and broadcasting was urged upon the FCC Friday by C. J. Friedrich, Harvard professor, to arrest a drift toward "monopoly in opinion" which, he said, might lead toward totalitarianism.

His views were supported by Prof. Zacharia Chaffee, Jr., who told the FCC that he had devoted some years to study of the two media and felt they should be operated separately.

Grosses Beat Heat Wave, World Series

'Own' Has Strong Week; 'Eve' and 'RAF' Good

Despite abnormal heat, which checked temperature records for the first of October, and the World Series, which kept many thousands of New Yorkers glued to their radios throughout the weekend, in addition to the capacity attendance at Ebbets Field, grosses along Broadway vanquished the severe competition.

The large throngs at the beaches added to the temperature, which reached a record high of 85 on Saturday, and Sunday and 88 yesterday. The only yesterday evening began to cool down from a hectic subway World Series which crowded the warps off front pages.

Nye Charges America First Group Finances Campaign Against Him

Washington, Oct. 6.—Speaking on the Senate floor today, Sen. Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota charged that the America First Committee was financing advertisements against him in 19 North Dakota weekly newspapers.

The statement was made in connection with a "reply" to charges that he was injecting racial issues into the political situation. He said the statement he had made before the Senate subcommittee investigating film and radio "propaganda" would dispose of the charges that he was attempting to foment the racial issue.

He did not go into the question of alleged film propaganda or the investigation itself, but he secured the printing in the Congressional Record of a considerable part of his statement to the Nye-Clark subcommittee at the opening of its hearings last month.

The attorneys stated that before making a decision on their next step they would confer with the general sales managers of their companies to obtain their views in the matter. Another meeting of attorneys will be held within the next few days, it was stated.

Kentucky Outlaws Games as Lottery

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 6.—Bank Night has been outlawed in Kentucky theatres as a lottery in an agreed judgment entered in Fayette Circuit court at Lexington. Attorney General Hubert Meredith immediately warned all theatres to stop the practice at once on penalty of "prompt and vigorous action."

The agreed judgment was filed last week in the suit brought May 29 by the Attorney General against Schine Lexington Corp., which operates about 20 Kentucky theatres. Attorneys for the company agreed to accept without appeal the court's judgment that the game is "a lottery and gift enterprise violative of the Kentucky Constitution."

In return, the Attorney General agreed to drop his original demand for forfeiture of the Schine charter and a $100,000 fine.

Lexington theatres already have posted signs saying that the game has been discontinued by court order. Frankfort theatres are making plans to discontinue it. No official statement on the subject will be made by the Attorney General's office, it was said, but officials expect theatres to follow the spirit of the judgment. That will preclude "door prizes" and other variants based on drawings in connection with admissions.

"Never Give a Sucker an Even Break"

Hollywood, Oct. 6

THIS is a W. C. Fields picture by, of and with W. C. Fields and for the Fields trade. How good or bad it is for a given theatre's box-office requirements depends, more implicitly and completely than may be said of any feature in ready memory, upon the value of its star to the patronage of the theatre concerned. It is W. C. Fields in pattern, in content, in point and in manner, save only for those stretches of footage in which Gloria Jean is singing or Director Cline is manipulating one of those fabulous Mack Sennett automobile chases, with Fields in the driver's seat.

The script, reminiscent of Grandmother's patchwork quilt, is by Fields in his Otis Cribblecobblis incognito. It provides him an opportunity to display his talent for whimsy, for disarray, for clever clumsiness, for slapstick and occasionally for the mumbling of amusing nothings off the corner of his lip. It starts nowhere and ends in a chase, with nothing which happens in between having more than remote connection with either end or any other part. The title is either an afterthought or a typographical error, which makes no difference.

Fields and all the others in the cast wear their own names in the dialogue, a convenience not without charm. They are, in addition to the Fields and Gloria Jean, Leon Errol, Butch and Buddy, Margaret Dumont, Susan Miller, Franklin Pangborn, Charles Lang, Anne Nagel, Nell O'Day, Irving Bacon, Jody Gilbert, Minerva Urecal, Emmett Vogan, Charlotta Monti and Bill Rolfe.

Like the skits in the Follies of yesteryear which started Fields on the way to fame, the sequences in the picture, each a skit in its own right, vary from hits to flops. The Follies made a number of fortunes.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."*

"Mercy Island"

EXCELLENT backgrounds and some interesting under-water shots are the principal virtues of this production. The story, adapted from a novel of the same name by Theodore Pratt, is a slow tale of a young lawyer mad with ambition, who is marooned on one of the Florida Keys with his wife and a friend.

Cast on the key during a fishing trip, they discover a doctor living there as a fugitive from justice. Ray Middleton is the semi-demented lawyer; Gloria Dickson, his wife; Otto Kruger, the doctor, and Don Douglas, the friend. Also in the cast are Forrester Harvey, a fishing schooner captain, and Terry Kilburn, his young assistant.

After discovering the doctor, Middleton insists on bringing him back to civilization, hoping to defend the doctor and bring glory upon himself. The others try to dissuade him, but Middleton is adamant. Finally, he is killed by an alligator and the others return to their homes, leaving the doctor by himself. There are some efforts to inject local color by frequent references to the "conks" but this is not very skillfully handled. There is little of melodrama or humor in the film. William Morgan directed and Armand Schaefer produced.

Running time, 72 minutes. "G."*

Majors Weigh Procedure on Minn. Decision

of the decision with him to New York for study by the home office counsel.

The consenting companies have the choice of going before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard here and asking to be relieved of the block-of-five provision of the consent decree insofar as their operations in Minnesota are concerned, in order to comply with the State law, or of continuing the battle in the courts by taking an appeal to the Minnesota Supreme Court.

If the latter course is decided upon, it was pointed out, selling would not be engaged in within Minnesota until the appeal was decided. However, informal observations of several of the attorneys appeared to indicate that they considered an application to Judge Goddard for release from the decree's selling provisions in Minnesota as the most practical procedure.

A decision on the procedure will depend to a large extent on the attitude of the company sales executives, it was said, since apprehension was expressed that if this course were to be followed and the release was granted by the court, exhibitors might be encouraged to initiate legislation similar to the Minnesota law in other states.

Hillstreet Releases 'Citizen Kane' in L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—The Hawaii Theatre, operated by Albert Galston and Jay Sutton, today obtained RKO's "Citizen Kane" in a release of the film by the Pantages Hillstreet, which had bought the picture in RKO's first block.

The Hawaii will have first run on the film, opening it Oct. 16 on a reported guarantee of four weeks, with the present 40-cent scale increased to 55 and 75 cents.

Fox West Coast previously had bought the picture with RKO's first block and then announced that it would be shelved. FWC did not buy first run, however. Hearst has two newspapers here.

Reviews

"Moonlight in Hawaii"

(Universal—1941-'42 Release)

WITH a few tuneful song numbers and their rendition in the modern popular style by the Merry Macs of radio, this light musical should have some appeal for the younger generation.

Ken Goldsmith was associate producer, and Charles Lamont directed. Gene de Paul composed the music and Don Raye wrote the lyrics. The title song probably will be the best remembered.

Heading the cast is Johnny Downs, while in support are Jane Frazee, and the veterans Leon Errol, Mischa Auer, the late Richard Carle and Marjorie Gateson.

Set in Hawaii, the story concerns the pursuit by the Merry Macs, three-quarters of a quartet, of the fourth member, Downs, who is holding down a job as a guide on a tour, shepherding Miss Gateson and several attractive nieces. Downs meets Miss Frazee, daughter of Errol, pineapple juice canner, who is constantly at dagger-ends with the pineapple grower, Carle. The film is concerned with efforts to get the four boys on the air, and the romantic interludes of Downs and Miss Frazee, not to mention that of Miss Gateson with Errol, Carle, and finally Auer, orchestra leader.

Running time, 61 minutes. "G."* CHARLES S. AARONSON

"Spooks Run Wild"

(Monogram—1941-'42 Release)

THE comedy talents of Monogram's "East Side Kids" and the somberness associated cinematically with Bela Lugosi are combined in "Spooks Run Wild." The basic idea was a sound one, but the story runs wild too. There is no restraint placed by Director Phil Rosen and producer Sam Katzman on the series of incidents which take the boys to a Summer camp, into a mysterious house with secret passages, and into solving a murder mystery.

The preview audience was in commotion most of the time, laughing both at and with the picture. The "kids" contingent of Leo Gorcey, Bobby Jordan, Huntz Hall, "Sunshine Sammy" Morrison, David Gorcey and Donald Haines is all present, and the adult cast is made up, in addition to Lugosi, of David O'Brien, Dorothy Short, Dennis Moore, P. J. Kelley, Angelo Rossitto, and Guy Wilkerson.

Running time, 64 minutes. "G."* VANCE KING

"Man from Montana"

A BAND of rustlers who undertake to instigate a battle between homesteaders and ranchers are frustrated herein chiefly because Montana's rugged sheriff, Johnny Mack Brown, and his buddy, Fuzzy Knight, step in to adjust matters.

The action sequences are sufficient in number and excitement for the outdoor fan, who, however, might find the story not especially solid in its developments.

The cast also includes Jeanne Kelly and Nell O'Day. Butch and Buddy and "The King's Men" sing a couple of melodies appropriate to the locale. Ray Taylor directed and Will Cowan was associate producer.

Running time, 59 minutes. "G."* EUGENE ARNEEL

*"G" denotes general classification.

Make No Change in Milwaukee Prices

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 6. — Milwaukee first runs have made no change in adult admission prices as a result of the new Federal tax, which has, however, been added to children's admissions. The Warner is now charging 17 cents for children's admissions, while the Fox first runs have raised their usual 10-cent admissions for children to 13 cents and added the two-cent tax to make it a 15-cent total.

Independent neighborhood houses, which previously did not come under the Federal tax, are passing it on to the patron. In some cases houses which charged 15 cents are now charging 18 cents and adding the tax to make a 20-cent total for adults.

Allied Board Plans Meet on Joint Unit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Allied States' future procedure in the formation of the proposed national joint industry committee will be mapped by the organization's board of directors at a meeting late this month, Abram F. Myers, chairman and general counsel, said today.

The meeting may be held Oct. 22 in Pittsburgh, in conjunction with the annual convention of the Allied MPTOA of Western Pennsylvania, he said.

The joint industry proposal, which was rejected by a vote of the national Allied convention at Philadelphia last month, has since been ratified by 12 Allied units which voted on the proposal during the 10 days following the convention. The latest to ratify was Northwest Allied. Only one unit, Connecticut Allied, rejected the plan. The Texas unit is conducting its vote by mail and the returns are not expected to be in before the middle of the week.

Myers' statement pointed to the "fine spirit" in which the units have acted on the measure and characterized reports that the issue has "put Allied on the spot" as "attempts to sabotage constructive endeavors."

MPTOA Backs Aim Of Industry Unity

Although the proposal for the all-industry committee was advanced by Allied States, nowhere in the lengthy MPTOA bulletin is Allied mentioned.

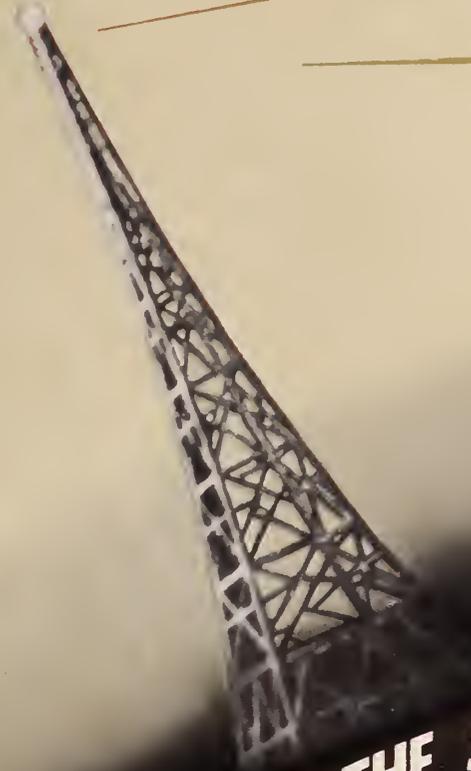

The bulletin asserts that MPTOA has traditionally worked for and joined in movements for better trade relations and declares that the organization, "will not hesitate to cooperate fully with any other group sincerely interested in advancing our industry." It points out that the proposed unity is desirable in facing "the probable end of the consent decree selling system, the important trade problems left unsolved by the decree, the war emergency, the huge tax burdens of the present and future, for national defense activities, the constant threat of Government regulation by legislation and litigation."

The bulletin suggests, however, that a plan of action for a joint committee be explored "before any new, elaborate organizations are set up to issue decrees and run the business."

Comerford Moves Several Managers

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 6.—In a series of transfers and promotions by the Comerford Circuit in the Wilkes-Barre area, John Galvin, manager of the Penn Theatre, was transferred to the Irving, succeeding the late Fred Hermann. Paul Tighe, who was assistant to Galvin at the Penn, was promoted to manager. James Riley will remain at the Irving as assistant to Galvin.

Other changes among assistant managers were: Frank Alexander, from the Orpheum to the Penn; Jackson T. Eckenrode, from the Strand to the Orpheum; John Greaney, from doorman at the Comerford to assistant manager at the Strand. Tom Broderick, who also was an assistant manager at the Irving, resigned to enter a different business.

Appeal Board In Reversal Of N.Y. Award

then consider the case on its merits. The technicality on which the board based its ruling was the fact that the complaint originally was brought by A. P. Papayanakos, vice-president and treasurer of St. Lawrence Investors, Inc. The board held that Papayanakos, as an officer of the company which owned the American Theatre, is not an exhibitor within the meaning of Section 8 of the consent decree and, therefore, is not eligible to bring a complaint. The board said that if a new complaint and submission are filed at the Albany board within 10 days substituting the owning corporation for Papayanakos it would consider the case on its merits.

Fatal Technicality

The appeals board pointed out that the technicality was fatal because arbitration depends for its effectiveness upon the submission of the parties to the findings of an arbitrator, and that in cases of the kind considered only the owner or delegated authority of the theatre properly can commit the theatre. The board held Papayanakos did not meet that requirement.

The appeal was the first to be taken by distributor respondents. It was appealed by Warners and RKO, whose original motion to dismiss the complaint on the technical grounds cited in the appeals board decision had been denied by the arbitrator. The case, also, was the first appeals decision to reverse an arbitrator's award, of the four cases which have been decided by the appeals board to date.

Appeal N. J. Case

Meanwhile, the decision of Paul L. Fitzpatrick, arbitrator, reducing the clearance of the Cort, Somerville, N. J., over the Raritan Theatre there, was appealed yesterday. The case is the twelfth to be taken to the national appeals board. The decision was given Sept. 18. The case involved all five consenting companies.

Dismisses Columbus Clearance Complaint

CINCINNATI, Oct. 6.—Anthony B. Dunlap, arbitrator, today gave a decision dismissing the clearance complaint of Fred Rowlands, owner of the Parsons Theatre, Columbus, against the five consenting companies and Neth's Markham, Columbus.

Costs were assessed against the plaintiff. The arbitrator found that the existing clearance between the two theatres was not unreasonable and pointed out that when similar clearance over another theatre had been offered the plaintiff, he did not refuse it because it was unreasonable but because "it was not extended to another theatre under his control."

RKO remains a defendant in the complaint and time for selection of an arbitrator has been extended to Oct. 11.

Postpone Hearing Again Of Connecticut Case

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 6.—Hearing of the some run complaint of the College Open Air Theatre, Middletown, Conn., against the five consenting distributors, which had been scheduled for today, has been postponed for the second time. A new hearing date is not set.

Name Phila. Arbitrator; Another Case Delayed

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—A. M. Boyd, General Electric executive, has been selected as arbitrator in the clearance complaint of Lewen Pizor in behalf of his Tioga Theatre, with hearing set for Oct. 15.

Hearing of the clearance complaint filed by A. M. Ellis in behalf of the Broad Theatre scheduled for Wednesday, has been postponed until Oct. 14.

by advancing to next Thursday the deadline for the three companies to accept its demands. The companies on Sept. 29 had been given until Oct. 14 to acquiesce.

The strike against Paramount and RKO today was legalized by the Federal board of Conciliation and Arbitration, which means that the companies will be required to pay wages during the strike, the same as M-G-M and Columbia. Considerable speculation has arisen over the failure of the board to legalize the strike against Warners, which started Sept. 17.

Meanwhile, film service by the major companies has been halted either through the strike or by notice to accounts.

it is planned, will hold four regional meetings a year in Hollywood, New Orleans, Chicago and New York. The first meeting under the new arrangement will be Oct. 20 in Hollywood.

The announcement stated that production budgets will be substantially increased, on the basis of 1941-'42 sales to date.

Siegel for the last five years has been executive in sole charge of production, studio policy and the like, with individual producers reporting to him. Under the expanded setup, each of the two new production department heads will have sole charge of their divisions, it was stated.

Wilson formerly was studio production manager. He was brought here by Siegel four years ago from New York, where he was active in production. Brown came to the studio three years ago from the Republic home office. His latest activity was as producer of serials.

Other promotions announced by Siegel include Max Schoenberg, who becomes production manager, and Herbert Mendelson, appointed his assistant.

AFM Restriction on RCAF Bands Scored

OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—W. T. Burford, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Federation of Labor, strongly condemns the action of the Toronto local of the American Federation of Musicians in attempting to impose restrictions on broadcasting and recordings by Royal Canadian Air Force bands.

"This is not the first time this union has shown its indifference to patriotic endeavors in this country," Burford asserted, recalling the union had attempted recently to interfere with the use of a military band at a military funeral.

The Toronto local had banned use of the RCAF and Royal Canadian Mounted Police bands from the CBC network and from making recordings for use overseas. CBC officials declared that the local had threatened to cut off all exchange features with CBS, NBC and Mutual if military bands were used on CBC. A Government source disclosed that the Toronto local had demanded $12,000 in extra wage allowances if radio programs were to be transcribed for shipment to troops overseas.

American Federation of Musicians headquarters in New York refused comment on the Canadian situation, stating that the matter was entirely in the hands of its Canadian representatives.

FCC Charged With Industry to Plan Attempt to Make Law Army, Navy Shows

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Charges that it was attempting to invoke a "law-making power" which Congress never intended it to have were leveled against the FCC today in argument on its proposed prohibition against any single interest owning more than one station in any area.

Counsel for NBC and the Buffalo Broadcasting Corp. and others who would be affected by the rule contended that it could not be enforced in the absence of specific authority from Congress and that it was both unnecessary and undesirable.

The hearing was concluded late this afternoon, with Chairman James L. Fly announcing that the matter would be taken under consideration.

Phillips, executive director, and Eddie Dowling, actor-producer, of the New York Citizens Defense Committee.

In both sections, rainfall has been far below normal, adding to the adverse effects of long drouths last Spring and Summer.

Feel Effect of Stoppage Of Majors' Product

By LUIS B. CELIS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 7.—Conditions for exhibitors throughout Mexico are reported to have become worse with the suspension of deliveries by the eight American companies Oct. 2 and scant hope for an early settlement of their contact with the National Cinematographic Workers Union.

All Mexico's 1,009 theatres are operating on a strike basis with programs that are steadily diminishing their business, which, in normal times, had been as good as 1,222,000 paid admissions a week for the entire country.

Court Rules 3-Year Deal Made in 1939 Valid Under Decree

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard yesterday ruled that a three-year film deal entered into in September, 1939, by Mullin & Pinanski Theatres, Boston, with M-G-M, is valid under Section 15 of the consent decree and may remain in force throughout the new season.

Question of the status of the contract under the decree was raised by the Department of Justice which charged that deal sheets pertaining to it had been executed in November, 1940, and that the parties to the deal were in contempt of the decree, which exempts only those franchises entered into prior to June, 1940.

After hearing testimony from T. J. Connors, M-G-M's Eastern, Southern and Canadian sales manager, Judge Goddard ruled that the 1940 deal sheets were supplementary to the fran-

See Trial of Browne Taking Three Weeks

Government attorneys yesterday estimated that the trial of George E. Browne, IATSE president, and William Bioff, representatives of the union, on charges of extortion from four film companies, scheduled to start today in the Federal Court here, would last about three weeks.

If the jury is impanelled this morning, counsel will start their opening statements this afternoon, it was said.

Anti-5 Ruling Prevents Film Sales in Minn.

Decree Violation Might Lead to Contempt

By SAM SHAIN

Since to sell otherwise than permitted under the New York Case Consent Decree would be a violation of that decree and therefore subject them to possible contempt proceedings, the five consenting companies cannot undertake to distribute their product in Minnesota other than as provided by the decree, it was authoritatively stated yesterday.

Therefore, these authorities state, except to seek an appeal from the recent court decision in Minnesota upholding that State's anti-block-of-five law, which is felt to be an unsatisfactory way to proceed at this time, the remedy for the companies would be through legislative methods. Officials hope that this can be achieved eventually.

The same spokesmen assert that there is no consideration being given at this time to establishment of distribution facilities for Minnesota from centers or exchanges outside that State.

Warners Will Abide By Decree: Sears

Indicating that Warners will not resume selling in Minnesota "until a final ruling is made by the highest court" on the constitutionality of the State's anti-block-of-five law, Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager, stated yesterday that the company feels it "must conform to our national methods of distribution as approved and laid down by the Federal Government in the consent decree."

Sears said: "We sympathize with all exhibitors in Minnesota who are confronted with the drastic situation . . . however, as a national institution doing business in 48 states and territories we cannot survive if we are to do business in 48 different methods and at the same time conform to those principles laid out by our Federal Government controlling interstate commerce.

Short Subject Review

"Bomber"

(Office for Emergency Management)

A DOCUMENTARY, or "defense report," this is an item of importance for theatremen to exhibit. While the screen merely depicts aircraft workers engaged at the Glenn L. Martin plant, the soundtrack carries a significant message—an admonition to aggressors to steer clear of the U. S. The value of the short is not only in what is being seen but also, and primarily, in the fine commentary which Carl Sandburg has contributed. He has given a degree of interest to a subject which might have been dull as theatrical material in spite of its significance.

The short was made by the film unit of the Office for Emergency Management and is being released by various exchanges around the country through the Motion Picture Committee Cooperating for National Defense. Running time, 8 mins. Available now.

"Texas"

WHETHER director George Marshall or producer Samuel Bischoff set out to prove that the western formula is still one of the best for motion pictures when done with imagination and spirit, or whether they set out simply to make a picture which will be box-office for all kinds of audiences, old and young, sophisticated and naive, the fact is that both objectives have been achieved in "Texas."

The prizefight between William Holden and Lyle Lytell, staged under the rules which existed before the Marquis of Queensbury laid down his own set of boxing laws, deserves to go down in film annals as one of the funniest sports events ever screened.

The picture, set in Texas immediately after the Civil War, relies for its appeal on the almost standard plot of westerns—cattle rustling, dishonest leading citizens, gunplay, hard riding and fist fights. It triumphs, however, by the adroit use of these commonplace situations and an excellent cast. Holden and his pal, Glenn Ford, are cast as two adventurers; Claire Trevor is the daughter of a ranch owner killed by the rustler gang; George Bancroft is head of the gang; Edgar Buchanan gives a topnotch performance as a rural dentist in league with the thieves, and Andrew Tombes gives another first rate performance as one of the gunmen.

When Holden and Ford are forced to separate, the former joins with the outlaw gang while the latter seeks the right side of the law. Both fall in love with Miss Trevor but the ultimate death of Holden resolves the triangle.

Running time, 94 minutes. "G."* EDWARD GREIF

"Dangerous Lady"

(Producers Releasing—1941-'42 Release)

CONFUSED direction of a murder mystery story that is itself involved hampers the movement in this picture. It is chiefly an assortment of illogical murders and over-dramatic situations with comedy effects added.

June Storey, Neil Hamilton, Douglas Fowley, John Holland and Emmett Vogan are principally concerned in the melodrama, whose theme is the private detective and his attorney wife vying with the police in solving a series of crimes. Bernard B. Ray produced and directed, with George R. Batcheller in charge of production.

"The Man Who Seeks the Truth"

(Dome Films, Inc.)

A FRENCH importation, one of the last, obviously, this somewhat philosophical film treatise features the very capable person of Raimu, one of the ablest of French film performers. This interesting satire pictures the effort of an honest man to learn the truth, by the simple but ingenious device of feigning complete deafness, thus learning exactly what those who fawn upon him really think of him.

They include the sponging sister and brother-in-law, the girl with whom he is in love, the boy who is like a son to him, and his own butler. Only one, an old friend and employe in the bank of which Raimu is the head, knows his secret, and he keeps silent.

The film is definitely for adult audiences of those metropolitan theatres which cater to the so-called more sophisticated type of audience. Alexander Esway directed with skill. The production was by J. Bercholz for Gibe-Films of Paris, and is said to have been completed shortly before the fall of France. English subtitles are ample and complete.

Running time, 75 minutes. "A."* CHARLES S. AARONSON

Sam H. Jones of Louisiana in a telegram to Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount vice-president in charge of the studio, has asked that the premiere be held in New Orleans.

Several Under Consideration For U.A. Head

ers expect will bring fresh financing into U. A.

Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president in charge of distribution, is the present active head.

The establishment of a new administrative setup for United Artists depends upon who will be selected for the presidency. Although the stockholders are scheduled to meet tomorrow to discuss this matter, it is held by observers not to be certain that the presidency will be disposed of at that time.

David O. Selznick is expected in Chicago from California tomorrow by train. Whether he is coming on for the meeting by plane since that is the only way in which he can arrive on time for the meeting does not seem to be known at the home office. Alexander Korda and Mary Pickford are already here.

Actually, the final papers in the Selznick deal have not been signed but all parties are confident that the deal will go through as announced on the Coast, as soon as the administrative setup is decided upon, if not before that.

Selznick's ultimate interest of stock, it is stated, will amount to one-sixth of the authorized shares of U. A., or one-fourth of the outstanding stock.

Approval Sought for Fox Claim Settlement

Leopold Porrino and Kenneth P. Steinrich, trustees of Fox Theatres Corp., asked the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday for approval of a proposed settlement of claims and counter-claims between the company and William Fox. Under the proposed settlement set forth in the application Fox would pay $25,000 to the company and releases would be exchanged as a final settlement of all disputes.

The application pointed out that while the company has substantial claims against Fox, he has filed counter-claims in excess of $7,000,000. In addition, the petition said further proceedings against Fox probably would cost in excess of $250,000, with the results of litigation dubious. The trustees stated that approval of the settlement would make available to other creditors the sum of $85,000 now held by the trustees in reserve as Fox's proportionate share of dividends. Porrino and Steinrich were designated by the Federal Court as trustees in a plan which calls for the final liquidation of the assets of Fox Theatres.

Storm Damage Light To Theatres in K.C.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 7.—The tornado which yesterday struck the Eastern part of this city and the interurban district damaged the roof of one theatre in Fairmount, suburban community, where street traffic was halted today because of fallen trees.

One other outlying theatre was closed last night when electric power failed. Downpours of rain over most of this city yesterday afternoon cut evening theatre attendance.

Average U.S. Family Spent $11 for Films in 1935-1936

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The average American family spent $11 for motion picture theatre admissions in 1935-'36, but by income levels the expenditure ranged from $2 for families with less than $500 a year to $51 for those with $10,000 or more, it was reported tonight by the National Resources Planning Board.

Reporting on the purchasing power of the country, the board showed that city dwellers spent two to three times as much on motion pictures as farm families in the same income bracket.

This difference ranged between $2 for farm families and $6 each for rural non-farm families and urban families with income of $500 to $1,000, and $20 for farm families and $34 for rural non-farm families and $44 for city families with income of $5,000 to $10,000 a year.

Motion pictures were found to be the most important single source of recreation for families in the lower income brackets but less important to families with substantial incomes. Among families with incomes under $500 a year, one-third of the recreational expenditures were for admissions, but for families with $10,000 or more motion pictures accounted for less than 10 per cent. For the country as a whole, it was estimated that film theatre admissions accounted for approximately 25 per cent of all recreation expenditures.

Paramount, at the business session.

"All the people I know in the motion picture business are good Americans, and the only 'isms' they love are Americanism and patriotism," Lee told the delegates. "We must continue to believe in and express ourselves in favor of Americanism with the same fervor and energy as does the fanatical propagandist of anti-Americanisms.

"Equally with industry leadership, the community exhibitor shares the responsibility of interpreting to the world the motives and conduct of the institution of the motion picture. Together they give to this business its personality and its very good character."

South Eases Sunday Ban For Soldiers' Film Shows

relaxing the laws for Sunday film shows.

In addition, the USO has sound trucks in operation to accompanying the various armies. Frequently, the men find themselves 40 to 50 miles from the nearest town at the end of the day, it was said, and mobile film units are therefore necessary. The trucks play records for about 30 minutes and follow it with shorts and a feature film. There were three trucks in operation in Louisiana and four were planned for the Carolinas. Approximately 3,000 men can watch the film simultaneously, it was said, and efforts are made to conduct more than one show a night.

For Maneuvers Only

It was explained at USO offices that the effort to obtain relaxation of Sabbath laws extended only to the locations and the periods of maneuvers and there was no effort contemplated to obtain Sunday film shows in such areas near camps where they are now forbidden. Ordinarily, the USO conducts its activities away from camps but makes an exception during man-neuvurs, it was said by officials.

Meanwhile, the Citizens Committee for the Army and Navy, which provides free entertainment in camps, reported yesterday that it has under discussion with the War Department a plan for indoor stage shows after cold weather forces discontinuance of outdoor programs. Eddie Dowling has been named director of this phase of the committee's program. Up to yesterday, the committee had given 1,037 shows to an estimated total of 3,200,000 in the audiences.

Unaffected by Pay Rule

An official of the committee stated that it was not affected by the recent Theatre Authority ruling that all performers appearing at Army and Navy camps must be paid. It was pointed out that the committee has always paid talent and production heads. However, at Theatre Authority offices it was said that the committee's program, although extensive, failed to meet all entertainment needs and many individual camp groups had requested talent to appear without payment. Such groups will now be compelled to pay the performers, it was said.

of revenue and more particularly loss of public response to its great new season's attractions, but the responsibility is not Vitagraph's but at the door of that exhibitor group who sponsored this legislation," stated.

Indicating, however, that a final decision as to Warners' future course in Minnesota has not been made, Sears said: "Whatever course of action decided upon by this company as to its future course of business in Minnesota will be done independently and without meeting with anyone."

The six companies opposing the Minnesota law have until Oct. 23 to take action either on an appeal from the decision denying them an injunction against enforcement of the law or on an application to Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard here for an exemption from the decree's selling method insofar as Minnesota is concerned.

As company attorneys made arrangements for conferring on the problem with sales and other company executives yesterday, there appeared to be no unanimity of viewpoints among them, giving rise to speculation that several may elect to follow different courses of action.

F.P. Canadian Buys Imperial in Ottawa

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—Famous Players Canadian Corp. has bought for cash the Imperial Theatre in Ottawa, Ont., for a price of $77,500, according to the official data filed with the Registry Office for September. The purchase was made from the estate of Daniel O'Connor.

With the acquisition of the Geneva Theatre, Orillia, Ont., a unit of the former Hanson circuit, by 20th Century Theatres, a number of changes in personnel have been made by the affiliate of Famous Players Canadian. Ralph Tiede, manager of the new Centre Theatre, Chatham, has been appointed manager of the Geneva in succession to Grant Garrette, transferred to the Toronto office of Odeon. Harold Horton, former assistant at the Vanity, Windsor, has been named to the Chatham Centre. Harland Rankin has been promoted to supervisor of the Centre and Park, Chatham.

Exhibitors in Mexico Face Sharp Decline

Mexico City, Guadalajara, the western metropolis that is Mexico's second largest city, along the Pacific coast and in many parts of the South, are reported to have asked the Federal Board of Conciliation and Arbitration for authorization to reduce personnel and pay, explaining that movie programs are steadily decreasing their business. It is said that the board will be obliged to grant this permission, though film labor is loudly protesting against it.

Varied Programs

Local theatres are presenting odd programs. Only one of the six local first runs, the Magerit, is featuring a major American picture, "Tom, Dick and Harry" (RKO). The Olympia is playing an American, "Misbehaving Husbands" (PRC) second to a French film. The Alameda is exhibiting a Mexican picture. A French film is the feature at the Rex. An Argentine has the lead at the Iris. The Palacio Chino is cleaning up with the best Mexican, "Ay, Que Tiempos, Señor Don Simon" ("Those Were the Days, Señor Don Simon"), musical comedy produced by Films Munitales, whose manager, Agustin Fink, is now in Hollywood. This picture has already set a box-office record for a Mexican film, grossing $23,500 in its first 15 days at 55 cents for the first two weeks and now, in its third week, at 32 cents.

Even stranger fare is the order of things in the subsequent runs. Such odd timers as "Lloyd's of London" are being exhibited. Lots of Argentines and old Mexican films are being shown. But the biggest of them, the Colonial, seating 6,000, is exhibiting "That Hamilton Woman" (U.A.) and oddly, "Kit Carson," which was recently forbidden by the government on the ground that some of its characters disparage Mexicans. The ban was suddenly but quietly lifted. The Colonial top is 32 cents, high for a local subsequent.

Labor Discontent

Discontent is reported increasing among the rank and file of picture workers. There is sharp criticism of the labor leaders by the workers and sections of the press, because of their insisting that the major Americans meet all their demands.

Picture workers are saying that the reason their leaders have not held general meetings of the union in nearly 100 days is because the chiefs fear to face their fellows en masse, to avoid heated questions.

Labor difficulties threaten to eliminate the only two remaining active legitimate theatres here, the Ideal and the Fabregas. The former has been served with the notice of a strike to start Oct. 11 unless it agrees to raise musicians' daily pay to $3.15 from $2.65, its chorus girls' daily stipend from $1.25 to $1.65 and the royalty of writers who supply its plays from 5 per cent to 10 per cent. The management has declared that business does not justify these increases. Like demands have been made upon the Fabregas, but there is no strike threat as Titles of the five are "Twisted River," "The Deadline," "Ghost Trails," "Bluffer's Luck," and "Wild Horse Valley." ROBERT M. BECHE is production manager.

Another new production company has been formed by Leslie Charteris, author of the famous "The Saint" stories, who dissolved his contract for the series at RKO, and is embarked on his own producing outfit. Frances Langford is definitely set for the feminine lead, and John Carroll, Henry Wilcoxon and others are being tested for the title role.

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND will co-star with BETTE DAVIS in Warners' "In This Our Life," based on the best seller by ELLEN GLASGOW.

Expect Shutdown in Mexico Tomorrow

A complete shutdown of major company offices in Mexico City is expected by many home office foreign departments to materialize tomorrow, the new strike deadline set by the Mexican film workers union against 20th Century-Fox, Universal and United Artists.

Those three companies are the only ones which remain open although, according to reports from Mexico City, they have discontinued film service to theatre accounts with the expiration on Sunday of a 30-day notice to their accounts.

All distributors are maintaining a united front in the face of the union's demands and unanimously rejected a compromise settlement offer made by the union late last week, it was reported.

Mexican theatres may not face a product shortage for another 60 days if the complete shutdown materializes tomorrow, officials of home office foreign departments said yesterday.

NBC 14-Year Profit Put at $30,041,173

NBC earned a total profit of $30,041,173 in the period from its organization in 1926 until Dec. 31, 1940, it was revealed yesterday by Manton Davis, RCA vice-president and general manager, at a hearing before Referee Abraham J. Halprin on the fairness of a $1,000,000 settlement offer by General Electric and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. in an accounting action brought by RCA stockholders.

Reveals Dividends

NBC, now a wholly-owned RCA subsidiary, turned over to RCA $22,550,000 in dividends during that period and contributed an additional $2,050,000 toward research activities in the radio field, Davis testified. Originally, RCA had only 50 per cent of the stock with G. E. retaining 30 per cent, and Westinghouse 20 per cent, but RCA obtained 100 per cent ownership in 1930.

RCA in its yearly balance sheets does not reveal the separate earnings of subsidiary companies such as NBC. At present, Davis said, NBC is capitalized at $6,500,000.

Orders Consolidation

Halprin was appointed by the N. Y. Supreme Court, where the accounting action is pending, to conduct hearings and report on the fairness of the settlement offer. Meanwhile, N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck yesterday denied an application by six RCA stockholders to set aside the hearings and refused them permission to intervene in the suit. In a separate decision, Justice Schmuck ordered six suits pending in courts other than the N. Y. Supreme Court to be consolidated with the Supreme Court action and directed that all RCA stockholders be stayed from prosecuting their suits until Halprin renders his report.

Bottorff Named Head Of NBC Concert Unit

O. O. Bottorff yesterday was named president of the Civic Concert Service, Inc., a wholly owned NBC subsidiary which conducts concerts in several hundred cities of the country and books concert artists. D. L. Cornet was named vice-president and Marks Levine was appointed managing director.

Network officials refused to state whether these appointments indicated NBC's decision to remain in the concert field or in the field of artist management. CBS has disposed of both and NBC officials had previously indicated a similar intention. The FCC in its monopoly report criticized the continuance of concert and management business by the networks.

'Parallel' Opens Today

Study Mutual Verdict on Muzak Baseball Pickup

Television lawyers yesterday were studying a court decision rendered Saturday by N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer in which Mutual and the Gillette Safety Razor Co. were granted an injunction restraining Muzak Corp. from sending without permission Mutual's play-by-play description of the World Series over Muzak leased lines to restaurants, hotels, bars and similar places.

Justice Hammer granted a temporary injunction Saturday and it was made permanent yesterday when Muzak consented to the decree after obtaining the needed permission. Prior to Saturday, Muzak relayed the descriptions exactly as broadcast, including the commercial announcements and giving Mutual credit for the broadcast, but the network contended that the failure to obtain permission was unfair competition.

Cites Competition

In granting the injunction, Justice Hammer pointed out that both Mutual and Muzak were in competition for audiences and that their rates depended on the number of listeners obtained through their respective media. Television lawyers saw in the decision a similarity to a theatre picking up a telecast without permission. Although the rights of the restaurant, rather than Muzak, would be a closer analogy to the rights of a theatre in telecasts, lawyers pointed out, the decision apparently forbids any commercial use of broadcasts without the consent of the broadcaster and the sponsor.

A number of theatres have considered installation of large screen television receivers for programs taken off the air. Arthur Mayer, managing director of the Rialto, has installed a Scopphony receiver in his house. Although the set is not yet in operation, Mayer has repeatedly stated that he has been advised that he had the right to take programs off the air without permission. Both NBC and CBS television stations here make frequent announcements forbidding use of the programs except for homes.

Emanuel Dannett represented Mutual in the suit.

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—The annual report of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1941, showed the corporation's operating surplus to be $183,584. Income was $4,092,794, and expenditures were $3,909,209.

Under the heading of "income" are such items as $3,140,259 in license fees, a gross of $895,066 in commercial broadcasts and $44,647 in subsidiary hookups. Expenditures included $1,721,755, for programs, $725,969 for station network; $746,154, engineering; $179,120, administration; $97,805, commercial; $60,669, press and information.

Strike in Pittsburgh Hotels Hits Grosses

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7.—In its sixth day, the strike of employes of the city's eight major hotels has begun to materially affect theatre and night club business.

Because of the strike of 1,661 hotel employes and 800 more AFL sympathizers who refuse to cross picket lines to jobs unaffected by the strike, the city is estimated to lose $40,000 daily this week, much of it destined for theatres and other amusement places, through cancellation of the Pennsylvania Medical Society convention that would have attracted more than 2500 delegates. Many other conferences and smaller meetings likewise have been cancelled or postponed.

Thousands of salesmen and tourists who otherwise would have lingered in the city and spent money in entertainment sites, have re-routed their itineraries, it is estimated.

Gov't Opens Trial Against Browne, Bioff

ney, and Henry Uterhart, Bioff's counsel. Following today's session, an adjournment will be taken to Tuesday.

Correa spoke for 45 minutes. He charged that Browne and Bioff exacted $50,000 annually from each of four companies, Loew's, Paramount, Warners and 20th Century-Fox, from 1936 until the indictment was returned earlier this year.

The prosecutor alleged that $2,000,000 originally had been demanded as the price of peace in the industry. He made it clear that he did not consider the companies as willing victims but that they "had little choice but to yield, since they couldn't replace the union men without facing tremendous losses."

Strikes Alleged

After tracing the setup of the industry and the IATSE, Correa alleged that in 1935 the defendants called projectionist strikes to compel the companies to restore the union as a party to the basic labor pact in the studios. Correa pointed out that the industry depends upon a continuous flow of box-office receipts and that any falling off of receipts through strikes would be "disastrous."

Correa asserted that representatives of the companies, at the 1936 meeting with labor leaders, were given the alternative of paying $2,000,000 to the defendants or having their business wrecked. Correa said the defendants had made it clear that they wished the money to be paid to themselves personally and not as union executives.

Cash payments totaling $400,000 were made by the companies in varying sums of $10,000 to $50,000, according to Correa. The balance was paid through a different arrangement, he continued. Executives of Loew's, concerned about paying in currency, devised a plan with the defendants whereby a nominee of Bioff's was made an employee of Smith & Allen, the agency selling DuPont raw stock, Correa charged.

He declared that there was an understanding that the designee would collect a sufficient commission on purchases by Loew's of DuPont raw stock to equal the payment expected from Loew's. Bioff originally named his brother-in-law but designated a former intimate associate in 1939, Correa claimed.

In selecting a jury Uterhart and Conboy were mainly concerned with the two questions of whether the jurors were prejudiced against union leaders and, secondly, whether any jurors had been influenced by articles written by the columnist Westbrook Pegler. Three jurors were excused because they admitted that Pegler's articles had prejudiced them and several others because of an expressed distaste for union leaders.

Judge Knox on several occasions refused to excuse jurors upon admission that they had read the articles.

The defense used 10 peremptory challenges and the Government four. All women were eliminated from the jury by challenges of one side or the other. Several jurors were excused when they stated that they were employed by the Chase National Bank, which is financially connected with 20th Century-Fox.

Judge Knox read a list of 23 names and asked the jurors whether any of them knew these men personally. Correa stated upon being questioned by reporters that he did not submit this list, but that the probabilities were that they had been handed up to the court by the defense attorneys. He added that the list was very interesting and possibly indicated persons that the defendants intended to call as witnesses.

Unity in Industry Is Urged by Richey

that the industry has lost millions of customers by the competition of outside elements, the working of the consent decree even though it may not contain all the elements of solution it should, all of these things brought us to a realization that the other fellow's problem is sometimes our problem and certainly your problem is many times his problem."

Regarding the current movement for unity among the industry, Richey declared:

"Frankly, I don't believe such a conference or permanent working organization will overnight solve every problem of the industry. But I know this—that the closer the various elements in this business get together, the more they understand each other's problems, the nearer will they come to solution.

"I am thoroughly convinced that if a movement for unity is contaminating, if sitting down with the other fellow to discuss and solve common problems is infectious, that we are in for the type of epidemic that will quarantine us from the outside world when we come to problems arising from within the industry."

Comments on Inquiry

With reference to the Senate propaganda probe, Richey said: "I am firmly convinced that the smear hearing in Washington has accomplished one thing and that is it has brought a new realization to the American people as to the important contribution motion pictures make in the time of national emergency."

All officers were reelected at today's closing session of the convention. The officers are: Ray Branch, president; W. James Olson, vice-president; Edgar E. Kirchner, secretary-treasurer; Pearl M. Sprott, business manager. The entire slate of 12 directors also was reelected. The convention closed this evening with a banquet and entertainment.

Among those in attendance were Abe Montague, general sales manager of Columbia; Arthur Kelly, vice-president of United Artists; Arthur Greenblatt, Producers Releasing Corp. sales manager; and Abram F. Myers, general counsel and board chairman of Allied States.

Threaten Closing If English Set Curfew

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The general council of the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association, headed by Sidney Lewis, CEA president, at a meeting today threatened to close British film houses if the Government imposes a curfew on theatre operation.

Following letters of appeal to the Prime Minister and other officials, CEA officers today also conferred with Ministry of Transport heads. They expressed the hope later that they had convinced the Ministry that there is no need to close film houses early in the evening.

J. H. Whitney Is Du From Goodwill Trip Praised by Reisman

South America had occasion to meet and discuss matters with him.

Reisman also praised Walt Disney and stated that his trip, like Whitney's, has helped relations.

"I cannot say too much for the accomplishments of Whitney and Disney," Reisman said.

Reisman reported that plans were well advanced for an exchange of U. S.-made films and South American films. Among film material planned is some designed for infrequent filmgoers among the South Americans in order to familiarize them with North American viewpoints. Other films will portray "stronger messages" for exhibition in South American embassies.

"These are methods," Reisman observed, which have been employed effectively by Nazi agencies for some time in South America. Now, we are prepared to fight them with clubs instead of cream puffs."

Pro-Nazis Face Blacklist

He pointed out that theatres in Latin America which habitually exhibit German propaganda films place themselves in danger of being put on President Roosevelt's trade blacklist and once on that list no American distributor would service the theatre with films.

Reisman said that South American governments are "very cooperative." Film producers in Argentine and Brazil are anxious to receive technical and other aid from Hollywood and efforts to obtain it for them will be made.

Molino Campos, Argentine caricaturist, was signed by Disney and his gaucho characters will be used in future Disney films, as will Brazilian parrots and South American exteriors, Reisman stated.

Koch, arbitrator, at the Cincinnati board on Sept. 16. The case is the 13th to go to the appeals board.

"Jungle Man"

(Producers Releasing)

THIS is a stereotyped jungle story presented with a number of library shots of wild life. A fairly commendable job of piecing together the picture yarn and the file material is apparent.

Principal of the cast is Buster Crabbe, seen as a doctor who spends his time in the jungle working on a serum for the benefit of the natives. The leading lady is Sheila Darcy, one of a group seeking the "City of the Future." Charles Middleton and Vince Barnett also are in support. The picture was produced, Harry Fraser directed, and George R. Batchelder was in charge of production.

Running time, 63 minutes. "G."*

Ascaph Seeks New Sources For Revenue

agement to better equip it for rearing on new enterprises also has been discussed within Ascaph, it is believed.

The society's position in the television field, should that medium become a commercial factor in the future, is problematic, officials admit. Indications are that television rights to music will be the property of authors, composers and, or publishers and whether or not Ascaph will have any standing in that field may have to be decided by test cases in the courts.

Some Ascaph officials estimated the juke box field could return $3,000,000 annually to Ascaph on the basis of a license fee of $10 per machine year. The new Federal tax which went into effect Oct. 1 placed a levy of that amount on the machines.

Radio Revenue Frozen

Ascaph's need for new sources of revenue stems from the fact that return from the major radio network under its new contract is frozen at an estimated $3,000,000 annually for the next 18 years. This compares with a $4,000,000 radio revenue last year for the society on a basis which permitted re-negotiation of contracts at much shorter intervals than is provided for in the new contract.

The society will lose an estimated $4,000,000 in revenue this year as a result of its dispute with the network. Additionally, because of that fight, it is saddled with a Federal consent decree and is confronted with continued competition from the rival Broadcast Music, Inc., the networks' music licensing organization.

Counter proposals were submitted by producers' labor representatives yesterday to the demands of the nine IATSE studio locals at the office of J. Casey, chairman of the labor committee.

The proposals covered all of the demands made by the locals individually. They are reported to have included a uniform 10 per cent wage increase, as was given the signatories to the studio basic agreement at Newark last month. Jurisdictional claims of several of the locals were ignored by the producers, according to report, on the ground that they are matters

Broadway Grosses Hold to Good Pace; 'Honky Tonk' Is Big

Grosses held to a good pace along Broadway this week, although the big business experienced over the weekend and early in the week, despite the hot spell and World Series competition, dropped off in the last two days.

"Honky Tonk" had a big opening week at the Capitol, drawing an estimated $36,500, and began a second week yesterday. "A Yank in the R. A. F." is continuing strong at the Roxy with a stage show, grossing an estimated $57,000 for its second week, which ended last night, and holds over.

"It Started With Eve" with the stage presentation at Radio City Music Hall also fared well during its first week with business amounting to an estimated $88,000. Its second week started yesterday. The first week of "The Maltese Falcon" with Jan Savitt's orchestra at the Strand was good for an estimated $38,000 and begins a second and final week today. Universal's "Appointment for Love,"

Hudson Institutional Ad Plan Is Making Headway

See Hope for Peace In Mexican Strike

Chances of a settlement of the film workers strike in Mexico City were reported to be favorable again following negotiations resumed there yesterday, home office foreign departments were advised. Extension of the strike to 20th Century-Fox, Universal and United Artists, the companies not already struck, would be of only nominal significance, it was said, since all eight major companies have ended film service to Mexican theatres.

Gov't Order Halts Building Of Theatres

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—New theatre construction was brought to an abrupt halt today by orders of the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board, which held that no new construction projects using scarce materials may be started during the emergency unless they are necessary for direct national defense or essential to the health and safety of the people.

In the broadest order of its kind ever issued in this country, SPAB brought under Government control all construction from bungalows to factories, and even some projects of the state and national governments.

Projects now under construction, however, will be permitted to be com-

The exchange offer is effective to Nov. 7 unless extended by the company to a later date.

The two classes of outstanding obligations of the company to which the exchange offer applies are the $12,681,000 principal amount of 3¼ per cent convertible debentures, due March 1, 1947, and a total of $7,355,782 of indebtedness to banks represented by the company's corporate notes, payable from the end of the year to 1951 at intervals.

Total $25,000,000

Hudson Institutional Ad Plan Is Making Headway

at cost. It is understood that this offer was made by George Dembow, sales head of National Screen, at the Detroit convention.

Hudson has been working on his idea for a long time, and with Claude Lee, public relations chief of Paramount, got it in shape for presentation at the convention. Basically it is a plan for the industry to sell itself through the testimonial utterances of noted local and national figures, which have been made by these eminent persons, from time to time, at events of local and national interest.

"It is time for the motion picture industry to mobilize its manpower to sell itself in the same manner which the industry never fails to utilize to sell local and national public institutions whenever called upon," one executive said in supporting the Hudson-Lee idea.

The idea is still in the formative stage and yesterday, over the long-distance telephone, Ray Branch, head of Michigan Allied, spoke encouragingly and hopefully that it would be set in motion soon. "Everybody at the Michigan Allied convention," the exhibitor leader said, "thinks it is a grand idea."

To Organize Committee

It is expected, one leader said yesterday, that a national committee would soon be organized for finding ways and means of putting the national drive into effect. In Michigan it is stated efforts will be made to start on the plan, locally, at least, with the help of Michigan Allied, the Detroit United (Paramount), Butterfield Circuit and other exhibitor branches.

From the original idea of trailer testimonials to be shown in the theatres the plan has now spread to include billboards and lobby blowups and trade paper, newspaper and magazine advertising along similar lines. Such trailers and advertising, it is explained, will have the portrait of the personality who is quoted as the background and on the figure the quotation will be superimposed. The idea essentially is an advertising one.

"splendidly and thrillingly" recording the work of the RAF Bomber Command. Warners have not yet set a release date on the film, which runs 48 minutes.

No professional actors are employed, the men involved being members of the RAF, shown in their routine of war. The film is most notable for its simple realism, with much that is strongly dramatic inherent in the film record. The film will be released under a percentage agreement with the British Government, according to company officials. Jonah Jones and E. Catford are given screen credit as photographers.

The film will be tradeshown Tuesday at 10 A.M. at the Warner home office.

Selznick May Start Before Year End

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—David O. Selznick here today said he expected to have his first new production for United Artists release in work by the end of the year, with the possibility that the second will be in work by the end of January. He said he was unable to identify the two productions at this time.

The producer said that "Gone With the Wind" will be released again before March 1, 1942, to the smaller theatres which have not yet played the picture. He emphasized that the picture would not be cut or shown at lower admission scales than before. He indicated, however, that exhibitors may be given a better percentage leeway in terms than before in order to compensate the smaller houses for a less frequent turnover due to the length of the picture.

J. M. Schenck Tells About Bioff Deal

Schenck said that Loew's Theatres through intermediary, Mort Singer of Chicago, paid Browne $100,000 in the fall of 1935 to prevent a threatened strike against Loew's New York theatres by operators' Local 306. Schenck related that C. C. Moskowitz had reported that Browne had demanded the sum as the price for his secession in a dispute between Loew's and the union. RKO theatres were also involved in the dispute, he continued, and the payment of $100,000 was Loew's share alone. This payment was allegedly made before any discussion had occurred in reference to the $550,000 allegedly paid by the film companies.

Traces Background

Schenck related with detail the background and negotiations which resulted in the alleged payment. He said that in November, 1936, Browne called a strike of theatres in Chicago to compel the restoration of the IATSE as a party to the basic labor agreement. Schenck contended that he persuaded AFL heads to agree to restore the IATSE as a party when these leaders confessed that they had no way of supplying projectionists if Browne called a new strike.

A few days before April 16, 1936, the date of a scheduled meeting on the subject, Schenck related, Browne telephoned him and then appeared at his office with Bioff, whom he introduced to Schenck. The testimony continued that Bioff then said: "I am your boss. I elected Browne for one year, and that is to get $2,000,000 out of the motion picture industry."

Schenck said he was amazed at the request and told Bioff, "that he was crazy and didn't know what he was talking about."

Bioff then stated, the story continued, that he would cost the film industry many times more if his demand was not met. He told Schenck at the latter should think it over and let him know, Schenck testified.

Schenck Advised Kent

On April 16, at the labor meeting, Schenck said, he advised Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, to the Bioff demand. At that same meeting, he said, Bioff and Browne privately discussed the matter with Kent and the witness, and offered to reduce the demand from $2,000,000 to $1,000,000 because "maybe that much can't be taken out of the industry." Both Schenck and Kent protested and argued that it was impossible to meet the demand. Bioff again advised them to think it over, but insisted on an early answer, Schenck said.

On April 18 Kent and Schenck met with Browne and Bioff at which time the latter two agreed to accept $50,000 a year from the four big companies and $25,000 annually from the smaller companies, Schenck stated. Arguments proved of no avail, he said. Bioff insistently demanded the money, warning them that a refusal would bring dire results. A few days subsequently, Schenck said, he brought $50,000 in the form of a "bundle" to Browne and Bioff in their hotel room. He was accompanied then by Kent, who brought along a similar sum. The money was counted by the defendants, the testimony continued, "and when they finished, we got out of the room as fast as we could."

The witness said that he had told only David Bernstein, J. Robert Rubin and Kent of what occurred. He obtained the money from Bernstein, treasurer of Loew's.

'Very Distasteful'

The matter was "very distasteful" to him, Schenck said. He subsequently arranged for a designee, appointed by Bioff, to pay as a sub-agent for DuPont Film Co. in California, certain "commissions" received by him to Bioff in lieu of cash.

Counsel for the defendants objected to the question of what Schenck believed Browne and Bioff would do if the money was not paid.

Schenck answered, "I thought that our business would be destroyed, since they showed us what they could do by closing theatres in Chicago."

Schenck faced cross-examination for three hours without being shaken. He said that he had not gone to the District Attorney or the U. S. Attorney, and expressed regret that he had not done so.

Settle Clearance Complaint in Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The clearance complaint of Columbus Stamper, operator of the Great Northern here, against Loew's, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and Warner Theatres was terminated by a settlement reached in advance of today's scheduled hearing.

The settlement provides that the seven-day clearance of Warners' Keystone over the Great Northern is reasonable and the defendants to limit the availability of product for the latter house to a maximum of 21 days after Warners' Strand. A similar agreement was entered by 20th Century-Fox.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 9.—Joseph L. Shulman of the Plaza, Windsor, Conn., has filed a clearance complaint here naming the consenting companies and the Windsor Theatre, Windsor.

Mexico Strike Settled; Men Get 15% Raise

Unionists Had Asked for One-third Increase

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 12.—The Mexican film workers strike which was launched first against Loew's Warners more than a month ago, was settled here yesterday on terms acceptable to the eight major distributors who had maintained a united front against the union's initial demands throughout the controversy.

The union workers were granted wage increases of 15 per cent by the distributors, as contrasted with the 33 1/3 per cent increases originally demanded and, in addition, successfully resisted demands of the union for inclusion of theatre checkers and office cashiers in the union's membership.

The latter demand was the principal obstacle to an agreement through-

Union-Studio Talks Facing New Problems

IATSE Envoys Absent From Negotiations

Negotiations with the IATSE studio locals faced new complications over the weekend as the international representatives, Steve Newman and Carl Cooper, absented themselves from the negotiations as the locals weighed the producers' counter-proposals.

Further complicating the procedure, several business representatives of studio locals received directions to return to Hollywood within a few days, whereas others were instructed by their locals to remain here until they obtained their original demands.

No meetings are scheduled with the producers' committee, headed by Pat Casey, today but the sessions are expected to be resumed tomorrow. No agreements were reached at Friday's sessions, at which the representatives of the locals voiced objections to virtually all of the producers' counter-proposals. council ticket this week on which Browne's name will not appear.

Reduction of the council's membership by two, also eliminates the post formerly occupied by Thomas A. Rickert of the United Garment Workers, an A. F. L. second vice-president, who died last July.

The vote on the amendment was taken after the law committee, headed by Daniel J. Tobin, Teamsters' union president, recommended it on the basis of a report from the executive council. The official explanation of the move was that it was designed to simplify and expedite council proceedings since it had been difficult to obtain quorums of the council for meetings since its enlargement from eight to 15 members in 1934.

It was learned that action on the move had been delayed by the convention in the hope that Browne would resign voluntarily, thus sparing the convention the embarrassment of ousting him while he is under fire in Federal court at New York.

Reviews

"International Lady"

(Edward Small-United Artists)

HERE is good, substantial motion picture fare of the kind that helped to build the screen's great following over the years. Edward Small has fashioned it from a fast-moving action-filled story, crammed it with adventure, suspense, excitement, and leavened it with romance and an occasional dash of humor. It is stirring entertainment of the kind that gave the name "motion" to pictures. If you have customers who will buy that type of entertainment, you have a fine box-office attraction in "International Lady."

It is always on the move, from London in an air raid where government agents take shelter with an alluring spy, to Lisbon by plane where foreign agents congregate, to New York by clipper where the spy hunt reaches its climax. Always in the background are the deliveries of America's vital planes and supplies to England, while in the foreground are as clever and resourceful a band of spies as fiction or fact has devised, together with the equally resourceful, but cleverer, men who hunt them down.

George Brent as the FBI man and Basil Rathbone as his friendly Scotland Yard rival for the distinction of gathering in the ringleaders who have sabotaged American planes and tipped off the sailings of supply ships give smoothly engaging performances. Ilona Massey, as a concert artist and important cog in the spy ring, in other words, as the international lady, provides the romantic interest even when she is in the throes of being a most effective "menace," and does both with a fine talent for conviction and allurements.

Lesser roles are faultlessly handled by George Zucco, Francis Pierlot, Martin Kosleck, Charles D. Brown, Marjorie Gatenon and Frederic Worlock. Tim Whelan's direction extracts every opportunity for excitement and suspense from the screenplay.

Running time, 100 minutes. "G."*

"Jesse James at Bay"

(Republic)

RAILROAD swindlers again meet their nemesis in the person of Jesse James, who in this particular incident in his career, encounters a poker-sharp double, and sings.

The yarn is solidly constructed, capably handled by players and director, and further embellished by splendid photography and deft camera maneuvering. Western fans, critical or otherwise, should find the presentation wholly satisfactory.

Roy Rogers apparently worked overtime in this, appearing in almost every scene as either friend "Jesse" or foe "Clint Burns," the gambler who exploits his resemblance to Jesse via the frame-up route. George "Gabby" Hayes, Gale Storm, Sally Payne, and a number of others participate. Joseph Kane was associate producer and director.

Running time, 56 minutes. "G."*

Film Service Resumed

In refusing the demand, the distributors were prepared to cease business in Mexico indefinitely and stopped film deliveries to Mexican theatres on Oct. 5 after the required 30-day contractual notice to their counts. troit Theatres, described his plan "selling" the industry to the public by means of advertising testimony from representative public figures. Columbia sales head described the plan as "a very constructive and worthwhile one" and said his company would support it.

The meeting, which closed yesterday, was the second of three regional meetings being held this month. Montague said the meetings were necessary because of the release of production this season of the great number of top-bracket pictures in the company's history. He described top-bracket picture as one costing a minimum of $600,000, and said that whereas Columbia in the past released an average of one such picture every three months, its current season's schedule calls for the release of such production every two weeks throughout the year.

Speed Up Liquidation

Montague said that because of the sales organization has encountered "bottlenecks" which obstruct or delay liquidation of releases. The sales organization, accordingly, is being geared to speed up picture liquidation he said.

For the first time in years, the sales force was told, the company's production schedule has been so completely planned in advance that titles and casts of all of the remaining pictures on this season's schedule can be given to exhibitors now. In addition, he said, the studio is geared to deliver for release a picture every week.

To maintain the new tempo of release and liquidation of pictures, district managers meetings will be held by the company at frequent intervals throughout the year.

Reviews

"All-American Co-Ed"

(U.A.-Roach)

Hollywood, Oct. 12

HAL ROACH's third Streamlined Feature stacks up as superior to his second, "Niagara Falls," by quite a margin, and a mite less successful than his first, "Tanks a Million," which had the advantage of the vogue for cantonment comedies.

This is the strongest of the three in point of marquee values. It offers Frances Langford, Harry Langdon, Johnny Downs, Marjorie Woodworth and Noah Beery, Jr., as exploitation names, plus Esther Dale, Alan Hale, Jr., Kent Rogers, Joe Brown, Jr., Irving Mitchell, Lillian Randolph and Carlyle Blackwell, Jr., in support. (Presence of the Juniors Beery, Hale, Brown and Blackwell suggests special publicity ideas.)

In point of subject matter, the film has timeliness on its side in that colleges are but now getting going and this is all about collegians, and the production utilizes all the essentials of the "Charley's Aunt" idea plus modernization. The college boy who dons the feminine attire enrolls in a girls' school this time, precipitating plenty of complications, most of them funnier than the original.

Four song numbers and some dance routines are worked into the proceedings with telling effect by Producer-director Leroy Prinz, whose handling of the whole is up to his best previous endeavors.

Running time, 50 minutes. "G."*

ROSCOE WILLIAMS

"Billy the Kid in Santa Fe"

(Producers Releasing—1940-'41 Release)

WITH a story of minor interest and limited excitement, this is generally unimpressive. The performances for the most part are adequate but fail to lift the western above the routine.

The yarn adheres to the familiar formula with the hero of the title, Bob Steele, assigned to give the outlaws a dose of their own medicine. Dennis Moore is the obscure clerk, whose brother is framed and who does most of the work for "The Kid," administering revenge through the barrel of a six-shooter. David O'Brien, Al St. John, Rex Lease, Marin Sais and others also take part in the proceedings. Sigmund Neufeld produced the film, which was directed by Sherman Scott.

Charge Stahlman Threatened UP on Service to Station

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner, was represented before the FCC on Friday as having threatened to discontinue his United Press Service if the news agency served a Nashville Broadcasting station.

The situation was developed by commission counsel during the questioning of Edwin M. Williams, vice-president of the UP, who admitted that the station did not get the service, but denied it was due to Stahlman's pressure.

Williams, under heavy questioning, went into a number of situations where newspapers had opposed the furnishing of UP service to local stations, but in each instance asserted that publishers' protests were not the controlling factor in the failure of the service and stations to reach a satisfactory agreement. In most instances, however, it appeared that where the newspapers objected, the stations did not get United Press service, it was indicated by the testimony.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Following conferences between representatives of the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association and officials of the Ministry of Transport and Home Security, over threatened curfew imposition, it was indicated that no arbitrary curfew order may be expected from the Government.

It was emphasized that the Government desires to offer no interference with the regular habits of the people unless required to do so for the public safety. As Winter shows will have to be given indoors, except in the South, the committee plans to take over the film theatre on nights when a committee unit arrives in camp. A libel suit for $730,000 in N. Y. Supreme Court was revealed on Friday when Time, Inc., publisher of Time, filed application for an order directing the examination of the officers of Transradio Press Service, Inc. which brought the suit.

The complaint charged that the defendant in its June 24, 1940, issue published an article which slandered the plaintiff by stating that it gave false and inaccurate statements over the air, was pro-Nazi, and knowingly gave radio statements falsified by representatives of the German government. ## All Reaction Favorable to New FCC Rule

Court Case Not Expected By Chairman Fly

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Despite announcement of the new FCC monopoly rules by NBC, CBS and the National Association of Broadcasters, FCC Chairman James L. Fly declared today that reaction to new regulations has been "favorable." He added that he would be "surprised if any one goes to court" in view of the standing offer of the commission to consider any modification that can be shown to be necessary.

"Nothing constructive can be gained by going into court," Fly said. He declared there would be no further extensions of time unless it can be shown that such procedure is necessary to get operations going in an orderly way.

Monopoly regulations, originally issued in May, have been postponed.

Holiday Good for B'way Bonus After Strong Weekend

With the weather crisp and clear, Broadway yesterday appeared to be the chief objective of the thousands of students and others observing the Columbus Day holiday. Theatre box-offices were unusually active. Lines formed early and were in evidence throughout the day. The Paramount and Roxy each had an extra show in the morning.

This was the follow-up to a good weekend, moreover. The Paramount, with "Hold Back the Dawn" and Xavier Cugat's orchestra had a Saturday-Sunday gross estimated at $24,000 and the show is expected to finish its second week tonight with an estimated $50,000. It will continue. At the Radio City Music Hall, "It Started With Eve" and a stage show grossed an estimated $55,000 Thursday.

Loew's, Para. Decide On Selling Methods For Minnesota Soon

Decisions on selling procedure in Minnesota may be made by Loew's and Paramount by the end of the week, company officials stated yesterday.

W. F. Rodgers, Loew's vice-president and general sales manager, said on his return from the Coast yesterday that he has not had time to consider future policy in Minnesota since the state's anti-block-of-five law was upheld by the state court at St. Paul, but expected to reach a decision in a few days after conferring with home office sales officials and counsel.

A Paramount official said that that company was considering a plan of action and might make a decision by the end of the week.

Warners already has indicated it will not sell in Minnesota under the state law and United Artists plans

Theatre Advertising Hit By Strike of Newsdealers

Theatrical advertising in metropolitan newspapers lost considerable circulation, it was estimated yesterday, when Newsdealers Federal Labor Union, Local 22371, AFL, started a strike on the newsstands against eight morning and afternoon dailies. The strike got under way unofficially on Friday but did not reach full momentum until yesterday, following a strike vote on Sunday.

The Brooklyn Eagle and PM were unaffected as the newsdealers had worked out a satisfactory agreement with those papers. The newspapers which were not carried on the stands were World-Telegram, Sun, Post, Daily News, Times, Daily Mirror, Journal-American and Herald Tribune. The union is demanding full credit for unsold papers, greater profit, elimination of allegedly coercive methods and other concessions.

Balmer traced the Variety Club's inception and progress to date. Other speakers were Si Fabian, J. Myer Schine and Moe Silver, Warner circuit zone manager and chairman of the temporary reorganization committee.

Headquarters will be in the Hotel Ten Eyck, with a formal opening scheduled for Nov. 12. Officers will be elected shortly and will be installed Nov. 20 at a public meeting.

Exclusive Run Is Ruled Out Under Decree

Appellate Board Denies Loew Plea in Del. Case

The selling of exclusive runs by a distributor to its affiliated theatres is not authorized by the consent decree, the arbitration appeals board held yesterday in a decision denying an appeal by Loew's from a decision directing it to offer some run to the Earle Theatre, New Castle, Del. That theatre is in the same competitive area as Loew's Parkway, Wilmington, to which the distributor has been selling its product for years on an exclusive run basis.

"To enable independent exhibitors to obtain pictures is a basic object of the decree," the appeals board held in affirming the original award of Prof. Ruppert C. Schaeffer, Jr., who heard the complaint brought by David Silver, former owner of the Earle, at the Philadelphia arbitration board last Spring.

Loew's relied upon Section 17 of the decree in its appeal. That section specifies that "nothing contained in this decree shall be construed to limit, impair or restrict in any way whatsoever the right of each distributor defendant" to sell to its affiliated theatres "in such manner, upon such terms and subject to such conditions as may be satisfactory to it."

The complaint was brought under

Browne-Bioff Case To Resume Today

The principal part of the Government case against George E. Browne and William Bioff now on trial before Federal Judge John C. Knox and a jury is expected to start in earnest when trial is resumed at 2 P.M. today. Thus far the time has been occupied with the selection of the jury, opening statements by Mathias F. Correa, U. S. Attorney, and the testimony of Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's Inc.

The cross-examination of Schenck is expected to be concluded shortly after the resumption of the session and additional witnesses are scheduled to take the stand this afternoon. David Bernstein will follow Schenck on the stand, it is understood. At the outset of the trial Correa estimated that 10 days would be occupied with the presentation of the Government's case, and defense counsel at that time stated that a similar amount of time would be required for their side.

Critics' Quotes . . .

"HOLD BACK THE DAWN" (Paramount)

Paramount is almost certain to turn a pretty profit with "Hold Back the Dawn." While this Arthur Hornblow production must be classified as a "woman's picture," it is a superior variety of that lucrative screen species.—Newsweek.

A drama so vital, so poignant that it must take its place as one of the great pictures of all time. . . . There is little doubt that when voting time comes around for Academy Awards "Hold Back the Dawn" will be high in the list of Oscar possibilities.—Louella O. Parsons, Los Angeles Examiner.

An extraordinary blend of warmth and humor, of incisive characterizations and brilliant character bits, of valid drama and romance. Such a host of virtues seems to demand more than a single inspection.—Virginia Wright, Los Angeles News.

Sentimentally powerful, it is made more arresting by overtones of mockery and cynicism—echoes of that decadent Europe from which these men and women have fled, yet which hover around them like a bad dream.—Philip K. Scheuer, Los Angeles Times.

"ICE-CAPADES" (Republic)

As in other films of its kind, the clever performances of the skaters is the thing. The story is negligible and the comedy lines and gags are pretty feeble in their attempts to be funny. The Ice-Capades Company, however, with its internationally known stars, is a brilliant organization of fancy skaters and their work in the picture is well worth seeing and applauding.—Kate Cameron, New York News.

A gay, light, tuneful and frivolous little movie without too much pretention, and thus a swell hour-killer.—Lee Mortimer, New York Mirror.

Skating enthusiasts and those who fancy Jerry Colonna's antics are certain to be regaled. . . . I must put down "Ice-Capades" as a minor and rather monotonous entertainment.—Howard Barnes, New York Herald Tribune.

"OUR WIFE" (Columbia)

The film as a whole fulfills its object admirably, its object being to provide a light and sprightly bit of entertainment.—Donald Kirkley, Baltimore Sun.

There is plenty of comedy in the pinches, and romance in the clinches with a few clichés thrown in to make the customers think they have been here before. But it is amusing, and the premiere audience yesterday found it excuse for ample giggling.—Robert B. Cochrane, Baltimore Evening Sun.

"LADY BE GOOD" (M-G-M)

Runs just nine minutes over two hours, and naturally finds it a little difficult to keep up its pace over that much territory. . . . Scenes are lavish and a couple of production numbers are elaborately staged. . . . They've used some good tunes for the score.—Robert B. Cochrane, Baltimore Evening Sun.

A passably entertaining offering, with some grand performers in it.—Norman Clark, Baltimore News-Post.

Has some excellent songs, a bright performance by Ann Sothern, and other assets of some value, but the flimsy story drags on interminably long after it has ceased to interest the spectator.—Donald Kirkley, Baltimore Sun.

"BELLE STARR" (20th Century-Fox)

Splendidly produced and convincingly acted, it is an engrossing addition to Filmland's Americana.—Richard L. Coe, Washington Post.

Played by Gene Tierney, she's every man's dream, every woman's desperation, every heart's desire. Sen. Nye will not like her.—Pat Pretlow, Washington Daily News.

Technicolor western with chases in their proper sequence and Gene Tierney offering a rather diluted version of Scarlett O'Hara.—Henry T. Murdock, Philadelphia Ledger.

Pretty Technicolor picture enhances the fictional quality and Gene Tierney is a story-book heroine if ever there was one.—Elsie Finn, Philadelphia Record.

Sensibly enough, on the score of entertainment, 20th Century-Fox has chosen to treat Belle in the legendary manner.—Mildred Marti, Philadelphia Inquirer.

The film's in color, rich and gay. Gene Tierney's sweet as a bouquet, and maids will come from near and far to see Randolph Scott play Sam Starr . . . a movie full of action which should give fans satisfaction.—Chicago Tribune.

Belle Starr of the film would not disgrace the Southern belle Lillian Gish played in "The Birth of a Nation." This is no exaggeration—Gene is as sweet, as wholesome, as charming, as cute.—C. J. Bulliet, Chicago Daily News.

Fanciful as it is, "Belle Starr" does manage a surprisingly fresh variation of the usual horse-opera melodramatics. The blood-and-thunder content is normal, the Technicolor photography excellent, and the cast capable enough.—Newsweek.

"MAJOR BARBARA" (Pascal-United Artists)

There are some brilliant passages in the new Shaw film. It was staged with a lavish hand, it has the benefit of an all-star company. . . . But the story is involved and confusing, and the spectator must struggle through a labyrinth of theological and metaphysical arguments.—Donald Kirkley, Baltimore Sun.

Has neither the appeal nor the winning humor of "Pygmalion." The new film is a wordy debate attacking the problem of organized charity. . . . There is much that is witty, much that is provocative in the welter of words that pours from the screen.—Mildred Martin, Philadelphia Inquirer.

Showmanship Flashes . . .

Free 'Shooting Gallery' 'Billy the Kid' Stunt

McAdoo, Pa., Oct. 13.—At little cost William Elliott, manager of the Palace here, set up a stunt to feature his exploitation on "Billy the Kid." Using a one-sheet, two 10-cent guns and a few old boards Elliott set up a free shooting gallery in front of the house with young and old alike invited to try their aim on a "Billy the Kid" bullseye target. Sharpshooters who scored bullseyes received passes to the show.

Contest on Welles Used In Promotion for 'Kane'

Denver, Oct. 13.—The Orpheum here tied in with the Denver Monitor in a contest on "What Do You Know About Orson Welles," as promotion on "Citizen Kane." The house also distributed 15,000 numbered cards, with those holding corresponding numbers posted in the lobby awarded guest tickets.

School Aviation Annex Cooperates on 'Parachute'

Teachers at the Haaren High School's aviation annex in New York cooperated with Montague Salmon manager of the Beacon Theatre, during the run of "Parachute Battalion," by arranging an elaborate display at the school. A parachute jumper addressed an assembly of students during the engagement.

Elaborate Campaign Used To Plug 'Honky Tonk'

St. Louis, Oct. 13.—An extensive exploitation campaign was arranged by Rex Williams, manager, and Wally Heim of Loew's here for "Honky Tonk." The feature race at nearby Fairmont Race Track was named the "Honky Tonk," and Williams presented a blanket of roses for the winning horse. Night clubs and drug stores also cooperated in extended use of throwaways of various kinds.

Nurse and Bed Used For Horror Dual Bill

McAdoo, Pa., Oct. 13.—A bed and nurse were planted in front of the house by Manager William Elliott of the Palace Theatre in connection with his twin horror show featuring two mystery pictures. The nurse handed out "faint checks" permitting patrons to return to the theatres should they faint during the show. All marquee lights were out at night with the entire front flooded by lights covered with red gelatine.

Sports Girl Contest Is Employed on 'Serenade'

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13.—A "Typical Sports Girl" contest, tied-in with a daily newspaper, was included in the campaign which Morris Mechanic, owner of the New Theatre, used on "Sun Valley Serenade." An evening daily carried stories and pictures and the New Theatre, in reciprocation, carried the newspaper's promotion on the screen, along with announcements of the contest.

Exclusive Run Is Ruled Out Under Decree

Section 6 of the decree which prohibits consenting distributors from refusing to license a theatre for some run of its pictures on terms not calculated to defeat the purposes of the section, "unless the granting of a run on any terms to such exhibitor will have the effect of reducing the distributor's total film revenue in the competitive area" involved.

Construes Decree

"The only question involved in this appeal is whether Section 17 permits the defendant to maintain an exclusive run policy in its own theatre in the competitive area which includes Wilmington and New Castle," the appeals board held. "A proper construction of Section 17 does not permit the exclusive run policy claimed by the defendant. The right of each distributor defendant to contract with its own theatres for the exhibition of its own pictures is not limited, impaired or restricted; but there Section 17 stops. There is nothing in that section limiting the right of independent exhibitors to obtain pictures pursuant to the provisions of Section 6."

"If the contention of the defendant should be upheld," the appeals board decision observed, "it might nullify to a large extent one of the main purposes of the decree. To enable independent exhibitors to obtain pictures for exhibition in their theatres is a basic object of the decree."

If each of the five consenting distributors had the right to grant its theatre an exclusive license in every competitive district, the board held, "the result might well be disastrous to many independent exhibitors who would be able to obtain few if any pictures. In such event many independent exhibitors might well be put out of business. The decree does not contemplate any such result.

Distributor Protected

"Section 6 gives each distributor ample protection. If a distributor can show that the granting of a run on any terms to an exhibitor will have the effect of reducing the distributor's total film revenue in the competitive area in which the exhibitor's theatre is located then the distributor may refuse a license. If the contrary is true and the distributor's total film revenue is not reduced by granting an independent exhibitor a run, then the distributor cannot possibly be injured," the board held.

Exhibitor Appeals St. Louis Decision

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 13. — Louis M. Sosna, Mexico, Mo., exhibitor, has appealed the decision of Fred Armstrong, arbitrator, in the exhibitor's some run complaint against Loew's. It is the first local case on which an appeal has been taken.

John J. Nangle, attorney, has been named arbitrator in the some run complaint of Mrs. Mildred Karch, exhibitor of Rolla, Mo., against all five consenting companies.

See Priority Ruling Hitting New Stations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Although pointing out that the effect of orders issued last week by the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board halting all non-defense construction had not yet been evaluated in terms of radio by the FCC, Chairman James L. Fly today declared he "would not advise anyone to attempt to go into the broadcasting industry at this time."

No decision has yet been reached regarding the treatment of new station applications hereafter submitted, Fly said, but it is very unlikely that any new stations will be authorized except in localities now without primary service. Even in such instances, he added, it is yet to be worked out how materials can be provided.

The FCC is giving the matter constant attention, in cooperation with SPAB officials and the Office of Production Management, Fly disclosed. Regardless of the method found, he said, it is "bound to impose a definite impediment in building of new stations."

Production of radio receivers in 1941 may run 10 to 15 per cent ahead of 1940, a record year when approximately 12,000,000 sets were manufactured, but output is currently about 20 to 25 per cent behind consumer demand, the Wall Street Journal estimated yesterday. Manufacturers have been able to meet current demands by large inventories built up previously, a reduction in the number of models and substitute materials developed, it was pointed out.

Standardize Terms In Sound Equipment

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13.—Members of the Research Council committee on sound equipment nomenclature met today to consider the standard nomenclature for sound equipment now in preparation. The committee is preparing a dictionary of terms describing sound equipment in order to standardize discussion among studios. Thomas T. Moulton, Goldwyn sound director, is committee chairman.

committee as soon as membership views on the counter proposals have been obtained.

Meanwhile, negotiations continued yesterday at the office of Pat Casey, producers' labor representative, with representatives of the studio projectionists, electricians, cameramen, sound men, gaffers and wardrobe workers' locals. These locals, it is reported, have instructed their delegates to continue with the negotiations until agreements are reached.

Up to yesterday, no agreements had been set with any of the nine IATSE studio locals. These locals are continuing their negotiations without the aid of the International.

Shirley Temple to Star in Air Series

Shirley Temple yesterday was signed to appear in a series of four weekly broadcasts on Fridays, Dec. 5 through Dec. 26, 10-10:30 P. M. over CBS. Although Miss Temple has appeared on the radio before, the new contract will be the first time she will appear in a series.

Richard Marvin, radio director of William Esty Co., obtained her services for Elgin National Watch Co., the sponsor. She will sing and act in a number of Christmas plays. The four programs will fill the gap caused by the four-week layoff of Louella Parsons' "Hollywood Premiere" for Lifebuoy.

The latter company has had under consideration for some time a plan for consolidation of several of its exchanges, a phase of which contemplated the closing of the Minneapolis branch regardless of the outcome of the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law.

Officials of RKO and 20th Century-Fox said they have reached no decision.

several times and under the latest ruling go into effect Nov. 15. NBC Trammell, NBC president, in stating that NBC planned to take the issue to court said, "We rely upon Chairman Fly's statement that he will stay operations of these regulations pending the final outcome of the court proceedings." William S. Paley, CBS president, stated that his network would seek a court injunction.

Assails 'Political Pressure'

"If anybody wants to litigate rules there never has been any objection to that," Fly continued. "The certainly is, and always will be, objection to the main form which activities of the networks have taken in terms of political pressures; that is one thing we are going to stand out in this industry."

Fly also expressed the opinion that nothing further will be done with the White resolution under which Senate Interstate Commerce subcommittee held extensive hearings on network situation last Spring.

Four Principal Points

The modifications issued by FCC covered four main points:

1. The order requiring NBC to vest itself of the Blue network indefinitely suspended and will not be reinstated except with six months notice to NBC to dispose of property.
2. Networks may sign two-year affiliation contracts with stations, instead of one-year.
3. Stations will receive two-year licenses from the FCC instead of one year.
4. Network options on station time may not be exclusive, and a station may give options on or sell the same time to other networks, and the amount of time which a station grants to a network under option limited.

Commissioners Norman S. Craven and T. A. M. Craven dissented, they did last May when the original rules were promulgated.

Were you afraid of violence to your person?" Martin Conboy, attorney for George E. Browne, and Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, as the trial of Browne and William Bioff was resumed in Federal Court here yesterday.

"I didn't say that," Schenck responded. "I was afraid of the consequences that would occur to our business, if the demands were not met." The questioning came during the course of the cross-examination of Schenck who had previously testified he had waited until 1941 before closing to the U. S. Attorney the

32.8 of Set Owners Heard World Series

An average of 32.8 per cent of all set holders listened to World Series broadcasts over Mutual, according to Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting surveys. This figure compares favorably with the 1935 series when a rating of 35 per cent was obtained with all networks carrying the program. The last "nickel series," between the Yankees and Giants in 1937, drew 25.3. The 1938 figure was 33.2; 1939, 21.3, and 1940, 25.2.

Report Britain To Ease Funds Due U.S. Firms

Trade Scouts Wall Street Rumors on Currency

Wall Street reports heard in the trade yesterday point to the possibility that Great Britain may release certain of the blocked funds of the motion picture companies, thus permitting these firms a greater percentage of currency withdrawals for the coming year than has hitherto been allowed.

These reports place the amount likely to be authorized for remittance at a figure equivalent to 50 per cent of the aggregate annual British revenues of the eight major companies.

This does not mean, however, that a flat 50 per cent of next year's rentals will be authorized but, rather, that a lesser percentage of next year's revenue may be designated for withdrawal and, additionally, distributors'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The U. S. Supreme Court yesterday agreed to hear arguments in Ascap's appeal from a Federal statutory court decision in the music society's action attacking the constitutionality of the State of Washington's anti-Ascap law.

The high court noted probable jurisdiction in the case but postponed further consideration of the question until after a hearing on the merits. The case probably will not be reached by the court for several months, at which time Ascap will have to show that the Washington case differs materially from the Florida anti-Ascap case. ## Schenck Says Money Paid to Keep IA Peace alleged demands for payments made by the IATSE officials.

David Bernstein, treasurer of Loew's, followed Schenck on the stand and corroborated the latter's testimony about the alleged extortion payments.

The court denied a motion for a mistrial made by Conboy after Schenck testified on redirect examination that he had made other payments to the defendants besides those previously described. Schenck's testimony was stricken out after he stated that these additional payments had not been made by him personally. Judge John C. Knox asked the jury to disregard the testimony.

Asked to Get Cash

Bernstein said that Schenck requested him in 1936 to obtain $50,000 in cash with which to pay Browne and Bioff, as the alleged price for IATSE peace in the industry. The witness related that he got this money from his personal account in the National City Bank and turned it over to Schenck. The incident was repeated in 1937, he added.

In response to questioning by Boris Kostelanetz, Correa's assistant, Bernstein testified that he obtained repayment of the sum through the device of increasing expense vouchers. He explained that in a number of instances he requested executives of Loew's to add sums to their expense vouchers. A number of the vouchers were introduced in evidence.

On redirect examination Schenck repeated the story of how he paid Browne $100,000 in 1935 to settle a dispute between RKO and Loew's on one hand and operators Local 306 in New York. The final arrangement with Browne was that Loew's would pay $100,000 and RKO $50,000 for the IATSE president's intercession. Loew's share was finally boosted over $150,000 in order that Mort Singer, Chicago theatre man and alleged intermediary in the deal, could offset added income taxes, he testified. Schenck said Singer received a check for the full amount and turned over $100,000 to Browne.

Scale Not Involved

Schenck denied that Browne and Bioff's demands had anything to do with the union demand for increased scale and said that neither Browne nor Bioff at any time referred to an existing dispute between the IATSE and the company. The council for the defendants in their cross-examination of Schenck sought to create an inference that he volunteered information to Correa only after his brother, Joseph M. Schenck, had been convicted of tax evasion. The witness denied the inference, stating that at no time did his conversations with the U. S. Attorney relate to his brother's conviction or a further indictment for perjury still pending.

Conboy resorted to stenographic minutes of the 1936 basic pact meeting in an attempt to show that Schenck may not have attended that meeting held on April 18, although the minutes were not admitted to evidence.

Exhibitor Assails Policy Of Catering to Columnists

EDITOR, MOTION PICTURE DAILY:

After reading your articles on Fidler's stand against our industry at the recent propaganda investigation, I just couldn't help but get the following matter off my chest.

Naturally, he was biting the hands that were feeding him, and a mighty nice feed at that. In a way I'm glad that he had the opportunity to expose his wrong and uncalled-for attitude, and now the studios know once and for all on what side of the fence he stands, and in the future to be more careful not to get too intimate with other columnists.

Decries Pampering

I have had lots of experience in all branches of show business; exploitation, publicity, stage production, exhibition, etc., and looking at it from a broad side, I never could understand why it is necessary for our industry to spend thousands of dollars annually, wining and dining newspaper, radio and fan magazine correspondents, building them into high salaried positions, placing them in a spot where they can turn right around and "double cross" us any time they want to by "knocking" pictures.

It's been proven time and again, if a picture is good, the first nighters, through a favorable word-of-mouth campaign aided by exhibitors' selling efforts, will stimulate box-office grosses; resulting in capacity business and extended playing time, from the first-run theatre down to the last run. And on the other hand, you know even better than I, that if a picture is bad, all the columnists of America combined, using honeyed phrases and sugary methods, raving about that picture, will not bring revenue at the box-office, nor will they sway the average Mr. Public to shout: "That picture was good because Mr. John said so in his column." So why should we obligate ourselves to anybody?

If a picture is good we surely don't need columnists to repeat what we ourselves already know. Just like any other industry, we can purchase our own advertising and use any copy we want to sell the picture to the public. If the picture is bad, we can make an effort through the same method to get the most we can out of it. If it doesn't click, we drop it and concentrate on the next picture.

Our industry is one of the largest in America, comparable to the steel, automobile and other industries, and with millions at stake, do you think it's wise to obligate ourselves to "outsiders" with valuable inside information at their disposal; and if misused, it results in heavy losses to all of us, producers and exhibitors alike.

If all the money spent to entertain gossip writers, just to obtain a few thousand dollars of free space, were appropriated to merchandise our pictures throughout the country, through direct purchase of advertising in newspapers or radio we would have 100 per cent of our own publicity releases, thereby upholding the dignity of our industry. Losses in revenue do not affect executives but thousands of employes as well.

Trade Papers First

The procedure of publicity releases would be to give them to our own trade papers, who we know are interested in the success of the industry. They pass the information on to the exhibitors, who in turn give it to newspapers or radio locally through the medium of paid advertising for the purpose of attracting people to theatres.

The gossip writers didn't start this business. It was the pioneering efforts of many executives still active today, through their creative and merchandising ability, who built our industry to the present position. Let's use that same pioneering spirit by uniting the friendly cooperation of producer, distributor and exhibitor, for the sole purpose of furnishing entertainment to a free people; and by all means, for our own security, let's do it ourselves.

ED HARRIS, Manager
Glendale Theatre,
Glendale, Cal.

Schenck disputed all such references, contending that he had attended every meeting held. He also refuted a line of cross-examination which attempted to show that he had been friendly with Browne subsequent to the extortion demands.

Bernstein will continue on the stand today for direct examination. The Government, it is said, will call either Leopold Friedman or Charles C. Moskowitz following Bernstein's testimony.

NEWARK, Oct. 14.—Local 244, IATSE, here today was ordered by Vice Chancellor John O. Bigelow to show cause Nov. 4 why a receiver for the union should not be appointed. The order also required the union to show cause why Louis Kaufman, business agent under Federal indictment currency already blocked in London may be released in an amount sufficient to bring the total remittances for the year to 50 per cent of their earnings.

Comment from company officials, in regard to these Wall Street reports was that they knew of no definite agreement of any kind having been reached.

It is said that negotiations for larger currency withdrawals by the picture companies from England and release of at least part of the companies' blocked currency have been going on for many months between England and the United States but that there has been no definite agreement yet. The U. S. State Department, it is said, is in full charge of the negotiations for the companies.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—State Department officials said tonight that negotiations are still continuing with the British government on the treatment of American funds now frozen in England, including those from film distribution in that country, but refused to comment on reports that an agreement had practically been reached which would increase the percentage the companies would be permitted to withdraw.

They said that the negotiations were designed to ease the restrictions now imposed, and that film money was one of the important phases of the conversations which are being carried on in both Washington and London.

See Choice of UA President Again Delayed

the intention of the stockholders that Lawrence shall play a larger role in the affairs of United Artists management as that situation will demand.

Lawrence is former European representative of M-G-M and considered among the topnotchers in the trade.

There have been two candidates mostly under consideration, but since a unanimous vote of stockholders is necessary, it is said, to elect a president, a choice has not been made. It is reported that under the terms of the company's agreement with David O. Selznick a unanimous agreement upon the choice of president is absolutely conditioned.

One of the two candidates who was considered was vetoed by one of the stockholders and the other candidate's terms were considered by the stockholders as too rigid to grant.

"The Chocolate Soldier"

(M-G-M)

DRAWING upon Ferenc Molnar's great comedy, "The Guardsman," for its plot, upon Oscar Straus' immortal operetta, "The Chocolate Soldier," for most of its music and lyrics, upon the Metropolitan Opera Company for its brilliant young star, Rise Stevens, and upon M-G-M's own roster of marquee talent for Nelson Eddy, this production of Victor Saville inevitably holds a great deal of entertainment for almost any kind of audience.

Ernst Matray has created and staged charming ballets. Music and lyrics are by Gus Kahn and Bronislau Kaper. Nigel Bruce, Florence Bates, Dorothy Gilmore, Nydia Westman, Max Barwyn and Charles Judels round out the cast.

In this tuneful vehicle, Miss Stevens has many opportunities to sing. Hers is a rich, colorful voice and one which should have audiences clamoring for more. She is attractive as well as pleasing to the ear, making the team of Eddy and Stevens rich in box-office potentialities.

The plot of "The Guardsman" makes the introduction of musical items easy. Eddy and Miss Stevens are stars of a musical comedy. Married to her, he became suspicious of her affections for other men and undertakes the greatest acting role of his career—that of a Russian guardsman who attempts to woo Miss Stevens. Unlike the first treatment of that story for the screen in 1931, the plot here is altered to have Miss Stevens penetrate the disguise as soon as Eddy starts his deception. Thereby, much of the suspense is lost and slow movements result, but the occasional tedious interludes are forgotten when the pair starts singing again. Bruce, as the critic-friend of the couple, turns in a superb performance. The plot, however treated, is one which has an intrinsic humor and many boisterously funny scenes result. Although there is nothing objectionable in its treatment for adult audiences, the story, obviously, is not for children.

There are several lavish productions of dances and songs but most of the singing takes place in off-stage scenes. Roy Del Ruth directed.

Running time, 102 minutes. "A."*

"Unholy Partners"

(M-G-M)

EDWARD G. ROBINSON, playing a crusading editor, and Edward Arnold, a gambler and racketeer, are the "Unholy Partners" in a New York tabloid newspaper. A fast-moving and interesting motion picture is built around the conflicts resulting from their opposed motives.

The quality of the acting, plus competent direction by Mervyn LeRoy and adequate story material make this film much better than many others which have used a newspaper background. Samuel Marx was the producer.

Returning from World War I Robinson seeks backing for a tabloid newspaper but has no success until he wins $150,000 from Arnold and the two become partners. The gambler does not attempt to interfere with the newspaper until its crusading activities affect his interests. Finally the editor is given the alternative of turning over his share of the paper or allowing a cub reporter, played by William T. Orr, to be killed. But, in defense Robinson kills the gambler and has the boy set free. Then he takes off in a plane on a fatal attempt to fly the ocean, leaving the paper in control of his secretary, Laraine Day, whom he was about to marry, and the favorite reporter.

In addition to the fine acting by Robinson and Arnold, Miss Day does very well as the faithful secretary. Marsha Hunt plays the other girl whom the reporter loves. She sings one song, "After You're Gone." The cast also includes Don Beddoe, Walter Kingsford, Charles Dingle and others.

Running time, 94 minutes. "G."*

involve reopening of the negotiation with such locals.

The final IA units to wind up the negotiations here were the studio projectionists, electricians, cameramen, sound men, gaffers and wardrobe workers. Makeup artists, property men and grips ended their negotiation earlier and left for the Coast.

The principal phase of the producer counter proposals was a 10 per cent increase for the nine locals and various adjustments of working conditions. The producers rejected all demands the locals involving jurisdiction claims over workers in other unions or the grounds that such claims should be settled by the unions themselves.

Studio labor representatives also left for the Coast yesterday, among the Charles Boren, Paramount; Sid Rogell, RKO; Fred Myers, 20th Century-Fox; Carroll Saxe, Warner; Dave Garber, Universal, and Fred Patton, assistant to Casey. The latter is remaining here.

The 15th case to go to the arbitration appeals board was filed yesterday by Andora Amusement Co., Plainfield, N. J. The appellant won a nine-day reduction of clearance on Paramount, RKO, 20th Century-Fox and Warner product for its Liberty Theatre in relation to the Strand, Paramount at Oxford, Plainfield, in an award made Sept. 23 by James A. O'Gorman Jr., arbitrator. However, Andora has asked that the prevailing 30 day clearance of the three theatres on the Liberty be reduced to 14 days after single feature bookings and seven days after double features.

RKO Will Not Sell Minn. While Bound By Consent Decree

RKO will not sell in Minnesota as long as the state's anti-block-of-five law is on the statutes and the company is bound by the selling provisions of the Federal consent decree, company officials revealed yesterday.

Whether the company will take an appeal from the state court decision at St. Paul denying the consenting distributors a temporary injunction restraining enforcement of the Minnesota law has not been decided yet and is still under consideration by company counsel, it was said.

Asked whether RKO would petition Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard for an exemption from the consent decree to permit it to sell in Minnesota, Ned E. Depinet, vice-president in charge of distribution, answered with an unqualified "No."

Paramount, Loew's and 20th Century-Fox, the remaining companies affected by the Minnesota law, are scheduled to reach decisions this week.

Reviews

"Down Mexico Way"

(Republic)

THIS is an achievement by Republic primarily because the Western is worthy of playing time in theatres outside the Western category. The results should be quite gratifying both to patron and exhibitor.

The picture stars Gene Autry, a potent name for many exhibitors, and is enriched with relatively lavish settings and colorful dance and song ensembles with an array of talented performers. The story is modern having to do with swindlers posing as Hollywood producers and attempting to have townspeople invest in their productions. Autry and his friends are first "taken" in Sage City. He, Smiley Burnette and Harold Huber, a former Mexican bandit of the Pancho Villa type, follow the crooks to Mexico, where they finally are exposed and brought to book in a genuinely exciting chase and battle.

Interwoven are a number of songs by Autry and other musical sequences, which add to the entertainment. Others in the cast are Fay McKenzie, Sidney Blackmer, Joe Sawyer, Duncan Renaldo and Paul Fix. Photography is very good. Joseph Santley directed. Harry Grey was associate producer.

Running time, 78 minutes. "G."*

"Flying Cadets"

(Universal)

THIS is a neat and trim little drama of the skies with attractive cast names and timeliness that should aid in the selling. The players all are capable in their respective roles and under what appears to be good direction, do much to make the film engaging fare both in its up-in-the-clouds melodrama and basic story content.

William Gargan, Edmund Lowe and Frank Albertson are brothers in the film, Lowe as the adventurous World War ace; Gargan, chief mechanic usually on the sidelines, and Albertson, plane designer, all concerned with teaching flying cadets. Peggy Moran, Frankie Thomas, Roy Harris, Charles Williams also are in the cast. Erle C. Kenton directed and Paul Malvern was associate producer.

"Gunman from Bodie"

(Monogram)

Hollywood, Oct. 15

PRODUCER Scott Dunlap's second presentation of the Rough Riders—Buck Jones, Tim McCoy and Raymond Hatton—contains a story superior to most of those used for Westerns and winds up, after a slow start, on the plus side of average for its bracket.

There's more riding and less shooting in this than in most plains pictures, and there's a baby in it for the feminine side of theatre patronage. Some singing is also done, by David O'Brien, in better than average manner. Others in the cast are Robert Frazier, Charles King, Lynton Brent, Max Waxman, Christine MacIntyre, Gene Alsace, John Merton, Frank Larue, Jerry Sheldon and many more.

The plot of this number, directed by Spencer Bennett in high key after a dawdling first half, has to do with rustling, water rights, ranch loans, mortgages and some free-handed murdering.

"Stolen Paradise"

(Monogram)

Chicago, Oct. 15

HEAVY handed direction by Louis Gasnier, a trite story and bad acting throughout makes this dull and uninteresting screen fare. It formerly was titled "Adolescence."

Leon Janney, Eleanor Hunt, Esther Muir and others struggle through the story of an 18-year-old youth raised in a Catholic mission who falls in love with his 28-year-old stepsister, runs away to join the RAF, is wounded and returns to the mission to join the church and leave the outside world behind.

"Sundown"

(Wanger-United Artists)

Hollywood, Oct. 15

TAKEN from Barre Lyndon's Saturday Evening Post serial of some months ago, "Sundown" comes to the screen as a romantic melodrama-adventure story laid in Africa. The story is of Axis plans to furnish guns to the natives for an uprising against the British colonial outposts; the time, 1941. A well-peopled cast, impressive scenery and effects, and production sheen of high calibre feature the Walter Wanger production, produced and directed by Henry Hathaway.

Gene Tierney as the supposed half-breed trader; Bruce Cabot, George Sanders and Reginald Gardiner as the British colony administrators, Joseph Calleia as the Italian prisoner of war, Sir Cedric Harwicke and Harry Carey head the cast of the picture.

The Lyndon story is changed somewhat in the film version of the piece; it suffers by not being played as straight melodramatic adventure stuff as originally written. It winds up with one of the characters expressing confidence of a complete British victory in the current war.

Action ranges from murder, arms smuggling and hand-to-hand fighting to machine gun and tear gas conflict. Technically, the picture is most impressive, its photography of the highest order, its background painstakingly done.

"Death at a Broadcast"

(Film Alliance—Astor)

HANDICAPPED by faulty sound and photography, this has little to recommend it. It was made in England by Hugh Perceval, acquired by Film Alliance, and under a recent distribution arrangement will be released by Astor Pictures.

The picture, when originally released in England as "Death at Broadcasting House," apparently had entertainment value, for it has a cleverly developed mystery plot for films of its type. In its present worn condition, though, as seen at a showing at the New York Theatre on Broadway, it appeared to stimulate very little interest.

Ian Hunter and a number of unknown British players are in the cast. Reginald Denham directed.

Statements from Smith & Aller. DuPont representatives on the Coast, turned over to Bioff the entire sum less weekly deductions of $25 for his own salary.

His cross-examination will start today. His testimony followed a parade of industry witnesses including Louis B. Mayer, head of M-G-M production; Nicholas Nayfack, M-G-M studios executive; John Wesley Smith, of Smith & Aller, and David Bernstein, treasurer of Loew's, whose cross-examination was completed in the morning.

Nelson related that he had come to California with his wife at Bioff's request in 1937. He testified that he was told by Bioff that M-G-M was indebted to the union official but that latter, because of his position could not collect the anticipated cash itself.

Collected Weekly

Bioff said "it was up to me to collect," the witness said. According to Nelson, he was introduced to Smith & Aller who collected the commissions weekly. These commission payments were deposited in a savings account in the Hollywood branch of the Bank of America and were turned over in full to Bioff from time to time, he said. In all, 16 payments totaling $5,820 between July 26, 1937, and on 14, 1939, were made by Nelson, Bioff, the witness stated.

From time to time, Nelson showed his brother-in-law the bank book to prove that checks were being deposited and one one such occasion Browne was present, Nelson testified. Except for the weekly salary deductions, the tire amount was turned over, he said. Nelson said he kept a separate book showing deposits and payments. The book was admitted as evidence after defense counsel's objections.

The trial resumed yesterday with a cross-examination of Bernstein asked repeatedly by defense counsel about the expense vouchers through which he had reimbursed himself for a $100,000 cash outlay. Bernstein stated that these vouchers were "for legitimate expenses for the benefit of the company."

Mayer's Testimony

Mayer on the stand told of being called by Nicholas M. Schenck in 1937 and being asked whether the proposition was still open whereby Smith & Aller would appoint a sub-agent to receive 7 per cent commission on all M-G-M purchase of DuPont raw stock. Schenck asked that the matter be reopened and the sub-agency given to a designee of Bioff, Mayer said. Mayer said he asked for the reason and was told, "Because Bioff can give plenty of trouble."

On cross-examination, Mayer explained that he accepted these orders. Subsequently, Mayer continued, Bioff called and Nelson was introduced to Smith. Mayer said he heard little of the matter except occasional calls from Bioff to say that not enough DuPont raw stock was being purchased, and a further call in 1939 when Bioff asked that Harry Beatty be substituted for Nelson as sub-agent. Mayer said he tried to keep orders for raw stock divided evenly between DuPont and Eastman Kodak, and that commissions from DuPont purchases amounted to about $70,000 annually.

Mayer testified that he knew nothing of Bioff's demands on the industry until just before the indictment in May, 1941.

Nayfack, who followed Mayer, corroborated the latter's story and told how he had followed Mayer's instructions and arranged to substitute Beatty for Nelson in 1939. At that time, Nayfack said, he was told by Bioff that he had had some difficulty with Nelson and didn't want the latter to "know too much of his business."

DuPont Sales Increased

Smith followed Nayfack on the stand. He said that Nelson came to his office once a week to collect his check. Orders came directly from the M-G-M laboratory, he said. Total payments to both Beatty and Nelson amounted to $236,477, he said. DuPont's business with M-G-M increased from $10,000 monthly prior to Nelson's appointment to $100,000 monthly thereafter, he stated. Smith denied that he had proffered the arrangement to M-G-M as a method of granting a rebate. He declared that it was specifically understood that the sub-agent was to be a person not in the employ of M-G-M and that he would have paid anyone who could produce the business.

Nelson will face cross-examination today. Because of other court engagements, Judge John C. Knox said a recess would be taken after today's session until Monday morning.

equity in his latest picture, "Sundown," to the company but retains story properties owned by Walter Wanger Productions, Inc., in which U. A. owned a 50 per cent interest. With his departure U. A. comes into 100 per cent ownership of this production unit, the first in which that company has ever been directly associated in production to the extent that U. A. was with Wanger. Wanger's original investment in the unit is said to have been $250,000. U. A. had a similar investment, it was said.

Facilities Not Involved

No studio equity or production equipment is involved in the dissolution deal. Wanger sold his interest in the unit, a company announcement stated, for "full value." It was not indicated when payment is to be made.

At the same time, the company announced that it would continue operation of the unit on its own and that it was the firm's intention to change the name of the unit to United Artists Productions, Inc.

"The Eagle Squadron," which Wanger is about to produce, will be an independent effort of Wanger. He leaves for Washington today and then returns to New York, after which he will fly to London, which may be on Saturday, in connection with the production of this film.

No Release Set

Wanger has no new releasing deal set. His affairs are completely his own, it is said.

Since the matter was only brought to a head yesterday, according to report, U. A. has not yet selected a personality who shall head the new production unit.

Wanger's New York offices will continue for the time being as is, it is said, but the likelihood exists that they may be closed on or before Nov. 15, depending upon conditions. Harry Kosiner is in charge of Wanger's offices here.

The cancellation of Wanger's releasing and financing contracts with United Artists was effected as part of the deal.

U.S. Asks for Wide Relief in Crescent Case

during the seven weeks' trial which closed early in September.

The Crescent company was expected to file its findings tomorrow, and all defendants will file briefs by Nov. 15. Final arguments in the Crescent trial are set to begin here Dec. 1 before Federal Judge Elmer Davies.

Ask Injunction

Practically the only mention of distributors in the summary of the Government brief and the prayer for relief was "that the defendant distributors be enjoined from licensing pictures for exhibition in any theatre in any town where a defendant exhibitor operates a theatre, except on a local competitive basis."

Universal's 43-page document maintained that exclusivity of run and clearance are arrived at by separate negotiations with each exhibitor and "are as much a part of each particular license agreement as any of the other terms and conditions thereof."

"It is clear from the testimony," the brief continued, "that Universal committed no offenses under the Sherman Anti-trust law and did not contract, combine, or conspire with defendant exhibitors for the purpose of suppressing the competition of any independent exhibitor, with the possible exception of the one isolated instance relating to the theatre of J. D. Henry in Union City, Tenn."

Universal Explains

Universal's filing declared its witnesses' testimony controverted Government testimony as to this instance and "accords more plausibly with the documentary evidence." A long explanation of the Henry incident followed.

The court was asked to conclude by law that a defendant distributor, acting separately and independently, has the right to select its own customers, and to determine whether or not it will license the exhibition of its pictures in the various theatres which may apply, and upon what terms.

United Artists' declaration stated that the distributor's 73 and 61-situation deals with Crescent "were in no respect different from the prior United Artists contracts except in an increased number of affiliated corporations and towns covered."

Compulsion Charged

An index heading in the Government brief was entitled, "The Defendant Exhibitors Compelled the Major Distributors to Discriminate Against Competing Independent Theatres by Circuit Buying Power." This section covered 74 pages.

The Government submitted that on the record in the case at least the following specific relief, in addition "to such dissolution and general injunction as to all of the exhibitor and distributor defendants against further violation of the act, is necessary to make individual theatre competition possible against the theatres in the Sudekum circuit" outside of Nashville, Tenn.,

Musicians Strike on CBS; Expect NBC Walkout Today

in some doubt at a late hour last night because of conflicting stories from the union and the networks. Union offices stated that musicians were ordered off sustaining programs which originated either in New York or Pittsburgh on both CBS and NBC networks. NBC, however, continued with its sustaining programs, except remote pickups, although the network was preparing for a strike call this morning.

Strike Effective 4 P.M.

The CBS strike became effective at 4 P. M. when the "Columbia Concerts" program had to be cancelled. The network made a brief announcement at that time and before all other scheduled sustaining shows pointing out that there was no dispute between CBS and the AFM but that a local Pittsburgh situation had caused the strike call. The network substituted quartets, vocalists accompanied by organists from out-of-town stations, and similar programs for the cancelled musicals. NBC was making similar plans.

Both networks were under the impression that only sustainers originating in New York or Chicago were to be affected and that they would be free to make arrangements for pickups from other cities but this issue was also clouded by doubt.

A strike was called against NBC-Red about four weeks ago because of station difficulties in New Orleans. After this strike was settled, the network declined to restore the remote pickups and continued with studio presentations. Most of these studio programs, however, were based primarily around the studio bands.

'Good Neighbor' Affected

One of the major programs on NBC which will be affected is the last of the "Good Neighbor" series which was scheduled on the Red at 10:30 tonight. The orchestra left for Washington yesterday to give the concert which will be attended by a large number of ranking Pan-American and U. S. officials. NBC plans to go ahead with the concert even if it is prevented from broadcasting it.

Nine programs were affected by the CBS order yesterday and there will be a total of 65 for the week. On the Red, if the strike is called, 19 programs will be halted, and 37 will be halted on the Blue.

Refiles Clearance Complaint in Albany

The American Theatre, Albany, refiled its clearance complaint against Warners and RKO yesterday in an amended form complying with directions given by the national appeals board.

On Oct. 4, the appeals board refused to consider the case on its merits and, reversing Morton J. Hall, arbitrator, who had granted the American Theatre a clearance reduction, dismissed RKO's appeal from that award on the grounds that the original complaint had not been filed in accordance with decree rules. The amended complaint filed yesterday substitutes St. Lawrence Investors, Inc., owner of the American, for A. P. Papayanakos, an officer of the company who filed the original complaint. The same substitution also is made in the submission papers. As a result, the appeals board which was excluded in the pleadings:

What U. S. Asks

1. Invalidation of the existing franchises.
2. Invalidation of the existing agreements not to compete in the future.
3. An injunction which will prevent each of the exhibitor defendants from conditioning the licensing of films in any theatre situation outside of Nashville where independent competition now exists or later occurs upon the licensing of films in any other theatre situation.
4. An injunction which will prevent each of the exhibitor defendants from acquiring a financial interest in additional theatres outside of Nashville, except after an affirmative showing by them that the effect of such acquisition will not be to restrain competition unreasonably.

now will consider the case on its merits.

Maryland House Files Complaint on Clearance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The Charles Theatre, LaPlata, Md., filed a clearance complaint at the local arbitration board here today against Loew's, seeking the elimination of the clearance granted the Marlboro Theatre, Marlboro, Md., over the Charles.

The complaint also seeks a clarification of past and present sales policies on which Loew's sold the Waldorf Theatre, Waldorf, Md., although the decree does not provide for arbitration of such a demand.

Meanwhile, a hearing was concluded in three hours at the local board today on the clearance complaint of Sam Mellitts, owner of the Dentonia, Denton, Md., in a case involving Loew's and the Reese Theatre, Harrington, Del.

None of the parties involved in the complaint was represented by counsel in accordance with a prior agreement. Mellitts called Phil Babys, an M-G-M salesman, as his only witness; while John S. Allen, Loew's Washington exchange manager, testified for that company, and Reese B. Harrington for the Reese Theatre. Joseph Cantrel, arbitrator, is expected to make his decision in a few days.

It is contended that Ventnor Realty, which formerly operated the Empress for Blatt, dropped that operation and opened the Embassy nearby and that the new theatre is receiving the run which the plaintiffs claim belongs to the Empress. ## Para. May Ask Decree Escape in Minn. Sales

Loew's Will Not Sell in State Under Decree

Trade circles heard yesterday it was likely that one major company, possibly Paramount, was considering the advisability of going before Federal Judge Henry Goddard, here, and ask him to grant them special dispensation under the New York case consent decree to sell their product in Minnesota otherwise than is conditioned by the decree terms. Loew's will not sell in Minnesota, it was learned officially yesterday, while the decree is in effect. Paramount's procedure has not been fully clarified. One of the questions which must be answered is whether the intent of the move is to get the way for selling only to its La Guardia yesterday congratulated the industry "for standing up toe to toe and fighting" those responsible for the "investigation." Speaking at the Ampa luncheon meeting at the Hotel Edison yesterday, Mayor LaGuardia indicated that he saw in the subcommittee's procedure an attempt to regulate the screen by extra-legal procedure. ## "Hot Spot"

(20th Century-Fox)

"HOT SPOT" hits the spot. Milton Sperling has scored a bullseye with his production of this mystery yarn, based on the novel, "I Wake Up Screaming," by Steve Fisher. Every foot of film is packed with interest, each scene presents new angles and the solution is built solidly on the clues provided.

Clever camera work and a splendid performance by Laird Cregar, as a police inspector, lend this mystery story a psychological flavor. Cregar's role is sinister and creepy until a single shot at the end reveals his desperate love for the murdered girl. The picture starts with Victor Mature, promoter of fights, plays and girls, being examined by the police who are investigating the murder of Carole Landis. Flashbacks show how Mature picks up Miss Landis, then a waitress, and promotes her to a nationally known glamor girl.

Aided by Alan Mowbray, as an actor, and Allyn Joslyn, as a columnist, he introduces Miss Landis in the correct circles. About midway in the picture, the flashbacks cease and Mature sets out after the murderer in an effort to clear himself. In this pursuit he is aided by Betty Grable, the murdered girl's sister. Almost everybody in the cast falls under suspicion from time to time, but the denouement is entirely satisfactory. William Gargan and Elisha Cook, Jr., are excellent in supporting roles.

H. Bruce Humberstone deserves credit for the fine direction. It is the kind of a picture which should receive considerable word-of-mouth publicity. An audience of trade press reviewers who watched the film in the projection room prior to the trade showing appeared considerably impressed.

Running time, 82 minutes. "A."*

"Moon Over Her Shoulder"

(20th Century-Fox)

A PLEASANT domestic comedy, this should appeal to the ladies. The plot poses the problem of whether or not a marriage can be too perfect, and whether a wife really loves a husband who always does the right thing. Certain exploitable possibilities present themselves from these situations.

The action suffers from too much dialogue and there are many slow moments. John Sutton is the perfect husband whose profession is advising couples how to make their own marriages successful. His wife (Lynn Bari), however, after seven years of faultless attentions, yearns for something exciting. Misunderstanding his wife's desires, Sutton urges her to resume her old hobby of painting.

Dutifully, she sets out with her brushes when Dan Dailey, Jr., a handsome young captain of a fishing boat, thinks she is about to commit suicide. Trying to save her, Dailey takes her aboard his boat and after desperate efforts to explain, she decides to act the pretty young girl in distress. When her true identity is learned there are complications, including a resort to fisticuffs by the husband, who knew all the answers. In the cast are Alan Mowbray, Leonard Carey, Irving Bacon, Joyce Compton, Lillian Yarbo, Eula Guy and two youngsters, Shirley Hill and Sylvia Arslan. Alfred Werker, who directed, permitted too much talk to slow up a lively theme. The picture is suitable as program fare.

Para. May Ask Decree Escape On Minn. Sales

subsidiary, Minnesota Amusement Co., or for selling to all Minnesota theatres. There is the possibility that Judge Goddard will be asked only to interpret Section 17 of the decree, for the purpose of determining whether under it Paramount has the right to sell to its Minnesota subsidiary in accordance with the Minnesota state law.

Para. Selling Circuit

Under that section a consenting distributor has the right, presumably, to sell its affiliated theatres "in such manner" as may be "satisfactory to it." Acting on this section, Paramount already is selling its new season product to Minnesota Amusement Co. That circuit, additionally, has an M-G-M franchise and has closed with Universal and Columbia. With extended runs made possible by the fact that it is the only Minnesota circuit having that much product available, it might well be able to weather the confused legislative situation comfortably.

Warners, RKO and United Artists already have made known their intention of not selling in Minnesota, leaving 20th Century-Fox as the only company whose position has not yet been disclosed.

William F. Rodgers, Loew's vice-president and general sales manager, is known to feel that his company is bound by the terms of the consent decree and the Minnesota anti-block law can't change that.

Repeal a Solution

It is Loew's attitude, according to report, that if, as recently represented, a majority of the exhibitors in Minnesota are opposed to the state law, the apparent remedy is to seek a special session of the Minnesota legislature and work for repeal of the law.

That a special session is not an impossibility has been indicated in reports from St. Paul to the effect that one may be called this Fall or Winter to reconsider the state's taxation and finance situation which, reportedly, requires special and early consideration. The legislature is not scheduled to meet in regular session until next year.

9,200 Block Deals For Metro: Rodgers

Rodgers stated. The company now is engaged in selling its third block of pictures.

Rodgers viewed completed and nearly completed product during a recent visit to the studio from which he returned early this week. Among the latter and from which the ensuing block will be selected are some of the company's outstanding pictures of the year, Rodgers said. These include "Chocolate Soldier," scheduled to open at the Astor on Broadway next week; "Two-Faced Woman," Garbo picture; "Babes on Broadway;" "H. N. Pulham, Esq.," the new "Thin Man" picture; "Woman of the Year," starring Katharine Hepburn; "Panama Hattie" and "Miss Achilles' Heel."

LaGuardia Assails Inquiry As Attempt at Censorship

newer medium of expression, the screen."

The Mayor commended the industry for its part in national defense and diverged to pay enthusiastic tribute to Wendell Willkie as "the highest type of American." The 1940 Republican Presidential candidate, who represented the industry at the subcommittee hearings, "has put everything personal aside in his work for national unity and his example of loyalty to country before all else," the Mayor said.

The industry, he stated, "has absolutely nothing to be ashamed of in the pictures it has made in the past few years and nothing to apologize for in its newsreels. It is, rather, to be congratulated and it has the support of the public. No one-sided, bigoted group should be permitted to interfere with the work it is doing in contributing to national defense and national unity."

Inquiry Possible Abuse

He said that the "propaganda" investigation "might be considered a great abuse of legislative power."

Mayor La Guardia related in opening his address that he recognizes two schools of thought in America on international affairs, the one which believes the peace of the world and the future of America is menaced by Hitler, and the other which "likes the Hitler kind of government and believe him so powerful it would be prudent to sit down and talk things over with him." Out of the second group, he said, "bigotry and hatreds have developed. Show me a man who approves of Hitler's methods and I will show you a man who is a bigoted, narrow-minded person."

Recalling that the subcommittee's investigation never was authorized by the Senate and inferring that its proponents were most interested in "freedom for those who believe as they do," the Mayor declared that "the public has a right to know just what those Senators object to in the motion pictures they have denounced."

"Some of those pictures I have seen; some of those objected to have no connection with what is taking place in Europe, they deal with national defense. What could be more American than the film story of 'Sergeant York'? Would the investigators prefer to have had the picture depict him as betraying his country after having been brought into the war? And what could be more factual than your newsreels and The March of Time?"

Nazis No Gentlemen

"The motion picture industry is really good at its work," he continued. "It has rare imagination, flights of fantasy, command of near-magic, but there is one thing it cannot do. No script could be written which could show Hitler and his regime in a favorable light. You simply can't make a gentleman out of a Nazi. And yet these investigators ask why all pictures show Nazis in an unfavorable light."

Mayor La Guardia was introduced by Louis Nizer, attorney, who drew a parallel between the Mayor's successful methods of obtaining public attention and following and those employed by the industry's advertising and publicity men.

Vincent Trotta, Ampa president, was chairman of the meeting. On the dais were: W. G. Van Schmus, Stanton Griffis, Colvin Brown, John Golden, Jack Alicoate, Francis Harmon, Austin Keough and Leon Bamberger.

Theatrical Groups Hold La Guardia Rally Oct. 27

A luncheon by the Theatrical, Motion Picture and Radio Division of the Citizens Committee for the Reelection of La Guardia, McGoldrick and Morris, will be held Oct. 27 in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Astor.

Stars of stage, screen and radio will occupy places on a large triple dais. John Golden is honorary chairman of the committee. Louis Nizer will introduce the Mayor. On the dais with the Mayor and his running mates are scheduled to be: Helen Hayes, Major Edward Bowes, Stanton Griffis, vice-chairmen of the committee; J. Robert Rubin, secretary, and W. G. Van Schmus, treasurer.

in the courtroom or at his home, to submit to a deposition inquiry.

Michel testified that he had raised $93,392 during the period from 1936 through 1940 by use of expense vouchers. When he was asked how the sum was used, or how much Kent had been reimbursed from this amount, defense objection was sustained.

Albert Warner, vice-president and treasurer of Warner Bros., took the stand at 4:20 P. M. and had only time to identify himself and state that he was present during the 1936 basic pay discussions when a recess was taken until Monday. He will continue on the stand at that time.

Alleged Intermediary Ill

The Government also brought another physician to the stand, Dr. W. Drew Chipman, who testified that Harry W. Beatty, former IATSE international representative, was ill with a heart condition in Los Angeles and could not be brought East without endangering his life. Beatty is the man who, the Government contends, succeeded Norman Thor Nelson as Bioff's designee to collect commissions from Smith & Aller, Ltd., West coast representatives of DuPont Film.

Hugh J. Strong, personnel supervisor at 20th Century-Fox, testified that in the Spring of 1937 he accompanied Kent when the latter delivered an envelope containing money to a bellboy at the Warwick Hotel for Bioff. Strong also said that he brought an envelope containing money to Bioff at the Hotel Astor in the Fall of 1937.

Nelson Testifies Again

Nelson continued with his testimony as the first witness yesterday. He told of reporting his income tax under Bioff's direction and of being dismissed without explanation by Bioff with instructions, "You keep this to yourself—that's all." He also stated that Bioff gave his mother-in-law (Nelson's mother) $20,000 in cash during the Summer of 1936. Cross-examination was brief and elicited only the fact that she had deposited the sum in her bank.

Frank C. Olsen, secretary of the Chicago Theatrical Protective Union, Local 2, IATSE, testified that Beatty became a member of that local on March 21, 1902 and Browne on Aug. 16, 1915. Florence Rose, bookkeeper at the main IATSE offices, stated that Beatty was paid $110 weekly as international representative from Aug. 4, 1936, to Feb. 10, 1939. Hotel representatives followed to say that Beatty and Browne had registered at the Waldorf-Astoria on April 29, 1936, had checked out together at 5:28 the next morning, and had checked in at the Hotel Warwick an hour later.

20th-Fox Asks Tax Cut

It will extend to the replacement of existing material with material of a better grade, quality or design, or to additions or expansion of present installations.

Theatre Curfew in England Ruled Out

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The attempts of local authorities in England to impose an early curfew on theatre operations were effectively scotched today, when Herbert Morrison, Home Secretary, declared in Commons that he had asked police officers throughout the country not to order theatres closed before 10 P. M. Where possible, Morrison requested, theatres are to be permitted to remain open until 11 P. M., the statutory limit imposed under the defense regulations. Morrison emphasized the importance of the screen as a means of recreation for war workers, and suggested the staggering of closing hours where possible to assist in the transportation problem. However, he said he would not disapprove earlier closing in the event of heavy bombing attacks.

Officials of NBC, CBS, Ascap and the newly organized Independent Broadcasters, Inc., will confer here today on the new Ascap-network contract. ## INS Head Tells FCC of Refusal To Sell Radio

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Federal Communications Commission officials, investigating newspaper ownership of broadcasting stations, today turned their attention to alleged refusals of the International News Service to sell its reports to radio stations in cities where it had clients.

Joseph V. Connolly, president of King Features Syndicate, owner of INS, admitted that it was the policy not to sell stations in cities where it served papers because, he said, papers that buy service might want to use it on the air for promotional purposes. The service, he testified, is sold to papers on exclusive rights, and radio stations could be served only under a waiver from the paper in their city.

Herbert Moore, president of Transradio Press, told the commission that the Associated Press, the International News Service and the United Press sought to place "every obstacle possible" in its way when Transradio began operation.

The three wire services together with the American Newspaper Publishers Association, he charged, brought pressure on both the House and Senate in an effort to prevent Transradio from obtaining admittance to the press galleries, the White House and even the local police courts. This policy, he said, had been pursued in the state capitals as well as the national capital. Moore also said that pressure was brought to bear upon the foreign news agencies.

Radio-Music Parleys For Peace Under Way

Conferences in Pittsburgh between the management officials of WJAS and KQV there, and the local of the American Federation of Musicians were being watched yesterday by network officials in the hope that some formula for settlement of the AFM strike which started Wednesday might be found.

Yesterday the strike was extended to sustaining programs originating from NBC stations in Chicago, Hollywood and San Francisco, although New York was unaffected. The CBS strike which started Wednesday against the network's New York station spread to Hollywood and Chicago.

With only sustaining programs and remote pickups of bands during late evening hours affected, the periods at which listening is at its height remained relatively unchanged, as they are almost solidly sponsored. With New York musicians still working for NBC, that network did not find the question of sustaining programs difficult. CBS, however, was compelled to fill in with dramatic skits, unaccompanied singers and similar programs.

Again Sponsors Opera

Texaco again will sponsor Metropolitan Opera broadcasts this season, starting Saturday, Nov. 29 for 16 weeks. The programs will be heard from 2 to 4 P.M. over 142 NBC-Blue stations.

Paramount is drafting a petition for submission to Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard requesting an injunction from the consent decree's selling provisions to permit the company to operate in Minnesota under the state's anti-block-of-trade law. The petition is expected to be filed this week.

Twentieth Century-Fox has no plans for selling in Minnesota at this time, W. C. Gehring, Central division manager, states.

'Pimpernel Smith' Acquired by U. A.

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—"Pimpernel Smith" has been sold to United Artists for U. S. and Canada distribution, it was announced here at the conclusion of conferences of Louis Jackson, chairman of the Anglo-American Film Corp. of London with N. L. Nathanson, on Friday. Sam Spring, New York attorney, represented Jackson. E. C. Raftery represented U. A. in the deal. Jackson planned to return to New York today and fly back to England soon.

Eleanor Roosevelt Scores Senate Probe of Films on Radio Broadcast

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, took up the cudgels on behalf of the motion picture industry yesterday evening in her radio broadcast over 117 NBC-Blue stations from 6:45 to 7 o'clock, which was repeated over 11 NBC-Blue stations from 12:15 to 12:30 A.M. on behalf of Pan American Coffee, sponsor. Buchanan & Co. handles the account.

This is what Mrs. Roosevelt said in part:
"The motion picture industry has been under investigation by a Congressional committee. The question seems to be whether the producers have a right to present their views through the plays they produce.

"I think it is permissible for Senator Nye, Senator Wheeler and Mr. Lindbergh to present their views to the world, but I think it is equally permissible for all others.

"Why is one propaganda any different from any other? Freedom of speech should be accorded to all.

"The real test is whether a citizen has a right to say 'no,' and that right we have had for 150 years and is still ours today."

Spring Convention Slated by Republic

Hollywood, Oct. 19.—Republic will hold an international convention next April or May at the studio, Herbert J. Delegates from the foreign offices will attend with the domestic sales forces to discuss the 1942-'43 program.

Yates also announced that "King of the Forest Rangers" and "Son of Robin Hood" have been set as two of the serials for 1942-'43.

Raftery Temporary United Artists Head

Administrative reins of United Artists will be turned over temporarily to Edward C. Raftery, secretary and counsel, today due to the departure of Alexander Korda for the Coast over the weekend and Mary Pickford's scheduled departure today.

David O. Selznick will remain here another week and will share with Raftery the selection of a new president for the company. Selznick's deal for becoming a United Artists owner-producer has not been completely closed yet but no complications are foreseen and indications are that it will be formally closed as soon as a board meeting can be arranged. A directors' meeting is necessary to ratify the deal and a stockholders' meeting is required to elect Selznick to the board. The United Artists stockholders are also the directors.

Another Exhibitor Decries Catering to Column Writers

EDITOR, MOTION PICTURE DAILY:

I think Ed Harris, of the Glendale Theatre, Glendale, Cal., in his recent letter to you, has hit the nail square on the head. It's high time we do something in this industry about unscrupulous critics who make their living directly from us and yet would sap our very life blood.

Mr. Harris' letter is quite timely in my own local situation. I am currently playing Metro's "Honky Tonk" and in our daily today the local critic in his review calls it a "corny offering from M-G-M."

Thank God the picture is doing S. R. O. business at every performance. Otherwise my wrath would be even greater!

Yes, you may quote me.

Sincerely,

PAUL O. KLINGLER, Manager,

Wanger Office Here To Close on Nov. 15

Walter Wanger's New York office, headed by Harry Kosiner, will be closed Nov. 15 because of the producer's withdrawal from United Artists.

Wanger left for London by clipper yesterday. He was accompanied by Norman Reilly Raine, writer, who will assist Wanger in preparing "Eagle Squadron," his next production. It was indicated prior to Wanger's departure that the producer might make no overtures for a new releasing arrangement until that production, and possibly another, are completed. Such a film "package" could be offered to any of the consenting distributors for immediate trade showing, thus facilitating a distribution deal, it was pointed out.

Kosiner, who has been in charge of Wanger's Eastern office for many years, expects to announce a new association soon.

The referendum of the Screen Publicists Guild on the question of affiliation with the Screen Office & Professional Employees Guild, Local 109, CIO, scheduled to be mailed Friday, has been postponed by the SPG executive council.

No reason for the postponement was given although it was stated the decision was by the unanimous vote of the executive council and negotiating committee. There will be a special membership meeting Thursday evening to consider the affiliation question and the progress of contract negotiations with the companies.

RKO Board Takes No Dividend Action

See Circulation Off 15% in News Strike

It is estimated in advertising circles here that the controversy between newsdealers and eight New York daily papers which has kept newspapers off most Manhattan and Bronx news stands for a week, has caused a circulation drop of from three to 15 per cent.

It is understood that advertisers are requesting rebates because of the lost circulation, and it was felt over the weekend that if the strike were to continue a more serious problem on advertising appears inevitable.

Griffis Sale of Para Stock Is Reported

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Disposition of 500 shares of Paramount Picture common stock held by Stanton Griffis through the N. Griffis Trust, was the largest of several film transactions reported by the Securities and Exchange Commission in its final report of August transactions of corporation officers and directors in the securities of their companies.

The report included a large number of indirect transactions not previously disclosed by Griffis, running back as far as 1937, showing that at the close of August he held 7,500 shares of common direct and 21,000 shares through four trusts.

A report on Loew's, Inc., showed the acquisition of 33 shares of common stock by Charles C. Moskowitz giving him an even 1,000 shares, and acquisition of 33 shares by Joseph R. Vogel, giving him 300.

The only other transactions reported were the acquisition by Radic Keith Orpheum Corporation of 6 shares of Keith Albee Orpheum common stock, giving it a total of 1,205,665 shares, and the acquisition by Attilio H. Giannini of 200 shares of Columbia Pictures common stock, representing his entire interest.

FOR 15,000,000 LISTENERS

A mile from shore, in the middle of Long Island Sound, stands a man-made island—sea-born foothold for a giant tower with a giant's voice. This is WABC's new 50,000-watt transmitter—the perfect voice of radio, serving 15,000,000 listeners as they have never been served in the past. Serving 10,000,000 of them with a signal two to ten times stronger than before!

The secret?

The secret is that mile—the most important mile in radio—the mile of salt water which surrounds this engineering miracle on all four sides.

That "salt-water-start" for a radio program, that first perfect mile, is like the first perfect skip of a stone—which sends it true and far.

WABC is the only 50,000-watt station on the eastern seaboard with this over-water start in all directions—east to both shores of the Sound—south through Queens and Brooklyn—north through New York and Connecticut—west through the heart of Manhattan and the homes of New Jersey.

Key station of the Columbia network, feeding CBS programs to 124 network stations and 120,000,000 listeners from coast to coast—the new WABC delivers those programs to the 15,000,000 nearest listeners with new strength, new clarity, new brilliance!

general sales manager; Arthur Kelly, vice-president of United Artists; Claude Lee, director of public relations for Paramount, and representatives of M-G-M.

Branch said he has received invitations from other state groups to attend their meetings and explain the plan.

The campaign will include the use of testimonials by prominent persons outside the industry and is designed to build goodwill for the industry as a whole.

The testimonials will stress the value of films as entertainment and an educational force and the health, comfort, convenience, safety and inspirational values of theatres, Branch explained. This material will be used in advertising in various forms, including trailers on the screen.

Theatres so far enrolled include 135 houses affiliated with Michigan Allied; 105 Cooperative Theatres; Butterfield's 115 and 18 of United Detroit.

Plans were perfected at a meeting here Thursday of a committee headed by Branch and including E. J. Hudson, president, United Detroit Theatres; E. C. Beatty, president, Butterfield Theatres; C. L. Two IATSE witnesses, Frank C. ## UA May Buy Into Theatre in Detroit United Artists has taken an option to acquire an interest in the former RKO Downtown, Detroit, from Lester Briggs, owner, it was reported over the weekend. The house was built about 15 years ago as the Oriental. It has been operated intermittently in recent years and has been closed about a year. It seats 2,000 and is located just off Grand Circus Park.

Since announcing plans for acquisition of a national circuit last July, United Artists has acquired a half interest in a San Francisco theatre.

Reviews

"Swamp Water"

(20th Century-Fox)

THIS is a strangely moving melodrama, set in the pictorially beautiful but dangerous Okefenokee Swamp country of Georgia and peopled with the strange but homely families of the Georgia backwoods. Well acted by a cast headed by Walter Brennan and Walter Huston, and directed with grace and skill by Jean Renoir, this production by Irving Pichel has promise of being a critics' pet and a box-office favorite.

Vereen Bell's story was serialized in the Saturday Evening Post and published in book form. Added to the fine performances of Brennan and Huston are those of Dana Andrews, Anne Baxter, Virginia Gillmore, John Carradine, Mary Howard, Eugene Pallette, Ward Bond, Guinn Williams, Russell Simpson and a number of others.

Andrews, searching for his dog, enters the swamps against the orders of his father (Huston), and encounters there an escaped murderer (Brennan). After numerous complications, Brennan is cleared of the murder charge.

It is what might be termed a "critic's picture."

Running time, 89 minutes. "G."*

EDWARD GREIF

"Small Town Deb"

(20th Century-Fox)

LIGHTWEIGHT entertainment, with no emphasis on drama in story development, but dependent largely upon jitterbug dialogue, this is bright, pleasant program fare which should appeal to all members of the family and particularly those in their teens.

In the lead is Jane Withers, who, as her screen mother comments, is in the "peculiar stage" of life, and is handicapped further by the fact that her mother, sister and brother are in the social whirl and neglect her. Moreover, she has a brace on her teeth and must look at life through heavy-rimmed glasses. As is to be expected, a complete transition sets in, and with the latest in hair-do and glasses and brace set aside, Miss Withers makes the town take notice. A high spot is her amusing imitation of Carmen Miranda singing a South American number.

In featured spots are Cobina Wright, Jr., Jackie Searl, Jane Darwell, Bruce Edwards and Cecil Kellaway, who play their parts well. Harold Schuster directed.

Running time, 72 minutes. "G."*

Minnesota law to disclaim intention of taking action to make possible an early resumption of selling in the state.

The statement that 20th Century-Fox does not contemplate resumption of selling in Minnesota "at this time, leaves open the possibility of legal procedure of possibly lengthy duration according to observers. This could be either an appeal from the denial by the state court of the distributor's action for an injunction or a trial of their case to test the constitutionality of the Minnesota law.

Warners, RKO and Loew's revealed earlier that they had no intention of selling in Minnesota under the state law. United Artists, which is not a party to the consent decree but is prohibited from complying with the state law because of its individual sales commitments with its producers, has declared that it will withdraw from Minnesota at the end of the week.

Distribution executives here who have endorsed Allied's unity plan expressed the opinion that once Allied's own committee has been authorized to function, it would be well for it to seek the cooperation of other exhibitor organizations in order to make the plan fully representative of national exhibition. This should be done, they believe, before production and distribution participation is enlisted.

What's Your Temperature

The motion picture is a business. It seems well to say this, because so much that we may read, hear, and see tends to an impression that it is a fever.

The United States has been built by business, ever improving business—conducted with sane diligence, working for profits and ultimately successful in just the degree with which it has rendered service with a level-eyed policy of producing and selling on terms that have delivered margins of satisfaction at each step from plant to customer—consistently, continuously.

Republic Pictures Corporation is a business.

This corporation was founded for the sole purpose of making reasonable profits for a long time. To make profits for a long time requires a consistent delivery of satisfaction to the customers. That calls for product that can be counted on, so made that it can be sold at prices consistent with the market, delivered on a policy which recognizes the mutual interests of buyer and seller, on the long pull.

Republic intends always to make money out of its customers, and expects to do that always because the customers have taken profits out of Republic product. Six years of Republic experience show that a great many showmen like to buy profits, that more every year recognize sound, staple product made on performance, even if the field does glitter with gilded promises.

Business is the American way of constructive service of the whole people. It is the American way to pay and get what it pays for.

Republic is a business because it serves, enables the theatre to be a business. There is no substitute for profits

Gala Program Starts WABC Transmitter

Completed at a cost of about $600,000, located in the center of the Metropolitan, Westchester and Long Island population area, completely surrounded by the salt water of Long Island Sound and designed for stronger, steadier signals in this area and along the Southern New England coast, the new WABC 50,000-watt transmitter took to the air at 10:15 Saturday night.

The project represents an unusual engineering feat, as the transmitter could not be erected until an island was first constructed on which it could stand.

A gala program initiated the new transmitter, with London, New York, Hollywood and a number of intermediate cities originating points for the hour-long, star-studded broadcast.

The program was started at 10 P.M. on the old transmitter, and the switch for the new one was thrown during the first quarter hour.

Among those heard on the program were Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, Alexander Woollcott, Bob Burns, Kate Smith, Orson Welles, Ed Gardner, Bob Ripley, David Ross and Ted Husing.

Radio Independents Indorse Ascrap Pact

The closing of the Ascrap-networks contract, in negotiation for weeks, was advanced materially late last week when terms were approved by the copyright committee of the Independent Broadcasters, Inc.

The newly formed IBI group, which offered the last organized resistance to the Ascrap contract, reached an agreement on payments at the source by affiliated stations during conferences Friday with NBC, CBS and Ascrap representatives. The IBI over the weekend sent letters indorsing the pact and copies of the new contract to all stations in the country.

Chester said that 72 Latin American stations have signed full affiliation contracts with CBS and negotiations for others are under way. The home office staff has been increased from 10 to 50, he said.

[Attorneys for distribution companies stated in New York yesterday that the cases probably would require several months to conclude. It was said that the actions, on criminal grounds, should provide more definitive and clear-cut rulings on the constitutionality of the state law than would the injunctive method.]

"South of Tahiti"

Hollywood, Oct. 20

THE names of Brian Donlevy, Broderick Crawford and Andy Devine, plus the adventuresome ring of the title, are the principal assets made available to showmen in this venture.

The three performers named above provide some characteristic entertainment as three sailors who find themselves on an idyllic island where pearls are as common as peanuts and tigers behave like house pets. It is for laughs and laughs of an indulgent variety that the picture is played. On the feminine side are seen Maria Montez and Armida as native girls in the sarong tradition, supplying some eye appeal.

Henry Wilcoxon, H. B. Warner, Abner Biberman, Ignacio Saenz and Frank Lackteen are also present, and there are a lot of atmosphere players to fill out the crevices in a story that contains some gag situations which momentarily amuse and some dialogue cracks that spark an audience.

George Waggner is down as associate producer and director, and also as having written the lyrics for the single song number, a multiplicity of credits which may account for his having been kept perhaps too busy to attend to each of his chores as successfully as he might have if concentrating his effort.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G"*

"Gauchos of Eldorado"

(Republic)

THIS is a well-made film that has plenty of riding and shooting plus more plot than usual for the series western.

The Three Mesquiteers, Bob Steele, Tom Tyler and Rufe Davis, try to help Duncan Renaldo, who is on the way to see his long-lost mother to give her $5,000 needed to pay the mortgage. But he is killed by his former comrades, members of a bandit gang which is trying also to get the ranch because it has deposits of bauxite ore. When the Mesquiteers reach the ranch, the mother believes that Steele is her son. The banker refuses to take the $5,000 as payment for the mortgage after discovering that the money had been stolen. The banker and the gang leader form a partnership to get the ranch. A little boy, the son of the dead man, is held for $10,000 ransom, the reward which the Mesquiteers received. All the gang is finally captured, the boy restored to his grandmother, and the mortgage paid.

Les Orlebeck's direction holds interest and keeps the action moving even though the plot is involved at times. Louis Gray was the associate producer. The cast also includes Lois Collier, Rosina Galli, Norman Willis, William Ruhl and Tony Roux.

Running time, 56 minutes. "G"*

Film Probe Scored By Newbold Morris At SMPE Meeting

Declaring that freedom of speech and freedom of the screen are closely interrelated, Newbold Morris, president of the City Council of New York, scored the Senate investigation of the film industry in an address at the opening luncheon of the convention of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers at the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday.

Morris praised the industry for portraying conditions abroad as they are lived today, and characterized the probe of alleged film propaganda as "ill-considered." He saw in the probe grounds for fear of the survival of American institutions, and expressed the feeling that such investigations could lead to the destruction of democratic processes.

Rosenblatt Demands Inquiry

Sol A. Rosenblatt, administrator of the film industry NRA code and film industry attorney, another luncheon speaker, likewise attacked the Senate probe, calling it "the first Munich putsch against freedom of expression in the United States." He demanded an investigation of the investigation, so that the forces behind the attack might be exposed.

Other speakers at the luncheon were Francis S. Harmon of the MPPDA, who described the manner in which the film industry is cooperating with the War Department in the production of training films for the Army, and Claude Lee, director of public relations for Paramount.

Officers Re-elected

At the elections which featured the opening day's business of the four-day convention, four officers were re-elected as follows: D. E. Hyndman, engineering vice-president; A. S. Dickinson, financial vice-president; P. J. Larson, secretary, and George Friedl, Jr., treasurer. Their terms expire at the end of this year. The terms of other officers do not expire until next year. Members of the board of governors elected include Frank E. Carlson, E. M. Honan and J. A. Maurer, Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith was elected chairman of the Atlantic Coast Section.

The first of the convention's technical sessions opened yesterday, with a general session in the morning, a general and 16mm. session in the afternoon and another general session in the evening. The meeting was opened with a welcoming address by Emery Huse, president.

Talks on Army Films

The use of films in Army training was described by Lt. Col. M. E. Gillette, in charge of training film production at Fort Monmouth, N. J., and "Film Production for Education" was described by Floyd E. Brooker of the U. S. Office of Education.

Dr. Goldsmith told the evening session of his "increased range" system of film photography. Other papers of the day included mobile television equipment, color television, the development of new photocell equipment, equipment problems of 16mm. photography and other technical phases of 16mm.

expected to purchase the shares of the Ostrer Brothers in Metropolis & Bradford Trust, which controls Gaumont British. The acquisition would give the General Film group a controlling interest in the Gaumont circuit and a larger share in the Gaumont Studios, which currently are controlled by 20th Century-Fox.

It is believed that Mark Ostrer and Woolf would be joint managing directors, while Maurice Ostrer is expected to remain in charge of the Gaumont Shepherd's Bush studio. The remaining 49 per cent of the shares of Metropolis & Bradford are held by 20th Century-Fox. Isidore Ostrer, chairman of Gaumont British, is expected to retire.

It is understood General Film plans no further share interest in the company than is necessary to insure control.

The Tatler Theatre, Gaumont house in the West End of London, which was damaged by bombs during the Nazi attacks of last Spring, will reopen next Monday, with a season of Russian films.

Critic Quits, Charges Probe Copy Changed

to these accounts, Herold charges his copy was changed.

His original copy as written read: "Wendell Willkie is counsel for the motion picture industry in the sessions. Nothing will come of the investigation." The copy, after being changed, according to Herold's charges, as reported, read: "Wendell Willkie, the biggest dud in modern political history, is properly cast as counsel for the motion picture industry in the session. There is a lot of interventionist stuff in the movies, especially in the newsreels, and something should be done about it."

Herold, it is reported, does not believe that at all, and when he read those changed lines it came as a shock to him, particularly because Willkie is considered a close personal friend by him.

can people and came away believing they are "pro-American."

Disney's reactions to the South American nations were uniformly approving, but the penultimate in enthusiasm was released when he spoke of those slabs of beef as big as a table top.

We could send them good pictures in return for the beef, and perhaps fewer "hams." It is better to send a genuinely good American picture without a Latin-American theme than to send one made especially for them which may not please them as well, in Disney's opinion. Nevertheless, he plans to utilize their folklore, dance and musical talent and many of their native animals in a series of about 12 shorts during next year.

Some of the subjects will utilize the Spanish language but all will be made for general distribution, not for Latin America alone. His plans for new feature length films include "Bambi," "Wind in the Willows" and "Uncle Remus."

Disney said there are "great stories" available in South America for films, but that they won't be obtained until Hollywood sends some one down there for them. They must be obtained "first hand," he believes.

Business Holds Pace

Broadway grosses held up well over the weekend, with excellent Fall weather. The theatre reported it played to 412,091 admissions in 24 days. "Belle Starr" is now scheduled to go in on Oct. 31.

At the Radio City Music Hall, "All That Money Can Buy" and a stage show drew an estimated $59,000 Thursday through Sunday of the first week, and will be replaced Thursday by "You'll Never Get Rich." The Paramount reported an estimated $20,000 for Saturday and Sunday, with an expected $41,000 for the week ending tomorrow night, for "Hold Back the Dawn" and Xavier Cugat and his orchestra, which will complete its third week tomorrow. It will be followed by "Nothing But the Truth" and a stage show featuring Johnny Long and Larry Adler and their orchestra, and the Andrews Sisters.

Two Awards On Clearance Are Reversed

State Operating Co., a subsidiary of the Shea Theatres which operates five houses in Manchester and which intervened in the case. The five consenting companies named in the complaint granted clearances to the State company's houses varying from 81 to 102 days over complainant's houses. Reductions in these clearances were made by the arbitrator.

In reversing the arbitrator's award and assessing costs against complainant, the appeals board stated: "We are constrained to find that the proof offered by the complainant is inadequate to show that the existing clearance applicable to his theatre is unreasonable. It is essential that such unreasonableness should appear by sufficient proof before any award can properly be made revising clearance."

The appeals board also points out in its decision that the arbitrator reduced the clearance "although he has not specifically found that any one of the particular existing clearances, or the aggregate of all clearances between the intervenor's first run and the complainant's fourth run, is unreasonable."

The Shea interests were represented on appeal by the New York law firm of O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery. Descoteaux was represented by George S. Ryan, Boston attorney. It is believed conceivable that costs in the case will run as high as $700.

In the Mission Playhouse case, the appeals board held that the arbitrator was without authority under the consent decree to change the theatre's clearance with respect to the Rosemead and Garvey theatres inasmuch as the award had the effect of extending the clearance to which the latter houses already were subject.

The board ruled that under the decree an arbitrator may do no more than determine whether clearance is reasonable or unreasonable and, if the latter, to fix the "maximum" clearance which may be granted. This means, the board held, that clearance may be reduced but not lengthened, because Section 8 of the decree guarantees exhibitors the right to any clearance they are able to negotiate and distributors are willing to grant. This right was abridged by the award insofar as the Rosemead and Garvey were concerned, the board ruled.

"Since the three theatres are competitive," the appeals board held, "the award plainly restricts the right of distributors to grant and an exhibitor to negotiate for a run. The arbitrator lacked jurisdiction to make such an award under Section 8."

The two reversals are the first to be made on the merits by the appeals board in the eight cases it has ruled on to date.

Gov't Charges U.A. and Univ. Aided Crescent

independent competition in Union City, Tenn.

The Crescent Co., in its proposed finding of fact and conclusions of law, also filed today in Federal Court here, maintained that testimony of independent exhibitors regarding oral or written communications with distributors was incompetent "against the defendant exhibitors either on the issues of conspiracies between them and the distributors or on the issue of a conspiracy or combination among themselves."

Unfair Practices Charged

"Such evidence," the Crescent filing declared, "cannot be regarded by the court for any purpose in the absence of prima facie proof of a conspiracy or conspiracies by competent evidence, and there is a total dearth of such evidence in the record."

United Artists' licensing agreements with defendants, the Government findings state, presumably referring to 73 and 61-situation deals, "fix a flat sum for all of the situations operated by all of said defendants and show on their face that no consideration whatsoever was given to the rentals which competing independent theatres could pay for these films."

Crescent asked the court to conclude that after films arrive at the point of delivery, "the showing of the pictures and operation of the theatre is purely a local matter," and in no way is an interference in interstate commerce, or a monopolization of the distribution of films.

Claim Lack of Evidence

The Government charged that Crescent and four other exhibitors have engaged in predatory practices such as price cutting, opening "fighting theatres" and interfering with attempts of other exhibitors to open theatres in order to eliminate and prevent independent competition and to acquire additional theatres.

The defendant exhibitors, the Government findings stated, "have now secured such complete control over the business of operating theatres in the area they now occupy that no genuine competition may be reasonably expected in this area in the future unless that control is eliminated."

Three Majors Sued on Minn. Anti-5 Breach

Goldhammer, RKO district manager, and J. M. Podoloff, 20th Century-Fox district manager. They are scheduled to appear Wednesday morning in St. Paul Municipal court for preliminary arraignment.

Lynch said RKO and Paramount are accused of making deals with a theatre in White Bear Lake, a St. Paul suburb, while 20th Century-Fox's alleged deal was with the Gem, St. Paul. RKO is accused of offering 10 pictures, and Paramount and 20th Century-Fox five pictures each in deals in which no provision was made for 20 per cent cancellation. He said agreements were signed in each case and sent to New York for approval.

It was not stated whether the deal actually had been approved and accepted by New York.

The investigation leading up to the issuance of the complaints was conducted by Lynch's office and that of Thomas J. Gibbons, Ramsey County sheriff, after the companies were warned they would be prosecuted if they sold pictures under any system other than that prescribed by the state law, which calls for the offering of an entire season's output with the cancellation privilege.

Although distribution branch offices here indicated that they were aware the complaints were in preparation, news of their issuance apparently was a complete surprise to local exhibitors, including Northwest Allied officials who sponsored the state law. Fred Strom, secretary of Northwest Allied, said the organization had no knowledge of Lynch's plans. He said a meeting of the executive and legislative committees would be called within a day or two to discuss the situation.

WB Paid Bioff $100,000 Cash, Jury Is Told

the same grounds have been brought. Both Warner executives testified that they feared the consequences to their business if they refused the payments and the Warner president stated that he was in fear of bodily harm as well. The testimony set forth that Bioff was making his collections on behalf of other persons.

Albert Warner started the day with a description of how Bioff came to his office shortly after the basic pact meetings in April, 1936. Warner, who said he was substituting for his brother at the meetings, told of a previous conversation with Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, and that he knew the purpose of Bioff's visit when the latter came to his office.

'Peanuts,' Said Bioff

Warner said he told Bioff that he could not raise $50,000 in cash and offered payments of $10,000 but that Bioff protested that it would be "peanuts" by the time "it was split among the boys." However, the arrangement for partial payments was effected, Warner said, and Samuel Carlisle, Warner comptroller, was instructed to raise the funds through expense vouchers. In May, 1936, Warner said, he obtained $10,000 in cash from Carlisle, placed it in an envelope and told Bioff to pick up the envelope from the secretary's desk as he left the office.

Additional sums of $10,000 each were given in the same manner in August and December of the same year and the next February Carlisle was instructed to give Bioff $20,000, Warner testified.

Wanted $50,000 More

Warner stated that he protested when Bioff asked for an additional $50,000 in April, 1937, but that he was compelled to accede. The same procedure was followed at that time as for the first payments and again in May or June, 1937, except that the amounts paid were $15,000 each. Browne was present during one of the payments, Warner declared. He said that the company was in "bad financial shape" at the time, having lost $30,000,000 during four years of the depression and that he had no choice but to yield.

Felt Responsibility

Under cross-examination, by George Breslin, Bioff's attorney, Warner told how Schenck had advised him of the necessity of making the $50,000 payments. At first he demurred, Warner said, pointing out that he could not take the responsibility with Harry Warner in Europe.

"I took the responsibility for my company and you'll have to take it for yours," was Schenck's response, according to Warner.

He testified that he did not tell his brother until the end of 1936 and when Harry Warner asked the reason for the delay, explained that he did not wish to add to his existing troubles. He testified that he found the whole proceeding "obnoxious"

Mutual Defends FCC Regulations

Defending the recent FCC network monopoly regulations, Fred Weber, Mutual general manager, yesterday declared that "Mutual expresses confident and unreserved belief that the revised regulations will not only not have the harmful effects ascribed to them, but will benefit the radio industry, the public and the advertiser."

Weber warned network affiliated stations to refrain "from any commitments which will bind them to a course of action inconsistent with the regulations after Nov. 15 (the effective date) including the exercise by networks of their existing 28-day options." He said that since less than 28 days will elapse by Nov. 15, "stations may rightly abide by this principle effective immediately."

This statement was contained in a 20-page brochure titled, "Mutual's Second White Paper," and was signed by Weber and approved by W. E. Macfarlane, president, and Alfred J. McCosker, chairman of the board.

Weber hailed the new regulations as inaugurating "an area of fair and equal competition so that in the future the success of a network will depend not on artificial restraints and unreasonable control over station independence but on its ability to furnish superior service to its affiliate stations, to the public and to the advertiser."

and denied that he had social dealings with Bioff but added that he did not tell Government authorities about the proceedings because "I was very much scared."

The Warner president took the stand late in the afternoon to tell how he had first learned of the situation. He had a voucher issued for $7,500 to P. A. Chase, the West Coast comptroller, who sent the cash by express to Carlisle. The voucher set forth that it was on account of Christmas presents.

'The Boys' After Bioff

In November, 1937, Warner said, he was visited by Bioff who pointed out that there had been a one-day strike at Columbia and that Warners had not paid the additional $20,000. Bioff said that the "boys are after him for it," Warner continued, and that the people in Chicago got most of it.

Warner said he didn't make the payment until December, 1937, when Bioff protested that his people needed the money for Christmas. He said he issued a voucher for $5,000 marked for "sundry Christmas donations" and took an additional $2,500 from the petty cash account but when he gave it to Bioff the latter said it was "chicken feed." Bioff refused to take the money in Warner's office and insisted on taking it outside, the witness said. Bioff called again the day after New Year's and was given an additional $12,500 made up from a $10,000 voucher and $5,000 received in cash by express from Carlisle, he testified. Of the latter amount, $2,500 was returned to the petty cash account, Warner declared.

Asked why he made the payments, Warner responded: "I was scared that several things would happen. One, that he would close up the business."

Commercials Show NBC-Blue Increase

An increase of 27.8 per cent in the number of station-hours sponsored over NBC-Blue this year over the same period in 1940 was reported yesterday by Edgar H. Kobak, vice-president in charge of NBC-Blue sales. Kobak stated that this year's total was 1,443 as against 1,131 in 1940 and that the average of stations used per program is 57 this year, compared with 38 last year.

New accounts on the network total 22, as compared with 10 in 1940, Kobak said.

Two, I was afraid of bodily harm."

Cross-examination by Breslin centered about social relationships between the witness and Bioff. Warner said he had never met Bioff before the demand for the money and denied any social relationships. He admitted that the foreman of his ranch had purchased alfalfa from Bioff but said this was purely a routine matter as was another favor extended by the foreman. Bioff and Mrs. Bioff were guests at the ranch one evening to see a film Warner thought he should see, according to the testimony, but there were no other social visits.

FCC Power Will Be Defined in New Law

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Legislation revising the Communications Act to define more clearly the powers and the limitations on the authority of the FCC will be taken up in Congress for consideration almost immediately following the opening of the new session in January.

Decision to defer the legislation until next year was reached at a meeting of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, which agreed to call hearings on the subject sometime after Jan. 15.

Legislation modernizing the Communications Act is pending in both House and Senate, with interest revived by the new network regulations issued some days ago by the commission and the announced intention of CBS and NBC to contest them.

Forced to Be Friendly with Bioff: Warner

Justin Keough to Testify At U. S. Trial Today

"I considered Mr. Bioff a man who would shake our company down for $100,000. For the power that he had—as a matter of good business—the surface at least—I had to get on good relations with him."

In those words, Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros., explained in Federal Court yesterday during the trial of William Bioff and George E. Browne, why he maintained a friendly relationship with Bioff.

Warner continued, however, with a warning of how he took precautions against bodily harm when he was trying to delay an answer to Bioff's demand for $20,000. This, according to Warner, took place immediately

15 Pa. Towns to Vote On Sunday Pictures

Previously, only five per cent of the registered voters were required to file a petition.

United Front, Taxes Are Major Issues, Myers Tells AMPTO

By MORT FRANK

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21.—Three major issues face exhibitors between now and next June, the deadline for continuing the industry consent decree. Abram F. Myers, chairman and general counsel of Allied States, told the Allied M. P. T. O. of Western Pennsylvania in convention here today.

These issues, he said, are: "1. Shall we unite all trade organizations on a common front for solving problems arising from the consent decree? 2. Should the influence of organizations such as Allied be exerted toward conferring with the distributors on new selling methods? 3. Taxation."

Myers also held that "this seems to be the pattern for the future conduct of exhibitor organizations: they can justify their existence if they can save exhibitors from excessive taxation, if

$6,444,950 in Sept.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Federal admission tax collections in September totaled $6,444,950, a drop of approximately $890,000 from the August revenue of $7,330,284, but practically all of the loss was experienced in the Third New York (Broadway) District, where receipts fell from $1,590,84 to $739,831, it was reported tonight by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Despite the decline, bureau figures disclosed, the August collections were nearly $600,000 above the $5,851,655 reported for that month last year.

For the first nine months of the year, it was shown, collections aggregated $59,183,648 compared with $23,776,747 in 1940, and for the first quarter of the fiscal year which began July 1 they totaled $20,536,095 against $11,908,915 a year ago.

Collections in the Broadway district fell off in all categories, the bureau reported, receipts from box-office sales dropping from $1,529,055 to $693,586; tickets sold by brokers from $6,385 to $3,964; tickets sold by proprietors in excess of the established price and permanent use or lease of boxes and seats from $10 and $150, respectively, to nothing, and admissions to roof gardens and cabarets from $54,984 to $42,281.

"Two-Faced Woman"

(M-G-M)

THE millions of Garbo fans, remembering "Ninotchka" and her earlier triumphs, will make a ready-made audience for "The Two-Faced Woman," and showmen may assure their customers that they will not be disappointed.

The vehicle for Miss Garbo's splendid performance is another of those which appear to get by through the expedient of having the man and woman married in the first reel. However, this film has its own particular variations of that basic idea and perhaps may also be criticized because the husband knowingly makes passionate love to the person he thinks is his own wife's sister. Of course this means that this is no picture for the children.

The story opens with Melvyn Douglas vacationing at a mountain resort where he takes a lesson in skiing from Garbo. They fall in love and are married immediately. But then the husband is called back to his work in New York by Roland Young, his partner, and Ruth Gordon, his secretary. He soon forgets the natural, simple life which he had planned to live with the ski instructor. Garbo makes a secret trip to New York to surprise her husband but finds him making love to Constance Bennett, a writer. The ski instructor decides to pose as her own twin sister, but a sister of an entirely different character.

The twin sister is an international vamp and sets out to make her husband's friends and himself fall in love with her. She puts over her "act" at a night club during a scene in which she dances. Her husband falls wildly and passionately in love with her, despite the fact that he thinks she is his wife's sister. Finally he goes back to the mountain resort where his wife has preceded him to ask for a divorce. There he learns that both wife and sister are the same person and he is content.

The film was directed by George Cukor and produced by Gottfried Reinhardt with skill in each department. S. N. Behrman, Salka Viertel and George Oppenheimer wrote the original story. The cast also includes Robert Sterling and Frances Carson.

which read: "Now that reviews of films are forbidden before their release I am not permitted to go into detail about the virtues of the picture; I can only say that it has a haunting beauty, infinite tenderness and the kind of realism that tears the heart."

Things like this couldn't happen. Rules had been set up, implementing a resolution adopted by the MPTOA and concurrence in the same by the Association of Motion Picture Producers, against lay press reviewing of product prior to release date.

First Breach of Rules

Nobody had broken these rules up to now. So the correspondents hopped to their telephones and, in the course of a busy day, found out what had happened.

Critics Schallert and Wright, among others, had been privileged to look at "How Green Was My Valley" in the studio projection room, not for review, and not as critics, but as persons known to be interested in furtherance of the art of the cinema and, therefore, the kind of folk to whom a studio might show, on quite personal basis, a film of which it was particularly proud.

Critics Schallert and Wright just "didn't understand."

The first two will be shown in all exchanges Nov. 3, with the exception of New York, where "Weekend for Three" will be shown tomorrow. The third and fourth will be shown Nov. 5 and the last named on Nov. 6.

AFFILIATED THEATERS, INCORPORATED

INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA

September 26, 1941

Mr. W. F. Rodgers
Loew's Incorporated
1540 Broadway
New York, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Rodgers:

You no doubt have noted some trade paper reports criticizing your company for adopting the policy of selling your top brackets of pictures on a sliding scale of percentage.

I am sure you will be interested in our reaction to this plan of selling. We have been buying your product, as you know, under this plan for two years prior to your decision to use it generally in selling the 1941-42 product.

We think it is a fair way to buy pictures. In our opinion the sliding scale is not a proposition which gives the Distributor an opportunity to get more than his film is worth; neither is it a proposition whereby an Exhibitor may contract for pictures for less than they are worth, but rather it is a method where the Exhibitor pays the distributor the proper film rental. As we view the matter from experience, the result is a film rental that is neither too high nor too low.

It avoids requesting adjustments on pictures that do not gross as anticipated at the box-office and it allows the Distributor to get at all times the terms they are entitled to on pictures that are outstanding.

It has worked out very equitably and we feel that theatre owners at large will benefit by what has already proven to be a good plan for us.

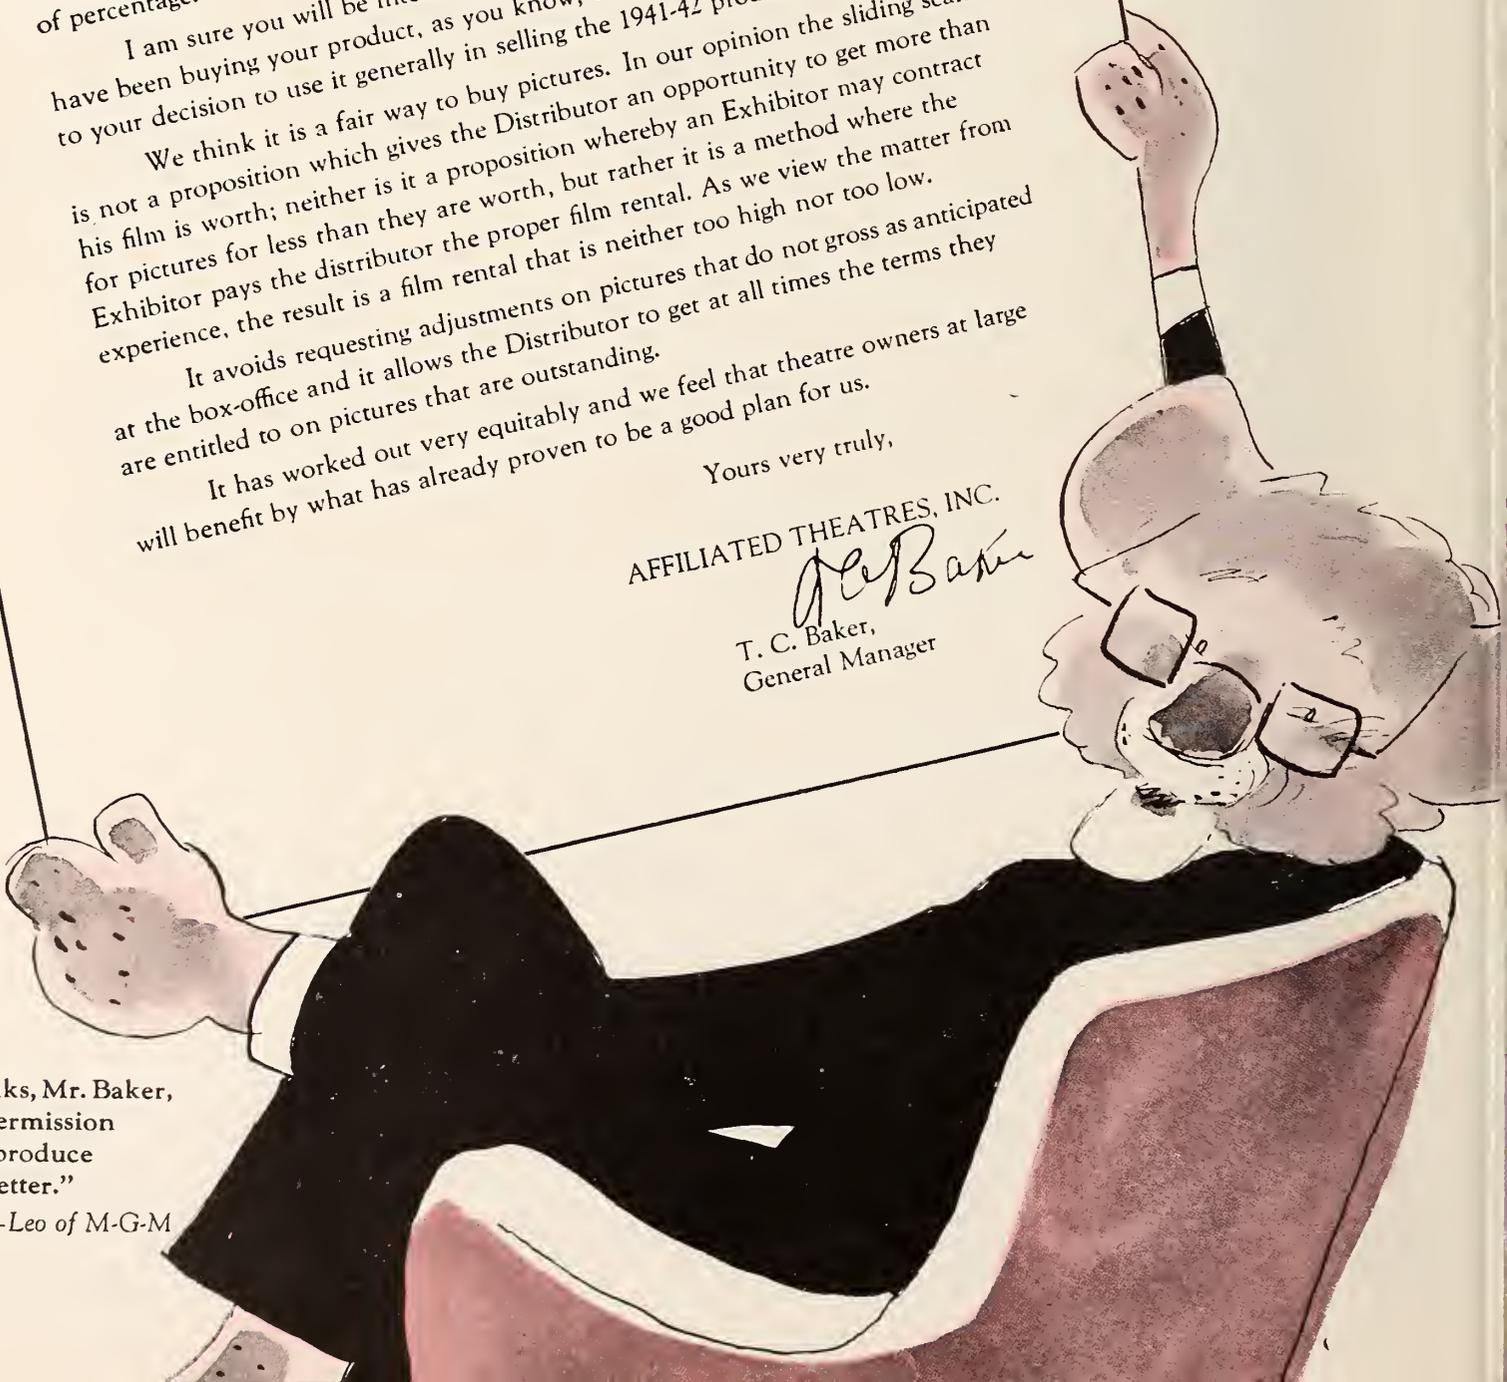

Yours very truly,

AFFILIATED THEATRES, INC.

May we reply with pictures, dear Mr. Baker!

Our third group just trade-shown is literally the talk of the industry!

Continuing our fast early-season pace we offer 4 more Big Ones:

NELSON EDDY and (introducing) RISE STEVENS in "THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER."

EDWARD G. ROBINSON in "UNHOLY PARTNERS" with Edward Arnold, Laraine Day.

GRETA GARBO, MELVYN DOUGLAS in "TWO-FACED WOMAN."

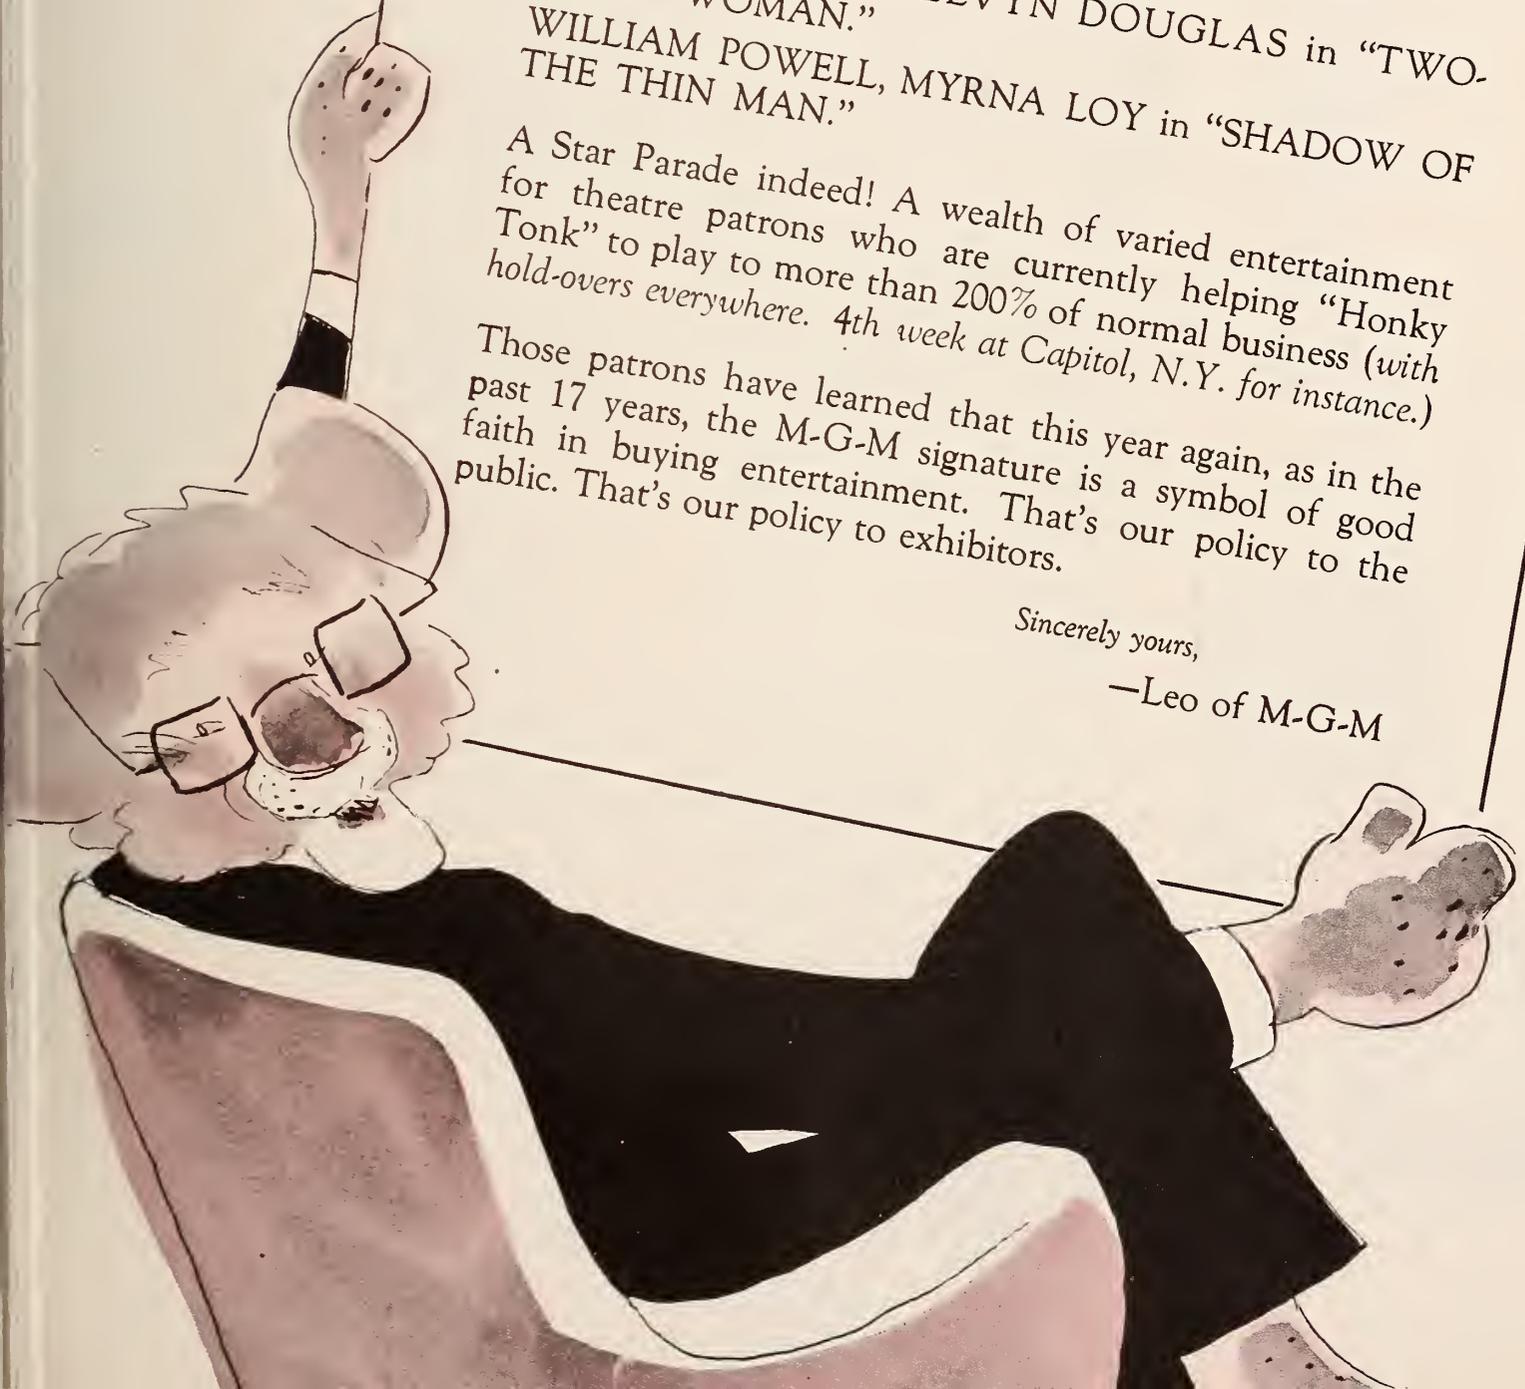

WILLIAM POWELL, MYRNA LOY in "SHADOW OF THE THIN MAN."

A Star Parade indeed! A wealth of varied entertainment for theatre patrons who are currently helping "Honky Tonk" to play to more than 200% of normal business (with hold-overs everywhere. 4th week at Capitol, N.Y. for instance.)

Those patrons have learned that this year again, as in the past 17 years, the M-G-M signature is a symbol of good faith in buying entertainment. That's our policy to the public. That's our policy to exhibitors.

Sincerely yours,

—Leo of M-G-M

Forced to Be Friendly with Bioff: Warner

After the strike at the Columbia studio in November, 1937, Warner testified that he called in the studio police who assigned two men to follow him in a car for a period of two weeks. When nothing happened during that period, the men were withdrawn, Warner testified.

Austin C. Keough, Paramount secretary and general counsel, is expected to be the principal witness today. There is a possibility that the Government may complete its case today, although it was pointed out that lengthy cross-examination of Keough may prevent this.

W. B. Executives Testify

Besides Warner, Thomas J. Martin, company auditor, and Samuel Carlisle, controller and assistant treasurer, were the day's witnesses. Carlisle's cross-examination is expected to end early this morning and the Government is expected to round out its claim of extortion from four major companies with a recital of alleged occurrences at Paramount.

Carlisle described his first meeting with Bioff in May, 1936, when he was introduced to Bioff by Albert Warner, vice-president and treasurer of Warner Bros. Warner disclosed that Bioff was seeking $15,000, Carlisle said, and Carlisle suggested a check. This offer was rejected by Bioff who insisted on cash, the witness continued. Bioff said he needed the $15,000 as he was going to a labor convention and "had to dish it out to district leaders," Carlisle testified.

Carlisle said he turned over $10,000 in cash to Warner about May 24, after receiving instructions that executives were to raise their vouchers. Similar sums were raised in August and December of that year and turned over to Warner, he said.

Bioff Flushed

In February, 1937, Warner instructed Carlisle to turn over $20,000 to Bioff on March 1, the witness said. An appointment was arranged and Bioff came in that afternoon, Carlisle continued. Bioff's face "flushed" when he saw Martin present, Carlisle said, but he was told that Martin was there for Carlisle's "protection," to prove to Carlisle's superiors that the payment was actually made.

According to the witness, Bioff responded that nobody would know of the transaction if they did not mention it, as he would not. Carlisle said that he commented at the time that "this finishes the $50,000," but Bioff pointed out that an additional $50,000 would be due for the next year beginning in April.

Carlisle continued with a recital of how he turned over $15,000 in currency to Warner in April and had W. Stewart McDonald, his assistant, turn over an additional $15,000 the next month. Just before Christmas of that year, he sent $5,000 in cash to Harry M. Warner on the Coast pursuant to instructions from Albert Warner, he declared.

On cross-examination, Carlisle said

"Shadow of the Thin Man"

(M-G-M)

THE popular series of "Thin Man" films, featuring William Powell as Nick Charles, the nonchalant private detective, and Myrna Loy, as his charming and slightly erratic wife, has herein another highly entertaining chapter, which should do very well at almost any box-office.

Full of amusing lines and numerous entertaining situations, the picture moves smoothly and swiftly, with a full share of suspense and occasional bits of excitement to keep audience attention held to the screen. W. S. Van Dyke II directed with skill, keeping the loose ends of his mystery well in hand until the final sequence.

In support of the two stars are Barry Nelson, as a young crusading newspaper reporter out to smash the crooked racetrack gambling ring; Donna Reed, as Nelson's sweetheart; Sam Levene, as the police detective who gets the credit for Powell's success; Alan Baxter, as another reporter involved with the ring; Lou Lubin, in an excellent character bit as a member of the gang; Dickie Hall, as Powell's small son, and, of course, Asta, the family dog.

Powell is persuaded to undertake to help smash the gambling ring when Nelson, a friend, is arrested for one of the two murders the police are working on. The trail leads into various entertaining bypaths until, logically and cleverly, Powell uncovers the killer.

Running time, 97 minutes. "G."*

"The Men in Her Life"

(Columbia)

LORETTA YOUNG stars in this picture, which shows the joys and sorrows in the life of a ballerina, and she gives a sympathetic and moving performance. But many audiences not familiar with the ballet will find that the story develops slowly and that the action tends to drag in places. Music and ballet lovers will find a number of finely staged numbers in the hour and a half of running time.

Gregory Ratoff was the producer and director and there are ample indications that careful attention was given to many details of the film. The story opens with Miss Young, a circus performer who has ambitions to be a dancer, being discovered by a ballet teacher who was once a great star, played by Conrad Veidt. The girl persuades the master to teach her and there begin years of hard work. Finally she makes her debut and is a success. She marries her teacher out of gratitude, although she loves John Shepperd, young Englishman. When her husband dies she marries Dean Jagger, an American, and tries to quit dancing. But she leaves her husband to return to her career. A child is born and the mother allows the husband to take the child to America. Finally some years later she is reunited with her family after her best days as a ballet dancer are over.

Women may be expected to shed a few tears at several points in the human story of a woman trying unsuccessfully to give up her career to have a happy married life. The fine cast also includes Eugenie Leontovich, the maid; Otto Kruger, the manager; Paul Baratoff, Ann Todd, Billy Rayes, Ludmila Torerzka and Tom Ladd.

Running time, 89 minutes. "G."**

that he had been told by Albert Warner that the executives whose vouchers would be raised included A. W. Smith, Gradwell Sears and S. Charles Einfeld. Cross-examination by Bioff's counsel was concluded but Martin Conboy, Browne's lawyer, had just begun when the trial was adjourned for the day.

Earlier, Martin had told how with Carlisle he had obtained the cash for Warner. Martin identified $91,634 in vouchers which had been used for this purpose and said that the additional $8,366 had been obtained from theatre company vouchers but that these could not be located. A notebook, kept by Martin, which recorded the individual vouchers was introduced in evidence by Judge John C. Knox, after both sides declined to offer it.

Martin, too, told of a March, 1937 meeting with Bioff. He said the $20,000 in currency was counted by both himself and Carlisle. Bioff looked surprised when he saw him there, Martin testified, and merely thumbed through the money, without counting it when handed the envelope. Martin said he then walked away from the table and could not hear what was said between Bioff and Carlisle and that the former left the room.

Both Martin and Carlisle said that a safe deposit box at the Manufacturers Trust Co. contained company cash, from which currency was obtained for the alleged payments. Carlisle also had an office safe in which cash was kept, it was testified. Martin said amounts up to thirty to fifty thousand dollars were kept in the bank vault and up to $5,000 in the office safe.

they can help settle differences between distributors and exhibitors, if they can establish a permanent point of contact for coordinating efforts and for opposing attempts to discredit the industry as a whole. Our job is to see that films aren't classified like gasoline, liquor, tobacco and other whipping boys of taxation."

Myers cited the efforts of Senators James Davis of Pennsylvania, Robert LaFollette of Wisconsin and David Walsh of Massachusetts in the industry's fight on the recent Federal tax proposals.

Opposes Consent Decree

Fred Beedle, AMPTO president, in his address, said he blamed the "increase of film prices" on the consent decree. "We started out in the Fall of 1940 with the consent decree on our minds, and we are finishing up the Fall of 1941 with the consent decree on our backs," he declared. "Who consented to what?"

Beedle suggested revision of the national and regional Allied constitutions and that "all delegates be eligible to vote" in national conventions. He scored exhibitors' inactivity in organization affairs and reviewed the formation of the local defense investigation committee.

Address by Richey

Greater emphasis by exhibitors on the selling of their product and the selling of the theatre institutionally to the public was foreseen by H. M. Richey, director of exhibitor relations for M-G-M, in an address before the convention.

"I believe the time is rapidly passing when the theatre owner will occupy the majority of his time buying and little of his time selling," Richey said.

Constructive exhibitor organization is vital to the security of the business, he said, and attacks from outside have tended to drive all elements of the industry closer together. He stressed the importance of industry unity under present conditions. Richey reiterated M-G-M's policy of attempting to bring about better industry relations, and the company's intention to live up to the consent decree. The arbitration system is proving to be a "constructive force," he declared.

More intensive selling is necessary today, Richey pointed out, with the competition for the working man's amusement dollar keener than ever.

Reviews Legislation

Fred Herrington, executive secretary, reviewed AMPTO activity in state legislative matters which resulted in the defeat of a two-men-in-a-booth bill, a bill to prohibit Sunday admission to children under 15 years, and other measures.

Thornton Kelly of New York explained the acceptance of National Screen Service cooperative advertising film plan by the New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania units of Allied.

M. A. Rosenberg, convention chairman, said although the AMPTO board had rejected the plan, he would ask its reconsideration if the membership so desired.

Will Ask Arnold To Appear Before Senate Committee

Hampshire returns to Washington, probably next Monday, to decide whether hearings shall be resumed the following week.

Also, he said, if the committee meets next week it is possible that some of the alleged propaganda pictures finally will be viewed. However, he admitted, conditions now are very confused and there is no certainty when hearings will be resumed.

The chairman said that in addition to Arnold the committee hoped to hear Norman Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times; Will Hays, president of the MPPDA, and possibly Louis de Rochemont of March of Time.

Meanwhile, there were indications that film propaganda may figure in the debate in the Senate next week on repeal of the ship arms ban of the neutrality law. Clark admitted that some consideration had been given to bringing in this phase of the neutrality situation, but said no decision had been reached.

Newark. The case involves the five consenting distributors.

The Buffalo arbitration board's sixth complaint was filed yesterday by Irving Cohen, owner of the Allendale, Buffalo, against Loew's Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and Warners. ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—Representatives of the five consenting companies denied that they had refused films to the Ritz Theatre, Rolla, Mo., at a hearing at the local arbitration board today on the some run complaint of Mrs. Mildred Karch, owner of the Ritz.

The complainant charged that she had been offered only old films and had been unable to make any specific contract. First and second runs in the area have been sold to the Rolla-Mo and Uptown theatres, owned by the Gasconade Circuit.

The some run complaint of Floyd Lowe of Lebanon, Mo., against the five consenting companies and with Gasconade Circuit as an interested party, is scheduled for hearing here next Tuesday.

A plea that Fox be given a chance to go to trial before a jury was denied by Federal Judge Guy K. Bard in U. S. District court here. Judge Bard refused to accept a motion for Fox to change his plea of guilty to one of not guilty. The court contended that the story told by Fox at the trials constituted a guilty plea.

Littleton made a plea first for suspension of sentence and then for clemency. U. S. Attorney Gerald A. Gleason, while admitting that Fox had been "helpful" to the Government in the other trials, insisted that he should be given a prison sentence because of the seriousness of the crime.

Seating Problem Is Studied by S.M.P.E.

A study is being made of the public preference for seats in theatres in order to improve the comfort and entertainment value of the house, the Society of Motion Picture Engineers was told yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania in a report by the theatre engineering committee. The report was read by Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith chairman. Additional surveys are to be made by the committee.

Ramsaye a Speaker

Terry Ramsaye, editor of Motion Picture Herald, addressed the delegates, his subject being listed as "Lot of How, and Little What." Ramsaye spoke on the extent and complexity of the machinery of communications as compared with what was to be communicated. He suggested that "the customers are part of the machinery of civilization" and that perhaps it would be well for the engineers to get far enough into social and political affairs to help make the whole thing work.

Two sessions were held yesterday second day of the four-day meeting. The morning was occupied with a projection session, and the afternoon with a general session.

Discuss New Developments

The delegates heard reports on safety devices and a talk on new arc lamps. Various new technical developments and devices in projection were described, color quality on the screen was discussed, and reports of the studio lighting and standards committee concluded the day's sessions.

Tonight the semi-annual banquet will be held, with the Journal Award and Progress Medal to be presented.

Managers' Union Designated by RKO Vote, First of Kind

The first managers' union to win recognition, the Exhibition, Exposition, Entertainment Employees National Union, an unaffiliated group, yesterday won a collective bargaining agency election among managers, assistant managers and treasurers employed at RKO theatres in Greater New York and Westchester County. The vote was 51 to 39. The election was conducted by the New York State Labor Relations Board.

As there were no challenges to any persons voting, the result entitles the union to act as sole bargaining agency, Gustave A. Gerber, union attorney, declared. Ninety of the 91 eligible to vote participated. The SLRB is to certify the election within five days.

Gerber declared that petitions would be filed shortly for designation in the Loew and Skouras houses in the New York area, where the union claims a majority. The 4-E group has no connection with the M. P. Division of the Theatrical Managers, Agents & Treasurers Union, AFL, which was abandoned more than a year ago, although Gerber was attorney for that TMA branch.

Ed Schnitzer Seen Successor to Sears

Because of reports that Gradwell L. Sears was discussing a deal with United Artists owners for the presidency of that company, interest turned in the trade yesterday to a possible successor to Sears as Warners general sales manager. Home office officials would make no comment, however. It is the opinion of showmen that Edward Schnitzer, Eastern district manager, might be selected, were a man to be appointed from the ranks, since Carl Leserman, Sears' chief aide, is reported likely to go to U.A. with him.

Sears' attorney, Leo Spitz, retained by him Tuesday in a telephone call to Chicago, is not expected here until Monday.

U.A. owners meanwhile reiterate that a deal with Sears is not imminent. Warner company heads also are reported most reluctant to let Sears go. His contract runs until the end of March, it is said.

In the meantime, David O. Selznick has finally signed his deal with U.A., it was also learned yesterday.

James A. Fitzpatrick found what is apparently the pictorial best in Alaska, filmed it in the regulation Fitzpatrick style, included informative, interesting commentary, and the result is one of the better travelogues. The approach is by inland waterway from Seattle and, in penetrating, stopovers are made at the salmon fisheries, an Indian village and important ports. The beauty of the snow-capped peaks in the background, and, for that matter, all that is on view, is emphasized by color photography. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Oct. 4, 1941.

"You Belong to Me"

(Columbia)

A SMOOTH, entertaining dramatic comedy has been developed from a Dalton Trumbo story, concerning the conflict of purpose of a young, attractive woman doctor, and her too-wealthy and jealous husband. With an excellent cast, and skillful direction by Wesley Ruggles, the net result should be box-office material for any exhibitor.

For the marquee there is fine quality in cast leaders, with Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda, both of whom have taken full possession of their roles for maximum results. Fonda is especially entertaining as the continuously heart-broken husband who finds his wife's career too much for him, while Miss Stanwyck is properly exasperated and always attractive. The others of the cast are comparatively unknown, with the exception of Ruth Donnelly, as Miss Stanwyck's nurse-secretary. Edgar Buchanan, in the role of the philosophically-inclined gardener on Fonda's estate, offers a character role of excellent quality.

When Fonda is injured while skiing, Miss Stanwyck, physician, attends him. They fall in love and despite Miss Stanwyck's protestations of the importance of her career, they are married. Trouble begins immediately, particularly because of Miss Stanwyck's men patients, and Fonda's unfounded jealousy causes one scene after another, each followed by a promise to behave. Finally realizing his life lacks purpose, he takes a job in a department store, then is fired through employee complaints when his identity is revealed. Following his new purpose in life, however, he takes over an almost bankrupt hospital, where the two can find happiness in working for others.

Running time, 97 minutes. "G."*

See Stagger Plan Ottawa Gross Aid

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—Theatre attendance here is expected to increase from the plan of staggering working hours to relieve the strain on transit facilities, owing to the large number of war workers here.

The plan will be given a trial here early next month, and managers look for relief from the present attendance peak about 8 p.m. With more workers leaving their jobs early, it is felt a greater number of persons will attend earlier shows.

Company Gave Bioff $100,000 Keough States

witnesses if an overnight study of the testimony indicated that it was necessary, but stated that this would be unlikely. Defense counsel will start their case tomorrow and they estimated that it would take two weeks. Following this, the Government will have the right to introduce rebuttal evidence.

Stockholders File Suits

In the meantime, during the court proceedings it was learned that two new stockholders' suits had been started which named George E. Browne and Bioff as defendants. A suit against Loew's by Abraham N. Geller, attorney for Justus I. Landauer, holder of 80 shares, asked for the return of approximately $500,000 allegedly paid to Browne and Bioff. A suit against 20th Century-Fox was brought by Koenig & Bachner, on behalf of Jerome M. Stein, a stockholder, asking for an accounting, with no amount specified.

Keough testified to meeting Bioff in the latter's hotel room, in May, 1937, after a previous call from Bioff, and being told of a two-year deal whereby major companies were to pay $50,000 annually. Bioff referred him to Nicholas M. Schenck and S. R. Kent for details, Keough said.

Keough stated that he again met Bioff on May 28, 1936, and was told "there was to be some meeting at which he (Bioff) had to report that some payment had been made by Paramount. He was going to Chicago and, if I didn't get it before, I could send it to him in Chicago."

Sent Arthur Israel

Keough said he raised $7,500 in cash and sent Arthur Israel, Jr., with an envelope containing the money to Bioff at the Hotel Bismark in Chicago. He testified that $4,000 was raised by a voucher by Y. Frank Freeman marked "charge suspense to be accounted for," drawn on Paramount Service Corp., and $3,500 additional from company sources which he could not recall.

Keough said he gave Bioff $20,000 in cash on Sept. 15, 1936, the money being obtained on vouchers marked "working funds, home office, $5,000," and "distribution, working funds, $15,000." Subsequently, Keough said, he ordered that the entries on the books be made correctly and that they read, "corporation expense." After being told by Bioff that he was shifting his offices to Hollywood, Keough said he arranged in January, 1937, to introduce Henry Herzbrun, former studio attorney, to Bioff.

Discussed Payments

Keough said he told Herzbrun that he was to pay the balance of the $72,500. "I told him that the payments need not be paid all at one time but that the balance of (the first) $50,000 was to be made shortly; that the payments were to be in cash and to be handled in a confidential manner," Keough said.

Keough testified that he also told Walter B. Cokell, studio treasurer, and George Bagnall about the transaction, and that he told Bioff that further payments would be made from the studio. In August, 1937, Herzbrun requested $12,500 and this amount was sent to him, he testified, and in January, 1938, Bioff received an additional $10,000 in cash from Keough in New York. "I told him it was the last $10,000 of the $100,000 payment and he said that it was right," Keough said.

"I regarded the making of these payments to Mr. Bioff and such others as were with him in receiving the money as necessary to preserve my company from possible and very probable financial disaster," Keough concluded on direct examination.

Cross-examination was brief.

Earlier in the day, Samuel Carlisle, Warner controller, completed his testimony and two secretaries of Albert Warner, vice-president and treasurer of Warner Bros., told how Bioff had picked up envelopes from their desks. These witnesses were Eileen Forman and Shirley Frankel, although the latter was unable to identify Bioff in court.

Herzbrun Testifies

Herzbrun followed Keough on the stand and told how he obtained $50,000 in cash from a company check and placed the currency in a joint safe deposit box with A. C. Martin, studio controller. On Jan. 23, 1937, Herzbrun said, he gave Bioff $22,500 of this amount at IATSE Hollywood offices and an additional $20,000 at the studio on May 10, 1937. On Aug. 27, 1937, Bioff asked for $20,000 more, Herzbrun said, but as only $7,500 was left in the box, he asked Keough for $12,500 more. This amount was received in the form of a check at the Bank of America; it was cashed and $20,000 delivered by Herzbrun to Bioff at the latter's home, according to the testimony. There was no cross-examination.

Martin followed to tell how a $50,000 check as drawn to the order of Herzbrun with the check voucher reading "Option on certain real estate properties which we have under consideration and which for obvious reasons I do not wish to disclose." There was no cross-examination.

Israel followed and told of his trip to Chicago on May 28, 1936. Upon arrival at that city, he telephoned Bioff and was told to come to the latter's room in the Bismark Hotel. He said he saw Bioff for only "a minute or two" and left immediately.

Two Grand Rapids Complaints Filed

Century-Fox and Paramount are named in the first complaint, and RKO, Loew's, Vitagraph and 20th Century-Fox in the second. Both complaints charge that the two Grand Rapids theatres are forced to wait a minimum of 80 days for pictures.

They charge that the Butterfield first run has 60 days clearance over the same circuit's second run, that second run has seven days clearance over third run, third run has seven days clearance over fourth run which has seven days clearance over the Galewood. The complaint also charges that Butterfield's first run Savoy causes a delay in availability to the complainants exceeding the minimum schedule and clearance actually aggregates 95 to 150 days after first run theatres insofar as complainants' theatres are concerned.

The complaints ask an arbitration that it is widely recognized there that films are essential to civilian morale. The solution, he said, is entirely up to Washington.

Goltz reported that all distributors are doing "sensational" business in China. The war, he said, has affected only a small proportion of the total film market and that business in Free China has more than doubled to compensate for losses elsewhere. He said the increase in business was due to the flow of population from occupied and war areas into Free China.

There are no restrictions on the withdrawal of currency from Free China, Goltz said, but the exchange results in a cost of almost 25 per cent. The transportation of prints from Shanghai, the shipping center, to Free China, is a difficult and lengthy procedure, however, Goltz said. He pointed out that shipments must be routed by boat to Thailand and shipped overland by the Burma Road from there to Free China. Films are frequently three to four months in transit from Shanghai to Free China as a result, he said.

Bombs Force Move

Goltz said that bombed theatres in China frequently are known to reopen within 14 days in a neighboring location, due to the ability of their operators to remove essential equipment to places of safety during air raids. Business is excellent in Shanghai, he said, and two new first run theatres, the Majestic and Queens, have just been opened there. New subsequent run houses are under construction in the International Settlement, he said.

Chinese studios in Shanghai and Hong Kong are turning out an increasing number of pictures in both Mandarin and Cantonese dialogue. These films are improving in quality and are making steady progress in the market there, he reported.

Japanese censorship throughout occupied China has made it impossible to exhibit any films of an international controversial nature, Goltz said.

award fixing the maximum clearance for their houses at 60 days after first run and a shortening of the clearance schedules between the intermediate runs.

Hearing of the clearance complaint of the Gale Theatre, Galesburg, Mich., was begun at the local board today before Edmund M. Brady, arbitrator. The house is seeking a reduction to seven days of the present 67-day clearance over it of Kalamazoo first runs. The Butterfield Circuit and Kalamazoo Theatres, Inc., have intervened in the case.

Arbitrator Defers Action In Oriental Clearance Case

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Efforts today by counsel for Balaban & Katz, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and the McVickers Theatre, to have dismissed the clearance case of the Oriental Theatre, were deferred by Hayes McKinney, arbitrator. McKinney questioned the value of Section 8 of the consent decree, which relates to clearance, in this situation.

fight the state law through to "the finish." He said that, since the company cannot sell under the Minnesota law while it is bound by the Federal consent decree, Paramount will apply to Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in U. S. District court, New York, in the near future, for an exemption from the decree's sales provisions insofar as Minnesota is concerned.

This will be done, Findley said, in order to protect the company's theatre accounts in the state during the extended time required to contest the state law's constitutionality in the courts.

[In New York, Austin C. Keough, Paramount secretary and general counsel, issued a statement confirming Findley's observations. Keough said that the application to Judge Goddard would be made as soon as Thomas D. Thacher, attorney for Paramount, returns to New York within a few days.

Findley stated that Paramount is convinced the state law is unconstitutional and intends to defend itself to the limit against the charge it violated the act. He has been instructed, he said, "to take all necessary steps to come to a final decision on that contention." He said he believed the Minnesota legislature was "not well advised in its enactment of the law." Findley said that many Minnesota exhibitors believe that they would be parties to a violation of the state law if they concluded deals under the consent decree method. He said it was for this reason that Paramount planned to go to Judge Goddard for the exemption which would give them some relief. He said Paramount contends that exhibitors would not be guilty of a violation under such circumstances because it believes the law to be unconstitutional.

It was pointed out that the theatres cited as entering into deals which Paramount, RKO and 20th Century-Fox now are charged with having made, are not parties to the charges.

vention in Philadelphia last month, was ratified by the board. The committee includes Col. H. A. Cole, president; Roy E. Harrold, Jack Kirsch, Sidney Samuelson and Martin Smith.

The directors met here in conjunction with the convention of Allied M.P.T.O. of Western Pennsylvania.

The board cited the following as deserving the early consideration of a national joint conference committee: policy and action in reference to taxation; safeguarding "the good name of the industry as a whole"; plans for meeting increased competition from other entertainments; institutional advertising and other goodwill activities; protecting priorities ratings; formulation of "an acceptable distribution system to be adopted when the consent decree lapses."

One of the major phases of the plan, it was indicated, would be the "discussion and, if possible, adjustment or modification of the policies or practices of one branch or member thereof which are opposed by another branch." As a party to such a committee, Allied will take no outside action until efforts to adjust grievances within the committee are exhausted, it was stated.

In an address to the AMPTO convention, Col. Cole said that the industry under present conditions must make some sacrifices and regulate itself, in order to obviate excessive Government influence.

Officers of the regional unit were elected as follows: president, M. A. Rosenberg; vice-president, Harry Walker; treasurer, Joseph Gellman; secretary, Fred Herrington. States or any other organization outside the Dominion."

Murray's statement was revealed following disclosure of the settlement of the differences between the Canadian musicians' union and the R. C. A. F. over public appearances of the Air Force central band.

Major Murray disclosed that he recently conferred with Petrillo in New York, giving the A. F. M. head to understand that interference in Canadian radio affairs would not be tolerated. He is understood to have told Petrillo "there could be no question of American control of the Canadian musicians' union."

The settlement of the R. C. A. F. difficulties followed conferences between Air Minister Power and Walter Murdoch, Canadian board member of the musicians' union. The union is said to have interfered with R. C. A. F. bands and Canadian Broadcasting Corp., not only attempting to keep the Air Force band off the air, but charging CBC for permission to record programs for Canadian troops overseas.

motion pictures themselves, Claude F. Lee, director of public relations for Paramount, told the convention today.

He declared building goodwill for the industry is not a job of the moment, but a matter of permanent vigilance. He emphasized the need for industry unity.

"The job of interpreting the real character and fiber of the motion picture as an institution of society is not one for pretentiousness . . . but a genuine and sincere effort to give the people a chance to know and understand us. We must find a way to make the public aware of the far-reaching substance of the business," Lee said.

Conn. Unit Votes to Follow Allied Course on Unity Plan

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 22.—Allied Theatre Owners of Connecticut voted at a special meeting to follow whatever course national Allied decides upon with respect to the unity proposal, but again affirmed its disapproval of the proposal. At a recent meeting the organization voted unanimously against the proposal, but called the special meeting to reconsider. Dr. J. B. Fishman presided at the meeting.

Exhibitors also aired their views of the consent decree and the consensus was that thus far great hardships had been worked under the system. National Allied will be urged by the Connecticut group to undertake a poll of exhibitors on the decree.

NBC to Continue Backing of BMI

Niles Trammell, NBC president yesterday declared that NBC would give continued support to Broadcast Music, Inc., despite the proposed deal with Ascap.

Trammell said NBC would execute license agreements with BMI to concurrently with those proposed with Ascap; provide for payments in same amounts as those currently being made so long as BMI revenue and expense budgets remain the same and provide for an increase or decrease in such payments dependent upon and proportionate to any increase or decrease in the BMI revenue and expense budget.

No discrimination between BMI and any other licensor would be made on the network if the quality of BMI music does not go lower, Trammell stated.

Trammell set Oct. 29 for a meeting of NBC-Blue station affiliates and Oct. 30 for NBC-Red. The meeting originally had been set for November.

Ascap Awaits Word On Closing of Pact

Definite advice as to the date at which NBC and CBS propose to formally close the new Ascap licensing agreement is expected by the music society's board of directors at a meeting today, it was indicated yesterday.

Indications are that if definite word as to the closing and the return of Ascap music to the major network is not received by the board today, Ascap will set its own deadline.

Report W.B. Put Bernhard Over Sales

Sears Remains, His Talks With U. A. Ended

Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner Bros. theatres, it was reported last night, will assume new and more important duties as general manager of the company. That capacity sales as well as theatres will come under his jurisdiction. Gradwell L. Sears, who has been in charge of distribution, will continue under Bernhard.

Discussions between Sears and United Artists officials concerning the presidency of U. A. are understood to have been ended, with Sears remaining at Warner Bros.

Benjamin Kalmenson, Southern and Western division manager, who has been elevated as assistant to Bernhard, continues in his position under Sears.

Termination of the talks with Sears and the United Artists presidency substantiates MOTION PICTURE DAILY's stories of Wednesday and yesterday that no deal was imminent and that the choice of a United Artists president is not likely to be made until the

Denies Dismissal of Browne, Bioff Case

Federal Judge John C. Knox yesterday denied all defense motions for corrected verdicts of "not guilty" in the distortion trial of George E. Browne and William Bioff.

The defense will start its testimony at 10:30 A.M. today. According to George Breslin, attorney for Bioff, the defendants will take about two weeks to present their side. Bioff is most likely to take the stand on his own behalf, Breslin said, and there will be from 15 to 20 witnesses, in-

Guild Sues Studios For 6,000 Extras, Claiming Overtime

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.—What might be the greatest bookkeeping headache in Hollywood's history was filed today in Federal Court. On behalf of its some 6,000 extra player members, the Screen Actors Guild brought action against 14 production companies seeking what may amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars in back pay, overtime and penalties under provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

The suit actually names some 1,000 players and specifies amounts assertedly due them for overtime in working in excess of 44, 42 and 40 hours weekly since inception of the act. If brought to trial without compromise, the action may result in each company producing records in Federal Court showing that each of the 6,000 Guild members has or has not worked in excess of the statutory limitation.

Defendants are Alexander Korda Films, 20th Century-Fox, Universal, Columbia, M-G-M, RKO, Republic, Warners, Paramount, Wanger, Roach, Selznick, Small, and Goldwyn.

The Guild started negotiations with producers for overtime assertedly due

Minn. Anti-5 Trial Slated for Nov. 24

St. Paul, Oct. 23.—Trial of the actions charging Paramount, RKO and 20th Century-Fox with violating the state's anti-block-of-five law today was set for Nov. 24 after attorneys for the companies entered not guilty pleas in Ramsey County district court here. The late trial date was asked so that the defendants could determine whether or not they wish to demur. The attorneys in pleading not guilty reserved the right to withdraw the plea in event a demurrer action is brought.

Para. Petitions Decree Escape On Minn. Sales

Paramount yesterday obtained an order from Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in U. S. District court here to show cause why the company should not be exempted from the sales provisions of the consent decree to permit it to sell in Minnesota while the constitutionality of the state's anti-block-of-five law is being tested in the courts.

The order is returnable Oct. 31 before Judge Goddard, at which time Thomas D. Thacher, counsel for the company, will argue the merits of the petition.

It was reported yesterday that two consenting companies might oppose the Paramount petition at the hearing but confirmation of the report was not obtainable. It was said that opposi-

Inquiry Subcommittee Members Doubt Early Meeting to Decide Its Future

Washington, Oct. 23.—Members of the Senate propaganda investigating committee today expressed doubts whether they would be able to get together next week to decide upon the future of their investigation of motion pictures.

While Senator Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire, who has been out of the city for some time, is due to return to Washington Monday, Chairman D. Worth Clark said there was some question whether the group could meet because of the scheduled debate on Neutrality Act revision.

The original plan was for the committee to get together, probably on Monday, to make arrangements for viewing some of the pictures which have been discussed and for resumption of hearings on Nov. 3.

Majors to Get $20,000,000 From England

Base Is 50% Annual Gross Of Last Two Years

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The eight major American distribution companies will be authorized to withdraw $20,000,000 from England under the new monetary agreement for the year beginning next Monday, it was reliably reported here today.

The withdrawal amount, representing 50 per cent of the companies' annual British business during the past two years, is said to have been tentatively agreed upon by Board of Trade, United States Embassy and company representatives, but still requires the formal approval of the Treasury. An announcement by the latter is regarded as imminent.

[MOTION PICTURE DAILY reported Oct. 15 that 50 per cent of the major companies' British revenue, made up of release of ding international presidents of a number of unions. Whether these labor leaders will be led as character witnesses or to testify about some of the alleged transactions was not disclosed. Breslin refused to name the leaders but said specifically that William Green, AFL president, was not under subpoena and could not be called.

Browne, Bioff Plea For Dismissal Is Denied by Court

Long Argument

Arguments on the motions for directed verdicts lasted almost two hours, with Martin Conboy, Browne's attorney, and John Burling, assistant U. S. Attorney, the main participants. Conboy's argument stressed almost exclusively the three-year statute of limitations. He argued that the $10,000 annual payments were completed by January, 1938, and that the three-year statute had expired before the indictment was returned in May, 1941. He declared that commission payments of Smith & Aller, Ltd., paid to alleged designees of Bioff, which continued up to the time of the indictment, were not extortion under the terms of the statute nor under the indictment. He said that Smith & Aller were not victimized because they themselves suggested the agency arrangement and that Loew's lost nothing by the arrangement because they could not receive a rebate or cut in price.

Burling asserted that the whole plan was "a single series of events" begun with the election to the IATSE presidency of Browne in 1934 and his appointment of Bioff as representative, the reentry of the IATSE into the music pact and a series of strikes in 1935, and the demand for, and payment of money beginning in 1936 and continuing with the payment of commissions until the date of the indictment, in May of this year. He pointed out that the reimbursement vouchers continued until 1940.

Loew's Forced, Says Knox

Judge Knox interrupted to say that, after the alleged threats, "Loew's transmitted the force of the blow to Smith & Aller" who made the payments thereafter. Judge Knox declared that the right to choose the company from which to buy raw stock is "a valuable consideration." "I think Loew's was forced to effect the trade they would not otherwise do," the court said. The net result was the same as if the money was taken from Loew's till."

Other formal motions to dismiss for failure of the prosecution to prove its case were denied, as were motions to strike from the evidence large portions of testimony. Bioff's attorneys relied on Conboy's arguments and adopted them as their own and the court made similar rulings.

There will be only a morning session today as Judge Knox has other engagements for the afternoon.

"Appointment for Love"

(Universal)

THE complications encountered by newlyweds whose professional careers and laboratory theories of domestic life and jealousy confound rather than smooth the period of their so-called "adjustment," here provide again the framework for a well-dressed comedy for marital misadventures.

Margaret Sullavan, as Dr. Jane Alexander, is the exponent of the don't-let-marriage-interfere-with-the-career theory and also the possessor of the scientific disdain of jealousy. Charles Boyer is the disapproving, and up to the last reel, thwarted, husband. As a playwright whose past flirtations have been numerous and whose occupation occasionally thrusts him into rehearsals of amorous scenes out of his plays, his responsibility for the trying situations which plague the couple almost equals those engendered by the wife's professional duties and scientific theories of marriage. Of the latter, the most disastrous is her determination to maintain a separate apartment of her own which, at a time which might otherwise proved romantically rewarding, results in her spending the night alone in his apartment while he is doing the same in hers. Once the whereabouts of each on that particular night had been explained, a single apartment obviously is all that needed thereafter.

Rita Johnson and Ruth Terry as carry-overs from Boyer's bachelor days; Eugene Pallette as his producer; Reginald Denny as a former friend and patient of Miss Sullavan's, and Gus Schilling as an elevator operator who tries unsuccessfully to mind his own business, contribute excellent support. Cecil Kellaway as a caretaker and Roman Bohnen as a doctor are good in lesser roles.

Exhibitors should find the picture easy to sell on the basis of cast names, and romantic situations and numerous obvious catchlines out of the dialogue. Once sold it is sure to please.

William A. Seiter directed in the proper light mood and Bruce Manning, producer, has given the picture a generous helping of sleek, rich trappings which it wears with grace.

"Three Girls About Town"

(Columbia)

Hollywood, Oct. 23

COLUMBIA'S "Three Girls About Town" is a madcap farce, chock-full of laughs based on a variety of situations. The story deals with the efforts of two hotel convention hostesses and the manager attempting to hide the body of a supposedly murdered guest in order that the hotel not be ruined by unfavorable publicity. A newspaperman stumbles onto the secret, identifies the "body" as a government labor mediator, and gets entangled with the law himself, after averting a threatened strike. The mystery of the "body" is uncovered and all ends well.

Many of the situations and lines are on the adult side, and some of them tread on various toes. The struggle over the "body" occurs while a morticians' convention is being held, for one thing. Joan Blondell and Binnie Barnes as the hostesses, Janet Blair as their sister; John Howard as the reporter, Robert Benchley, as the manager, Eric Blore, Hugh O'Connell, Una O'Connor, Almira Sessions, Dorothy Vaughan, Paul Harvey, Frank McGlynn and Walter Soderling all deliver handsomely in their roles. Leigh Jason directed this William Bischoff production.

The stumbling block in the discussions for Sears to take over the United Artists' presidency was said to be terms asked by the Warner executive, which were viewed by the United Artists' officials as excessive.

"Weekend for Three"

(RKO)

CURRENTLY there appears to be a wave of pictures concerned with the marital problems of young married couples, with jealousy from one source or another rearing its head to provide plot material. This RKO film is of that type and affords a measure of light and unpretentious entertainment.

Dennis O'Keefe plays the young husband, with theories on feminine psychology which are not personally practiced; Jane Wyatt is the wife, who gives the husband a few moments' uneasiness, and Philip Reed is the former friend of the wife, who drops in for a weekend, and appears about to stay forever, the while monopolizing the wife and keeping the husband up in night clubs until all hours. Such veterans as Edward Everett Horton, Zasu Pitts and Franklin Pangborn offer excellent support.

Irving Reis directed and Tay Garnett produced. Repetitious in plot development, the film nevertheless moves well. Their attempts to get Reed to leave proving useless, O'Keefe and Miss Wyatt resort to trickery. The difficulty with that method, however, is that it sows the seeds of jealousy in the mind of the husband, and later, for similar reasons, in the mind of the wife. The problem resolves itself when the husband and wife leave the house—together.

tion might be entered on the ground that if the court were to make an exception of the Minnesota situation, similar state legislation might be enacted elsewhere throughout the country, and that to exempt Paramount alone would not materially relieve the product situation in Minnesota.

None of the other consenting companies has indicated thus far that it intends to follow Paramount's course by making a similar application to Judge Goddard.

The Paramount petition was filed by Louis Phillips, home office attorney, and A. C. Bickford of the St. Paul, Thacher & Bartlett law firm.

Brought Under Decree

The action is brought under Section 23 of the decree which provides that an application by consenting companies to the court for relief from the prohibitions imposed upon them by the laws of any state which may conflict with the decree.

Paramount petition asks specific relief for release of the company from compliance with Sections 3 and 4 of the decree, the trade showing and block-of-five sales provisions, pending determination of the actions to test the constitutionality of the Minnesota law.

Meanwhile, United Artists, which had planned to close its Minneapolis branch tomorrow, has decided to keep the exchange open pending the outcome of the three test cases in St. Paul county court started this week against Paramount, RKO and 20th Century Fox. Those cases are expected to provide the first determination of the constitutionality of the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law, under which United Artists has stated it cannot operate even though it is not bound by the consent decree.

travel cost of the Motion Picture Division has been very light.

Recognizing that the limited resources of the division would not permit of unlimited travel expense, the companies have been very cooperative and have shouldered the cost of many trips, it was said. In this way, the expenses of Walt Disney's recent Latin American trip, said to be about $60,000, were paid by RKO.

The most extensive traveling by officials of the office has been by John Hay Whitney and his associate, Francis Altstock. Whitney, as an official of Pan-American Airlines, enjoys the possession of a pass, which he has made use of to save the Government money. Altstock's traveling expenses are said to have amounted to about $13,500, between New York and California.

Papers—Radio Split Seen Up to Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Separation of broadcasting and newspapers is desirable but involves problems which probably only Congress can solve, the FCC was told today by Irving Brant, St. Louis Star-Times commentator.

Testifying at the hearings on newspaper ownership of stations to which the commission is devoting one or two days a week, Brant said diversity in the ownership of communications media is of general benefit but suggested it might not be possible now entirely to divorce newspapers and stations.

The primary motive of a newspaper in acquiring a radio station, he said, is to "exert more power and influence." In many instances, he pointed out, radio advertising revenues have increased while those of the newspapers owning the stations have declined, so that many publishers have come to depend on their radio interests for revenue.

 blocked funds and remittances of next year's earnings, would be authorized for withdrawal under a new monetary agreement.]
 While the amount reported agreed is the largest authorized for remittance since the start of the war, regarded in American trade circles here as less than had been anticipated. American interests had asked had hoped for the release of all their revenue blocked during the two years, amounting to an estimated $40,000,000, and, in addition, sought the right to withdraw all revenue collected during the year November, 1941, to November, 1942.

Stress Lease-Lend Aid

Asking for the full release of British revenue the American companies have stressed the easing of Britain's credit position through the multi-billion-dollar lease-lend measures, and the role of an uninterfered, full-line service of films in maintaining public morale in Britain during wartime. The American companies cite the fact that their British revenue was drastically curtailed by the previous two monetary agreements, and initiated any move to reduce proportionately the number of films sent to England.

Moreover, the past two monetary agreements have contained specific provisions for the reopening of negotiations looking to more liberal withdrawals in the event that Britain's war position should be improved during the course of the agreements. The Americans have repeatedly contended that the lease-lend measures were accomplished this result.

Includes Blocked Funds

The withdrawals under the new agreement will consist in part of the release of some of the American companies' funds which now are blocked, and the remainder will be in remittances out of next year's revenue.
 The first of the two previous monetary agreements authorized the withdrawal of $17,500,000, representing an estimated 50 per cent of the average revenue of seven companies for the two preceding years. The second agreement, expiring Monday, permitted the remitting of $12,900,000 by the eight major companies, or approximately one-third of their revenue. Universal was covered by a separate agreement during the first year of the war.

SMPE Concludes Fall Meeting Here

The improvement in the technical quality of films today because of the use of new fine-grain film was outlined yesterday by V. C. Shaner of the Eastman Kodak Co., at the concluding day's sessions of the semi-annual convention of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

The four-day meeting ended with two technical sessions, one in the morning, a fine-grain film symposium, and the last in the afternoon, a session on sound.

Using finer grains of silver produces better pictures and clearer sound, Shaner told the delegates. Other papers on fine-grain film were read by C. R. Daily, J. R. Wilkinson, F. L. Rich, and L. L. Ryder, all of the Paramount studios.

The session on sound was featured by papers on recent improvements in control tracks for theatre reproduction, the design and use of film noise reduction systems, light-valves, and the elimination of reproduction noises as the result of splicing film.

The society's next convention will be held in Hollywood in the Spring.

Major company heads were informed at a meeting of MPPDA board of directors on Friday that a total of currency withdrawals authorized from Great Britain for the year beginning tomorrow may aggregate anywhere from $30,000,000 to $37,500,000.

The withdrawals will consist of $20,000,000 of the revenue of the eight major companies earned in Great Britain during the ensuing 12 months, plus 50 per cent of the companies' frozen currency in London. ## 50 Arbitration Cases Decided to Oct. 15, Total of 129 Brought

There have been 129 arbitrations instituted as of Oct. 15, last, under the terms of the New York Case Consent Decree. Of this number, 50 have been decided. In 27 of the cases decided, the exhibitor has won some benefit, according to a study of the cases. There are 49 arbitrations pending. Thirty have been withdrawn.

The first four decisions by the Appeal Board were in favor of the distributors. A fifth decision was against Loew's, under Section 6.

There have been no arbitrations instituted under Sections 4 and 5. Section 4 relates to selling in blocks-of-five, and Section 5 concerns the licensing of theatres located in more than one exchange district.

This study shows that, in general, arbitrations against the distributors have been decided in favor of the distributors. The reasons are:

1. The exhibitor attempted to secure a particular run.
2. The exhibitor's price demands were unreasonable.

There have been no arbitrations instituted under Section 7, which relates to locally offensive pictures.

Arbitration filed under Section 8 (clearance), in some instances have

Union Wage Rise Will Cost Studios Over $3,500,000 Annually: Casey

The 10 per cent wage increase granted this year to unions in the basic studio pact and offered to IATSE studio locals, which the latter have under advisement, will cost the industry between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000 annually, Pat Casey, producers' labor contact, declared Friday following his testimony at the Browne-Bioff trial.

Casey explained that many skilled mechanics employed in the studios were being offered employment in defense industries at higher wages and that the increase was necessary to keep them in their present posts.

Asked to amplify his statement that a projectionists' strike would have "put the producers out of business" in 1936 or any year thereafter except the current year, Casey said that business has been so good this year that reserves have been built up which would enable the producers to fight if an emergency arose.

Trust Suit Revived Despite Settlement

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—The trust suit filed in 1939 by the Harrison Brothers in behalf of their suburban Lansdowne Theatre, seeking tripartite damages of $250,000 against the major distributors and Warner Theatres will come up for final hearing Nov. 10 in Federal District Court here before Judge William H. Patrick.

To all intents and purposes the case was considered settled out of court early last Summer and the new tripartite events is considered most unjust in view of the fact that the settlement included leasing of the Lansdowne to the Warner circuit.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs state that the settlement with the distributors has failed to prove satisfactory actual practice and that the action will proceed against them, with Vitagra (Warners) included and Warner Theatres dropped as a defendant.

It was also stated that the Harrison Brothers would seek only a monetary award since they no longer operate the house.

Subpoenas were issued for distributors and exchange officials to appear at the trial as witnesses.

Kalmenson Is WB Sales Head; Sears Resigns

short time to fill the post he left. He added that any appointments he makes will be from within the Warner ranks.

On the day before, Warner Bros. announced that Sears was continuing with the company, following the ending of Sears' discussions with U.A. representatives relative to the presidency of U.A. It was indicated then that Bernhard would be general manager and it was known that Kalmenson was slated as his assistant in charge of sales, in effect sales manager. However, three hours hardly had elapsed when that situation shifted—because Sears was to stay.

On Friday, even before the home offices opened, the trade was aware that Sears would leave, this time definitely, and that Leserman was leaving with him.

Sears Has No Plans

Sears in his statement said he had no immediate plans except for a two-months' vacation. In announcing Sears' resignation, Harry M. Warner, president of Warners, stated:

"I sincerely regret Mr. Sears' decision to leave Warner Bros. In his association with the company during the past 21 years, Mr. Sears has been a vital force in the growth of this company to its present position of prominence in the entertainment field. He at all times has commanded the utmost respect and admiration of his associates in Warner Bros. and in the industry as a whole."

"I know," Warner continued, "that Mr. Sears will bring credit to any company with which he is associated, and will continue to further the growth and prestige of one of the world's ranking industries."

Kalmenson, the International Motion Picture Almanac records, was with the Crucible Steel Co. of America for 10 years prior to joining First National in Pittsburgh in 1927. He was promoted to manager of the company's branch in Albany, transferred to Omaha and Kansas City as manager and returned to Pittsburgh in January, 1932. Two years later he resigned as Warner-First National manager in Pittsburgh to become chief booker for Warner Theatres in that city. Later he left the theatre department to become Central District manager for Warners with headquarters in Pittsburgh and in December, 1937, was promoted to Southern and Western sales manager.

Started Under Schaefer

According to the International Motion Picture Almanac, Sears, who worked as a projectionist while attending school, started with the World Film Co. in New York as a salesman under George J. Schaefer. This was after his discharge from war service with the A. E. F., from which he retired as a first lieutenant. Later he was transferred to the St. Louis office, and subsequently worked for Republic

Sears Praises Warner Bros. On Leaving After 21 Years

The following is the statement issued by Gradwell L. Sears, upon resigning from Warner Bros.:

"I have resigned today my position as general sales manager of Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., and as president of Vitagraph, Inc., the resignations to be effective immediately. After 21 years with the Warner organization, it is a step that I naturally have taken with a great deal of feeling. I leave with the greatest friendship and the greatest respect for the gentlemen with whom I have worked so long.

Proud of Warner Bros.

"I take considerable pride in the standing of Warner Bros. today in the motion picture industry. I am very proud that I have had a part in building the Warner organization into a leader in the entertainment industry in those same years that the entertainment industry was becoming one of the great industries of the world. The path that the Warner company chose was not always the easiest way, but courageous leadership brought it to the top of its field. I am proud of what part I may have played in that.

"My plans for the immediate future are quite indefinite. What I want most right now is to go hunting for two months at least. The details of what will come after will have to wait.

"Now that I am no longer responsible to them, I should like to say frankly what I think of the three brothers for whom I have worked so long, Harry, Jack and Albert Warner. I believe that they have earned a family respect the equal of that of any family in the world.

"Harry Warner is one of the outstanding citizens of our country today, a great patriot in a time when the country needs great patriots, a sincere and intelligent liberal, a generous giver of his time and money in civic and charitable causes, and a business man of unquestioned ability and integrity.

Lauds Production Head

"Jack Warner is one of the production geniuses of the film business. The high level that motion pictures have attained in recent years is due in no small part to the art and effort that Jack Warner has applied to the productions he has made in the studio in Burbank, Calif.

"Major Albert Warner has contributed more than his good share to the successful direction and operation of an enterprise that is as large and as necessarily complex as a modern motion picture company like Warner Bros. must be.

"The affection, devotion and loyalty of these three brothers to one another and to their company has been an inspiring example."

He was named general sales manager for the South and West for Warner Bros. Pictures in March, 1931, and in 1935 became vice-president of Vitagraph, Inc. # Theatre Television Attempt Brings Suit which Arthur Mayer is managing director, filed proceedings in the N. Y. Supreme Court to confirm an arbitration award of $1,891 against Scophony, Ltd.

Paul Raibourn, in charge of television for Paramount, was arbitrator. He ruled that Scophony had breached a contract made on May 16 to lease large screen television equipment to the Rialto. The award provided that if Scophony provides a television receiver to the theatre within the year, payments of damages should cease.

A large screen receiver had been installed in the Rialto and several tests were made but the FCC ordered several changes in television standards, including an increase in lines from 441 per frame to 525, and the set was not adapted to those standards, Mayer said.

Mayer's announcement that he would have large screen television in his house followed by one week a demonstration by RCA of a major prize fight shown on large screen television over leased telephone wires. Although RCA planned to have the special telecasts made available to theatres only over telephone lines, Mayer said he planned to pick the regular telecasts of NBC and CBS off the air.

A considerable flurry among radio lawyers was caused by this announcement as there is some question as to the right to use broadcasts or telecasts for commercial purposes.

English Fund $37,500,000 At Maximur

new year's earnings on and after Nov. 1, and a like amount during each succeeding quarter. Withdrawals from the blocked funds will be permitted in two equal amounts on Nov. 1 and April 1.

It was stated that there is no accurate estimate of the frozen money applicable to the release agreement, due to the fact that the language of the agreement itself is subject to different interpretations which would affect the withdrawal amount and, also, that is not known precisely the amount which individual companies may have "frozen."

It was pointed out that one or two of the companies have employed the blocked British revenue to liquidate their indebtedness in Great Britain and, therefore, these have little or no blocked currency to their credit. Others have depleted their blocked sterling through production in England and the acquisition of American distribution rights to British films.

The MPPDA directors on Friday discussed methods of apportioning the sums authorized for withdrawal among the eight companies. Indications are that the $20,000,000 out-earnings for the ensuing year will be divided as they were under this year's agreement on a percentage based on each company's British billings for last year.

A division of opinion exists over the apportionment of the withdrawn from blocked funds. It has been advocated that this allotment, too, be divided on the same basis as the earnings withdrawals. However, other companies, pointing to the discrepancy in the status of some companies that have been in a position to make use of their blocked funds in England, and therefore have small balances frozen are advocating what they contend would be a more equitable division.

'Yank' at $10,700 Indianapolis High

Will Democracy Survive?

(International Forum)
(Columbia)
Another in the series of William W. C. Sullivan's International Forum subjects which follows in theme and stage pattern set by the earlier productions. The discussion principals are Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, Fannie Hurst, Rear Admiral F. V. Leland and Johannes Steel, who exchange views on the resources of the Axis and the chances for Allied victory with American aid. The consensus is that democracy will survive. Running time, 20 mins. Release, Oct. 1941.

Aristocrats of the Kennel

(Sports Review)
(20th Century-Fox)
The camera covers a dog show and its numerous Eastern kennels to reveal the painstaking care and training lavished upon the potential canine champions by their owners. The subject, an Ed Thorghersen sports review, is a good explanatory commentary which should heighten its interest for the uninformed and make it a welcome screen morsel for the initiated. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Sept. 1941.

Welcome Little Stranger

(Terry-Toon Cartoon)
(20th Century-Fox)
The ugly duckling shows up in the chicken family again in this Terry-Toon in color. Lacking in originality the result is no more than mildly amusing. Running time, 7 mins. Release, Oct. 3, 1941.

The Gallup Poll

(Columbia Panoramic)
(Columbia)
The method of conducting a Gallup poll is presented in this subject. Gallup opinion samplers and the type of people whose opinions they solicit are depicted, together with explanatory commentary on the system employed and examples of the results obtained. The subject lacks cohesion. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Oct. 17, 1941.

Dog Obedience

(Sportscope)
(RKO Pathe)
The training of dogs to respond to commands is the subject matter of this subject, and although it will be of questioned fascination for dog-fanatics and dog lovers, others may find it rather below the standard of these usually active sport reels. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Oct. 3, 1941.

The World of Sound

(Cinescope Series)
(Columbia)
The development of aids for the deaf and of hearing is presented with pictorial samples of their manufacture and application, with particular emphasis on the latest audio devices. The subject is of a technical nature and of limited interest. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Oct. 3, 1941.

"Top Sergeant Mulligan"

(Monogram)
Hollywood, Oct. 26
ON the basis of its pre-release exhibition at the Los Angeles Orpheum, a downtown house which splits emphasis between pictures and vaudeville (in this case with Gene Krupa's band on the stage), this cantonment comedy possesses what it takes to keep an audience happy. It had this one steadily amused, frequently in stitches.

In common with other comedies about draftees, this one contains a hardboiled top sergeant, two rookies who are victims of his whim, some gag situations that click, some that don't quite, some routines in which other characters participate and, finally, a slapstick finish in which one jeep pursues another at breakneck speed over mountain roads. It also contains a song number by Felix Bernard and Ray Klages which could become a hit, "$21 a Day—Once a Month."

Top name in the cast as listed is Nat Pendleton, but Frank Faylen and Charles Hall, as the rookies, dominate the action and the interest, with Sterling Holloway, as a camp loan shark in uniform, cutting himself in for plenty of laughs. Marjorie Reynolds, Carol Hughes and Betty Blythe carry the feminine assignment, with Dick Elliott, Tom Neal, Maynard Holmes and Wonderful Smith completing the male roster.

A separate paragraph is due Wonderful Smith, the Negro who spark-plugs the Red Skelton radio program, seen here in a long and virtually solo sequence which rates among the funniest routines ever filmed.

Lindsley Parsons, producer, Jean Yarbrough, director, and Edmond Kelso, scenarist, have a good deal to be proud of in this contribution to the gaiety of the season, a trim and pointed picture affording a wealth of entertainment.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."* ROSCOE WILLIAMS

"Billy the Kid Wanted"

(Producers Releasing)
THIS is average western fare, with a bit more fist fighting than usual, though there is also plenty of riding and shooting.

Buster Crabbe, as Billy the Kid, and his companions, Al (Fuzzy) St. John, who is called upon to supply the humor, and Dave O'Brien aid some farmers who are at the mercy of a crooked realtor. Some surprises and suspense is created by having O'Brien fight with Crabbe. Eventually the audience and the real estate operator's men and a rival gang discover that the quarrel was only a device to start general fighting. Finally both Crabbe and O'Brien are captured and are ordered to fight it out, but they capture both mobs instead.

Sigmund Neufeld was the producer and Sherman Scott, the director, kept the action moving after a slow opening. The cast also includes Glen Strange, Charles King, Slim Whitaker, Howard Masters, Choti Sherwood and Joe Newfield.

Running time, 64 minutes. "G."* M. Q., JR.

*"G" denotes general classification.

"Sucker List"

(Crime Does Not Pay)
(M-G-M)

This is a good addition to the series, whipping up excitement and interest as it presents the case of an organized racetrack tipster service which victimizes those found to be in need of money. One of the victims threatens to expose the gang and is beaten and later dies. A witness to the crime informs the police, who promptly close in on the crooks. Running time, 21 mins. Release, Sept. 27, 1941.

"Donald's Camera"

(Disney Cartoon)
(RKO)

Donald Duck decides to be humane and "shoot" with a camera instead of a gun. He goes into the woods and what happens to him when he attempts to take pictures of a stubborn and uncooperative woodpecker, sends him racing back to town for all the arms and ammunition he can carry. An amusing subject in the Disney style. Running time, 7 mins. Release, Oct. 24, 1941.

"Uncle Joey Comes to Town"

(20th Century-Fox)

Another variation of that ever-popular cartoon theme, "when the cat's away the mice will play," this Terry-Toon subject offers its share of amusement to any not overweary of the theme. It is merely a new backdrop for the cartoonists' familiar rodent antics. Running time, 7 mins. Release, Sept. 19, 1941.

"In the Sweet Pie and Pie"

(All Star Comedies)
(Columbia)

A reversion to the pie-throwing comedies of the old Sennett days, this two-reel subject with the Three Stooges overdoes the pastry-tossing slapstick to a degree which must be seen to be believed. There are only rare flashes of what might be called comedy. The remainder defies classification. Running time, 17 min. Release, Oct. 16, 1941.

"Don Winslow of the Navy"

(Universal)

HERE is a serial with a ready-made potential audience which conceivably can run into almost astronomical figures, because it is based on a highly popular comic strip of the same title, handled by Bell Syndicate, and an equally popular radio adventure series. Also, the subject matter is concerned with the United States Navy, which cooperated in producing.

Henry MacRae, associate producer, gave the material excellent production values, and Ford Beebe and Ray Taylor, co-directors, have kept the pace at white heat, as the effort of a destroyer commander to clean up an enemy submarine base in the South Pacific brings him face to face with one thrill situation after another. Striking Navy maneuver shots feature the opening of the first chapter. Don Terry plays the lead as the destroyer commander, and John Litel is the leader of the enemy agents. In support are Claire Dodd, Anne Nagel, Samuel S. Hinds and Walter Sande, in particular. There is reason to believe that some adult appeal is inherent in the material, if it holds its pace, and of course, there is no question about unlimited youngster appeal. The first chapter runs 25 minutes, the others will run about 20 minutes each. The serial will have 12 chapters. Release, Jan. 6, 1942.

"Sailors With Wings"

(The March of Time)
(RKO)

A history of the development of U. S. Naval Aviation and revealing phases of its current state comprise the latest March of Time release. All types of planes operated by the Navy are pictured in training and practice flights, and the enormous organization behind naval operations is indicated in camera flashes of the Navy Department at Washington, training centers throughout the country and by means of maps depicting the projected vast expansion of America's air forces. The subject is interesting and informative and is impressive from the suggestion it leaves of a great American air power already in existence. Running time, 21 mins. Release date, Oct. 24, 1941.

"Glacier Trails"

(20th Century Fox)

An escorted tourists' trip over Glacier National Park's scenic trails is the eye-satisfying experience provided by this Lowell Thomas Magic Carpet subject. The camera work is excellent, the commentary good and the Montana scenery is well worth the film attention given it here. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Sept. 26, 1941.

"Army Champions"

(Pete Smith Specialty)
(M-G-M)

Here is a subject that should stir a good deal of interest. The film shows various army guns in operation, including trench mortars and heavy artillery. Shattered targets attest to their accuracy. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Oct. 10, 1941.

50 Arbitration Cases Decided Of 129 Filed

resulted in a reduction of clearance. Where the exhibitor attempted to secure a change in playing position against competing theatres, under the guise of arbitrating clearance, his efforts were generally unsuccessful.

Two arbitrations were brought purportedly under Section 9, which relates to the withholding of prints. Both were dismissed.

Many of the arbitrations filed under Section 8 also have been filed under Section 10, which concerns sale of a run to a circuit. In most of the instances the decision was that the rights of the exhibitor under that section did not accrue until after three months' refusal to license 1941-'42 product.

Dismiss Phila. Case; 2 Others Are Filed

Two arbitration complaints were filed in New York and New Orleans and a decision dismissing a Philadelphia clearance complaint was handed down over the weekend.

The New York case was filed by Luxor-Bleeker Amusement Corp., operator of the Waverly Theatre, 323 Sixth Ave., Manhattan, against RKO, Vitagraph and 20th Century-Fox. The complaint seeks relief under Sections 6, 8 and 10 of the decree, involving some run, clearance and a designated run. The Art Theatre on East Eighth St. is named as an interested party.

Claim Clearance Changed

The complaint charges that the Waverly formerly had a run ahead of the Art and seven days' clearance over it, but that the distributors now refuse to license the Waverly unless it foregoes the run and clearance over the Art. The latter is a member of a buying combine, the complaint states. It is understood to be operated by Ruggoff & Becker for Herman Weingarten.

The New Orleans case was filed by W. A. Fonseca & Sons, operating the Ashton Theatre, New Orleans, and seeks an adjustment of clearance and a designated run from all five consenting companies. The Poplar Theatre is named as an interested party.

The complaint charges that the distributors have refused to license the Ashton earlier than 60 days after the Poplar. Contending that the two theatres are too far apart to be competitive and that the 60-day clearance is unreasonable, the complaint asks that the theatres be declared in separate zones and that the Ashton be granted a run immediately after Canal St. first runs.

Dismissal in Philadelphia

In Philadelphia, S. Eugene Kuen, Jr., arbitrator, dismissed the clearance complaint of N. Herman Bornstein, operator of the Hatboro Theatre, Hatboro, Pa., against the five consenting companies. The arbitrator ruled that the present seven-day clearance of Warners' Grove at Willow Grove, Pa., over the Hatboro is reasonable.

sored the Minnesota law declaring "There is no legal reason why theatres in Minnesota should be forced to close for lack of the motion pictures or why the other consenting distributors cannot follow the same course of action to meet the requirements of the state law as has now been taken by Paramount."

The statement said that Paramount's action in applying for exemption from the sales provisions of the decree in the New York Federal court sustains the position consistent held by Allied that Section 23 of the consent decree, pertaining to release measures from state legislation, is binding as Sections 3 and 4, which provide for the trade showing and selling of new season product blocks of five or less, contrary to the Minnesota law.

The statement also pointed to comment by Judge Hugo O. Hanft in his recent decision denying the injunction to halt enforcement of the state law on applications by six major distributors. Judge Hanft wrote that "there is no merit in the contention" that would constitute contempt proceeding in New York to abide by the Minnesota act.

Allied also pointed out that the court stated: "There exists the strong presumption that the act is constitutional and valid and that stands unless and until it is declared unconstitutional by the proper court."

Meanwhile, local exchange official report theatres in many localities are ready operating on curtailed schedule for lack of good product and other contemplating doing so. The situation will hardly be relieved by the local legal actions against Paramount, RKO and 20th Century-Fox for alleged violations of the state law, it was said, since hearings are not scheduled to start in the case until Nov. 2 and, regardless of the outcome, appeals are likely to be taken by either side.

Hearing on Paramount's application for an exemption from the decree's sales provisions to permit the company to sell in Minnesota is scheduled for Friday in New York and a prompt decision is expected.

Major's Face Tax Liens on Bioff Payment

Supreme Court ruling has up-this contention, it was stated.
principal witness as the defense its case Friday was Pat Casey, ducers' labor contact. Under direct ination by Michael Luddy, attorfor Bioff, he testified that Nicho-
M. Schenck, president of Loew's, not present at the Saturday morn-basic pact meeting on April 18,
This was the date on which enck had previously testified one and Bioff had submitted their quotation of $50,000 from the principal companies and $25,000 from others, to Schenck and Sidney R. t, president of 20th Century-Fox.

Dates Cleared Up

The discrepancy in dates, however, quickly cleared on cross-examion when Casey explained that he given the dates to C. C. Mosnitz and mistakenly had told the er that Schenck had attended all meetings.

Casey declared that nobody had ever him that Browne or Bioff were g paid money, or that they had anded any, or of any threat to ke if the money was not paid.

He testified that since
Browne became IATSE presi-ent the producers had paid a total of $5,000,000 in wage increases to members of that union. He described Browne's attitude as "rather pugnacious" at the meetings with producers and that his represen-
just as vigorous and "just as pugnacious" after the date of the alleged payments. He said that he had never noticed any change in attitude on the part of Browne.

Under cross-examination, Casey declared that he represented the producers in their studio labor problems y and had nothing to do with the e labor. He said the closing of thees in 1935-1936 would have "put producers out of business" and at this condition obtained up to the esent year but was no longer true.

Tells of Disputes

Casey began with the situation in 33 when the International Brotherod of Electrical Workers and the TSE were contending for jurisdicion over soundmen. The IATSE threw from the basic pact that year
d its membership in the studios opped from five or six thousand to out 150, with the IBEW and the rpenters dividing the membership ween them. In 1935, after the Chigo theatre strike, Browne demanded at IATSE men be restored to the udio, Casey continued, and Schenck ld Casey that he wanted the IATSE stored to the basic pact because it ould save Loew's a great deal of ouble in the theatres.

Leaders of the other unions in the ct objected to the restoration of the ATSE but after insistence by Browne at his men "were not going to be cked around" and a Sunday conference which lasted from 10 A.M. to 8
M., the other unions agreed to the restoration and the producers accepted their decision.

Casey also testified to disputes over jurisdiction with the American Society of Cinematographers, the IATSE demands for a closed shop and 10 per cent increases granted the IATSE in 1936 and 1937.

The first witness for the defense was a typist employed by the Postal Telegraph Co., who testified that she had transcribed a telegram signed by Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Warner to Mr. and Mrs. William Bioff in February, 1938, wishing the latter "bon voyage" as they were about to embark on a vacation cruise. After objecting to admission of this testimony, Mathias F. Correa, U. S. Attorney, brought out on cross-examination that the stenographer did not know who signed the telegram or who sent it, except that it came over the Warner Bros. direct wire.

Defense counsel were unable Friday to state who the next witnesses would be. They said that they would spend the weekend conferring about the procedure.

NBC Accepts Beer and Ale Sponsorship

NBC has decided to accept beer and ale advertising on its network, thus abandoning its policy of refusing network business from sponsors who advertise alcoholic beverages, it was learned over the weekend, and has taken the Ballantine Ale and Beer account away from Mutual for broadcast on about 80 stations of the Blue network.

The program, "Three Ring Time," which features Milton Berle, Charles Laughton, Bob Crosby's band, Shirley Ross and Bill Godwin, started on Mutual in September.

Although the 13-week contract on Mutual will not have expired by Tuesday, Nov. 7, it will start over NBC on that date. Mutual refused to comment on the situation but it was reported that the sponsor is prepared to pay for the time over Mutual, if necessary, in order to start over NBC-Blue on the scheduled date.

Although NBC has accepted beer and ale accounts over its wholly owned single stations in the past, such sponsors have been consistently rejected for the network. The code adopted by the National Association of Broadcasters bans only "hard or spirituous liquors," making no mention of beer. On the other hand, the "Working Manual" issued by NBC for the guidance of its staff, advertising agencies and sponsors on the network's program policies, declares: "Alcoholic beverages may not be advertised on any network program."

Readers' Say-So

Editor, MOTION PICTURE DAILY:

In your issue of Oct. 20, I notice a letter from an exhibitor, regarding my original comment on gossip writers who take advantage of a few liberties. However, his remarks were entirely different, because he speaks of local critics. Therefore, the matter should be clarified.

In my original letter, I was not referring to directly-paid employees of newspapers, radio stations or magazines, who operate under supervision of said owners.

I was only referring to a few individuals who operate on a wide commercial scale, digging up "dirt," and lease or syndicate their gossip, on a rental basis to all newspapers desiring the service.

I thought I would pass this along so fellow-exhibitors won't take the wrong attitude toward local critics, who are justified in expressing their personal opinions, pro or con. The final judge will always be our box-office, so let's have opinions from anyone, as long as they are frank and sincere, and do not touch on petty personal matters and slanderous accusations.

THIS PHOTO TELLS ITS OWN STORY

The men who pass through these portals may not be the world's most beautiful males but they're FRIENDLY. This is the door of the M-G-M Home Office Sales Department. Note that it is open. Note also the Wellcome on the mat. The mat was placed there when this picture was made so that the photo would express truly the spirit that lives there always. And this symbol is duplicated in spirit in every M-G-M Branch Office throughout the land, as well as in those far places of the world where the Lion still bravely carries on. The Open Door policy at M-G-M was not born yesterday. It has existed all the years we have been in business and out of its operation M-G-M came to be known as THE FRIENDLY COMPANY. To say it simply: "Your M-G-M representative wants to know your problems. He cannot know them until you tell him. The door is always open." Welcome Mr. Exhibitor!

"Swing It Soldier"

Hollywood, Oct. 27

AN ARRAY of radio personalities, whose reputations give showmen plenty of material with which to exploit the film, are grouped here in a picture about radio and radio people which, sketchy in story but strong in the musical numbers which take up perhaps half of the footage, provides quite a package of entertainment.

Radio personalities present and displaying their wares are Ken Murray, Frances Langford, Don Wilson, Brenda and Cobina, Hanley ("Daddy") Stafford, Senor Lee, Skinnay Ennis and his orchestra, Kenny Stevens, Stop, Look and Listen, Three Cheers and some others. Also present are Iris Adrian, Lewis Howard, Thurston Hall, Kitty O'Neil, Lew Valentine, Peter Sullivan and Tom Dugan.

Ten musical numbers, ranging from solos to ensembles, and from "Melancholy Baby" and "Annie Laurie" to modern swing tunes, give the production its sparkle, snap and principal entertainment.

In between the musical numbers the cast engages in narrating a yarn about a radio salesman who mistakes an ingenue who isn't expectant for her sister who is and tries unsuccessfully to safeguard her health for her husband in the service. This isn't very funny and detracts from an otherwise amusing picture.

Joseph G. Sanford produced, erring only in his selection of the subordinated theme, and Harold Young directed with considerable skill his multi- and vari-talented cast.

Running time, 66 minutes. "G."*

"Zis Boom Bah"

(Monogram)

Hollywood, Oct. 27

INTRODUCING Grace Hayes, Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy as principal characters in a tale about a run-down college revitalized by music and football, this Sam Katzman production directed by William Nigh has its moments of charm when the principals are exercising their known talents as entertainers and its moments of tedium while dialogue is being spoken by way of supplying connective between these highlights.

Grace Hayes, portraying the mother of a college spendthrift, displays a personality that rates her a future in films. Peter Lind Hayes gets results with impersonations and vaudeville routines but doesn't attempt much in the way of acting. Mary Healy sings well and exhibits some acting ability. Benny Rubin brightens the proceedings whenever the camera is turned his way, Skeets Gallagher amuses as a college president and Roland Dupree, a 16-year-old tap dancer, steals the picture from everybody every time he cuts loose. His is a gift for talent scouts to write home about.

In the course of the proceedings a band of youngsters portraying college students dance repeatedly, part of the time as participants in a sort of night club college show, and the background tale relates their musical accomplishments in some fashion to the winning of gridiron victories which result in rehabilitation of the college, a process which the script fails to make clear but which doesn't much matter.

Running time, 62 minutes. "G."*

"Public Enemies"

(Republic)

THIS tells the story of the reporter who blunders, is given a permanent leave of absence, retrieves his job by scoring the beat of the year, and marries the girl. Starting off fast and gaining momentum as it goes along, the film scores through its brisk, melodramatic, and at times jocular, presentation. It rates as good material for theatres whose patrons favor action and care little about minor inconsistencies so long as a happy ending is attained.

Philip Terry and Wendy Barrie are chiefly concerned, with assistance in the comedy department by Edgar Kennedy and William Frawley, all of whom work energetically throughout. Also taking part are Marc Lawrence, Nana Bryant, Willie Fung, Paul Fix, Russell Hicks and Tim Ryan. Speed is the essence of Albert S. Rogell's direction. Robert North was associate producer.

Running time, 66 minutes "G."*

Extend Construction Limitation in Canada

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—By way of further tightening up on construction restrictions, which affect the theatre industry in the Dominion, C. Blake Jackson of the Government Priorities Office has announced a ban on the importation of structural machinery or equipment, the installed cost of which would be in excess of $5,000, except under special license of the board. The step is described as "a natural sequence" to the policy of limiting civilian construction except for war and basic industrial purposes.

The embargo will affect extensive theatre installations, such as large air conditioning plants and heating units, and is regarded as a further ban on important remodelling projects, applications for a number of which are before the priorities board from the amusement industry.

finds it "unnecessary to add anything to his excellent statement."

W. A. Wiedersheim, the arbitrator, found that the seven-day clearance of the neighboring Rialto Theatre over the Hill is reasonable, despite the fact that it subjected the Hill automatically to a 14-day clearance in favor of the adjoining Sedgwick Theatre.

Fred Rowlands, owner of the Parsons Theatre, Columbus, O., filed an appeal yesterday from the Cincinnati award denying a change of clearance for the house from the five consenting distributors in relation to the Markham Theatre. The case was dismissed by Arthur Dunlap, arbitrator, early this month. The appeal is Rowlands' second. His first was taken from a denial of a clearance change for his Main Theatre, Columbus. That appeal was denied by the national board.

Oriental Hearing Is Postponed to Dec. 15.

new pictures, enjoyed a roaring business.

On the strength of its weekend performance, "Honky Tonk" will play its fifth week at the Capitol, the first at the theatre's standard prices to do so since "David Copperfield" in 1933. It brought an estimated $16,000 Thursday through Sunday and will begin its fifth week Thursday.

Now in its fifth week at the Roxy "A Yank in the R.A.F.," with a stag show, drew weekend business that would ordinarily warrant an additional week's playing time but because of the congested booking schedule it bows out Thursday night to make way for "Belle Starr." The show grossed an estimated $30,000 Friday through Sunday.

"Sergeant York," with Phil Spitalny's orchestra, continues strong at the Strand, giving the theatre an estimated $24,200 Friday through Sunday. The show, now in its second week will be held.

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" ends its 11th week at the Astor Sunday night with an estimated $7,400 and continues. "Target for Tonight" in its second week at the Globe, was good for an estimated $4,000 Saturday and Sunday and will be another holdover.

Short Subject Reviews

Lend a Paw

(Disney Cartoon)
(RKO)

Hollywood Sports

(RKO Pathe)

I'll Fix It

(Edgar Kennedy Comedies)
(RKO)
Edgar Kennedy, the husband to whom everything happens, this time decides to save the plumber's charge by installing a new hot-water heater, and goes about doing it himself, amply hindered by brother-in-law and wife. What befalls him is more than anyone should have to stand, and it is good for a few laughs. Running time, 17 mins. Release, Oct. 17, 1941.

Helping Hands

(Our Gang)
(M-G-M)

The Frozen North

Bioff Attempts to Shift Blame on Film Executives

sisted that he was merely a go-between or "pickup man."

Bioff admitted receiving large sums of money, even more than $500,000—"over $1,000,000," he said—but that he "picked it up" in order to give it to Joseph M. Schenck, former chairman of 20th Century-Fox. The money was "collected" from various sources in the trade, Bioff stated.

"I was just a pickup man," he testified.

Bioff described the transactions as being for the purpose of assuaging "sandbagging legislators" around the country.

Names Industry Persons

The labor leader mentioned numerous names of persons in the industry from whom he had received various amounts, but said that he didn't retain the money, turning it over to Joseph M. Schenck. He also testified that a trip to South America and Europe which he made in 1938 was paid for by industry persons.

His testimony covered a wide period, allegedly from 1934 up to the present. He met Nicholas M. Schenck, Bioff stated, after the IATSE in 1934 took over the affairs of Local 306, New York operators' union.

C. C. Moskowitz introduced him to N. M. Schenck, Bioff testified. He also testified that it was in July, 1935, that he was approached by N. M. Schenck to be a go-between with Joseph M. Schenck in handling money to be used for placating legislators who were attacking the industry.

Bioff testified that he told N. M. Schenck he would gladly be of assistance in this respect. Following two or three conversations about the matter, N. M. Schenck told him that Paramount and Warner Bros. were "in trouble" and that Bioff should communicate with John Balaban and James Coston in Chicago, and in consequence obtained $60,000 in currency from John Balaban and $30,000 in cash from Coston. A week later, Bioff stated, he visited Joseph M. Schenck in Hollywood and turned over the $90,000 to him.

Told to Expect More

Bioff testified further that N. M. Schenck told him shortly after this, in New York, that he could expect other sums of money from C. C. Moskowitz, Major L. E. Thompson of RKO and Marvin Schenck. Bioff said he received $7,500 from Marvin Schenck, $10,000 from Major Albert Warner, $25,000 from C. C. Moskowitz and $20,000 from Thompson, and that he turned this money over to Joseph M. Schenck. Bioff also said he got $500 expense for making the trip. In all, Bioff said, he made 12 such payments to Joseph M. Schenck between August, 1935 and February, 1937, but that these did not include payments made as a result of the Dupont-Smith & Aller deal.

Bioff added that the last payment he received was from Attorney Austin C. Keough, general counsel of Paramount, which he said was probably in 1935.

The labor leader also testified that it was agreed between Joseph M.

Schenck and himself in these transactions to use "Mr. Link" as a code name in telephone conversations.

Bioff listed as others from whom he received money Samuel Brenner, Chicago attorney; two other attorneys whose names he could not recall; Henry Herzbrun, then a Paramount studio executive; Harry M. Warner, Sidney M. Kent, Nicholas M. Schenck; Samuel Carlisle, George Skouras; Hugh J. Strong, Charles Skouras; Mort Singer and Jules Rubens, of B. & K.

Bioff testified that he turned over all money collected from Norman Thor Nelson, his brother-in-law, and Harry Beatty, former IATSE representative, which these two obtained as commissions from Smith & Aller, also to Joseph M. Schenck, the last payment being made in April this year. Bioff said he received nothing further from Beatty after that date and therefore paid nothing to Joseph M. Schenck.

Said U. S. Inquiring

Shortly before February, 1938, Joseph M. Schenck told Bioff, the latter said, "that Government agents are searching the different company's books about these payments and that it would be best for me to be out of the way so that they could not interrogate me." Bioff said Joseph M. Schenck suggested that he take the Rio de Janeiro trip.

Bioff said he got the trip gratis and received his transportation tickets from Ruth Noland, Joseph M. Schenck's secretary. Mrs. Bioff accompanied him on the trip, Bioff said. They left on the SS. Normandie on Feb. 5, 1938, and returned at the end of that month, Bioff said. Upon his return, Bioff stated he was met by C. C. Moskowitz who, he said, telephoned Joseph M. Schenck and who was advised that conditions had become much better "but that I should proceed on to London and that Mr. Moskowitz would make the arrangements."

Went to Europe

Bioff testified that he received tickets to London where he was met by Francis L. Harley, in charge of the 20th Century-Fox London office, and Robert T. Kane. All hotel bills were paid by Harley and a car was placed at his disposal, Bioff said. Subsequently, Harley suggested a visit to Paris, Bioff continued, and he spent seven or eight days there where similar arrangements were made for him by the 20th Century-Fox representative. A car was placed at his disposal and a short trip through Belgium and Holland was arranged, Bioff said.

Upon his return to Los Angeles, Bioff said, he met Joseph M. Schenck who told him "that things were shaping up pretty fair and not to worry about it; he said not to say anything to anybody and to sit tight; he told me not to circulate too much."

In the Spring of 1939, Bioff stated, Joseph M. Schenck told him that Government agents had detected the payments for the trip and it was arranged that Bioff was to write Schenck a letter thanking him for the "loan." Schenck gave him $500 to enclose in the letter, Bioff said.

Bioff then continued with a story of a $100,000 transaction with Joseph M. Schenck in 1937. Bioff said that he had wished to purchase a farm and that Schenck agreed to lend him $100,000 to pay for the land and improvements.

Bioff said he was reluctant to accept the loan as he feared a "check-up." "With my position in the labor movement, it wouldn't look well," he stated. However, the loan was arranged with Arthur W. Stebbins, Schenck's nephew, but the real estate deal did not go through, and Bioff said he returned the $100,000 in cash to Joseph M. Schenck in the presence of Miss Noland.

Joseph M. Schenck thereupon offered to help Bioff make some money, the defendant testified and arranged for a purchase of 1,000 shares of 20th Century-Fox stock at 21½ when it was selling at 24½; 500 shares of Consolidated Oil at 11 when it was selling at 13, and 500 additional shares of Consolidated Oil at the market.

Elliott, who preceded George E. Browne as IATSE president; a telephone company representative who identified slips showing a phone call from Loew offices in New York to a "Mr. Link;" and a representative of the travel agency which arranged Bioff's trip to Europe.

War Brings Longer Playtime in Turkey

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—In an effort to conserve film stocks, theatres in Turkey are holding films for a far greater length of time than had been the practice before the war, according to a report by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The loss of the French product has caused an increase of the number of English-speaking films shown. Theatre attendance is holding up well. Admission tickets are taxed a total of 20 per cent, but exhibitors are required to absorb the levy. The United States is still overwhelmingly the chief source of origin of films exhibited in Turkey, supplying 108 out of 164 during the first half of this year.

Kentucky Will Halt Tax Ticket Printing

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 27.—Discontinuance of state printing of tax tickets for small theatres and amusement places because of new Federal regulations has been made known by Revenue Commissioner H. Clyde Reeves.

The new regulations, Reeves said, require the name of each theatre to be printed on its tickets. Since 1936, the State Revenue Department has supervised the printing of tickets for between 800 and 900 small amusement places and charged the cost to the operations in addition to the state tax levied on them.

Protest Breakdown Of Clear Channels

ROCHESTER, Oct. 27.—Strong objection to a further breakdown by the FCC of clear channel radio broadcasting stations was voiced in a resolution adopted by the Central Western Zone, State Teachers Association, here. More than 7,000 teachers attended the sessions.

The House of Delegates took the stand on the ground "that such action will deprive the rural areas and small towns of the United States of the present high standards of broadcasting service."

Increase QKW Power

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—Work has begun on increasing QKW's power from 5,000 to 50,000 watts, preparatory to the station replacing KSFO as CBS northern California outlet, on Jan. 1, according to owner-manager Ralph R. Brunton, former NAB director.

Thompson's term last June 30.

America First Not Barred: Trammell

Niles Trammell, NBC president, yesterday answered charges of the America First Committee that its spokesmen had been barred from the air by the major networks by pointing out that "self-styled anti-war speakers" had broadcast 70 times over NBC as compared with 56 broadcasts by speakers "whom you are pleased to designate pro-war advocates."

Trammell said that 30 minutes had been offered over 62 stations to the speakers who will address a meeting in Madison Square Garden Thursday night but that the time had been refused.

New Station Brings Mexico Total to 109

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 27.—Operating commercial radio stations in this country have been increased to 109 with the opening in Queretaro, capital of Queretaro state, of XEJX, of 5,000 watts, owned and operated by Ramon Rodriguez Familiar, former Queretaro governor.

Station XELZ here is now operating at 1,000 watts and has a new frequency of 1440 keys.

Only Network Plea to Delay F. C. C. Rules

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Further deferment of the application of the new network regulations scheduled to go into effect Nov. 15, will be ordered only on formal application from the networks, it was declared today by FCC Chairman James L. Fly.

The commission itself, Fly said, has no present intention of ordering any postponement of the effective date. So far, he added, no application has been received for such deferments.

Both CBS and NBC have declared that they would take the issue to the courts. CBS stated that it would seek a court injunction to prevent enforcement of the new rules, pending a court decision of the rights of the FCC to enact the new regulations, while NBC said it was relying on Fly's previous statement that there would be no effort to enforce the rules if the networks took the matter to the courts.

Theatres Unaffected By Ottawa Blackout

OTTAWA, ONT., Oct. 27.—The first complete test blackout in the 60 square miles of the Ottawa Federal District last night had little effect on theatre business.

The Cartier and Laurier theatres in Hull, although their marquee lights were extinguished, carried on during the half-hour blackout and managers reported average audiences. As it was Sunday, no theatres were open in Ottawa, and managers made sure that all visible lights were put out Saturday night.

Off Grilled in False Oaths At U. S. Trial

Admits Perjury in Other Legal Proceedings

Do you feel bound by the sanctity of an oath?" Federal Judge C. Knox demanded of Wilfrid Bioff, IATSE leader, on trial for extortion, in court, yesterday.

"No," said Bioff, after his attorney, Michael Luddy, arose to object to the court's question as "judicial."

Judge Knox's question came at the conclusion of Bioff's cross-examination by U. S. District Attorney Mathew F. Correa.

To Correa, Bioff admitted that he had testified falsely twice before in legal proceedings and that he had also falsified an application for insurance. He also admitted under Correa's examination that he had not given an accurate story about his employment under his own lawyer's direct examination.

Correa, after getting Bioff to admit he had never been a stagehand,

Chicago, New Haven Exhibitors Win Cut In Zone Clearance

Exhibitor plaintiffs in Chicago and New Haven won clearance reductions through arbitration actions at the local boards yesterday.

Meanwhile, in Philadelphia, the clearance complaint of Lewen Pizor, president of the United M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, on behalf of his Tioga Theatre, Philadelphia, was withdrawn. The complaint named Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and Warners and was scheduled for hearing at the arbitration board there today.

The Chicago clearance adjustment results from the settlement by RKO of a complaint brought by K & S Theatre Corp. for its Sheridan Theatre, North Chicago, Ill. Under the settlement, the Sheridan's former run of second week of general release is restored to it. The house alleged that it had been deprived of the run by RKO and Warners some time ago and subjected to clearance in favor of the Times, Waukegan, which is two

"How Green Was My Valley"

THERE is no question that Darryl Zanuck's production of the popular and widely read novel, "How Green Was My Valley," by Richard Llewellyn, is an achievement in the art of the screen of which 20th Century-Fox and all connected with the film may well be proud.

It is a moving, dramatic story of the drab lives of the people of a Welsh mining town, personified in the Morgan family, deeply attached to their once green and charming valley, turned tawdry and smoke-laden by the coal mine which gives sustenance—but hardly enough—to the townspeople. The production had been beautifully mounted, and directed with rare skill by John Ford, who hereby adds another feather to an already well-filled cap. There is quality enough for praise to go completely around.

Too much cannot be said of the performances. There is little to choose among them, so consistently excellent are they all, including Donald Crisp, as Mr. Morgan; Maureen O'Hara, his daughter; Sara Allgood, his wife; Walter Pidgeon, the preacher; Anna Lee, wife of one of Morgan's six sons; Roddy McDowall, the small son; John Loder, the eldest; Barry Fitzgerald, contributing high comedy with his accent and appearance; the Welsh Singers; Patric Knowles, the ex-boxer, and all the rest.

"How Green Was My Valley"

It is a sharply etched picture of this town and its people, done with consummate skill in art direction, photography and settings to provide a depth of realism rarely matched.

It is true that the film at times moves slowly, but that is quite in keeping with the lives and manner of the people concerned. There is little of preachment, other than an occasional sharply drawn contrast between mine owners and workers, and a cry for the necessity of unionizing for the benefit of the miners.

The story is told from the first person viewpoint of the small son, recounting his early years in the valley, which form the basis of the story. Pictured is the flow of life of the Morgan family, dutiful, respectful, hard-working, making much of little things, saddened by the hypocrisy of the scandal-loving gossips, who feast upon the love of the preacher and Miss O'Hara.

Highlighting the picture are the denunciation by Miss Allgood of the men who would ostracize her husband because he protests their union activities; the boy's first days in the national school, when he is bullied by older, wealthy boys and a tyrannical and brutal schoolmaster, and the delightful bit in which the ex-boxer and Fitzgerald administer a sound thrashing to that schoolmaster; the fire and explosion in the colliery, which kill Morgan, in the unending scheme of life in the mining town.

The film is fully worthy of every effort exhibitors can put into its selling, as a fine and distinguished example of what the screen can accomplish.

Running time, 118 minutes. "G."*

"Riders of Black Mountain"

(Producers Releasing)

THIS is lacking in effectiveness. Flaws in sound and photography combined with generally poor staging are chiefly responsible.

What appears to be the western's sole asset is the name of Tim McCoy, who has the lead, that of a marshal posing as a gambler while investigating a series of stagecoach holdups. The yarn is strictly routine.

Sigmund Neufeld produced the picture, which was directed by Peter Stewart. Rex Lease, Edward Peil, Sr., Frank La Rue and Pauline Hadden are in supporting roles.

Running time, 59 minutes. "G."*

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 28.—"Down Mexico Way" and a stage show featuring Smiley Burnette, drew $8,700 at the Tower. "Unfinished Business" drew well at the Esquire and Uptown in nine days.

duties in the distribution department. Bernhard will be among the home office executives who will attend the meeting of Warners' branch managers here Friday and Saturday.

The meeting was called by Benjamin Kalmenson, newly appointed general sales manager, who is scheduled to make several appointments to fill existing vacancies in executive posts in the sales organization, among them three district managerships covering the South and Southwest.

Bernhard joined Warners in 1929. In addition to heading the theatre subsidiary he is a member of the board of Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., and a vice-president and director of the Stanley Co. of America. He was associated with the latter company before joining Warners. He became head of the theatre department in 1931 after a period as head of the company's real estate department.

He is chairman of the theatre division of the Motion Picture Committee Cooperating for National Defense and chairman of the USO Theatre drive. In 1938 he was named by Governor Harry Moore of New Jersey to serve as chairman of the Unemployment Relief Commission, and until recently was a member of the Health, Welfare and Recreation committee of the New Jersey Defense Council.

Bioff Admits Giving False Testimony, Grilled by U.S.

pointed to testimony given by the defendant before a California legislative committee in which he had testified that he had been a stagehand and a member of the IATSE since 1923. Bioff answered flatly that he was never a stagehand or a member of the union.

"Then why did you tell the committee that you were?" Correa demanded.

"I said it for the benefit of a bunch of Communists," was Bioff's reply.

"You mean the California legislative committee was a bunch of Communists?" Correa continued.

"I never was stagehand," answered Bioff.

Admits Falsehoods

Correa persisted in his questioning along those lines until Judge Knox insisted that the witness give a direct answer. Bioff thereupon admitted that he had not told the truth to the committee.

Correa questioned Bioff with reference to his testimony that his first employment in the labor movement was as driver of a car for Jerry Leahy in Chicago. Producing testimony given in habeas corpus proceedings in Chicago on March 6, 1940, in connection with Bioff's 1922 pander conviction, Correa pointed out that Bioff there testified under oath that he had been employed by Mike Galvin and had not mentioned Leahy.

Bioff admitted that he had not told the truth in that case. Asked why he had given false testimony, he stated that Mike Galvin had been a prominent Democratic leader in Chicago and that he had wished to convey the impression that he was a friend.

"Were you trying to impress the judge?" Judge Knox demanded. Bioff hastily replied that he was trying to impress friends of his who were sitting in court and who might not remember him because he had put on weight since he had left Chicago.

Defense Objects

Correa followed this by asking whether Bioff had subsequently dropped Galvin's name in his direct testimony in the present case because Galvin had been killed in a Chicago gang war but this was ruled out after defense objections.

Following this, Correa introduced an application for a life insurance policy certified as true by Bioff in 1926 in which he stated that he had been employed as superintendent of a brick yard in St. Joseph, Mich., for 10 years. Bioff explained that he thought it was necessary to be employed to obtain life insurance and had falsified the application for that reason. He said he had been employed in that capacity for about six months "on and off" in 1926. Philip D'Andrea was owner of the yard.

Following Judge Knox's question about whether the defendant felt bound by the sanctity of an oath, the court recessed until this morning when Bioff's cross-examination will continue.

Earlier, on direct examination, Bioff had given flat denials of any threats or demands for money from industry executives and had stated that his co-de- fendant, George E. Browne, president of the IATSE, had never known of the payments of money by industry executives for delivery to Joseph M. Schenck, as Bioff had previously testified, nor had Browne ever been present on such occasions. Browne knew nothing of the Smith & Aller deal for raw stock commissions, Bioff also said.

Toward the close of his direct testimony, Bioff told how he had been arrested on Thanksgiving Day, 1939, on 1922 pander charges, just as an ultimatum given to producers on a strike was about to expire. On cross-examination, Correa asked whether Bioff had meant to imply that the producers had caused the arrest. Bioff replied that he thought that some of the producers who were unfriendly to him had caused the arrest. Bioff later admitted that he had told trade paper reporters at that time that Joseph M. Schenck had caused the arrest. Bioff, however, admitted also that he had continued to act as "messenger" in the delivery of money for Schenck after his return from jail.

Relates Stock Deals

Most of the day was taken up with Bioff's testimony of how he had been aided in stock deals by Joseph M. Schenck and of his friendly relations with Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros. Bioff said he closed out his stock account at the request of Schenck when the latter complained that tax agents were bothering him about a $100,000 loan. In addition to dividends, Bioff, said, he made about $1,500 on the transaction and returned the money advanced to Schenck. He said the latter "declared me in" on card game winnings of $8,000 in 1937 and $4,375 in 1938, how he received a sun cabinet in 1936, and that he had received about $20,000 in all in gifts from Schenck.

Bioff also told of attending religious services with Warner, of being a guest at Harry M. Warner's home two or three times a week, of clocking horses with Warner, and of being permitted to buy stock in the Hollywood Turf Club and similar incidents.

He said S. R. Kent arranged for Charles G. Russell, former head tax commissioner, to handle income tax details for him.

Invited by Warner

Bioff said that Harry M. Warner had invited him to attend a meeting at which the industry organized to oust Communists and Bundists from the industry.

He said that Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's had told him that it was necessary to "take advantage" of the 7½ per cent commission offered by Smith & Aller on the raw stock deal and that Nicholas M. Schenck made the arrangements with Louis B. Mayer, Loew's studio head. All commissions collected were turned over to Bioff who turned them over to Joseph M. Schenck after deductions for salaries and income taxes, Bioff testified.

Russell and Ruth Nolander, Joseph M. Schenck's secretary, are scheduled to be called as defense witnesses, it was indicated yesterday.

Chicago, New Haven Exhibitors Win Cut In Zone Clearance

and one-quarter miles distant. Warners was eliminated from the complaint three weeks ago after restoring the run requested by the Sheridan.

At New Haven, A. A. Ribicoff, arbitrator, ruled that the existing clearance for the New Newington Theatre Newington, Conn., operated by Fred Quatrano, is unreasonable and established a maximum clearance for the house of 21 days after New Britain first run. The case named all five consenting distributors. Since Warners' Strand and Embassy in New Britain were interested parties, the arbitrator's award does not apply to the clearance which that company allows those houses on its own product. Costs were divided equally among the parties.

In its complaint the New Newington had set forth that some distributors had offered it 30 days' clearance after New Britain first run and others had offered it 37 days. The theatre had sought a reduction of clearance to seven days. The arbitrator held that even though the award is likely to give the New Newington a clearance prior to the Palace, a New Britain second run, that fact "will not be detrimental to the latter theatre's revenue nor to the revenue of the distributors."

Music Peace Is Due Today; Webs to Sign

NBC and CBS were reported late yesterday to be prepared to sign the new Ascap licensing agreements today.

It was indicated that in the event the often delayed signing takes place as expected, NBC will be prepared to resume the use of Ascap music on its stations beginning tomorrow morning.

CBS, however, is reported considering a wait of one week after signing to permit its sponsors to plan their programs with the knowledge that the new music will be available then.

It was reported that both networks have received notice of acceptances of the new Ascap contract from considerably more than 90 per cent of their independent affiliated stations, but that neither network has received 100 per cent acceptances yet.

In addition, numerous minor points involving the new pacts are said to be still in dispute. However, to facilitate the signing of the agreement by the networks today, it has been agreed that covenants covering the subjects in dispute will be placed in escrow, permitting their settlement after the formal signing of the contracts themselves.

Ascap music has been off the two major networks since Jan. 1 of this year. It was returned to the Mutual network under a separate agreement last May.

The "unlimited emergency" speech of May 27 drew a rating of 70, according to Hooper surveys; the "shoot first" talk, Sept. 11, drew 67.4, and the fireside chat of Dec. 29 on national security drew 59. ### AFM Edict Brings Show Cancellation

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 28.—Stage shows at the Stanley Theatre have been cancelled after Oct. 30 as result of the ban by James Petrillo, AFM president, on name bands in theatres until the Social Security issue is settled, according to Joseph Feldman, Warner Theatres publicity head here.

The Stanley shows feature Max Adkins' house band and several vaudeville acts, even when a name band is the attraction. However, Feldman believed the no-stage-show edict would stand unless the AFM permits travelling bands to play. Xavier Cugat had been booked for the week starting Oct. 31.

Circuits and AFM Settle Band Dispute

Ascap Music Back On Air as Networks Sign New Contract

The music war between the major networks and Ascap which has kept the society's music off the leading radio stations since Jan. 1 ended yesterday with the signing of new Ascap licensing agreements by NBC and CBS.

NBC authorized its stations to resume Ascap music immediately. CBS wired its stations that Ascap could be returned to the air beginning today. The contracts are for an 18-year period and provide for payment by networks to Ascap of 2 3/4 per cent of their annual net billings. Clearance at the source is provided, and under it individual stations pay 2 1/4 per cent. The Mutual network, which signed with Ascap last May on a three per cent royalty, will be entitled to the lower rate.

It has been estimated that the new radio contracts will yield Ascap approximately $3,000,000 annually, as compared with an estimated $5,000,000 which the society received from radio last year.

Review

"Blues in the Night"

(Warners)

A CURIOUS mixture of tune and tragedy has been woven in this picture, which recounts the adventures of a group of young instrumentalists imbued with a desire to interpret the voice of America as found in the "blues" jazz music. That desire and attempt to "get somewhere" leads them through a series of adventures which add up to satisfactory entertainment. The jazz renditions should appeal to the younger generation especially.

The weakness in the film is its inconclusive ending, which finds the group back in a freight train box-car, presumably happy with one other, but without purpose. In featured roles are Priscilla Lane and Richard Whorf, she as the wife of one of them, and he as the leader. Whorf, a newcomer, offers a performance indicating considerable ability. In good support are Betty Field, Lloyd Nolan, as the gangster and his girl, with whom the band become seriously entangled; Jack Carson, Elias Kazan, Peter Whitney and Billy Halop, members of the band, and Wally Ford, in a fine bit as the cringing hanger-on at Nolan's cafe.

Pace, speed and action have been imparted in the direction of Anatole Litvak, while Henry Blanke was associate producer. An outstanding technical bit is provided in the picturization of the disturbed mental state of Whorf while delirious during a severe illness.

Running time, 88 minutes. "G."*

HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY

"Magnificent production rich in box office potentialities which will be included in the album of outstanding films of all time... 'How Green Was My Valley' glows with greatness!"

—The Film Daily

"Richard Llewellyn's moving and eloquent novel, 'How Green Was My Valley,' has been translated to the screen with consummate artistry! It is a distinguished and enormously absorbing narrative. Once again, the director of 'The Informer' and other notable productions has enriched the screen."

—Rose Pelswick, N.Y. Journal-American

"'HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY' IS SUPERIOR MOTION PICTURE ENTERTAINMENT!"

—Phil Koury, Kansas City Star

"'How Green Was My Valley' is one of the year's better films, a sure-fire critic's picture and, unlike most features that draw kudos from critics, this one will also do business. It's a film that holds much to remember and it is this reminiscent quality that should create a very valuable word-of-mouth. Walter Pidgeon is excellent; Maureen O'Hara splendid; Donald Crisp and Sara Allgood inspired; Anna Lee equally expert; and above all, there is a potential new boy star in Roddy McDowall. An ultra-production."

Blumenstock New National W.B. Ad Chief

duties in the company's advertising and merchandising operations, will be announced by Charles Einfeld, director of advertising and publicity, at the home office meeting here tomorrow of Warner branch managers and sales executives with Benjamin Kalmenson, new general sales manager.

Joseph Bernhard, vice-president and general manager, meanwhile, has called a meeting of Warner theatre zone managers, which will be held here today.

Sales Changes Expected

At the sales meeting, Kalmenson is scheduled to announce a number of realignments. Among those who are expected to be given wider and more important duties, it is reported, are the following managers: F. M. Jack, Dallas; Rud Lohrenz, Chicago; Henry Herbel, Los Angeles; Robert Smeltzer, Washington, and R. L. McCoy, Atlanta.

Blumenstock's new post will include control of advertising budgets and full charge of the national field exploitation force. The appointment, the company said, relates to broader plans for special picture campaigns, closer cooperation with exhibitors on picture merchandising, and increased advertising expenditures.

Will Name Publicity Head

Blumenstock's elevation will necessitate appointment of a national publicity manager, who will be named within the next week, it was stated. Mitchell Rawson, Eastern publicity manager, will continue in his present capacity, the company announcement said.

Blumenstock joined First National Pictures in 1926 as a writer. Subsequently he directed several pictures for Paramount and other companies, and in 1932 joined the Warner-First National advertising department. He has held the post of Eastern advertising and publicity head since 1937.

Roland Corp., operator of the Bayne Theatre, Virginia Beach, Va., against Warners.

The complaint seeks the elimination of 21 days clearance over the Bayne granted the Newport Theatre, Norfolk, by the distributor. Asserting that the Bayne is a first-run house, the complaint describes the clearance as unreasonable and burdensome.

The clearance complaint of the Linden Theatre, Baltimore, has been set for hearing Nov. 5 at the local board, with Milton King as arbitrator. Warners, RKO, Paramount and Metco Theatres, Inc., of Baltimore, are named in the complaint.

prices in Canada may be regulated under the Dominion's new price control law. Referring to the existing 20 per cent admission tax in Canada, he said that while no theatre operator believes or has requested that his business should be exempt from such a tax, most feel that it is higher than necessary and hope for some relief.

The FPC president related that the theatre industry, employing its own showmanship methods, did a national sales job for the Government on War Savings Stamps. Slogans and national advertising were used, theatre marquees were sold to merchants for advertising use for as much as $1,500 per day in war savings stamps; theatres throughout Canada donated an evening's receipts to the purchase of stamps by patrons; employes used the night's wages for stamp purchases, and allied industries contributed materials and services in carrying out the national sales campaign through the theatres.

service men, he said, and numerous other war activities are being engaged in to justify the industry's existence in a war economy.

"Don't wait until you're asked to help," he advised his American audience.

The industry's advertising men here can convey to the public in all the copy they prepare the American industry's role in the national defense program, Fitzgibbons suggested.

Greetings were wired the FPC head by the Mayor of Toronto, by Prime Minister Mitchell Hepburn and by John Grierson, head of the Canadian Film Board.

Among those in the audience were: Barney Balaban, Adolph Zukor, Austin Keough, Leonard Goldenson, T. J. Connors, Haskell Masters, Max Cohen, Leon Netter, Sam Dembow, Claude Lee, Hal Young, George Dembow, Bert Sanford, Arthur Israel, Lou Pollock, Mort Blumenstock, Robert Weltman, George Weltner, Stanton Griffis, Jack Pegler, John Nair, R. J. O'Donnell and Carl Bamford.

Fight Back, Willkie Urges Film Industry

"No industry which has been investigated by a Congressional committee in the last 10 years has come through it with the same quality of spirit as the motion picture industry," Wendell L. Willkie told the Picture Pioneers at the organization's Halloween dinner at Toots Shor's restaurant last night. Willkie is counsel to the industry in the Senate sub-committee investigation.

"The motion picture industry has gained stature as a result of the inquiry," Willkie said. "This should demonstrate to it the lesson not to take maligning lying down but to adopt a more aggressive attitude and fight back."

James J. Walker, former Mayor, initiated 20 new members. Jack Cohn was chairman. About 160 members attended.

Although no statement was made following yesterday's meeting, it is understood that Rodgers expressed the view that the Allied committee should first contact other established exhibitor organizations, so as to obtain a nationally representative character for the unity movement before requesting the distributors or producers to form committees.

In the meantime, Kirsch and Samuelson will meet with other sales executives to acquaint them with the aims of the committee and seek their cooperation in advancing its objectives. The idea of the all-industry committee already has been approved by Abe Montague, Columbia; Arthur W. Kelly, United Artists; W. A. Scully, Universal, and by Rodgers and Paramount.

Active operation of the camp shows will be handled by Camp Shows, Inc., which filed incorporation papers in New York today, with Eddie Dowling as president. The directorate will include Bert Lytell, president of Actors Equity Association, and Y. Frank Freeman, president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers.

A talent pool composed of leading film players is being established in Hollywood and a pool of legitimate stage and variety talent is being formed in New York, to be drawn upon for a steady flow of shows to be sent out at the rate of one every two weeks on a grand circuit of 186 Army and Navy camps.

months and consisted of only "three-four" meetings.

Bioff said he spent about a hour on the first occasion and two hours on subsequent meetings. He said he was not certain whether there were three or four meetings before the matter was first discussed. During these preliminary meetings, Bioff said, many matters were discussed including the affairs of New York theatre projectionists.

Weakness for Flying

Asked by Correa whether he had accepted the job of "messenger" simply because he liked flying to and from the coast, Bioff responded in the affirmative. Bioff was unable to state which legislatures were allegedly intended to be bribed, although he had testified on direct examination that legislative bribery was the purpose of the shipments of money and was able to name only one law, a tax on film footage.

Responding to questions by Judge Knox, Bioff said he saw no inconsistency between acting as labor representative on the one hand and a "messenger" for the producers on the other. He likened his position to that of the attorneys in the case who were friendly outside the courtroom but "have job to do" inside. Pressed by Judge Knox to explain why he did not wish the union members to know of the arrangement if he thought it all right, Bioff said, "People like to think the wrong way."

Again Admits Perjury

Bioff again admitted, as he did on Tuesday, that he had perjured himself under oath, and several other instances were shown. He also stated that he had been known under several different names, although he had given previous testimony that he was known only as William Bioff.

The defendant contended that he was named Morris William Bioff at birth but had dropped the name Morris when he was 13 and that his name now is William M. Bioff. Correa attempted to show that the defendant's true name was William but that he had adopted the name Morris, the name of a half-brother, in 1938 in order to obtain a passport but Bioff denied this.

$200,000 Paid U.S. Agent, Bioff Tells Court at His Trial

Declaration by William Bioff, during his testimony at his trial with George E. Browne on extortion charges, that Joseph M. Schenck had told him that he needed $200,000 in currency to give to Murray Garrison, an investigator at that time for a Congressional committee, and efforts by U. S. Attorney Mathias F. Correa to link the start of Bioff's collections to the murder of Tom Maloy, former head of the Chicago projectionists' union, Local 110, IATSE, were highlights of Bioff's cross-examination yesterday.

Short Subject Reviews

at the Stroke of Twelve" (roadway Brevities)

DAMON RUNYON yarn of gangsters and murder in this ince has been fashioned into a film extraordinary interest whose only shortcoming is its briefness. In the true Runyon style, it is story of a gangster on trial for life, dramatically acquitted by the money of a rich old lady whom he befriended while fleeing from his enemies of the underworld. It is splendidly played by Knox Manning, Craig Evans, Elizabeth Risdon, Howard Darr and others. The short will doubtless contribute considerably to the program. Running time, 20 mins. Release, Nov. 15, 1941.

Perils of the Jungle" (roadway Brevities)

Commander Atillio Gatti and his sappers penetrate the dense Belgian Congo in search of a rare animal called the Okapi, which looks like three other animals. The short has nothing that is unusual on view, except the Okapi, which is finally trapped, but it is well edited and has an interesting commentary by Knox Manning, which, with its subject matter, makes for a worthwhile short. Running time, 20 mins. Release, Oct. 18, 1941.

White Sails" (Hollywood Novelties)

This is a good pictorial subject and is interesting and excitement. It follows the voyage of an aged sailing vessel from Australia to England with a good deal of the footage given to a severe storm during which the ship is lashed from all sides, but with the break of dawn it is clear sailing again. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Nov. 8, 1941.

"HONKY TONK" (M-G-M)

An epic that provides plenty of amorous overtones for those who expected them but is otherwise a pretty baffling proposition.—Newsweek.

A good picture, not because of any story brilliance, but because its cast is smart and excellently directed and because the dialogue is durable and strong.—Robert W. Dana, New York Herald Tribune.

A crowd-catching midway exhibit in which Miss Turner gives a competent, if limited, performance and Mr. Gable again shows off his muscles.—New York Times.

The double-barrel "oomph" of Clark Gable and Lana Turner is not magnetic enough to draw "Honky Tonk" from the mediocre level of its banal writing and ordinary story.—Wanda Hale, New York News.

The fans are going to go for this film in a big way.—Lee Mortimer, New York Mirror.

It is so frankly, unabashedly, unapologetically itself that "Honky Tonk" earns your admiration, makes you forget that it is another lusty, lavish Western.—Jay Carmody, Washington Star.

We couldn't defend "Honky Tonk" on artistic grounds, but it shapes up as a rousing entertainment.—Henry T. Murdock, Philadelphia Ledger.

"YOU'LL NEVER GET RICH" (Columbia)

It is bound to have a tonic effect on box-office returns as well as soldier and civilian morale; and it is one of the big films of 1941.—Donald Kirkley, Baltimore Sun.

A completely gay and spontaneous entertainment. It is not so heavily underlined with farce situations as were the recent Abbott and Costello and Bob Hope ventures in the same direction, but it is higher in chuckle content.—Henry T. Murdock, Philadelphia Ledger.

It is a new Cole Porter musical Columbia utilized to demonstrate the intactness of the Astaire agility and suave charm and it comes off as handsome entertainment, marred by some ratty spots in the story and overlength.—Jay Carmody, Washington Star.

A musical, and by gosh, it's one of the best we've seen in a long time. . . . It moves briskly, is filled with amusing situations, and has the distinction of a fresh, original approach to the overworked story of Army draftees.—Bernie Harrison, Washington Times-Herald.

"HOLD BACK THE DAWN" (Paramount)

A tender and moving romance, full of understandable heartaches and laughter, done with extreme delicacy and sympathetic understanding. . . . a glowing entertainment.—William Bochnel, New York World-Telegram.

studio by Alex Evelove, his assistant for the past year, it is stated. The Taplinger appointment is in line with the company's realignment of its promotion organization and follows the advancement of Mort Blumenstock to the post of national manager of advertising and coordinator of all sales promotion, merchandising and exploitation.

Supervision by Einfeld

The national promotional activities of the company will continue under the supervision of S. Charles Einfeld, national director of advertising and publicity.

Taplinger recently signed a new three-year contract with Warners. He is due from the Coast tomorrow and will attend the home office meeting of Warner sales officials and branch managers, which starts today.

Jack L. Warner, vice-president in charge of production, left the Coast for New York yesterday and is scheduled to attend the sales meeting.

Kalmine has been in theatrical business since 1915, and was successively music boy, stage hand, treasurer, manager and roadshow manager. At the close of the last war he operated his own theatre and later was placed in charge of 16 New Jersey theatres by Louis Rosenthal. He was district manager for Fabian, then joined Warners and served in managerial capacities and as head booker for the circuit here. He was appointed zone manager for Warners in New Jersey and then at Pittsburgh.

Those at Meeting

Those attending the theatre meeting included James Coston, Chicago; Nat Wolf, Cleveland; I. J. Hoffman, New Haven; Don Jacocks, Newark; Moe Silver, Albany; Ted Schlanger, Philadelphia; John Payette, Washington, and home office executives including Clayton Bond, Stewart McDonald, Sam Morris, Harry Goldberg, Leonard Schlesinger, Abel Vigard, Harry Rosenquest and Frank Phelps.

Para. Stockholders Sue on Bioff Fund

A stockholders' suit against Paramount Pictures, Inc., its officers and directors was filed in the U. S. District Court yesterday by Lillian S. Raber and G. Arthur Peck, seeking an accounting of $100,000 allegedly paid by Paramount to William Bioff and George E. Browne.

The complaint claims that the payments were wrongfully concealed from stockholders by the use of "sur-reptitious padded vouchers," and that the acts of Paramount's officers were illegal and invalid. Two suits have been previously filed as a result of the Bioff-Browne case against 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. and one against Loew's.

Ross Leaves on Tour

committee who had received $200,000 from Schenck but Correa refused to ask who the investigator was "from a man of Bioff's credibility who has thought this up over night." When questioned about the incident by his own lawyer, Michael Luddy, Bioff said that Schenck had told him that he needed $200,000 in currency to give to Garrison, at that time working for the Sabath Committee investigating the film industry and receiverships.

Correa brought out that Maloy had died shortly before Bioff began his admitted collections from Chicago theatre operators.

And Sudden Death

"Maloy died in February, 1935?" Correa asked.

"Yes, sir," replied Bioff.

"Suddenly?" pursued the U. S. Attorney.

"Very suddenly," was the answer.

"And you started collecting from the Chicago theatre owners a few months after Mr. Maloy's death?" Correa continued. After several objections and further questions, Bioff admitted that this was so. Bioff denied that he knew of any collections from theatre owners by Maloy.

Charles T. Russell, income tax consultant and former Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue, called as a defense witness, testified that Schenck had suggested in 1938 that the late Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo be asked to intercede for Bioff in Washington.

Russell produced a cablegram received from Schenck on July 31, 1939, while the latter was in Europe. The cablegram read:

"B. is to testify Sacramento. He intends withholding information. I suppose at request of Mac. If he does at least he should get promise from Mac to intercede Washington to stop persecution."

'B' for Bioff

Russell identified "B" as Bioff and "Mac" as Senator McAdoo. The Sacramento testimony referred to a grand jury investigation and the Washington intercession requested was with the income tax authorities, Russell said. He added, however, that he did not see Senator McAdoo and the latter made no intercession.

At one point in the cross-examination, as Correa attempted to show another in a series of perjuries, Judge Knox sustained a defense objection.

"There have been a number of contradictory statements made," said the court.

"I undersand, your honor," Henry A. Uterhart, one of Bioff's lawyers, rose to say, "that you are referring to witnesses for both the prosecution and defense."

"I am referring to the contradictory statements by the witness here," returned Judge Knox, indicating Bioff.

Correa ended the cross examination by challenging Bioff: "Can you name any single proceeding within the past 10 years in which you have testified, where you told the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth?" Strenuous objections by the defense counsel were sustained by the court and Bioff did not answer.

On redirect examination, Luddy questioned Bioff to show that his real name was Morris William Bioff and that he had not assumed that name for purposes of obtaining a passport as intimated by Correa. Luddy stated that Bioff's brothers and sister were in New York and that they would take the stand as witnesses for him.

Tells of That $100,000

Ruth Noland, Schenck's former secretary, another defense witness, testified yesterday that Schenck had counted out $100,000 in currency in the presence of herself and Bioff in June, 1937, and that the money was placed in Schenck's personal box in Schenck's office. Correa, on cross-examination, brought out that Miss Noland did not know whether this money had been given by Bioff to Schenck. Bioff had previously testified that he had returned the $100,000 lent to him by Schenck about this time.

Russell testified that he had first heard of Bioff in April, 1938, when Schenck told him that he had a "friend, William Bioff," who had income tax difficulties and suggested that Russell get in touch with him. Russell testified to having conferences with Bioff and Joseph M. Schenck at the latter's home and office about the $100,000 loan. Several other cablegrams were introduced to show Schenck's interest in the Bioff case.

Bioff was admonished repeatedly by Judge Knox to give direct answer to the questions of Correa.

'Told to Hold Cash'

Bioff, on cross-examination, testified that he received $50,000 each from Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, and Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, in New York. He said he was told to hold the cash until Joseph M. Schenck returned from Europe.

"Didn't it strike you as extremely odd that they asked you to hold this money?" Correa asked.

"I can't help what they think or what they had in mind but the fact remains that's what they did," Bioff responded, adding later, "The whole setup struck me as odd."

He testified that he had never been asked what facilities he had for holding the large amount of currency and that he took out no insurance against its loss by fire or theft. Correa questioned him about Samuel Brenner, a Chicago attorney who, Bioff said, made some of the payments on behalf of the producers. After getting from the defendant the statement that he knew Brenner for about two years before the incident, Correa produced a sworn passport application submitted by Bioff in which Brenner had stated that he knew Bioff for 30 years. Bioff denied that these payments constituted "a local shakedown" in Chicago. Bioff also denied that Nick Dean, also known as Nick Circella, had been appointed collection agent in Chicago after Bioff moved to the coast.

Bioff reiterated that Browne, his co-defendant, was not present when

Rodgers Explains Metro Sales Policy At ITOA Meeting

ay in an explanation of the M-G-M sales policy before the New York ITOA, meeting at the Hotel Astor. Rodgers appeared at his own request to respond to exhibitors' views on the company's sales policy as outlined to Rodgers at a recent meeting with Harry Brandt, ITOA president, Brandt told the meeting. Brandt, in introducing Rodgers, stressed the value of round-table discussions to iron out problems of distribution and exhibition. Rodgers asked the independent exhibitors present to trust M-G-M, stressing the company's past record of fair dealing with exhibitors. Responding to the contention that too many percentage pictures are offered, Rodgers pointed out as an example that in the first two groups of M-G-M films for the new season, totaling seven films, only one, "Honky Tonk" has been designated as a percentage picture for subsequent runs in the New York territory.

Answers Reports on Terms

In answer to the asserted report that some circuits here were getting all Metro product on a flat rental basis, the M-G-M sales chief assured the ITOA members that such was not the case, nor was it true anywhere in the country. He declared that no picture will be designated as percentage unless in the honest judgment of the company sales heads, such designation is justified by the quality of the film.

He pointed out that negative costs have risen tremendously, from an average of $350,000 to $750,000 over a period of years, most of the increase developing within the past few years, and that if negative costs are cut, the quality of the product must necessarily suffer accordingly. Production costs make it necessary that certain pictures be sold percentage, he said.

Comments on Adjustments

At the conclusion of his exposition of the Metro policy, Rodgers answered questions from the floor. He pointed out that adjustments on contracts on individual pictures were sometimes necessary and emphasized that the exhibitor should feel entirely within his rights in asking for such adjustments.

At the meeting were the following M-G-M executives: T. J. Connors, Eastern, Southern and Canadian division manager; E. K. O'Shea, Central division manager; Jack Bowen, New York district manager; Edwin W. Aaron, assistant to Rodgers; Ralph Pielow, New York branch manager, and Ben Abner, Newark manager. Max A. Cohen, president of the Cinema Circuit, also attended.

$450,000 Film Arbitration Budget Seen for Next Year

Feb. 1 has made it possible for the American Arbitration Association to hold costs to a figure comfortably under the $490,000 maximum set by the consent decree for the initial operating period. This was accomplished despite non-recurring costs involved in the establishment of the boards for such items as purchase of furniture and equipment for the 31 local offices.

$465,000 Maximum

The decree sets the maximum budget for the second operating period of the boards at $465,000, but present indications are that the actual budget will be slightly less than that amount. The economical operation during the initial period eliminated whatever disposition there might have been to seek the reduction of some of the boards at this time on grounds of economy. It was felt that the small amount which might have been saved would be more than offset by the inconvenience to exhibitors which would result from the elimination of any of the boards.

It is pointed out, also, that the fact that three boards, Des Moines, Indianapolis and Seattle have had no complaints may mean no more than that potential arbitration cases were satisfactorily settled but that complaints requiring arbitration may arise at any time.

Warburg Budget Chairman

Paul Warburg of the A. A. A. is chairman of the budget committee and Joseph H. Hazen of Warners represents the consenting distributors. The costs of the arbitration boards are divided among the five consenting companies.

Defer Arbitrator Selection

GE Named in Trust Action Over Lamps

An anti-trust suit for $1,500,000 triple damages was filed yesterday in the U. S. District Court against General Electric Co. by the Sonolux Co., formerly engaged in the manufacture of incandescent lamps used in film studios and theatres.

The plaintiff contends that in 1933 it had such accounts as Paramount, Warners, and Skouras Theatres, but that it lost these customers because of alleged threats of litigation by the defendant. General Electric has a large number of patents relating to products similar to those manufactured by the plaintiff, the complaint alleges.

Army Boosting Film Service To 555 Houses

The United States Army Motion Picture Service plans the operation of 555 film theatres at 277 posts throughout the country, in a program of wide expansion resulting from the national emergency. The service, which is an Army function apart from USO activity, is making 2,120 feature bookings weekly for 3,516 film showings.

The number of theatres in operation is increasing rapidly, it is said. Tent theatres for the most part are being replaced by more permanent housing, and the remaining out-of-doors showings shortly will be discontinued until next Spring.

Control of the extensive Army film service is centered in national headquarters in Washington. Raymond B. Murray and Fred Bund, Jr., are general manager and assistant manager, respectively. Thomas H. Martell is chief booker. Six district offices are located in St. Louis, Dallas, Atlanta, New York, Washington and Seattle.

The Army film service at present is arranging for 9,211 bookings monthly. The Southeastern and Southwestern districts contain the greatest number of Army posts, each with 53; the Eastern has 48, the Southern, 36; Central, 36; Western, 45, and independent posts number six.

Review

"The King"

(Trio Films)

THIS French film is not for the family. The king of a mythical country, seeking escape from the humdrum affairs of state, visits France, which he knows from past experience, it is explained, offers attractive diversions. The story thereafter is strictly a boudoir farce.

Product of the pre-Vichy France, but unmarred by its age, the satire is liberally flavored with the so-called Continental spice. Thus past reaction should serve as criterion in determining where the film would be appropriate. The risqué element is much in evidence.

Two of France's foremost stars share the lead, Victor Francen, as the king, and Raimu, as the French democrat, whose wife is naive and an easy victim to the charming approach of the regal visitor.

Running time, 93 minutes. "G."* EUGENE ARNEEL

*"A" denotes adult classification.

NBC, CBS Sue For Injunction On FCC Rules

Attacking the new FCC network regulations due to go into effect Nov. 15 as "arbitrary, capricious and contrary to public policy" and beyond the powers of the commission, CBS and NBC filed suit in U. S. District Court here yesterday to enjoin enforcement of the rules.

A hearing will be held next Friday at which the networks will request a temporary injunction pending final disposition of the action. Also sought will be the convening of a statutory court of three judges to review the ruling of the FCC.

Although CBS brought its suit by itself, NBC was joined by Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, owner and operator of WOW, Omaha, Neb., and Stromberg Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Co., owner and operator of WHAM, Rochester, N. Y., as co-plaintiffs.

Both networks had previously announced on Oct. 11, the date the rules were promulgated, that they intended to bring the suit. Last minute conferences this week with Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold failed to produce a satisfactory settlement, it was reported.

London Sees G. B.-Odeon Merger Move

The Face on the Cutting Room Floor

When David Wark Griffith and Billy Bitzer at Biograph were teaching the camera to tell stories they used many close-ups.

They found that a twitching lip, distraught hands twisting a kerchief, the furtive finger in the discard, the like of that, sometimes could tell more than a stage full of actors.

Competitors, jealously unhappy, were sarcastic.

"Griffith chops his actors up into pieces," they said scornfully "He hires the whole actor and he ought to use him," they argued.

The ridiculousness of the notion serves, however, to stress a certain logic which it overstates. This comes to point here in that policy of Republic Pictures Corporation which insists that what it buys must be delivered on the screen.

Republic has the unique policy of buying a story only when it is to be used, employing players when they are to be cast, hiring directors when they are to direct.

A set is built after it is in the script, and the script is what the picture is about. Changes of mind and shifts in construction are made on paper, not on the stage. This makes it unnecessary for the editing department to leave costly sequences, and takes, on the cutting room floor. Republic production is not exploratory, not experimental. Shooting begins when it has been decided what is to be shot at.

A consequence of that shows up in the bookkeeping. There is no "dead horse" to be buried in the cost sheets, no inventory to be charged off there and passed on to the trade in sales quotas. The cost is the cost of the picture and the pictures are for the picture, on the screen, not on the cutting room floor.

This is becoming widely known. Ernest Heyn, editor of Photo-play-Movie Mirror, recently wrote concerning "the intriguing example of Herbert Yates, who . . . can make a picture for $100,000 that will cost a major $250,000 because of overhead so cleverly avoided by Yates."

No marquee ever sold overhead with success. The customers can't see it.

Court to Grant Para. 'Escape' On Minn. Law

said he would sign it as soon as it was completed.

Attorneys indicated over the weekend that the order should be ready for Judge Goddard's signature today.

None of the other four consenting companies gave any indication in court or after the hearing that they intended to follow Paramount's course and also seek exemptions from the decree for Minnesota operations. Two of the companies indicated that they would not do so and the remaining two merely stated that "no decision has been reached."

Say Paramount 'Unique'

One pointed out that Paramount was in a unique position insofar as Minnesota operations are concerned in that the decree permits it to sell to its own theatres there in the manner prescribed by the state law. The company would be in a difficult and conspicuous position, it was stated, if it continued selling to its own Minnesota theatres without making any effort whatever to sell to other theatres in the State. The other four consenting distributors have no theatre affiliations in Minnesota and are not confronted with the same problem.

Paramount's application was made by Thomas D. Thacher, who told the court that the criminal actions already started in Minnesota for violation of the state laws by Paramount, RKO and 20th Century-Fox are regarded as test cases which will determine the constitutionality of the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law in the speediest and most definitive form. He indicated that the equity case originally started by the major distributors to attack the state law's constitutionality will not be pressed.

Judge Goddard expressed the belief that it would be advisable for the Government to intervene in the test cases and lend its help to the distributors in contesting the state law. However, Robert L. Wright, special assistant to the U. S. Attorney General, said the Department of Justice has no plans for intervening at this time.

Government Opposition

In opposing the Paramount measure, Wright contended that Section 23 of the decree, on which Paramount's application for a release was based, contemplated an exemption from the decree only when "valid" state laws conflicted with the decree provisions. He argued that the Minnesota law is not valid until the courts have so held, and until that time the court should not grant Paramount a release from the decree.

He said that the Government contends that block booking as proposed under the Minnesota law is a violation of the Sherman Act and that the state law, therefore, is invalid if the Government is right.

Thacher remarked that he saw no merit in the Government's contention because theatre operations are intrastate and therefore subject to state legislation of that kind.

Judge Goddard ruled that Section 23 of the decree applied to a situation where a state law imposed an obligation on a consenting distribuunder" the maximum budget figure.]

The indicated $300,000 operating expense for the boards covers the period from January to the end of this month. The committee's budget for 1942 still is under consideration and, although it will be for a full 12 months period it should be well below the $465,000 maximum authorized by the decree, since the first budget included the cost of furnishing and equipping the 31 local offices. Because of the economical operations there has been no effort to eliminate any of the existing boards.

138 Complaints In Nine Months

There were a total of 138 arbitration complaints filed in 28 arbitration boards at the end of their ninth month of operation on Friday. Three boards, Des Moines, Indianapolis and Seattle, have had no complaints. An average of about 16 cases per month was again maintained.

Of the 55 awards which have been made to date, 30 have been in favor of exhibitors and 25 in favor of distributors. Seventeen cases have been appealed and eight have been decided, of which six were in favor of distributors and one for an exhibitor. The other was not decided on the merits and has been reinstated.

Joelson Seeks Bronx Clearance Reduction

New York's 25th and 26th arbitration complaints were filed at the local board on Friday by Julius Joelson on behalf of two Bronx theatres. The 25th was by J-J Theatres, Inc., against Vitagraph, RKO and 20th Century-Fox. It contends that the seven-day clearance of the Skouras-operated Valentine over the complainant's Avalon, Oxford and Jerome is unreasonable as to time and area and asks that it either be eliminated or reduced to the day following the Valentine.

The 26th complaint was brought by Joelson's Kingsbridge Theatre, Inc., against the same distributors and theatre, and seeks the same relief for the Kingsbridge Theatre.

pensible to the continued operation of two networks by one organization.

Commission officials said the order was not prompted by the suit filed by NBC and CBS but had been on the calendar for some time. Papers in that suit were filed on the FCC on Friday.

CBS Will Prosecute Suit, Seek New Law

CBS will not only prosecute its suit against the FCC "vigorously," William S. Paley, president, declared in a telegram to affiliated stations Friday, but will also "continue its efforts for the enactment of a new radio law which will recognize the present status of the radio art and the important part networks now play in American broadcasting; also a law which will clearly specify the powers of the Commission and thus safeguard the interests of broadcasters and the public alike."

Meanwhile, Mathias F. Correa, U. S. Attorney here, has disqualified himself as Government representative in the NBC-CBS action against the FCC and has asked the Attorney General to designate some one else. Correa was chief assistant to John T. Cahill, NBC counsel in the action, when the latter was U. S. Attorney.

A hearing on the broadcasters' request for a temporary injunction has been set for Nov. 7.

tor which was in conflict with the obligations imposed upon it by the decree, and he was therefore compelled to grant Paramount's application.

The order will release Paramount from only the trade showing and blocks of five provisions of the decree in Minnesota. It will be effective until the validity of the Minnesota law has been determined.

A President Been Named In Few Days

Selznick Due to Leave for Coast Thursday

David O. Selznick expects to conclude negotiations for a new United Artists president within the next few days, it was stated yesterday.

Selznick has asserted he would remain in New York until a new company head has been chosen. He now plans to leave for the Coast on Thursday. If the current negotiations for a president are fruitless, it is understood that company administration will be placed in the hands of a management board designated on Selznick's return to the Coast.

Arthur W. Kelly, acting head of United Artists, arrived on the Coast yesterday for a week's stay. While here he is scheduled to confer with Charles Chaplin and view new products. He will also check an inventory of assets of Walter Wanger Prod., recently acquired by the company and slated to become a new United Artists producing organization.

Expect Broadway Gross Boom Today After Big Weekend

Broadway business is expected to boom today, Election Day, after a great box-office weekend. The legitimate theatres as well as the film houses played to packed houses Saturday and on Sunday, too, as hundreds of thousands poured into the city from early Friday, for the big football spectacles, including Army-Notre Dame, Columbia-Cornell and Fordham-Purdue, and stayed through until Monday. It is estimated that more than 500,000 out-of-town visitors were in town during that period. Hotels were taxed to capacity.

At the Center Theatre, a 3,500-seat house, where "It Happens on Ice" is holding forth, there were more than 200 standees reported on Saturday night, and at the Alvin, where "Lady in the Dark" is doing capacity business right along, the business on a comparative basis was equally as great.

On the film side, Broadway's interest is focused particularly this week

The eight major distributors have received slightly less than $7,000,000 from London during the past few days as their share of the first release of their blocked British funds under the new monetary agreement.

An additional amount aggregating just under $1,000,000, and representing one-eighth of the released sum, has been set aside as a revolving fund from which payments will be made as required in the event later audits show that any one of the eight companies

Court Signs Escape Order On Minnesota

An order relieving Paramount of compliance with the sales provisions of the consent decree in Minnesota was signed yesterday by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard, clearing the way for the company to resume selling in Minnesota immediately.

The Department of Justice, which had opposed the granting of the order at a hearing before Judge Goddard last Friday, included in it a provision that the court's action does not prejudice the Government's right to challenge the validity of the Minnesota law on the grounds that it violates the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, if it sees fit to do so later.

Robert L. Wright, special assistant to the U. S. Attorney General, in opposing the order last week, asserted that the Government regards compulsory block booking as a violation of the Sherman Act, and stated that, if the Government is right, the Minnesota law is invalid for that reason.

Judge Goddard indicated that he thought the Government should inter-

Ceiling Is Fixed on Picture Theatre Admissions in Canada for Duration

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The Canadian War Time Price and Trade Board today set the "ceiling" admission to be charged by motion picture theatres as the maximum admission applied during the period between Sept. 15 and Oct. 11, for the war's duration.

A few theatres across Canada recently raised their prices one or two cents to get away from "the odd copper" change nuisance, and as this was done after the basic period, during which the ceiling was set, they will have to drop their prices back to the original admission charge. The new order goes into effect Nov. 17.

Opinion is that Federal and provincial authorities will not increase or impose new gross taxes for the duration. Theatres were not expected to come under the scope of the price board. Other than film theatres, other types of entertainment are not included in the order, as was the case with the Federal admission tax last Spring.

New Mortgage on 16 Warner Houses

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Sixteen theatres owned by the Stanley Company of America, and operated by the Warner circuit, are covered by terms of a $4,660,000 first mortgage secured by the company from the Equitable Life Assurance Society. Bearing interest at 4 1/4 per cent, the mortgage, which expires in 1956, is applicable to the following theatres here: Earle, Stanley, Stanton, Victoria, Alhambra, Broadway, Colonial, Cross Keys, Harrowgate, Imperial, Logan, Place, Savoy, 333 Market, Riviera and New Palace.

The mortgage replaces an original one of $10,000,000, reduced to approximately $6,000,000, known as the C. Benton Cooper Stanley real estate bonds. The issue, dated 1925, had a maturity date in 1945. It is being called for payment Dec. 1.

'Little Tomatoes' A Symbol of Boston Variety Club Work

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—He's a little of a kid, with wide, trusting eyes, a couple of years ago he walked the heart of big Johnny Durvin, strict manager for United Artists in the Boston district, and, because of friends in the business call John "Tomatoes" for some mysterious reason, they call the boy "Little Tomatoes." Because he is what he is has acquired half a hundred fathers, all members of the Variety Club. It's a strange sight to see shopping for him in Summer time that he can go properly to a camp his vacation.

So, over the months and the year "Little Tomatoes" has become a of a symbol for the type of charity work the Variety Club does, caring for underprivileged youngsters such as he is, with $2,000 turned recently to Mayor Tobin's Milk Fund.

Tonight the club opened new quarters at the Hotel Statler. Olsen and Johnson were there, so were Alan Dinehart, Lyle Talbot, every actor and actress of note in town, because the Variety Club made up of their kind of people, theatre managers, distributor staffs and the like. And "Little Tomatoes" was there too, as the symbol of all the good work the club tries to do. The club bought out Olsen and Johnson show, "Sun Fun" last night at $5.50 per ticket and turned the proceeds over to Mayor's Milk Fund.

vene in the pending criminal informations against Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and RKO at St. Paul for alleged violations of the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law and argue its contention there. The fact that the reservation was included by the Government in the order signed by Judge Goddard yesterday would indicate that the Department of Justice may intervene in the St. Paul cases.

Minn. Allied Leader Files Some Run Complaint

Bennie Berger, Northwest Allied leader, has filed a some run complaint against Paramount at the Minneapolis arbitration board, charging inability to obtain a run of the company's product under Section six of the decree for his Lyceum Theatre at Duluth, Minn., the American Arbitration Association headquarters here was advised yesterday.

Northwest Allied was the sponsor of the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law, under which the consenting companies were unable to sell in Minnesota without violating the decree. The arbitration action was filed prior to Paramount's application to the Federal court here for a release from the sales provisions of the decree to permit it to sell in Minnesota.

Filing of the arbitration action is regarded as having been a test move to determine whether either arbitration or Section six of the decree, which directs distributors to offer some run to exhibitors, offer any relief in the face of the state law. In the meantime, however, Paramount received its exemption from the decree and now is free to sell in Minnesota under the state law.

C. C. Moskowitz and Costen Refute Bioff's Testimony

York theatres, and James E. Costen, Warner theatre zone manager in Chicago, were the first rebuttal witnesses and both told of new threats by Bioff in 1935 and closely linked Browne to the alleged activities of his co-defendant.

Moskowitz told of having an appointment with Browne late in the Summer of 1935 but finding Bioff and Nick Dean in the hotel room instead. "He told me he was responsible for Browne's election," Moskowitz said. "He said he had been told that there would be a couple of million in it for him. I started to leave but he pushed me back to my chair. He told me he expected this money and was going to get it."

Demands $150,000

About a week or 10 days later, Moskowitz continued, he met with Browne and Major Leslie E. Thompson, RKO theatre executive, to ask Browne's aid in avoiding a Local 306 strike. "Browne said we would have to pay him $150,000 before he would inject himself into the situation," Moskowitz related.

After several meetings, a method was suggested for the payments whereby Loew's agreed to pay the money to Mort Singer, circuit operator, and the latter would pay it over to Browne. "It's a deal," said Browne, Moskowitz testified. Loew's paid $105,000 as its share, plus income taxes for Singer and $2,000 for railroad fares, making $165,000 in all, Moskowitz said.

In 1937, Browne made a further demand, declaring that it would cost Loew's $100,000 to stop "sabotage" by operators, Moskowitz said. He described the "sabotage" as showing pictures without sound, sound without pictures, playing reels out of order and showing the picture upside down. Moskowitz said he agreed, and paid $25,000 in currency to Browne at Dinty Moore's restaurant in October, 1937, and $15,000 in April, 1938. Moskowitz denied asking Bioff to act as messenger, and declared that all payments were made because of threats to close the Loew theatres. Cross-examination by Martin Conboy, Browne's attorney, was brief. "Did you ask Mr. Browne for assistance?" was the question. "Yes," responded Moskowitz.

Costen Meets 'Berger'

Costen told of meeting Bioff for the first time in 1928 when he was introduced by Browne as "Willie Berger." The next meeting was in February, 1935, Costen said, when Bioff told Costen that money had been paid for the elimination of extra operators in Chicago and that if these men were to be reinstated Warners would be compelled to pay a good deal more money. A week later, Costen continued, Bioff called him again and declared that the Chicago Exhibitors' Association would have to pay $100,000 of which Warners would have to pay $30,000. Browne was present at both occasions, Costen testified. When Costen declared that his superiors would enter into such a deal, it was arranged for Browne and Bioff to accompany Costen to New York, Costen said.

Upon their return to Chicago, Costen continued, he called on Bioff and told him that the money would be sent to Chaplin & Cutler, Warner Chicago attorneys, and a $30,000 check was subsequently sent to the firm. Costen then told of a subsequent demand in May, 1936, for $11,000, and of giving Bioff $8,500. In September, 1936, Bioff was paid approximately $14,000, Costen said, and after Bioff left for California, Costen paid Nick Dean $9,600 in the Fall of 1938 and another payment was made in December, 1940.

"Too Big"

When Bioff was recalled to Chicago on the 1922 pander charges, Costen continued, the defendant boasted that he was "too big a figure" to go to jail and added that "Joe Schenck will be right next to me" if he, Bioff were jailed. Later, Costen added, Bioff said that other big men had gone to jail, including Josef Stalin and Adolf Hitler. Several days after this meeting, Bioff telephoned and became abusive in demanding further payments, Costen said, and $9,600 was paid over in cash at the Bismarck Hotel. Cross-examination of Costen will be begun tomorrow when the trial will be resumed.

Bioff's attorneys said that some short testimony may be introduced tomorrow, although they have rested their case formally. Charles T. Russell, income tax consultant, who was the first witness yesterday, said he had received $31,180 from the IATSE special assessment fund, although most of his activities had been on behalf of Browne, Bioff and Harry Holmden, an IATSE vice-president.

Transfers Stock

Jack Rabin, a stock broker connected with Mervin Ash & Co., testified that in October, 1937, his firm had transferred $202,837 worth of stock from the account of Joseph M. Schenck to Murray W. Garrison, a Congressional committee investigator, and J. M. Moskowitz. Rabin said that the transfer was made because of an error by the California office of the firm. Rabin did not have the California records with him and will be recalled tomorrow. Rabin was followed by a series of Bioff's friends and relatives who testified that Bioff was known in his youth as Morris.

The defense introduced a check by Schenck to a travel agency in the sum of $1,405 which paid for Bioff's trip to Rio de Janeiro in February, 1938. By stipulation, the testimony of Joseph H. Rosenberg, a vice-president of the Bank of America, was introduced by a deposition. Rosenberg stated that Schenck had borrowed $100,000 on an unsecured note on June 18, 1937 and that five days later, Schenck came to the bank with $100,000 in cash and had repaid it.

The testimony of John B. Codd, 20th Century-Fox controller, was similarly introduced. Codd said the $100,000 borrowed on June 17 or 18, had been transferred to New York, and that on June 21, 1937, Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, under a power of attorney from Joseph M. Schenck, paid $135,956 to the United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc., for rights in life insurance policies on Joseph M. Schenck's life. Codd also told of drawing papers for the loan by Joseph M. Schenck through Arthur W. Stebbins to Bioff.

"Obliging Young Lady"

(RKO)

Hollywood, Nov. 3

TINY Joan Carroll, as a poor little rich girl fond of putting tacks on chairs for people to sit on, pushing flower pots off window sills and complicating the lives of her adult associates generally, supplies a majority of the numerous laughs generated by this comedy of manners, situations, gags and characters. The film fits into no single category of contemporary product but has a kinship with those early and highly profitable coarse-weaves in which Shirley Temple rose to an all-time peak of box-office magnetism.

Adults who surround Miss Carroll in the picture, not explicitly as support but also as entertainers involved in various complications of their own as her making, are Edmond O'Brien, Ruth Warrick, Eve Arden, Robert Smith, Franklin Pangborn, Marjorie Gatenon, John Miljan, George Cleveland, Louis Alberni, Jed Prouty and many more.

The script casts Miss Carroll as a child of rich parents in process of divorce who compete for her custody. Miss Warrick is seen as a lawyer's secretary who spirits the child away to a mountain resort and is followed by an amorous reporter who poses as the child's father until a reconciliation of the parents is achieved. The others in the cast play a variety of comedy character roles which piece out the humor.

Production by Howard Benedict and direction by Richard Wallace are for laughs throughout and, on the basis of a preview, they appeared fairly successful.

Running time, 78 minutes. "G."*

"Miss Polly"

(Roach-U.A.)

Hollywood, Nov. 3

FOURTH in the Hal Roach series of short length features made expressly for supporting programs on double bills, "Miss Polly" is 44 minutes of riotous clowning, mainly by such veterans as Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville, and Kathleen Howard, with assistance by Brenda Forbes, Elyse Knox, Dick Clayton, Dink Trout and others.

The standouts are Miss Pitts, as the small town spinster who gets ideas of emancipating the youngsters of the town from the prudish reign of the Civic League, and Summerville, as her gardener who specializes in inventing devices that work disastrously. Fred Guiol's direction makes the most of the opportunities afforded by the script, which leads to a clambering climax. There is no smoothed finish, which may be the subject of patrons' comments. The content, otherwise, is adeptly handled.

The story has the spinster, striving to aid the elopement of the daughter of the town's civic leader, finding inspiration for the deed in a bottle of old wine.

Running time, 44 minutes. "G."*

Short Subject Reviews

"The Tell-Tale Heart"

(M-G-M)

REMINISCENT of the silent films in its paucity of speech in letting the action largely speak itself, "A Tell-Tale Heart" is a "ferent" kind of short. In point of compression, Jules Dassin, the director, has skillfully translated a story to the screen in literal fact. From a viewpoint of entertaining and discriminating audiences will probably be more impressed than the general.

The story is Edgar Allen Poe's famous study of the psychological actions of a murderer. Action, suspense and sound effects in combination develop the story and sustain definite mood. Joseph Schildkraut the taunted servant, Roman Bohm the brutal master whom he murders. The novelty of the film and the name of the author and leading actors merchandising assets. Running time, 20 mins. Release, Oct. 25, 1941.

"The Candy Kid"

(Stranger Than Fiction, No. 98, Universal)

This exceeds the average of series in interest. The lead subject is an Evanston, Ill., girl who is off taster for a candy company. Other items, each affording a bit of entertainment, are an intricate rock chair with 200 compartments, a station proprietor who performs nriages on the side, a Georgia gray yard with wierd headstones, and a Pennsylvania professor who teaches co-eds and tames lions. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Oct. 27, 1941.

"Man's Best Friend"

(Walter Lantz Cartune)

(Universal)

Few chuckles are to be had in this, a generally humdrum cartoon lacking sparkle. It concerns Snoot a hunting dog, and his master, both whom are almost exhausted after a day's expedition, but only the master is able to sleep it off as the dog is disturbed throughout the night. Running time, 7 mins. Release, Oct. 1941.

"Water Sports"

(Sports Parade)

(Warners)

This has a spot of burlesque provided by comic diver Bil Lewin: a fair amount of entertainment in assortment of aquatic demonstrations by more graceful performers. Water skiing and surf board riding, usual, also are a part of the subject matter. Running time, 10 mins. Release Nov. 1, 1941.

"Carioca Serenaders"

(Melody Master)

(Warners)

This is one of the more enjoyable musicals dealing in La Conga. Dinor Rego, accompanied by Humberto Herrera and band, handles some terrific Latin numbers in a wholly gaging manner. Settings and costumes give it an authentic atmosphere. A choice short. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Oct. 25, 1941.

FCC Not to Delay Chain Regulations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The Federal Communications Commission is not considering any postponement of the effective date of its recently issued rules and regulations affecting chain broadcasting, Chairman James L. Fly said today.

At the same time Fly revealed that the commission intended to complete all phases of its television studies so that the industry could "go full speed ahead," after the present European conflict is over. The television industry, he said, should be in an excellent position to step in and take up the unemployment slack which will set in during the post war period.

"We want television on the best basis possible," he said, "when the time comes for it to be properly marketed."

The chairman said that he had been encouraged by the progress of the Defense Communications Board in meeting its various problems, and indicated that the industry had been more than helpful in cooperating with Government officials.

Project Plan as Contrary To Group's Policy

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Kinematograph Renters Society (distributors) decided following a discussion not to vote a resolution committing members to book only on percentage. The discussion arose following complaints that certain distributors were permitting exhibitors to book on a flat rental basis.

A. of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan convention today authorized the organization's board of directors to ascertain from officers and directors of Northwest Allied at Minneapolis what action the latter would like the Wisconsin organization to take in aiding them in their anti-consent decree activities.

The action is believed to have been the result of widespread reports in Wisconsin that some Minnesota theatres may be forced to close for lack of product if relief is not forthcoming soon. Only four major companies are selling in Minnesota because of the state's anti-block-of-five law, sponsored by Northwest Allied. The board was authorized to act in accordance with the response from Northwest Allied.

The convention renamed W. L. Ainsworth president; A. C. Guttenberg, vice-president; A. C. Berkholtz, treasurer, and Harry Perlewitz, business manager. Mark Morgan was elected secretary succeeding Max Krofta. The following directors were

Minn. Exhibitors Warned to Spread Cancellation Use

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 5.—Minnesota exhibitors were warned today by Northwest Allied, sponsor of the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law, that new season film deals which restrict the 20 per cent cancellation right to the lowest price bracket is "illegal" under the state law.

The organization said that such a restriction "obviously tended to defeat the legislative intent of the law," in that the statute was designed to protect the exhibitor from being forced to exhibit pictures injurious or damaging to his business, and the public from pictures "offensive on racial, religious or moral grounds."

The cancellations, it was pointed out, should be made proportionately among the several price brackets when the exhibitor has received notice of

Browne-Bioff Case to Go to Jury Today

Summations Are Begun By Defense Attorneys

The Bioff-Browne extortion case in Federal Court is expected to go to the jury some time today. Attorney George Breslin, counsel for Bioff, summed up the case yesterday for his client. Speaking for four hours, and today, Martin Conboy, counsel for George Browne, is expected to make his summation on behalf of the IATSE president.

"The truth has not been told," Breslin told the court as he scored Government witnesses for not "telling the whole truth."

After Conboy makes his appeal to the jury, U. S. Attorney Mathias Correa is scheduled to make the Government's plea, to be followed by Judge John C. Knox's charge.

Breslin declared that there was a "deal" indicated by the evidence but contended that the jury had not received enough of the story to form an opinion beyond "a reasonable doubt."

"We can't deny that Bioff got some money. That's before you," he said.

Ia.-Neb. Allied Will Convene Nov. 24-25

DES MOINES, Nov. 5.—The Allied-Independent Theatre Owners of Iowa and Nebraska will hold their annual meeting here Nov. 24-25.

Subjects to be considered and acted upon are film rental terms, portable circuits, 16 mm. and free shows, possible increase of membership, election of officers and directors and adoption of a legislative program. Leo F. Wolcott of Eldora, Iowa, is president of the association.

Wobber Leaving On Exchange Trip

Continuing his tour of 20th Century-Fox branches, Herman Wobber, general manager of distribution, leaves here tomorrow for Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Chicago and Milwaukee.

William C. Gehring, Central division manager, will join Wobber in Indianapolis on Sunday and will accompany him on the trip thereafter. Both are scheduled to return here Wednesday.

isting bans on Sunday shows were: Ramsey, Clearfield, Green, Milford and Pike counties and Morgan Township.

The comparatively small number of communities voting on the issue at this election was attributed by Rev. William D. Forney, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of Pennsylvania, to the fact that the number of petitions required to place the question on the ballot in any community was increased by the last legislature from five to 20 per cent of the highest number of votes cast for any candidate in the preceding election.

During his address to the jury Breslin stressed the fact that none of the industry executives had complained to the proper authorities, or told the stockholders or directors about the payments. He pointed out that Correa himself had started the prosecution.

"Who was it who brought the evidence to the U. S. Attorney?" Breslin asked. "Who was the informer? None of the Government's witnesses brought the matter to the U. S. Attorney."

Breslin, however, ignored Bioff's testimony except to state that his relationship with Joseph M. Schenck indicated that the money was given voluntarily.

Breslin declared it "strange" that Nicholas M. Schenck had never discussed it with his brother, Joseph M. Schenck, or with executives other than Sidney R. Kent. Breslin accused Government witnesses of being "coached" by attorneys before taking the stand and said that they were too "shrewd" to be subject to the type of extortion charged. He declared that there would have been many opportunities to trap Bioff in the five years.

"I can't believe that Bioff, if he was in on an extortion deal, would be running in and out of offices like that, making telephone calls which could be listened to. I can't believe he was that dumb," he said.

The testimony ended unexpectedly soon after court opened with the defense waiving cross-examination of James E. Coston, Warner zone manager in Chicago. Joseph H. Moskowitz took the stand for a few minutes to state that Joseph M. Schenck had made a $202,837 loan to Murray Garsson and himself on Nov. 4, 1937. Garsson purchased $130,000 worth of 20th Century-Fox stock and Moskowitz, the balance, he testified. Subsequently, Moskowitz said, Garsson's stock was sold for $110,000 and Schenck received the proceeds.

London, Nov. 5.—"Ships With Wings," produced at Ealing Studios for United Artists release, previewed here today in advance of its West End premiere, is a spectacular production which dramatizes the operations and adventures of the Aircraft Carrier Ark Royal, with a personal story interwoven.

Authentic sequences filmed aboard the Ark Royal provide exciting entertainment in a documentary vein. There is a vigorous action climax depicting an attack on a Nazi-controlled harbor with accompanying air battles. Despite a thin and indifferent romantic element and slow-paced opening action, the picture has box-office qualities exploitable on both sides of the Atlantic.

"A Date With the Falcon"

(RKO)

GEORGE SANDERS again plays the title role in this second "Falcon" picture produced by Howard Benedict and directed by Irving Reis. Formerly he was seen in a number of the "Saint" films, in addition to roles in other pictures.

The "Falcon" is a detective who is as effective charming the ladies as he is in solving crimes. The chief suspense in this story is whether or not he actually will marry his fiance, played by Wendy Barrie, and leave his detective work long enough for a honeymoon. There are a number of delays and she pursues him while he is solving a rather obvious mystery about the disappearance of a chemist who has just perfected a formula for manufacturing imitation diamonds which cannot be distinguished from the genuine.

James Gleason is the chief police detective who blunders in the usual fashion, even arresting twice the "Falcon" and finally is presented with a completely solved case. Allen Jenkins aids the "Falcon" in keeping peace with his fiance and in catching the criminals. Mona Maris is the woman member of the gang. Others in the cast are Victor Kilian, Frank Moran and Alec Craig, who plays the chemist around whom the mystery revolves. Actually, the "Falcon" determines that the murdered man was really a twin brother of the chemist. During the course of his adventures the "Falcon" is captured by the gang and pretends not to be on the side of the police.

The cast did very well with the material presented, but the story was not suitable for more than an average detective picture. What humor there is, is mostly that of situations rather than the type resulting from smart dialogue.

Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

"Four Jacks and a Jill"

(RKO)

ANY musicals have too little plot; this one has a bit too much, which might be explained by the fact that this is the first picture, as a producer, for John Twist, a screen writer for RKO for nine years. Jack Hively was the director.

Ray Bolger and Anne Shirley have the leading roles. He is very effective when dancing—one routine of a mock prize fight is particularly unusual—and less satisfactory as the romantic hero. She is very attractive in this film and shows considerable development. The several songs she sings are by Mort Greene and Harry Revel and are about average for this type of musical. Chief support is given by Desi Arnaz, who, rather surprisingly, does not sing or dance in this picture; June Havoc who appeared in the play "Pal Joey," performs one number and Jack Durant, also from that play, as her gangster friend.

The "Four Jacks," a small orchestra led by Bolger, fear that they will lose their job in a small tavern because Durant wants to marry their dancer, Miss Havoc. Bolger meets Miss Shirely, who finds a job for the boys after pretending that she is the favorite singer of an exiled king. Arnaz poses as the king, and after a number of complications, leaves with Miss Havoc before the king himself shows up. And by that time Bolger and Miss Shirley have patched up their quarrel.

Running time, 68 minutes. "G."*

will bring about an increase of business at the box-office, the exhibitor leader said, "but so far nothing specific and immediate relief has been presented to us. Unless and until such a scheme is in sight, the only recourse for our theatres is to bring film rentals within the possibility of our present income."

Cole Re-elected

Cole was reelected for his ninth term as president of the National Allied. Other officers are: A. V. Lilly, secretary-treasurer; Ruben Frels, P. V. Williams, Mrs. Mart McSpadden and R. N. Smith, vice-presidents. Directors elected were C. M. Cooper, Will Dorbandt, L. Tidball, H. R. Bisby, M. D. Stewart, Lonnie Legg, B. R. McLendon, Ford Taylor, W. J. Chesher and James Golding.

In adopting a resolution approving national Allied's industry unity effort the convention cited Paragraph seven of the unity program as most important, asserting that the subject Government or other legislative tendencies to supervise the industry should receive immediate attention.

The problem of theatre operating overhead and its relation to what the exhibitor can afford to pay for product was the subject of a round-table discussion this afternoon.

The convention concluded with banquet and dance in the Century Room of the hotel this evening.

Loew, 20th-Fox and RKO Plan No 'Escape' Plea

Loew's, 20th Century-Fox and RKO have no plans at this time for petitioning the Federal court for release from the sales provisions of the consent decree to permit them to resume selling in Minnesota as was done by Paramount, company representatives said yesterday.

Warners has made no decision yet as to its procedure, a company official stated.

United Artists, which, although not bound by the consent decree, oppose the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law as a bar to its operations in the state and planned to withdraw from Minnesota several weeks ago, is selling its product there now in the customary manner, that is by individual contract for each producer's output, rather than a single contract for all of the company's new season releases. It was the latter method that the company feared at first it might have to adopt in order to comply with the state law.

The Story of Two Novembers...

This is November—and our Birthday Month:
The Fifteenth Birthday of Network Broadcasting
—But this isn't just a story about us.

This story is about some things that grew up with us Between two Novembers, 15 years apart . . . a story that's bigger than we are,
And we know it.

It isn't only something on a calendar.

And it isn't the sort of thing that you can analyze
By counting the colored counties on a map.

Though a map's one way to look at it . . .

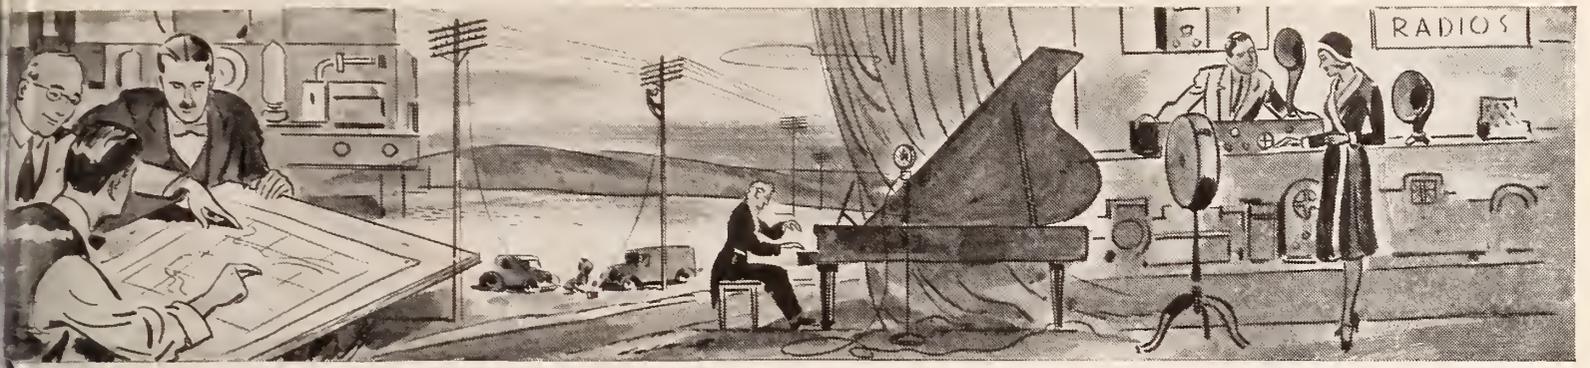

A map can show you how, for instance,
In nearly every county of America,
We can bring our people together, as into one room —Out in Montana, down in Rhode Island, across the plains of Texas—

When the President speaks to the people . . . when the destiny of the nation rests with the people
. . . or when the people want to be told
The facts that a people should hear.

Yes—and a map can make you feel, perhaps,
How rich and poor, strong, weak, young, old
(But Listeners all!)
Are gathered today into a transcendent unity
Beyond achieving in that other November
15 years ago. We have removed forever
Cracker-barrel sectionalism . . . misunderstandings between City and City, State and State.
And something has been born that was not here before.

Other generations may have dreamed
What these last 15 years have made come true:
The pioneer, rolling westward through days of dust
And days of snow,
May have dreamed how some day we should end

The isolation of geography, Binding New York to Cheyenne with the speed of light: hurtling darkness and storm; and through wind and lightning speaking
 From the Atlantic to the Pacific, with

One voice
 To one nation
 Indivisible!

* * *

But the story isn't only in the maps . . .
 It's in the people, after fifteen years.
 It's a pattern in the people.

One-fourth of our people have lived with Network Broadcasting
 Since the day they were born . . .
 And more than a third of us have lived with it
 Since we were five years old.

Count that, when you measure
 The strength, the power, the influence
 Of Network Radio today
 On the minds of Americans!
 It's a pattern in the people . . . Look around you.

 ing: their leisure and laughter: their dancing and buying. They get up to network radio, and they go to bed to network radio.

It's a habit . . . and you can't erase it.

* * *

During these 15 years, the National Broadcasting Company has become a part of America.

It belongs.

Let's say it simply:—

For 15 years, the National Broadcasting Company has been proud of its job. It's been a big job, and we've tried to give our best to it. We must have.
 For today, as every day since November 15, 1926, more American families listen to NBC programs than to those of any other broadcasting system!

Comedy Note Dominates New Season Films

*P. Daily Booking Chart

The definite trend to comedy is shown in the chart's listing of no less than 42 comedies scheduled for release between Oct. 10, last, and Christmas. In addition, others on which

Warners Consider Minn. Escape Plea

Warners sales and legal officials are studying the advisability of making an application to Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard for an exemption from the sales provisions of the contempt decree to permit the company to resume selling in Minnesota as was done by Paramount, a company official said yesterday.

While it was stated that no decision had been reached yet, the official said that the order signed by Judge Goddard giving Paramount a Minnesota exemption from the decree has been under study and a decision may be reached soon.

Loew's, RKO and 20th Century-Fox are not considering an exemption application at this time, company representatives assert.

'Valley', 'Soldier' Top Big B'way Mark

Strengthened by brisk business over the weekend and again on Tuesday, Election Day, Broadway grosses this week were substantial in most spots. The Astor, with "The Chocolate Soldier," and the Rivoli, with "How Green Was My Valley," both had standout weeks.

Six New Plays Will Open on Broadway Within Next Week

Six play openings are slated for the legitimate side of Broadway beginning tomorrow night and running through next Saturday. It appears that the producers are anxious to get under the tape before Thanksgiving. This will bring to 28 the total number of stage offerings on Broadway, provided that in the meantime none of the present crop discontinues.

Tomorrow night's entry will be a comedy by A. N. Langley titled "The Walrus and the Carpenter" at the Cort. Tuesday will bring "Spring Again" at Henry Miller's Theatre. On Tuesday comes Shakespeare's "Macbeth," under the sponsorship of Maurice Evans, at the National. Evans and Judith Anderson will have the top roles in the play, directed by Margaret Webster.

$30,000 Fines Possible; Will Be Sentenced On Wednesday; Judge Knox Refuses Bail, Both Men Are Jailed

George E. Browne, president of the IATSE and until last month a vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, and William Bioff, his personal representative and an IATSE representative as well, were found guilty on all three counts of an extortion indictment by a Federal Court jury last night.

They face maximum sentences of 30 years in jail and $30,000 in fines. Both were remanded to the Federal House of Detention to await sentence from Judge John C. Knox Wednesday. Judge Knox refused pleas of defense counsel to continue bail pending sentence, and likewise denied motions made on 14 grounds to set aside the verdict.

Kalmenson Elected Vitagraph President

Benjamin Kalmenson, Warner general sales manager, has been elected president and a director of Vitagraph, Inc., the Warner distribution company, it was announced yesterday by Harry M. Warner, president of Warners.

It was stated that in his new capacity Kalmenson will be in full charge of Warner distribution in the United States and Canada.

Joseph Bernhard, vice-president of Warners, will act in an advisory capacity in setting up matters of distribution policy, and Kalmenson will consult with him whenever it is deemed necessary, it was stated.

7,841 Theatres Collected $943,684 in U.S.O. Drive

A check for $943,684, representing collections to date from 7,841 theatres for the U. S. O. Drive, was presented to Thomas E. Dewey, chairman of the national U. S. O. Campaign, by Joseph Bernhard, chairman of the theatre drive.

It is anticipated that the theatre collections will aggregate more than $1,000,000 when complete returns are in, since 10,605 theatres were enrolled in the campaign. Collections from 35 theatres amounting to $2,712 are in transit and it is estimated that an additional $60,000 will be received from the remaining 2,729 theatres which have still to report.

A breakdown of the contributions received to date shows that independent theatres, as a group, contributed the largest amount, $492,639 having been remitted by 5,676 independent houses; Paramount was second, remitting $173,133 for 1,151 theatres; Warners, with 470 theatres, was third with $172,141, for the highest average return per theatre.

Fourth place went to 20th Century-Fox's National Theatres, with 451 houses remitting $96,130. RKO remitted $47,099 for 50 theatres outside the New York Metropolitan area, and Loew's remitted $14,450 for 43 houses outside New York. The RKO and Loew's houses in Greater New York

Neither Browne nor Bioff made any statement, although their counsel declared that appeals would be carried to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The jury received the case at 3:48 P.M. and filed in with its verdict at 6:02.

Judge Knox thanked the jury for its verdict. "To my mind," he said, "you have performed a very excellent job. I want to express both official and personal appreciation and gratitude for the time, attention and thoroughness that you have given in this case. It is a highly important case and I am quite certain your verdict will let fresh air into a lot of homes in this country. Certainly that is something that is eminently desirable. Now, I don't believe that there is a firmer believer in labor unions than myself. All labor will doubtless be glad to have their unions purged of such individuals. If union labor is to endure, it must rid itself of men who stand ready to sell out labor when it suits their purposes."

Both men were led away by the U. S. Marshal, after Judge Knox finished.

Earlier in the day, the defendants

Name Committee on Canada Price Rule

TORONTO, Nov. 6.—A committee headed by J. J. Fitzgibbons, president of Famous Players Canadian Corp., was appointed at a meeting of all branches of the industry here to deal with the orders of the Dominion Government pegging admission prices and wages for the duration of the war.

No resolution of protest was drawn up covering either subject, but the committee was empowered to negotiate with the War Time Prices and Trade Board and the Labor Control Board on the developments. General regulations have been received, but the industry has not yet had specific orders for the application of the control, when the theatres would be in a position to present their case.

It is understood the maximum admission order, effective Nov. 17, would not include film rentals. The committee comprises the officers of the Motion Pictures Section of the Toronto Board of Trade, of which N. A. Taylor is president, Louis Rosenfeld of Columbia is vice-president, Harry Alexander represents exhibitors and J. P. O'Loughlin distributors, in addition to Ben Geldsaler of Famous Players, and F. T. participated in the original campaign at the time of the formation of U. S. O. and, therefore, did not take part in the later U. S. O. theatre drive.

RKO Pathe News photographed the presentation of the check to Dewey so that theatre patrons will have an opportunity to learn in the theatre of the results of the drive and their contributions.

Bernhard credited the success of the campaign to the support of the trade papers and to the 31 teams of co-chairmen. Each team was made up of an outstanding exhibitor and branch manager in each of the 31 key cities, who directed the U. S. O. committees in the field. The campaign also was cited as the most successful industry-wide endeavor on record, both in theatre enrollments and in net money raised.

Ed Kuykendall, Martin G. Smith and Nathan Yamins were co-chairmen of the drive. Other officials were: Abe Montague, chairman, distributors' committee; Maurice Kann, chairman, trade paper committee; Herman Robbins, chairman, trailer committee, and Leonard Goldenson and Montague Gowthorpe, treasurers. A. P. Waxman was chairman of the ways and means committee and Harry Goldberg was vice-chairman.

"Ladies in Retirement" opened at the Capitol yesterday following the five-week run of "Honky Tonk," which in its last week drew an estimated $16,500. "International Squadron" is scheduled to open Nov. 13.

Discontinue Spaeth Suit

Discontinuance of a $500,000 libel suit brought by Sigmund Spaeth against Warners has been filed in U. S. District Court. No reason for the discontinuance was disclosed. Spaeth claimed a part in the film, "Naughty But Nice," was a take-off which ridiculed him.

Browne, Bioff Guilty on All Counts, Face Thirty Years

heard Mathias F. Correa, U. S. Attorney, denounce the defense arguments as a series of "spurious issues and red herrings." Correa made pointed and repeated reference to the fact that neither the attorney for Bioff or Browne in summation had adverted to Bioff's testimony that he had acted as "messenger." Correa characterized Bioff as a "raving egomaniac" and said the defendant had taken a "leaf out of Hitler's book in deciding to tell a lie so big some people might believe him."

Correa charged that Bioff himself had urged the companies to use expense vouchers to cover up the extorted payments. "Bioff was writing a little insurance for himself for the day when Browne's power failed. Then it would be blackmail instead of extortion." Carefully tracing the course of the testimony, Correa asserted that it "is my claim that the whole story was concocted after they heard the Government's case."

He said he did not justify the failure of industry executives in not reporting the extortion to the proper authorities but said he could understand it because "they knew they were dealing with the boys from Chicago." As for the social relations, Correa told the jury: "Put yourselves in the place of these men. They had to do with a racketeer—a Chicago hoodlum. What could you do if a Chicago hoodlum came to the house for a cup of tea?"

Correa said that he thought the payment by Joseph M. Schenck of Bioff's transportation to Rio de Janeiro and Europe was part of a "petty shakedown," not a gift, and that the $100,000 transaction was not a loan but part of the general extortion pattern. Correa said that he did not know what the stock transaction with Murray W. Garrison was but said it "might have been a tax dodge."

The prosecutor did not spare Browne. He pointed out that Browne brought Bioff into the IATSE and said the union president supplied Harry Beatty as the man to whom Smith & Aller could make payments. Correa noted that the testimony concerning Browne was uncontradicted and that Bioff used Browne's name in extorting money from C. C. Moskowitz.

Judge Knox charged the jury in a steady, low voice. He made little reference to the testimony in the case and concerned himself mainly with the rights of defendants in criminal cases. He charged the jury that if they thought industry executives had bribed the defendants, instead of having the money extorted under threats, then the verdict must be an acquittal.

There was a brief flurry about half an hour after the jury filed out to deliberate but it was found that the jurymen wished to inspect a copy of the indictment. Each count calls for a minimum of one year and a maximum of 10, plus the fines. The sentences may be ordered to run consecutively or concurrently, within the discretion of the judge.

Stockholder Sues W. B. Officials on Bioff Money

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—A suit to recover from William Bioff $181,000 allegedly paid him by Warner officials was filed in Los Angeles Superior court by Lester Rankin, a Warner stockholder.

The action seeks an accounting from Warner officials preparatory to a recovery of the money from Bioff, which, Rankin's suit charges, was paid the IATSE representative to "prevent physical damage" to Harry M. Warner. Named in the suit in addition to Harry M., Albert and Jack L. Warner, were Joseph Bernhard, Robert W. Perkins, Waddell Catchings, Morris Wolf, Sam E. Morris, Samuel Carlisle, C. S. Guggenheimer, directors, and several "John Does."

Rankin charges that the Warner board of directors authorized the payments and was under the domination of Warner Bros.

Defer Action on Tax On Salary at Source

on all salaries and wages, to be collected at the source through employers in the same way as Social Security taxes now are collected.

The proposed new system would replace the present one of having taxpayers account for all income after the close of the year. Provision would be made for the deduction of personal exemptions in the computation by employers of the amount of tax to be deducted from pay checks, but details have not yet been made public.

The Treasury is seeking immediate consideration of the proposal so that the new tax could go into effect next Jan. 1. The program also provides for an increase in the Social Security taxes of one per cent each on employer and employe for old-age insurance and the imposition of one per cent on employe for unemployment compensation.

Scope of the program is variously estimated at from $4,500,000,000 to $6,000,000,000 and would run the tax burden of the country up to 18 billion or better. So far as can be ascertained, no consideration is being given to further increases of the admission or other nuisance taxes.

Review

"Playmates"

(RKO)

HERE both Kay Kyser and John Barrymore continue with the roles they have been playing in their recent pictures. Kyser is the combination band leader and comedian and Barrymore has a grand time playing Barrymore and making a fool of himself. Although he despises Kyser, Barrymore finds it necessary to attempt to teach him how to play Shakespeare.

David L. Butler, the producer and director, stretched out the situation for over an hour and a half of running time. Some of the early scenes are dull but many audiences will enjoy the comedy, and the five musical sequences, which are worked into the plot with more than usual dexterity, will satisfy all. The two highpoints of the film are a dream sequence in which Kyser is a matador and fights a bull having the head of Barrymore and the finale in which a modernized play of Shakespeare is presented.

The cast includes Patsy Kelly, Barrymore's press agent; Lupe Velez, who dances one number; May Robson, playing Kyser's grandmother; Peter Lind Hayes, George Hayes, featured members of the band—Harry Babbitt, Ish Kabibble, Sully Mason and Ginny Sims, the singer, who does very well, singing in a pleasing manner several songs. "Humpty Dumpty Heart," "How Long Did I Dream," "Thank Your Lucky Stars and Stripes," "Romeo Smith and Juliet Jones" and "Que Chica" are the featured songs.

Running time, 96 minutes. "G."*

See 3rd Dimensions Likely on New Film

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., NOV. 6.—A new film material which makes practicable the presentation of third dimensional motion pictures with the present standard theatre equipment has been developed here recently, according to Edwin H. Land of the Polaroid Corp., Cambridge, in an article in the Journal of the Optical Society of America.

Land states that the new film, being kept secret by the Government for military reasons, requires the use of viewing glasses, which he believes can be made at very little cost. In the process of achieving the third dimension, he states, two different photographs are placed on the new film, one on top of the other. One is developed on the front side of the film, which is transparent, and the other on the back. Using the spectacles, one eye can see the first picture and the other eye can see the second. Unless the glasses are used only a blur is visible.

In taking the pictures a camera with two lenses, spaced about the same distance apart as the human eyes, is used. Thus, each lens takes a separate picture. The photos are developed separately and then transferred one on top of the other to the new film.

Minn. Product Situation Seen As Acute Now

Warners Ask Exemption From State Law

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 9.—Universal, Columbia and United Artists are reported to be doing record business in Minnesota as the product situation throughout the state becomes increasingly acute, despite the resumption of selling last week by Paramount and United Artists.

Paramount reportedly was off to a slow start on its selling in the state, but United Artists did a heavy opening business. Universal and Columbia, unaffected by the state law, have been selling without interruption and are said to have tripled their business in the state as exhibitors clamored for product to keep their theatres open.

Columbia is usually serviced with four to eight prints for this territory.

In addition to Scully, the meeting was addressed by Nate J. Blumberg, Universal president; Matthew J. Fox, vice-president and Blumberg's studio

Settle William Fox, Fox Theatres Suits

Long litigation between Fox Theatres Corp. and William Fox reached a final settlement on Friday when N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente approved a compromise submitted by Kenneth P. Steinreich and Leopold Porrino, trustees of the theatre company. Under the terms of the settlement Fox is to pay $25,000 to the theatre company and releases are to

Amusement Division Pledges Support to Federation's Drive

The Motion Picture, Theatrical and Amusement Division of the New York and Brooklyn Federations of Jewish Charities pledged full support to the federation's 1941 campaign for funds, at a luncheon meeting at the Hotel Astor on Friday.

Major Albert Warner and David Bernstein, co-chairmen of the division, conducted the meeting, which was the first in the campaign for this year. At another meeting on Nov. 25 the co-chairmen will name the committees within the division which will carry on the work of the campaign.

George Z. Medalie, president of the New York Federation, and Paul Felix Warburg, chairman of the Business Men's Council of the campaign, spoke briefly. The federation functions on behalf of 116 institutions in Greater New York. Major Warner and Bernstein pledged full support of the amusement industry here.

Marquee, Shop Window Power Cut Aids Theatres

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 9.—Conservation of power in the Southeastern states which calls for a blackout of electric signs, lobby and window displays, is not hurting the motion picture business in the Carolinas, according to reports from the office of Mrs. Pauline Griffith, secretary of the Theatre Owners of North and South Carolina, and from theatre managers.

[The Office of Production Management has postponed for one week the 30 per cent power consumption cut scheduled to become effective Nov. 10 in six Southeastern states. Heavy rains permitted the delay. The five per cent cut in North Carolina has been postponed.]

On the contrary, business goes on as usual and in some instances the-

Decide Film Probe Course This Week

Washington, Nov. 9.—With the neutrality legislation out of the way, Senator D. Worth Clark of Idaho plans to call his propaganda sub-committee together on Wednesday or Thursday to determine the course of the film investigation.

The Senator explained that he does not believe it possible for the group to meet tomorrow.

If the Committee gets together Wednesday and decides to continue its hearings, it is possible sessions will resume Nov. 17, but it is more likely that they will be deferred until Nov. 24.

Hold British Quota At Level 3 Years

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The British Board of Trade is expected shortly to announce that the existing quota percentages for exhibitors and distributors will remain in effect for the next three years without change. The expectation confirms MOTION PICTURE DAILY's story of Friday that no changes are anticipated for some years.

The present percentage on quota is 17½ per cent for exhibitors and 22½ per cent for distributors. The figures, it is understood, are open to revision

Demand Seen For Browne's Replacement

AFL Not Interfering in IATSE Situation

A rank and file demand for a special convention to name a successor to George E. Browne, convicted IATSE president, was indicated over the weekend in many union circles here. Although Browne has not yet resigned his office, many believe that there will be considerable pressure upon him to do so, even if he is admitted to bail pending an appeal after sentence is pronounced by Federal Judge John C. Knox Wednesday.

An IA official on Friday said he "would be very much surprised" if Browne resigned before his appeal is decided. The IA constitution provides two methods for selection of a new president in the event of resignation or other disqualification.

The first is the appointment of a successor by the executive council and DETROIT, Nov. 9.—The hearing of the arbitration complaint of Irving A. Moss, operator of the Parkside Theatre here, against the five consenting companies, started Friday and was adjourned to Nov. 17. Argument Friday centered on whether Wilber M. Brucker, arbitrator and former Michigan governor, had jurisdiction.

The theatre will seat 1,200 and will be ready for operation in September, 1942, it is expected.

In another of the deals, Reade purchased a square block in Asbury Park, N. but this season the company is keeping 16 to 20 prints constantly employed. Universal reported that it is having difficulty obtaining an adequate supply of contract forms.

Northwest Allied officials admitted the product situation is becoming increasingly serious. The Paradise Theatre at Faribault, an "A" house, is definitely scheduled to close Nov. 21. Other houses throughout the state are operating on part-time schedules and several closings have been reported.

Northwest Allied officials, in answer to an inquiry, received a denial from Governor Harold E. Stassen that the calling of a special session of the legislature to repeal the anti-block-of-five law is contemplated. The next regular session of the legislature will be January, 1943.

Warners Asks Exemption From Minnesota Law

Warners has applied for an exemption from the Federal court here from the sales provisions of the consent decree to permit it to resume selling in Minnesota and hearing on the application has been set for Friday by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard.

Motion Picture Daily disclosed on Friday that the company had the move under consideration.

Granting of the order by Judge Goddard is regarded as a certainty, since the court evidenced no disposition to question the right of Paramount to an exemption for Minnesota operations when that company came before him 10 days ago with an identical request. Judge Goddard, in fact, stated that under Section 23 of the decree, which offers relief to the consenting companies when decree provisions come into conflict with state or other laws, Paramount was clearly entitled to a release.

The exemption of Warners would leave only three companies, Loew's, RKO and 20th Century-Fox, not selling in Minnesota because of the state's anti-block-of-five law.

Warners stated its intention of pressing a test of the constitutionality of the Minnesota law and expressed the hope that the next session of the state legislature will repeal the law.

Demand Seen For Browne's Replacement

the other is by special convention. Only the council can call the special convention, but there is some belief in union circles that the council could not, in the present circumstances, resist strong pressure by the locals if these locals attempt to exert it. The regular convention, held biennially, is not due until June, 1942.

Seen as one of the leading candidates was Louis Krouse, general secretary-treasurer. Normally, of course, the first vice-president would serve until the next regular convention. However, it was pointed out, Harland Holmden is the incumbent first vice-president and little likelihood was seen in union circles of Holmden accepting or being offered the post.

Holmden May Refuse

In the first place, it was said, Holmden may refuse the presidency on the ground that its duties are too strenuous for a man his age, and there may be opposition because of his close association with the present administration. William Covert, the second vice-president, also is not regarded as eligible because he is a Canadian. This leaves Richard F. Walsh, of the stagehands local in Brooklyn, as the next in line, but there is some doubt whether the designation of Walsh, who is now a third vice-president, will be as routine as it would be in the case of the designation of an eligible first vice-president to the presidency.

AFL Keeps Hands Off in Browne-Bioff Situation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The fate of George E. Browne and William Bioff as labor leaders rests with the organization with which they are directly connected and not with the national labor body, according to officials of the American Federation of Labor.

Expulsion as a result of their conviction rests with the IATSE, it was said, under the laws and rules of the international unions. It was pointed out that the question of expulsion was dealt with at length by the AFL executive council in its report to the annual convention at Seattle last month, in which the individual unions were called upon to rid themselves of officials "who for selfish purposes seek to utilize the labor movement for the sole purpose of promoting their material welfare." However, it was stressed, neither the AFL president nor members of the executive council have any authority to remove officials of any international unions.

Coast Unions Leave Matter to IA Board

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9.—Still involved in straightening out contracts with producers, the 10 IATSE locals here looked to the IA executive board for any action to replace George Browne as IA president.

The general attitude was that the majority of locals, all of which have autonomy, have embarked on a program of conducting their own negotiations, and increased wage scales and better working conditions are their major concern. No officials would hazard a guess as to the action of the IA executive board.

"Sierra Sue"

(Republic)

THIS stars Gene Autry in a Western whose story is modern and which has a minimum of plot and an abundance of song. In one scene, Smiley Burnette, the human cannonball, is ejected from a piece of carnival artillery and soars through the air. Although the action is rather limited until the final sequences, it appears sufficient. The picture on the whole is entertaining and doubtless will score a solid hit with Autry fans, particularly.

Snow-capped mountain peaks and tall timber form a colorful background to the story, which actually does not have an outlaw in it. Instead Autry of the Agricultural Commission finds his opposition in the stubbornness of a rancher who refuses to have his devil weed-infested property chemically treated.

The numerous vocals by Autry are pleasant and neatly spotted. Fay McKenzie in the feminine lead has more to do than is usually the case and does it well. Frank Thomas, Robert Homans, Earle Hodgins and Dorothy Christy are in the cast. William Morgan directed and Harry Grey was associate producer.

Running time, 64 minutes. "G."*

"I Killed That Man"

(Monogram—K-B Productions)

GIVING the picture a maximum of production quality, Maurice and Franklin King (formerly Kozinsky) made of "I Killed That Man" a crime melodrama aptly suited for its designed supporting program duties. However, there are several story lapses which are not connected properly at the denouement.

Ricardo Cortez, as an assistant district attorney, and Joan Woodbury, as a newspaper reporter, have the principal roles. Others in the cast are Pat Gleason, George Pembroke, George Breakston, Iris Adrian, Herbert Rawlinson, Ralf Harold, John Hamilton, Harry Holman, Jack Mulhall, Gavin Gordon and Vince Barnett.

A condemned man is murdered minutes before his scheduled execution when he is about to address the witnesses and reveal the name of his superior in crime. The district attorney's office trails down the suspects one by one, through another murder, to the climax.

Phil Rosen obtained the most out of the players and the mounting, and but for the inconsistencies, did an admirable job.

Running time, 71 minutes. "G."*

Asks Impeachment Of Ex-Judge Davis

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Failure of two juries to convict former Federal Judge J. Warren Davis for his part in an alleged criminal conspiracy for which William Fox pleaded guilty had repercussions in Washington Saturday when Attorney General Francis Biddle disclosed he had recommended to the House Judiciary Committee that it institute impeachment proceedings against the retired jurist.

Judge Davis retired from the Third Circuit Court of Appeals in April, 1939, and in March of this year was indicted for conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States. On October 9, the Attorney General announced that since two trials of the judge resulted in a disagreement by the jury, the Government would drop the case.

Fly Hits Alleged Pressure on FCC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Efforts on the part of Arthur Lucas, Atlanta circuit operator, allegedly to bring political pressure on the FCC brought from Chairman James L. Lucas has an interest in the station. The request was for depositions in connection with the application hearing, and was denied.

To Delay FCC Web Rules to December 15

Attorneys for the FCC and CE and NBC negotiated over the weekend for a stipulation postponing enforcement of the network monopoly rules until a statutory Federal Court of three judges can pass on the validity of the rules after a hearing Dec. 15. The attorneys are to advise Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard today whether an agreement has been reached. If the stipulations are agreed upon, Judge Goddard will convene the statutory court immediately to decide whether a stay shall be granted until the Dec. 15 hearing.

The rules were scheduled to go in effect next Saturday. The motions of the networks for a temporary injunction were postponed Friday by Judge Goddard, who announced that the statutory court would be composed of Presiding Judge Learned Hand of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Federal District Judge John Bright and himself.

Moves to Dismiss Net Complaint

Assistant U. S. Attorney Samuel Brodsky, representing the Government and the FCC, disclosed that he has filed a cross-motion to dismiss the networks' complaint and for summary judgment without trial in favor of the FCC. Brodsky expressed the opinion that the ultimate decision would be rendered without a trial because the facts are on record and the sole question remaining is the legality of the FCC rules.

Judge Goddard stated from the bench that he would be inclined to grant a stay pending the Dec. 15 hearing if the attorneys could not agree on a stipulation but added that he could not speak for the other two judges.

"Kathleen"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Nov. 10

GET ready to rub your eyes, Ladies and Gentlemen of Show Business, and your palms, when you meet "Kathleen." For "Kathleen" is your old friend and favorite box-office attraction, Shirley Temple—which means that child whose way with the telling of a straight story about a child and her problems kept you and your customers happy during the four years in which you voted her Number One Money-Making Star.

Yes, folks, this is a simple little story about a little girl. Her mother is dead. Her father is preoccupied with other matters, delegating servants to care for her. Her governess abuses her confidence. Her only friend is an old man who runs a second-hand store. A slick lady is about to marry her father for his money. Then a woman doctor, who happens to be young and pretty, is brought into the household, adjusts the child's emotions, finds her own a bit affected by the child's father and, of course, winds up by marrying the parent and making everybody happy.

Simple, direct, modernized to the extent of some references to child psychology and the introduction of some literal materializations of juvenile fancy, the story is in the groove of the dozens of stories in which Miss Temple entertained her millions. The story keeps the narrative plain enough for mass consumption.

Herbert Marshall as the father, Laraine Day as the personable lady doctor and Gail Patrick as the woman with designs on the paternal monies play up to and never around or over the child star, and support is provided by Felix Bressart, Nella Walker, Lloyd Corrigan, Guy Bellis and half dozen others. No mobs of soldiers, angels or goblins are permitted to clutter up the proceedings and no earthquakes, tornadoes, forest fires or volcanic eruptions occur.

George Haight, who produced the film, must have remembered that it was in homespun that Miss Temple made her fame. Director Harold S. Bucquet may have turned memory back, too, to some of the young lady's top-grossing beginnings, for he kept his cast within the bounds of her early triumphs, letting the distortions occur where they'd do the most good, and attempted no subtlety, nothing too fancy for the multitude.

Doubtless there will be some temptation for showmen to bill "Kathleen" as a "Shirley Temple comeback." That would be an inaccuracy, an offense against fact and, by the records pertaining to that type of billing, self-defeating. "Kathleen" is not a "Shirley Temple comeback." It is a coming back to the screen of the Shirley Temple type of motion picture, with Shirley Temple in it. Probably the best way to bill it is: "Shirley Temple in 'Kathleen.'"

Running time, 85 minutes. "G."*

"Design for Scandal"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Nov. 10

TO use a colloquialism, M-G-M's "Design for Scandal" is a hum-dinger. The picture has everything that makes for entertainment for all types of patrons—excellent portrayals, side-splitting comedy, a keenly developed story, and the usual fine mounting associated with M-G-M productions.

For marquee embellishment are the names of Rosalind Russell, Walter Pidgeon and Edward Arnold, who do splendidly in their respective roles of judge, news photographer and news service head beset with alimony troubles. The support includes Lee Bowman, Jean Rogers, Mary Beth Hughes, Guy Kibbee, Barbara Jo Allen, and Leon Belasco, each of whom delivers more than adequately.

Sophisticated but clean and studded with sharp dialogue and delightful situations, the story deals with the efforts of a photographer to involve a woman judge in scandal in order to influence her to free his boss of huge alimony payments. The matters become complicated when the judge and the photographer really fall in love with each other.

Turning in one of his best directorial jobs, Norman Taurog skillfully guided the characters, gleaned the maximum for each situation and line of dialogue. Producer John W. Considine, Jr., gets another feather in his cap. The picture at its preview won unrestrained applause and kept its viewers in a constant state of merriment.

Running time, 82 minutes. "G."*

it will indicate how Schine licensed its films in closed and open towns," he said. He expressed a desire to learn whether the circuit opened what he termed "fighting theatres, to discourage or fight a competitor."

Judge Knight reserved decision on the request as he did on several others advanced by Simon.

To the latter's request for information pertaining to admission prices charged by Schine theatres since Aug. 7, 1931, McKay said he would supply the scales for any specific date but that to comply fully would require "someone spending a lot of time on a big job."

Simon also asked for the cost of each theatre acquired by Schine, to which McKay replied: "Let them tell us what particular theatre they want to know about and we'll tell them."

Simon also sought information concerning the gross film rentals paid by Schine each year over a period of six years, but McKay suggested it would be much easier to obtain such information from the distributors. He gave the same reply to the Government's request for percentages paid by Schine on all pictures leased by the circuit during the same six-year period.

McKay told the court a corporation can not be compelled to compute such wide information from its records, that his client is entitled to "objected facts."

The Government was given 10 days to reply and briefs were ordered filed. In the interim the sealed answers by Schine will be opened by the Government. Trial of the case is scheduled to open early next year.

'International Lady' Opens at Criterion

"International Lady," Edward Small production released by United Artists, had its premiere amid crowds and lights last night at the Criterion Theatre on Broadway.

The list of personalities in attendance was headed by Ilona Massey, feminine lead of the film, which also stars George Brent and Basil Rathbone. Among those present were Walter Wanger, Alan Curtis, Erroll Flynn, Hildegard, Lana Turner, Bruce Cabot, Linton Wells, Louis Hayward, License Commissioner Paul Moss, Sheila Barrett and Desi Arnaz.

Adrienne Ames interviewed Miss Massey and other guests from the lobby of the theatre over WHN.

"International Lady" was reviewed by MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Oct. 13.

150 Canadian Theatres in Test Blackout

The total number of theatres in the province is placed at 180, but some of these, rural establishments, were unaffected.

According to rules prescribed by the civilian defense officials, the 80-odd theatres in the Montreal metropolitan district were directed to give pass-out checks to patrons wishing to leave the theatres for a glimpse of the darkened city when the "alert" sounded at 9:45 P.M. The test took place from 10 to 10:30 P.M.

After marquee, lobby, lounge and running lights had been extinguished at 10 P.M., ushers with flashlights were stationed at exits and no one was permitted to leave. This ruling was for the safety of patrons. Emergency battery lighting plants were kept in readiness in case of necessity but were not needed.

Police had cautioned the public against pickpockets and holdup men and theatres provided protection for patrons against prowlers.

Theatre outer lobbies were crowded with pedestrians who were urged by the police to seek shelter in doorways. Despite the excitement, evening theatre business, as reported by managers, was unaffected.

The combined seating capacity of all Quebec houses affected by the blackout is estimated at 120,000. Contributing to this total are 73 houses in Montreal, 11 in Quebec City, four in Three Rivers, and a total of 90 in other Quebec cities and towns.

The blackout affected practically one-sixth of Canadian territory. Civil Protection Committee officers and local police supervised the blackout. All traffic came to a standstill, with lights extinguished.

During a blackout in Montreal earlier in the year, exhibitors reported no noticeable effect on box-office receipts.

No Priorities Effect On Policies of FCC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Recent order of the SPAB halting new construction not essential to defense or public welfare has not brought about any change in the policy of the FCC with respect to applications for construction permits for new stations, it was said today by Chairman James L. Fly.

Fly explained that the Commission has not yet adopted any policy reflecting the SPAB order, but pointed out that it would be a "futile gesture" to grant a construction permit to an applicant who had no chance of getting materials.

Very few permits have been granted since the SPAB order, however, and in those cases it is probable the applicants had assurance that the necessary materials would be delivered, it was stated.

Fourth Largest Air Audience for FDR

President Roosevelt spoke to his fourth largest daytime audience last Thursday when 20 per cent of all set owners interviewed reported listening in, the Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting disclosed yesterday. The three daytime speeches which ranked ahead of Thursday's address in point of size of audiences were Jan. 20, 1937, 31 per cent; Sept. 21, 1939, 29.8 per cent, and May 16, 1940, 22.8 per cent.

Greater Authority To 'U' Branch Heads

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Universal's branch managers are to be accorded greater latitude by the home office in settling local sales questions, William A. Scully, vice-president and general sales manager, told the company's executive sales meeting here over the weekend.

A substantial increase in the company's budget to provide in particular for three new Frank Lloyd productions, was announced at the meeting by Nate J. Blumberg, president. Matthew J. Fox, vice-president, told the district and branch managers that Universal's 1941-'42 production program is 70 per cent completed.

The home office officials left today for New York where a second sales meeting will be held next weekend.

Lawyers Lectured By Appeals Board In Deciding Cases

reduced the clearance to three days and limited its application only to future contracts entered into with Warners and RKO, the respondent rather than to existing contracts, well, which Hall's award erroneously included.

Referring to the part of attorney in the case, the board's opinion said in part: "If, as often happens in arbitration proceedings under the decree, counsel attempt in opening to argue on the effect of facts before they have been proved, the arbitrator is more likely to be confused than aided. This case affords a conspicuous example. Counsel on both sides opened their hearing with elaborate arguments of all conceivable aspects of the case. In the result, much of this argument was irrelevant, some of it misleading, and the bulk of it was out of place in an opening statement.

"An arbitrator endeavoring to do justice in an unfamiliar field, particularly, as in this case, a layman, is entitled to far more light and less confusion from the efforts of counsel than this record discloses."

The board apportioned one-third of the costs of the case to the complainant and one-third each against the two defendants.

First Indianapolis Complaint Is Filed

The first complaint to be filed at the Indianapolis arbitration board was entered over the weekend by Charles Bowles, owner of the Grand Theatre under construction at Elizabethtown, Ky.

The complaint charged that the five consenting companies have refused to grant the theatre, scheduled to open Dec. 1, any run of their product, in violation of Section 6 of the consent decree. The complaint charged that the only theatre in the town heretofore has been the Ritz, operated by Crescent Amusement Co., and that that company now has a second theatre under construction there.

A complaint was filed at the Chicago arbitration board by Ben Cooney and Harold McFarland, operators of the Ogden Theatre in that city. Naming the five consenting companies, the complaint charged that the clearance granted the Marshall Square Theatre is unreasonable. It seeks an award permitting the Ogden to play in second week of Chicago release instead of seventh week.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 10.—Hearing of the clearance complaint of the Dickinson Theatre, Mission, Kan., which seeks a reduction of its clearance to 56 days after Kansas City first run, was concluded at the arbitration board here with motions to dismiss by respondent distributors. W. H. Cloud, arbitrator, directed the attorneys to file briefs by Dec. 9 when oral argument will be heard.

J. Noble Braden, director of arbitration tribunals for the American Arbitration Association, will discuss operations of the motion picture arbitration system at a meeting of the Erie County Bar Association in Buffalo tomorrow.

We'll Clear Matters Up,' Walsh Says

Give Us a Break,' New IATSE Head Pleads

By EDWARD GREIF

"There will be no general changes in the IATSE. No general changes are needed. We've been in existence for 52 years and this is the first reflection on our record. Give us a chance and we'll clear that up with our actions."

Thus spoke the new president of the IATSE, Richard F. Walsh, receiving visitors for the first time since assuming his new post last Sunday as successor to George E. Browne.

Ascap Election to Be Test of Strength

The Ascap board of directors may meet within the next few weeks to elect officers for the ensuing year. The election is expected to provide a test of the strength of Ascap directorial and membership elements which reportedly favor one or more changes in the roster of Ascap officers as a result of the warfare with the major networks over new Ascap contracts.

No definite date for an election meeting of the board has been set yet, but there is a likelihood that the meeting may be held before the end

Equity to Require Dues from Agents

Actors Equity, beginning Dec. 1, will require employment agents and personal representatives to pay an initiation fee of $100 and dues of $25 a year, the Equity council ruled yesterday. Thirty-two agents now licensed by Equity will not have to pay the initiation fee. The new ruling will apply to applications for agents' permits, 23 of which are pending.

Broadway Enjoys Smash Armistice Day Business

Taking advantage of the observance of Armistice Day, with many business houses closed, in addition to a school holiday, New Yorkers yesterday brought a box-office boom to Broadway theatres.

Other key cities reported similarly strong business for the day.

Stockholders Of RKO Will Meet Jan. 15

The first meeting of RKO stockholders since the company's emergence from reorganization almost two years ago is scheduled to be held about Jan. 15, it was learned yesterday.

The meeting will elect a new board of directors, since the terms of all 13 members of the present board will expire Jan. 26. The present board was designated for a two-year term by the Federal court at the conclusion of the RKO reorganization.

Under the company's by-laws, holders of RKO preferred stock will be entitled to elect one-third of the members of the new board, or either four or five of the new total. The by-laws provide that whenever accumulated unpaid dividends on the preferred amount to $7.50 or more a share, that class of stock shall be entitled to elect one-third of the board.

Yesterday's matinee business was counted little short of tremendous by film houses as well as the legitimate theatres on Broadway. Standees and the SRO sign were the cheerful order of the day for managers up and down the street.

The throngs in the downtown sector, many of whom found their way into theatres, however, were almost entirely the domestic product, since air lines and railroads reported no unusual influx of visitors.

While business tended to slacken off a little at the film houses in the evening, as is usual on the night of a holiday when a working day follows, the legitimate theatres enjoyed a highly successful evening as well as matinee trade. Only eight legitimate shows played matinees yesterday, most of them not deviating from their usual weekly matinee days, and the eight uniformly reported prodigious business.

Browne and Bioff to Hear Sentence Today

George E. Browne and William Bioff will appear for sentencing before Federal Judge John C. Knox at noon today on the three counts of an extortion indictment of which they were found guilty by a jury last Thursday. Both men have been in the Federal House of Detention since the verdict because Judge Knox refused bail.

Roosevelt's Armistice Day Address Estimated Heard by 30,000,000 in U. S.

One of the largest audiences ever to listen to a speech delivered in the daytime heard President Roosevelt's Armistice Day address from Arlington Cemetery, approximately 30,000,000 in the United States alone, CBS declared yesterday following a survey made by C. E. Hooper, Inc. The survey, which was conducted while the speech was still on the air, showed that 30 per cent of all receivers were tuned to the President. The address began at 11 A.M.

Radio executives said the listening audience was increased by the fact that the talk took place on a national holiday, but stated that it was remarkable because it occurred before noon and lasted only about 10 minutes.

A number of calls came into NBC offices as a result of a mishap to the network's microphone. As the announcer was introducing the President, someone struck the microphone, thus causing the last syllable of the word "Washington," to be repeated four or five times. The listeners demanded to know whether saboteurs were attempting to keep the President off the air. NBC calmly reported that it was only somebody kicking the microphone at the wrong time.

Trial in Minn. 5-Block Case Starts Dec. 15

Preparation Is Cause of Delay from Nov. 24

Trial of the criminal actions against Paramount, RKO and 20th Century-Fox for alleged violations of the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law in county court at St. Paul is scheduled to start Dec. 15 under an agreement made by company counsel with state and county authorities, home office legal departments were advised yesterday.

At the time of the arraignment of defendants, trial was tentatively set for Nov. 24, but preparation of the cases will require additional time, necessitating the setting back of the trial date, it was stated.

The original equity actions begun by the consenting distributors in an unsuccessful effort to obtain an injunction to halt enforcement of the state law pending a test of its constitutionality will be left in abeyance pending the outcome of trial of the criminal actions. The latter are expected to provide a quicker and more definitive test of the Minnesota anti-

"The Stork Pays Off"

(Columbia)

THIS has a frothy yarn about racketeers and a children's nursery. An ex-beer baron inadvertently comes into possession of the "Storks' Club" and assigns a comic trio of henchmen to watch over the youngsters. The developments thereafter are amusingly preposterous and are good for many laughs.

The racketeer finds his new property to his liking when he discovers the girl in charge is Rochelle Hudson. With the assistance of Maxie Rosenbloom, who answers to "Brains," and others, he supports the nursery to the full. An underworld rival presents a problem when he plants the defunct body of "Six Fingers Stimson" in the kitchen closet just as a children's welfare committee is checking up. "Brains" and his colleagues have a hectic time covering up but are successful, and all goes well again. Victor Jory is the racketeer who turns children's benefactor. It is all played for laughs.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."*

"Double Trouble"

(Monogram)

FIRST of a proposed series of comedies starring Harry Langdon and Charles Rogers, "Double Trouble" drew its quota of laughs at its Hollywood preview where its slapstick and buffoonery apparently pleased a mixed audience of young and old. The veteran film funsters are supported by Catherine Lewis, showing promise in an ingenue role; Louise Curry, Benny Rubin, Dave O'Brien, Mira McKinney, Frank Jaquet and others.

A bean cannery owner agrees to care for what he believes to be two youngsters from England for the "duration," and when they arrive, they turn out to be dim-witted adults. They complicate the affairs of his family and his business, winding up by permitting a $100,000 diamond to be mistakenly sealed in a can of beans. Business prospers when customers hope to buy the can which contains the gem, and the major portion of the story is devoted to efforts to get back the jewel.

William West directed the picture for producer Dixon R. Harwin and his associate, Barney A. Sarecky.

Running time, 63 minutes. "G."*

"The Devil Pays Off"

(Republic)

THE story here is of the traitorous operator of an American steamship company whose mercenary inclinations bring him under the influence of "foreign powers," and of a U. S. Navy investigator seeking to solve the mystery of diverted cargoes.

The script contains a number of humorous lines in dialogue, which relieve the melodramatic sequences with a quick change of mood. Somewhat unusual for such fare is the employment of what appears to be a psychological study of the guilty party, who becomes unnerved at the sight of one of his captains whose death he had decreed.

The story is adequately performed by J. Edward Bromberg, Osa Mason, William Wright, Margaret Tallichet and others. John H. Auer directed. Albert J. Cohen was associate producer.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."*

Conn. Allied Official To Make Decree Poll

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 11.—Allied Theatre Owners of Connecticut today announced plans to have its newly elected secretary, Maxwell Alderman, canvass independent exhibitor opinion in this territory on workings of the industry consent decree. Lawrence C. Caplan, the retiring secretary, has been given a vote of thanks by the organization.

Trial in Minn. 5-Block Case Starts Dec. 15

decree law, it is believed by company attorneys.

In setting the date for start of trial in the third week of December, provision was made for a recess over the Christmas and New Year's holidays, indicating that the first round of the trial is not expected to be completed before the end of the year.

Meanwhile, Warners is scheduled to go before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard on Friday to argue its application for a release from the sales provisions of the decree insofar as its Minnesota operations are concerned. That the application will be approved is taken for granted by industry attorneys, inasmuch as Judge Goddard, in approving an identical application by Paramount over the objections of the Government two weeks ago, asserted that the consenting companies are entitled to the relief sought under Section 23 of the decree. The section provides that they shall be relieved of compliance with the decree when any of its provisions come into conflict with state or other laws.

Loew's, RKO and 20th Century-Fox have no plans for following the Warner-Paramount lead on Minnesota selling at this time, so far as could be learned yesterday.

Missouri 'Some Run' Complaint Dismissed

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 11.—The some run complaint of Floyd Lowe of the Star, Lebanon, Mo., was dismissed today by Arbitrator William H. Stead, Washington University professor. Lowe originally had named all five consenting companies, but had settled with Warners and 20th Century-Fox before hearing on his complaint started.

Stead said Lowe's contention that he had not been able to buy any of the companies' pictures was not borne out by evidence submitted. The arbitrator held Lowe had never made application for their product before the arbitration started. Stead assessed charges against Lowe.

Baltimore Clearance Hearing to Resume

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The Linden Theatre, Baltimore, clearance hearing will be resumed Thursday by Milton W. King, arbitrator. Session consuming a total of 13 hours were held last week. The complaint is against Vitagraph, Paramount, RKO, Metco Theatres, Inc., and the Grand Co.

November 26 has been set for hearing of the clearance complaint by the Charles Theatre, La Plata, Md., against Loew's. John H. Taylor, operator of the Charles, cited the Marlboro Theatre, operated by Sidne Lust, as receiving undue clearance.

FPC Renews Operation

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—Famous Players Canadian Corp. has renewed an agreement with the Franklin Hershon Theatres, Ltd., for the operation of seven houses in the Maritime Provinces.

'We'll Clear Matters Up, Give Us a Break,' Asks IA Chief

"There are over 50,000 men looking to the IA for protection. Give us a break," he pleaded. "We'll go along and clear things up."

Asked about the two per cent assessment fund which had been under Browne's exclusive jurisdiction, Walsh declared that "we're looking that over." He explained that it had been discontinued more than a year ago but that he knew little about it as Browne had controlled it himself.

Will Help if Asked

Walsh said that, with all IA locals having complete autonomy, there is no occasion for the IA to negotiate any contracts or step in on local situations. "We'll give them all the help they need if they ask for it," he promised.

The first specific job Walsh will undertake is to help the IA locals on the Coast to obtain their contracts from the studios. The locals there have been negotiating themselves and have an offer of a 10 per cent increase under advisement, he explained, and the IA will offer them as much help as they need.

Jurisdictional disputes among IA locals will be adjusted by the IA before any contracts are signed, he said, but where an IA local has a dispute with a local of another international or independent union, it will be either a matter for the AFL to determine or left to the local to iron out, except where aid from the IA is specifically requested.

Financially, he said, the IA is in the best position it has ever been. No change is planned in the manner of rendering financial statements, he said, as each local receives quarterly reports. It is not planned to publish these reports generally, he said.

Executive Board to Meet

Walsh cleared up reports that he will hold his post only until the next convention. He explained that the IA constitution had been amended and that when Browne had been elected in 1940 the first four-year term had gone into effect. However, the executive board will meet in January to make plans for the regular biennial convention to be held in 1942, he said.

Asked whether he would take any steps about the dual union situation existing between Local 306 and the Empire State Operators Union in New York City, Walsh repeated that the IA would not interfere with local matters unless aid was requested. Referred to the repeated pleas for aid from Local 702 in its efforts to organize Eastern laboratories, Walsh declared that all Eastern laboratories would be in the IA fold in the near future. All exchange workers' locals were granted the right to negotiate their contracts individually at the Oct. 25 meeting of the IA executive board, Walsh said, and nothing would be done to interfere unless a local asked for aid.

Walsh said there is no need for taking measures to restore membership confidence in the IA leadership. "We have that confidence right now. Not a single communication has been received from any local asking for changes," he said, pointing to a pile of letters and telegrams stacked on his desk.

Walsh is a stocky, clean-shaven man. He is married and lives in Brooklyn. The Walshes have no children. He joined Local 4, the stagehands' union in Brooklyn, in 1917 as an apprentice electrician. In 1924, he was elected president of the local and became its business agent in 1926, a post which he held until 1937 when he moved to IA headquarters. He was elected an IA vice-president in 1934 and was its third vice-president up to last Sunday. In 1939, his local again named him president, an unpaid post.

Studio Locals Look To Walsh for Peace

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 11.—Locals of the IATSE here today looked to the administration of president Richard F. Walsh for action on the long seething jurisdictional disputes which have interrupted the locals' affairs since 1933. Most important of all is the fight between the American Society of Cinematographers and Studio Photographers Local 659 over first cameramen who must be ASC members on the major lots and must hold IA cards on independent lots and on location.

Sound Equipment Dispute

Second is the dispute between the IA Sound Technicians Local 695 and Local 40 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers over which group should have control over certain workers on sound equipment. Among other jurisdictional disputes are those between IA Property Men's Local 44 and Studio Carpenters Local 946, over prop makers, and between IA Laborers Local 727 and Studio Utility Employees Local 724 of the General Construction Workers International Union, over back-lot laborers. The electricians, carpenters, and general construction workers international unions are all part of the studio basic labor agreement.

All but the dispute with the General Construction Workers International Union had their origin in the ill-fated IA strike in 1933 when the IA locals' membership dispersed to other AFL units or did not carry union cards. The fight with the Studio Utility Employees came as a result of the 1937 Federated Motion Picture Crafts strike after which the IA took over about half of Local 724's membership.

Early Xmas Buying Starts in Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—Exhibitors here are anticipating an early start of the usual pre-Christmas buying slump, with the official opening of the shopping season.

Mayor James G. Stewart, acting on the plan proposed by the Retail Merchants Association, has proclaimed the opening of the Christmas season this week, and all local stores are decorated in holiday fashion.

Stockholders Of RKO Will Meet Jan. 15

On Nov. 1, the accumulated unpaid dividends on the preferred amounted to $10.50 per share.

However, transfer of that voting privilege to the preferred stock is not expected to result in any change which would not have occurred in election of directors entirely by common shareholders, since the Athol Corp.-RCA interests, which together hold a majority of the preferred, likewise hold a majority of the common.

The new board will probably meet late in January to elect officers.

Officers Reelected By Chicago Union

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—All executive officers of the Chicago Film Exchange Employees' Union, local B45, have been reelected. Votes were cast by 150 of the 215 members. Reelected were Sam Lamasky, president; Roy Rodman, vice-president; Kenneth Siem, Secretary-treasurer, and George W. Busch, business manager; James Castle, sergeant-at-arms.

The new executive board is comprised of Anna Birhanzle, Ted Butler, Joseph Baron and Mary Sitton. New trustees are James Tobin, Dorothy Crawford and Olivia Kennedy.

Mutual Shows 59.1 Increase For 10 Months

Mutual yesterday resumed the practice of releasing its gross billing figures after having discontinued them last January by agreement among the networks. The figures announced showed that Mutual has increased its normal business, excluding political billings, by 59.1 per cent for the first 10 months of this year over the same period in 1940.

No explanation was given by Mutual for the resumption of the disclosure of business figures. For the first 10 months of 1941, Mutual gross billings were $5,393,522, an increase of 51.4 per cent over the total of $3,562,509 for same period last year. However, the increase amounts to 59.1 per cent when the political billings are disregarded.

October Comparison

The gross for October, 1941, was $839,829, a rise of 37.3 per cent over the total of $611,794 for October, 1940, not including political business, and seven per cent over the $784,676 total including political billings.

Because of the holiday, it could not be learned yesterday whether the other networks also planned to release figures. At the time it was decided to discontinue the figures, the principal reason given was that gross billings, which do not reflect discounts, are not an accurate indication of business. In some circles it was said that the radio industry feared a taxation move if the constantly mounting revenues were published frequently.

At the time, the National Association of Broadcasters undertook to develop a plan for units of sponsored time to be reported but the method was never formulated. Subsequently, in May, during the course of the Ascap fight, Mutual and many of its affiliated stations, withdrew from NAB.

Ascap Election Is Expected Shortly As Test of Strength

of the month. It is probable also that the board may defer an election until after a general Ascap membership meeting which is scheduled to be held in December.

Segments of the Ascap board and membership reportedly favor a change of officers to map a campaign to open up new revenue sources to the society to offset the lower annual income from radio under the new long-term contracts with networks. How widespread that feeling is and how much strength it could muster in an election of Ascap officers is not apparent at this time.

$57,277 Judgment Is Set Against Erpi

Federal Judge John C. Knox has ordered a judgment totaling $57,277 against Erpi and in favor of John G. Paine as agent and trustee for more than 40 music publishing houses. The judgment granted on stipulation of the parties is the result of a suit filed in 1936 in which Erpi was charged with the use of a large number of musical compositions for recording in foreign countries without the consent of the publishing houses.

Judge Knox in 1939 after ruling in favor of the plaintiff ordered a reference to determine the amount of the liability on the part of Erpi. The suit involved the question of law of whether music in which the plaintiffs held U. S. copyrights could be recorded in other countries where the compositions were in the public domain.

The suit originally sought $149,948, but was scaled down by the court.

FCC Network Rules Await Writ Decision

A stipulation between NBC and the FCC has been filed in the Federal Court postponing the effective date of the new network monopoly regulations from Nov. 15 until after a decision on the motion for a temporary injunction made by the network. A similar stipulation with CBS is scheduled to be signed and filed today.

The court will hold a hearing on the motion Dec. 15 at which time the FCC will counter by asking for dismissal of the suit. Attorneys who will handle the suit for the FCC and the Government are Samuel Brodsky, Telford Taylor and Thomas Harris.

Brodsky said yesterday that he did not believe that Assistant U. S. Attorney General Thurman Arnold would take part in the action but stated that it was "a possibility."

ness, ranging in verbal report all the way from "very big" and "tremendous" to "complete sellout—SRO" and "one of our biggest matinees."

At the Broadway film houses, business was unusually strong all the way. Some of the houses reported long lines of standees from the morning hours extending well into the afternoon. The Music Hall, for example, reported an SRO matinee, with 500 standing in line at 1 P. M. The Broadway reported a capacity-plus matinee, with a line of standees outside of the house which was not dissipated until 4 P.M. The Roxy, Rialto, Astor, Paramount, Strand and Rivoli all reported substantial business throughout the day, with several having standees.

Chicago Loop Houses Report Capacity Crowds

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—With thousands of people thronging the Loop, since most business houses shut down for all or part of the day, and with the schools closed for Armistice Day, all houses in the Loop reported capacity business.

The Chicago and State-Lake Theatres reported holdouts at noon, and other theatres filled rapidly. Balaban & Katz charged holiday prices in the Loop houses, the first time that has been done on Armistice Day. Prices were 55 cents to 1 P.M., 65 cents and 75 cents thereafter.

Holiday Business Is Strong in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11. — With cloudy skies and high temperatures, Armistice Day theatre business was off to a strong start here today. The usual influx of holiday visitors to the city was augmented by 10,000 soldiers from Ford Ord and Camp San Luis Obispo, plus service men on leave from San Diego and other camps. Business held generally strong at the local theatres, with "Birth of the Blues" at the Paramount and "Citizen Kane" at the Hawaii on Hollywood Boulevard appearing to be the strongest attractions.

Armistice Day Brings Good Grosses in N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 11.—Theatres and amusements generally reported unusually good business here today, as the Armistice Day observance caused many business houses to close, some all day and others a half day. Exceptionally clear weather also helped at the box-office. Evening business at downtown houses, however, was affected by an elaborate night parade, which lasted several hours.

Boston Reports Big Box-Office

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—Film and legitimate houses reported record grosses for the Armistice Day holiday, with downtown theatres announcing standing room at a premium and motion picture houses turning customers away. A big parade drew an estimated 150,000 visitors to the city.

Toronto Business Reported as Good

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—Matinees today found suburban theatres packed and downtown theatres well filled, and evening attendance was heavy everywhere. Theatres charged the usual scales. Raw weather and sleet discouraged outdoor activities except two parades. Retail stores were closed in the morning for observance of the official program, and morning theatre patronage was off. Banks and schools observed the full holiday.

Montreal Builds To Normal Gross

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—After a slow day in which Armistice exercises kept this city's population occupied, evening theatre business picked up and in most instances was normal, managers reported. A parade in the morning killed opening business entirely, with the city turning out en masse to witness wreath laying ceremonies. Projectionists suspended showings during the two-minute silence at 11 o'clock, as is the custom. Many business houses observed a whole or half holiday. Exhibitors reported afternoon business picked up and built steadily in the evening.

Majors Named In Nebraska Anti-Trust Suit

Climaxes Trust Actions Involving Theatres

A cross-fire of anti-trust actions involving almost every Omaha theatre was climaxed this week with the filing in state court at Lincoln of an anti-trust suit against the R. D. Goldberg Theatres and the major distributors by the State Attorney General.

Indications were that the distributors had been caught in the middle of an Omaha exhibitors' controversy, involving the A. H. Blank and Sam Epstein Omaha theatres as well as the Goldberg circuit, leaving the distributors as defendants in two resulting anti-trust suits.

Details of the action charging the Goldberg Omaha theatres and the distributors with violations of the Nebraska anti-trust laws had not been

Open Film Tribunals For Other Disputes

BUFFALO, Nov. 12.—The 31 industry arbitration boards in the key cities throughout the country will be opened to all forms of industrial complaints and will no longer be exclusively motion picture tribunals, under an agreement reached with the film industry recently. J. Noble Braden, executive secretary of the American Arbitration Association, disclosed in an address before the Erie County Bar Association here today.

Braden indicated that the reason for the opening of the boards to all types of industrial disputes was the comparatively few arbitration complaints filed under the film industry consent decree since the boards were launched

Interest of Exhibitors in Shorts Seen Increasing

By SAM SHAIN

Distributor representatives report a mounting exhibitor interest in short subjects due to the fact that improved production and more careful selection of production subjects has sharpened the public's taste and interest in these subjects.

This greater interest trend is believed proved by the holding of today's special Ampa session which will be devoted to the short subject field. Also, MOTION PICTURE DAILY in this issue presents a section devoted to short subjects and in which principal distributors of these films are represented.

Already, these distributor representatives report that about 130 of the 585 promised subjects for the year are

Norman Moray, Warner Bros. chieftain, reports that in instances theatres have begun to drop the second feature in favor of a single feature program with shorts. He also reports that his company's business in short subjects has risen by about 25 per cent.

'Quit Picking on Films,' Says Detroit 'Free Press'

DETROIT, Nov. 12.—"The movies are more respectable than a good many newspapers and magazines, and far more decent than most of our best-selling books. And as for culture and art they rank in intelligence above most of the popular Broadway shows."

These words are from Malcolm W. Bingay's column titled "Good Morning," in today's Detroit Free Press. Bingay is a noted magazine writer and editorialist. His column is syndicated and read by millions.

RKO, 20th-Fox Ask Exemption On Minn. Sales

RKO and 20th Century-Fox made applications yesterday to Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard for exemptions from the consent decree's sales provisions to permit them to resume selling in Minnesota under the state's anti-block-of-five law.

Hearings on the applications are slated for tomorrow, concurrently with the Warner petition for Minnesota exemption.

Loew's officials said yesterday that the company will reconsider its previous decision to refrain from selling in Minnesota under the state law but added that they were "not at all sure" that any change of policy would result from such a reconsideration. They said that the fact that all of the other consenting companies had decided to reenter the Minnesota field "forced" them to reconsider their procedure but this did not necessarily mean that they would take the same action.

A motion by 20th Century-Fox also was filed with Judge Goddard yesterday requesting a ruling on the application of Section 15 of the decree to certain franchises for the company's product. Section 15 exempts franchises entered into prior to June 6, 1940, from the decree's provisions. Hearing on that motion has been set for tomorrow.

U. S. Probing Local IATSE Situations

U. S. Attorney Mathias F. Correa, in addressing the court yesterday on sentences to be imposed on William Bioff and George E. Browne, revealed that an investigation is under way of local IATSE situations. He declined to name the cities but is understood to be concentrating on New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Joliet, Ill., all named by Bioff.

Correa also disclosed that he is seeking certain associates of Bioff and Browne and said that both men had been under questioning in the Federal House of Detention since their conviction last Thursday. Both have refused to reveal the identity of these associates, Correa said.

Coast Flashes

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12
REPUBLIC expects "Down Mex-ico Way," Gene Autry special, to exceed the Autry accounts record of 11,143 set by "South of the Border." The studio announced today that the new picture, in its first five weeks of release, played 1,000 houses and thus far has been set for 5,000 additional bookings in the next four months.

Federal Judge Leon Yankwich today took under advisement the plea of Leo Morrison, agent, that the Screen Actors Guild be restrained from subjecting him to discipline under the Guild's agency franchise agreement. The court indicated that it would consult authorities on such matters. The application is an upshot of Morrison's suit against Charles K. Feldman, another agent, and Marlene Dietrich for allegedly influencing John Wayne to leave his client list for Feldman.

Charles Starrett, Columbia cowboy star, suffered severe facial injuries today when thrown from a horse when making scenes for "Lawless Plainsmen" on location.

Eastman Votes Stock And Wage Dividends

ROCHESTER, Nov. 12.—An extra stock dividend of $1 a share and a record-breaking wage dividend for 1942 of $4,200,000 based upon common stock dividends, was announced today by Eastman Kodak Co.

The extra stock dividend is in addition to a quarter dividend of $1.50.

The wage dividend is $645,000 higher than the previous largest amount distributed to employes, $3,555,000 in 1937, and is $1,575,000 more than last year's wage dividend of $2,625,000. It will be distributed in March.

The $1 extra dividend on the common stock brought declarations for the year to $7, an increase of $1 over last year.

The wage dividend voted today is the 30th since the plan was inaugurated in 1912 and will bring the total Kodak wage dividend payments since that time to a sum in excess of $51,000,000.

SPG Vote Rejects Affiliation With CIO

A referendum vote in the Screen Publicists Guild has rejected affiliation with the CIO, it was announced yesterday. The affiliation, which was backed by many SPG officials, was disapproved because "many members believed such a move not necessary to the securing of a speedy and acceptable contract," an executive board statement said.

The board refused to disclose the tabulation of the ballots. A large number of votes were challenged but they cannot affect anything except the closeness of the result, it was said. The statement also said that cooperation with the Screen Office & Professional Employes Guild, Local 109, CIO, would continue and that the "membership is prepared to take whatever steps are necessary to secure its contract."

John J. Stanley, secretary-treasurer of the United Office & Professional Workers of America, parent union of Local 109, said the refusal to affiliate was "deeply regretted." "The results of their referendum will delay but not prevent the establishment of maximum unity among all white collar workers in the motion picture industry," he said.

Sentence Bioff To Ten Years, Browne Gets 8

made at 4 P.M. today to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for a stay of sentencing pending determination of the appeals.

The sentence for Bioff, as pronounced by the court, was 10 years and $10,000 fine on the first count; 10 years on the second to run concurrently with the first; and 10 years and $10,000 fine on the third, to start after the first two are completed but to be suspended, if the fines are paid, and the defendants are to be placed, instead, on probation for the maximum period of five years.

Charge 18 Errors

The appeals filed listed 18 alleged errors, including one that the sentences imposed were excessive and beyond the maximum permitted by law. Principal basis of the appeals, however, is expected to be that the anti-racketeering statute under which both men were convicted is unconstitutional and that the crimes were not prosecuted within the time permitted by the statute of limitations.

Meanwhile, from Los Angeles came word that U. S. Attorney William F. Palmer said yesterday that he would present to the Federal Grand Jury there, at the earliest possible moment, evidence adduced at the New York trial and ask for a new indictment on income tax evasion against Bioff. Bioff is presently under indictment for tax evasion on approximately $85,000 but Palmer said the new indictment would include the amounts revealed at the trial here.

Would Press Tax Trial

Palmer said he would insist that Bioff go on trial in Los Angeles on the income tax charges before his commitment on the New York sentence.

In New York court circles it was considered possible that the U. S. Attorney in Chicago might also file income tax charges against Browne.

Both men are entitled to three days off per month for good behavior during the early years of the sentence and five days during the later years. They also will be eligible for parole at the completion of one-third their sentences. In Bioff's case this would be at the end of three years and four

"H. M. Pulham, Esq."

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Nov. 12

MAKING the best selling novel, "H. M. Pulham, Esq.," and giving it an outstanding cast and a velvety production mounting, M-G-M has turned out a love story of universal appeal, a picture to rank as an outstanding grosser in all situations. It is moving, gripping in its telling of the affairs of the heart; it is light, frothy in its numerous comedy moments.

The title role is played by Robert Young, who gives his most outstanding performance; Hedy LaMarr plays the role of Marvin Myles, the sweetheart he doesn't marry, and Ruth Hussey that of the woman Pulham weds. The trio, who do exceptionally well in their characterizations, are assisted by an able cast including Charles Coburn, Van Heflin, Fay Holden, Bonita Granville, Douglas Wood, Charles Halton, Leif Erickson, Phil Brown, David Clyde and Sara Haden.

Director King Vidor, who with Elizabeth Hill wrote the screenplay, has extracted from each scene the ultimate in audience possibilities, placing his characters in such juxtaposition that each situation works itself out in a life-like manner. The dialogue, which preserved the spirit of J. P. Marquand's book, effectively contrived to the tempo of each of the sequence of events in the life of the scion of the staid Boston family whose background prevented him from breaking away and marrying the girl he loved.

Told by means of flashbacks, the narrative depicts the young man's life through childhood, through World War I, his working in a New York advertising agency where he meets the girl with whom he falls in love, the taking up of his late father's business, and the clash between the life represented by Marvin Myles and the society girl whom he marries.

months and, in the case of Browne, at the expiration of two years and eight months. However, parole is rarely granted at the end of the minimum period and considerable doubt was expressed in courtroom circles that Bioff would be granted any at all. Browne, on the other hand, was described by Mathias F. Correa, U. S. Attorney, in his discussion of the sentences to Judge Knox, as a man who might be rehabilitated. In any event, if parole is granted, they will be required to report on parole until the end of the maximum term and then will face the probationary period.

Judge Knox, in pronouncing sentence, declared that he would have given both men equal sentences but was influenced by Correa's remarks that Browne's sentence should be less. Judge Knox, however, did not accept Correa's recommendation that separate sentences be imposed on each count, pointing out that the acts constituted only one crime. Correa asked for 15 years for Bioff and 10 years for Browne with an additional five years on probation for the latter, plus $30,000 each in fines.

There was considerable speculation yesterday whether the defendants would be sent to Alcatraz or the East Lewisburg, Pa., penitentiary. In view of the fact that both men were convicted of racketeering there is a possibility that they may be sent to Alcatraz. Their plea for a stay of sentence to the Circuit Court today is expected to hinge on the weight given to their points on appeal. If that court regards the statute of limitations defense as important, it may grant the stay. More favorable for the defense, however, is the fact that the U. S. Supreme Court has recently agreed to consider the constitutionality of the anti-racketeering statute. There have been only about six such prosecutions since the law was enacted and several phases of the law are under question.

The men will remain at the Federal House of Detention until their appeals are decided, if the stays are not granted, Martin Conboy, attorney for Browne, said yesterday. They will not receive credit on their sentences while there but apparently decided they would prefer to remain pending appeal.

Judge Knox denounced the acts of the defendants as "heinous" and said "they have signally betrayed the trusts that were committed to their care." He called them "recrants to their trust, dishonest in heart, mind and action."

Plea for Leniency

Henry A. Uterhart, attorney for Bioff, termed the latter "a victim of circumstances and environment rather than of his own evil nature." Conboy asked for leniency because of the families and said the men were made "scapegoats" by newspaper commentators opposed to the Wagner Act.

Correa said that Browne's "was the greater crime, although Bioff is the greater criminal." Correa justified his calling Bioff a "Chicago hoodlum" and linked Bioff to the gangster killings of Jack Zucco and Tom Maloy, whom Correa described as Chicago racketeers. He also pointed to the fact that in 1925, Bioff had said he was employed in the St. Joseph Valley Brickyard, and that his business was "a front" for the Al Capone gang. He said the chances of Bioff being rehabilitated are "practically negligible." As for Browne, he said little was known of his background except that he was formerly a respected labor leader but that he "sold out," probably in 1925. In that year, Browne was taken to a Chicago hospital with a bullet wound but refused to name his tice phases of an all-industry program, pointing out that while there should be no question concerning the participation of any industry element in a program designed to present a united front against unjust legislation, taxation and public condemnation of the industry, there still remain grounds for doubting whether distributors will cooperate as fully in devising a trade practice program for strictly internal application.

"The easy alibi of risk of anti-trust prosecution if they (the distributors) cooperate with each other to end industry abuses and improve the business is readily available for those who want to avoid responsibility," the bulletin states.

Backs Allied Move

Although critical of several phases of the proposed all-industry committee's makeup, the bulletin makes it clear that the MPTOA is willing to participate in the Allied States-sponsored unity program. It claims that the objectives of the program are the same as those which MPTOA has championed in the past, without success for one reason or another.

The bulletin reveals that MPTOA continues to regard the consent decree with active disfavor, asserting that the decree has solved no problem of major interest to the exhibitor and that it merely has burdened the industry with "a huge, unproductive expense and is working a real hardship on exhibitors, who were ignored in the framing of the decree."

The bulletin warns exhibitors of the prospect of new tax measures by Congress after the first of the year and advises them to make adjustments now in their admission scales commensurate with new taxes and local purchasing power.

received by home office legal departments up to late yesterday.

An absurdity enters the situation in that the distributors, charged with conspiring with the Goldberg circuit against the Epstein theatres in the Nebraska attorney general's action, are also charged by Goldberg with conspiring with the Blank theatres against his.

The litigation apparently began several weeks ago when the Blank Omaha company brought an action against Goldberg, who operates six Omaha theatres, for infractions of a lease. Goldberg responded with an anti-trust suit charging Blank and the major distributors with conspiring to put him out of business.

On Monday of this week, the Nebraska attorney general's action was filed charging Goldberg and the major distributors with conspiring to put Sam and Louis Epstein, who also operate six Omaha theatres, out of business. While information reaching home office legal circles was that the state's action is unrelated to the other two cases, some sales officials professed to see in all actions a boiling over of the spirited exhibition competition in Omaha.

Blank operates the three largest Omaha first runs and several subsequent runs. In all, a total of more than 20 of the city's 32 theatres are involved in the actions.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The FCC today granted the application of WOVI and WNEW, New York, to exchange call letters.

Harold A. Lafount, general manager of Arde Bulova radio interests, said yesterday that the Greater N. Y. Broadcasting Corp., now owner of WOVI, would broadcast under the WNEW call letters with WNEW programs, while Wodaam Corp., owner of the present WNEW, would broadcast under the WOVI call letters with the latter's programs. Under the switch, the new WNEW will broadcast with 10,000 watts on 1,130 k.c. and will be eligible to apply for a 50,000 watt transmitter, while the new WOVI will broadcast with only 5,000 watts on 1,280 k.c. Lafount said Bulova was the sole owner of the stock in Greater N. Y. Broadcasting Corp. and that Bulova was also majority owner in Wodaam with Richard E. O'Dea as minority owner.

Officials of the present WNEW said a statement would be forthcoming shortly but would not comment otherwise. It was indicated, however, that the corporate setups of the two stations had not been finally settled and that there was also some question whether the present WNEW would move to the present WOVI studios.

last Feb. 1. Fewer than 150 cases or a nearly 10-month average of less than five cases per board, have been filed by the industry.

"I remember asking a theatre man at the time the boards were opened how many arbitration cases we might expect," Braden related. "The reply was that there are 16,000 theatre throughout the country, 50 per cent of which are independently operated so that we might expect 8,000 disputes to settle."

It was pointed out that the boards have been available for the past several months for the settlement of labor and other disputes in national defense industries.

It was learned that under the agreement with the motion picture industry, the A.A.A. will participate in the financing of the 31 board's upkeep hereafter, instead of their entire maintenance being borne by the five consenting distribution companies.

Because of the comparatively few complaints filed with the boards to date, there had been some sentiment in the industry in favor of reducing their number, but action in this direction is obviated by the new plan.

20th-Fox 39-Week Profit $1,549,164

Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. yesterday reported a consolidated net profit, after Federal income tax, of $1,549,164 for the 39 weeks ended last Sept. 27, after providing a reserve for foreign assets of $3,150,000. This compares with a loss of $1,075,511 for the first 39 weeks of 1940, after a comparable reserve of $2,200,000.

These improved earnings, observers feel, are reflected from the progressive increase in sales shown by the company with the new season.

For the third quarter ended September 27, the consolidated net profit, after all charges, including provision of $1,650,000 of reserve for foreign assets was $687,886. This compared with second quarter profit of $457,189, after a reserve of $1,150,000, and a loss of $1,192,824 for the third quarter.

Films' Strength Is In Entertainment, Grierson Declares

"The strength of the film industry lies precisely in the fact that it is an entertainment industry. What is most valuable to the State in time of war as in time of peace is that it commands a vast audience who go genuinely and spontaneously for the emotion stimulus which the movies give them," John Grierson, Canadian Film Commissioner, told the annual convention of the National Board of Review, meeting at the Pennsylvania Hotel yesterday.

Defining the policy of the Canadian Government with respect to films during time of war, he said: "We

$319,000 Year Budget Is Set On Arbitration

Credits to Majors Under Expansion Plan

A budget of $319,000, of which $25,000 is a contingent fund, has been set for the operation of the 31 arbitration boards for the ensuing 12 months under the new plan by which the boards are being opened to the arbitration of general industrial disputes as branch offices of the American Arbitration Association, rather than as exclusively motion picture tribunals.

Under the new plan, the five consenting distributors, responsible for the maintenance of the boards under the consent decree, will receive 50 per cent of the fees aid into the local boards by parties to arbitration cases. Their share of the fees will be credited to their budget obligation.

The consent decree allowed a maximum budget of $490,000 for the first

Ascap Will Conform To Washington Law

SEATTLE, Nov. 13.—Ascap official reached an agreement with State Attorney General Smith Troy here today under which the society will comply with the so-called state anti-Ascap law. The agreement paves the way for Ascap to resume licensing of Washington theatres, radio stations and other music users and to collect fees accrued to Ascap in the last four years.

Under the agreement, Ascap will file a list of its compositions with the secretary of state as required by the statute and will abandon its appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court of the Federal statutory court's decision upholding the validity of the state law. The appeal had been scheduled for hearing in the high court on Dec. 8.

Washington theatres and radio stations have paid no Ascap fees since enactment of the state anti-Ascap law in 1937. Under the agreement reached they will not only be required to again obtain licenses but presumably, will also have to effect agreements with the society on payments for any Ascap music used by them during the four-year period. It is believed here, however, that some compromise on the latter will be effected.

Ask Canada Music Royalty Increase

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—An increase of fees to be collected from radio has been proposed by Canadian Performing Rights Society, Ltd., (Ascapi) and BMI Canada, Ltd., for 1942, it was revealed today when the proposed schedule was published in the Canada Gazette.

PRS was permitted to collect $107,612 for 1941 and the proposed 1942 schedule calls for $203,660. Persons having objections to the new fees must file particulars with the Secretary of State before Nov. 30. The objections will be studied by the Copyright Appeal Board and hearings are expected to be held early in December.

PRS suggests that in 1942 a semi-annual fee of $20 be paid for each portable sound producing and motion picture projector, and an annual fee of $10 for coin phonographs.

BMI proposed for 1942 a levy of $38,792 from radio as compared with $13,451 for 1941, but makes no proposals for fees other than from broadcasters. The BMI request is equivalent to one-third of $116,377, this amount being computed on the basis of eight cents for each of the 1,454,717 sets licensed in Canada on March 31.

"Confirm or Deny"

(20th Century-Fox)

HERE are timeliness, punch, and plenty of thrill in this newspaper yarn, set against a background of London in the period of the worst of the Nazi air blitz raid on the English capital in September of 1940. With Don Ameche and Joan Bennett heading the cast, and with setting depicting bomb-ravaged London giving a strong stamp of authenticity, the exhibitor should have a really exploitable picture here.

Young Roddy McDowell, the small boy who scored so heavily in "How Green Was My Valley," again proves that he is a young actor of exceptional talent and wide appeal. The support otherwise includes Raymond Walburn, Eric Blore, Arthur Shields and John Loder.

Archie Mayo, who directed, imparted to the film pace and a well-knit development, while Len Hammond, responsible for the production, saw to it that the picture had technical values of the best.

Ameche is the go-getting head in London of an American news syndicate, who by sheer drive forces his staff to function despite constant air raids. He meets Miss Bennett, teletypist for the Ministry of Information, during a blackout, and the two are attracted to each other. When the syndicate offices are bombed out, he usurps the wine cellar of a hotel, wrangles help—and Miss Bennett—from the Information Ministry, and continues his work. McDowell, remaining on the roof of the syndicate offices to watch for a pigeon message from the Continent, gets it but is killed in the raid. Miss Bennett and Ameche are trapped in the cellar with a live time bomb, Ameche cancels his invasion story in order not to give information to the enemy, and the couple finally are rescued, with a romantic conclusion apparent.

Running time, 73 minutes. "G."*

"Tarzan's Secret Treasure"

(M-G-M)

HIGH adventure in the African jungle, where the redoubtable Tarzan rules supreme in his own Utopian world, is the backbone of this latest chapter in the stories of the characters based on the creations of Edgar Rice Burroughs. Once again, Johnny Weissmuller appears in his familiar Tarzan role, racing through the tree-tops, swimming under crocodile-infested rivers and frightening hordes of natives in protecting his wife and son, and their home from the inroads of civilization.

Maureen O'Sullivan again is seen as Jane, Tarzan's wife, and John Sheffield, as their son, displays remarkable ability in the water, a pleasing personality, and commendable capability as a young actor. Reginald Owen, as the leader of a scientific expedition, and Tom Conway and Philip Dorn, as members whose thirst for gold almost brings disaster to Tarzan's family, are in support. A special word is due Barry Fitzgerald, Irish truck driver for the group, who assists Tarzan's wife and son, and whose comedy touch is a highlight in the production.

Given excellent production values by producer B. P. Fineman, and directed with swift and unflagging pace by Richard Thorpe, the picture should offer plenty of opportunity for the exhibitor. It is, of course, a natural for the younger generation, and there is no reason why the elders cannot find much to enjoy in this film of delightful unreality.

Running time, 81 minutes. "G."*

Station-Break Rule Is Revised by FCC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The FCC today revised its regulations to permit station identification announcements to be made at the quarter-hour before or after the hour instead of only on the hour and half-hour. It was explained that this will place all half-hour programs on a parity so far as station breaks are concerned.

The FCC also formally announced that the network regulations had been postponed in accordance with stipulations filed in the CBS and NBC suits for injunctions.

N.Y. Collects Fee on Public Television

Following the recent installations of coin-in-the-slot film machines in New York City, License Commissioner Paul Moss has started a drive to collect $2 monthly fees not only from these machines but from television sets installed in public places as well. The demand is based on an old ordinance providing for licenses for "a display on a screen or other device of pictures or objects in motion or rapidly changing scenery."

Moss said about 50 television set operators had taken out licenses. He would not estimate the number in the city and added that no effort would be made to collect from home receivers, although the ordinance covers homes also. A legal test of the commissioner's right to collect the fees is expected from television set manufacturers.

Exhibitor Interest

On 'Swamp Water'; B'way Grosses Big

"Swamp Water," 20th Century-Fox picture opening at the Globe tomorrow, holds New York exhibitor interest. The picture comes here after an exceptional campaign and record business in St. Louis. Similarly in San Francisco the picture brought in a gross of reportedly record proportions.

This gives 20th Century-Fox three films on Broadway, with "Week-End in Havana" at the Roxy and "How Green Was My Valley" at the Rivoli, thus dominating the Main Stem.

Broadway Week Strong

Broadway had a week of generally big grosses. Strong business over the weekend and on Armistice Day accounted for much of the income. Grosses slackened somewhat at most houses after the holiday.

Top business of the week was registered at the Roxy, playing "Week-End in Havana," and the Radio City Music Hall with Universal's "Appointment for Love." "Week-End in Havana" with a stage show rolled up an estimated $62,000 in its first week and starts a second week today. Because of a crowded booking schedule "Appointment for Love," with the stage presentation, checked out of the Music Hall after an estimated $93,000 week, a gross that ordinarily would warrant extended playing time. Warners' "One Foot in Heaven" opened there yesterday.

'Valley' $38,700, Second Week

At the Rivoli, "How Green Was My Valley" continues to draw heavily. It finished its second week Tuesday night with an estimated $38,700 and is now in its third week. "The Chocolate Soldier" had a second week at the Astor estimated at $14,000 and begins a third week today.

"International Squadron" started at the Strand yesterday with Terry Powell and orchestra on the stage after the run of "Sergeant York." The latter with Phil Spitalny's orchestra grossed an estimated $21,800 in its final six days. The film played one day short of four weeks.

"Frightened Lady" bows out of the Globe tonight with a gross for the week expected to reach an estimated $4,000. "South of Tahiti" finishes its first week at the Rialto with an estimated $7,200 expected and holds over.

Films' Strength Entertainment, Grierson Says

...the film industry as it is. We can't try, because there is a war on. We can't build some other kind of film industry. We take it the way it is; we have a showmen's industry dedicated to showmanship and commanding the attention of a Canadian audience of two and a half million people who happen to be interested in and happen to need showmanship."

Must Uphold Standards

"Government pictures must not disturb the mood of the audience which is expecting an emotional stimulus, it should preserve that mood," he pointed out. "In fact we pledged ourselves that whatever we might ask of theatres to carry in the way of public information would have to measure up to the normal standards of interest, entertainment and emotional stimulus, or we would ourselves be the first to jerk it."

Grierson remarked that the series "Canada Carries On," which is the chief Government film enterprise, is sold and not given away. "We were selling it commercially, because if it wasn't good enough to sell commercially, we weren't any more interested in it than the industry. In other words, we decided to put our work on a normal entertainment basis, and use that as a measuring stick of our success in public information." As proof of the commercial success of the series, he said that about 90 per cent of the theatres in Canada have bought it.

One a Month Enough

"My most difficult job as Commissioner," he said, "is not to keep the industry in line but to explain to the various Government departments, who are howling for screen space that one issue of the series a month is enough high pressure."

In conclusion Grierson said in general the business of production and distribution should be left to those who know it by experience and the Government film body should maintain intimate, cooperative, continuous and creative contacts with the industry.

The Board of Review conference will conclude tomorrow.

history, crowded with talent and executive names and marked by a spontaneous ovation to William S. Hart, who was singled out among the many who occupied a double dais.

The Interstate Circuit's department which Miss Short heads was created by O'Donnell eight years ago for the purpose of booking short subjects, building shorts programs of merit, and selling the subjects with the attention usually given to features.

Billed With Feature

"Many subjects," Miss Short said, "are given equal billing with the feature and some are billed above the feature in our campaigns."

"Sneak" previews, world premieres and special advertising and publicity campaigns are staged by her department for the glorification and business returns of the short subject.

A short on a men's cooking contest landed 20,000 lines of publicity in the papers of Interstate's theatre area, and the campaign itself was not unusual in the department's custom of making box-office material of short subjects. And along with the cash returns, Miss Short pointed out, a perfect defense against "the short subject's worst enemy—double features," has been set up.

Numerous personalities and acts featured in the shorts of the major companies attended the meeting and many of them contributed to the entertainment. Door prizes, souvenirs, decorations and short subject characters enlivened the proceedings which were kept on the move by Robert Benchley as master of ceremonies and Vincent Trotta, Ampa president, as chairman.

Hammons Introduced

Among the many dais occupants in addition to those mentioned were: Earle W. Hammons, introduced as "the father of the short subject"; short subject sales managers including Norman Moray, Oscar Morgan, Bernard Kreisler, Max Weisfeldt, Harry Michalson and William Clark; John Kieran, Graham McNamee, Jack L. Warner, Grantland Rice, Craig Wood, Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, Don Baker and Juanita Juarez.

William J. year of the board's operation, 10 months of which was completed at a cost of $300,000, including furnishing and equipping the new offices. The decree allows a maximum budget of $465,000 a year for subsequent years of operation.

The AAA will call clerks of the 31 local boards to New York during the next few weeks to instruct them in their added duties in handling complaints other than those of the film industry. Only the theatre complaints will have recourse to the national appeals board.

The AAA on its own initiative will open other arbitration offices in several sections of the country, apart from the 31 key cities, under its expanded operating plan, but these will not be available to exhibitors. No diminution of arbitration service to members of the film industry will result from the expanded operations, Cornelius V. Whitney, president of the AAA, stated.

Members of the budget committee are Joseph H. Hazen of Warners, for the industry; Paul Felix Warburg for the AAA, and Van Vechten Veeder of the national appeals board.

"Cadet Girl"

SEVERAL good songs pleasantly sung plus some good acting and a passable story, put this film at the top of its class. Sol M. Wurtzel, executive producer, gave the picture plenty of production values and Ray McCarey's direction kept the acting moving and worked in the music naturally.

Carole Landis carries out well her singing and acting assignments and George Montgomery fits the popular notion of what a West Point cadet should be. John Shepperd gives a fine supporting performance as the older brother. The cast also includes William Tracy, Janis Carter, who sings one song. Robert Lowery, Basil Walker, Charles Tannen, Chick Chandler and others.

There is nothing very new or novel about the story. A West Point cadet while on Summer vacation falls in love with the singer in his brother's orchestra. The brother wants the boy to return to the academy to fulfill their father's ambition. Miss Landis, the singer, decides she will marry the cadet at the end of his vacaiton, meanwhile singing in an orchestra he starts. Finally at a special Army camp show she realizes that he should return to West Point and not marry her. The boy is inspired to go back by a song which his brother sings, "Uncle Sam Gets Around."

Other songs by Leo Robins and Ralph Rainger included in the picture are "My Old Man Was An Army Man," "I'll Settle For You," "It Happened, It's Over, Let's Forget," and "She a Good Neighbor." Several of the numbers may be expected to be popular.

Running time, 69 minutes. "G"*

"Marry the Boss's Daughter"

(20th Century-Fox)

CUED by the remark of Prof. Robert E. Rogers of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology that "the only way for a young man to get ahead these days is to marry the boss's daughter," Thornton Freeland, who directed, has whipped together a light little comedy on just that theme.

Brenda Joyce, Bruce Edwards, George Barbier and Hardie Albright give entirely satisfactory performances but their effectiveness is limited by a thin plot. Briefly, the story is of a young man (Edwards) who gets his big chance when he returns a lost dog to Miss Joyce. She gets him a job with her father's firm but the young man takes his work too seriously and the boss's daughter not seriously enough. Eventually he learns better, marries the aforesaid daughter and becomes a vice-president.

Loew's Decides Today on Minn. Decree Escape

show provisions of the decree, after hearings on those companies' applications.

Loew's is the only company of the six affected by the Minnesota law not to seek exemption to date. Paramount and United Artists resumed selling in Minnesota two weeks ago.

Judge Goddard also upheld the validity of a three-year franchise made by 20th Century-Fox and the Sudekum Circuit of Nashville. The deal involves 100 Crescent Amusement Co. theatres and, although it was not formally signed, according to the Government's contention, until after June 6, 1940, the decree deadline for such deals, the distributor produced deal sheets to show that preliminary agreements had been reached prior to that date.

Seymour Simon, special assistant to the U. S. Attorney General, opposed the validity of the franchise under the decree. A stipulation therefore was entered permitting the Government to appeal from Judge Goddard's decision at any time within the next six months. The same procedure was followed several weeks ago when Judge Goddard approved a similar franchise deal between Loew's and the Mullin & Pinanski Circuit of Boston.

Government Consents

Simon consented for the Government to the release of Warners, RKO and 20th Century-Fox from the decree provisions which are in conflict with the Minnesota law, but opposed a further release sought by 20th Century-Fox from Section 7, which permits exhibitors to cancel films on religious or moral grounds. The distributor contended that the section should not apply in view of the 20 per cent cancellation given exhibitors under the Minnesota law.

The court concurred with the Government in opposing this phase of the 20th Century-Fox application and denied the request without prejudice to its renewal in the event it appears necessary later.

Kalmenson 'Happy'

Benjamin Kalmenson, general sales manager of Warner Bros., in a statement issued on Friday said he was happy over the order of the court and glad that the company will again be able to sell in Minnesota.

Review

"Rise and Shine"

(20th Century-Fox)

A SPRIGHTLY, lively and tuneful comedy with music is "Rise and Shine," a burlesque on the big and powerful, but extremely stupid football hero with the unpronounceable name.

Based on the book by James Thurber, "My Life and Hard Times," the film was produced by Mark Hellinger and directed by Allan Dwan, with "singable" lyrics and music by Leon Robin and Ralph Rainger. It has been given an elaborate and well-mounted production, technically all that is required, and features a handful of names, which with its timely football theme, should supply the exhibitor with considerable material for exploitation.

Jack Oakie plays the big, extremely sleepy, and amazingly stupid Clayton football hero, with the support including George Murphy, Linda Darnell, Walter Brennan, Milton Berle, Donald Meek, Ruth Donnelly, Raymond Walburn and Sheldon Leonard. The latter is the big-time gambler who sends Murphy, orchestra leader and ex-football star, down to Clayton to keep his eye on Oakie, who is responsible for Clayton's victories, and hence responsible for Leonard's winnings.

Miss Darnell is the feminine Clayton cheer-leader, and daughter of Meek, professor in whose home Oakie stays so that he may have both rest and an opportunity for study. Murphy falls in love with her, while Grandpa Brennan of the eccentric household makes a "play" for Miss Donnelly, part of Murphy's entourage under Leonard's orders. When Leonard tries to get Oakie out of the way, to cross his bets, Murphy gets him back in time to win the game in an amusing finish.

Running time, 92 minutes. "G."*

Quigley Discusses Film Contribution to Democratic Ideal

and strengthens a people. Vicious entertainment corrupts and weakens. People who give themselves to diversions which violate decency, honor and morality are in danger of losing even their national power. Entertainment based on right moral standards constitutes a bulwark of democracy.

"The organized motion picture industry in the United States has recognized the existence of the moral influence of the film and has accepted the attendant responsibility. There is to be found in that record an attitude and an accomplishment that is unique in the history of business.

"When in 1930 the industry entered upon a systematic program of maintaining right moral standards in its entertainment, it was the first time in the age-old history of theatrical entertainment that any such responsibility was so recognized and so provided for.

"The goal of good motion pictures—good in moral character and good in entertainment value—is not easily obtainable. It can be reached by no simple fiat despite much that has been said to the contrary. Good pictures must be supported, because if good pictures are not supported they will not be made. Alongside of the political axiom that a people get the kind of government it deserves, it may also be stated that a people get the kind of public entertainment it deserves."

Training Films Are Shown in England

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The directors of the Army Kinematograph Committee have privately previewed three Army instructional films, made by trade units but sponsored by the Army Council. Observers declared all were of high quality.

The Army film unit, it was stated, already has produced 45 films and another 65 are in production by industry units. The Cinematograph Exhibitors Association has agreed to provide theatres for the showing of instructional films for the Army as well as civil defense groups.

It was announced the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association has accepted the invitation of the Army Council to select members to serve on the new film committee, and has suggested the delegates already appointed to the existing Army films committee, which has not met as yet.

The Kinematograph Renters Society decided last week not to appoint delegates, contending the existing committee and other collaboration by distributors is adequate.

State to Air Trust Charge In Neb. Soon

Blank-Green Admiral Theatre, a new house scheduled to open shortly.

The state's bill of complaint charges that the distributors have agreed to accept higher film terms from Goldberg, in return for which the Epstein houses, which formerly played day and date with Goldberg's, will be relegated to a playing position after the Goldberg houses, as will the Admiral. The latter is a neighborhood house operated by the Blank Omaha interests, and the first new theatre to be built here in 15 years.

The equity action seeks an injunction to restrain the contemplated film deals and clearance revisions. It is charged that the Goldberg houses already have raised admissions from 30 to 35 cents as a part of the alleged conspiracy.

The state's action is in direct conflict with an anti-trust suit filed by Goldberg charging the major distributors with a similar conspiracy with the Blank theatres against Goldberg. The Blank interests are affiliated with Paramount, which is one of the distributors charged by the state with conspiring with Goldberg against Blank's new Admiral.

Following the denial of bail there was some speculation in courtroom circles whether the convicted men would elect to remain in the Federal House of Detention here or be sent to the penitentiary. They have the right to remain here until their appeals are decided, but they will receive no credit for time served unless they go to the penitentiary.

In opposing bail, U. S. Attorney Mathias F. Correa declared that no amount of bail would keep the men within the jurisdiction. He said that Browne's $50,000 bail before trial had been furnished by the Chicago operators' union, Local 110, but he has been unable to learn who furnished Bioff's bond.

Radio Lauded By F.D.R. in NBC Message

President Roosevelt on Saturday sent "congratulations and best wishes" to Niles Trammell, NBC president, on the occasion of the 15th anniversary of the network. The text of the President's letter follows:

"On the occasion of the fifteenth anniversary of the National Broadcasting Co., I wish to extend my congratulations and best wishes.

"Radio has contributed greatly to the culture of the American people during the past two decades, and has been a factor of incalculable value in making them the best informed people in the world through the dissemination of information affecting their welfare.

"We are living in a time of gravest national emergency, and no one can foretell the demands this emergency may make upon all of us in the future. We do know, however, that radio will be called upon to play an increasingly important part in domestic and world affairs. I have no doubt that the members of the broadcasting industry realize the responsibility which is theirs and that they will meet that responsibility by rededicating their vast resources to the maintenance of our democratic traditions, while at the same time they work with redoubled zeal to make our American system of broadcasting the best in the world."

Off the Antenna

THE NBC research division grew reminiscent over the weekend as the network celebrated its 15th anniversary and highlighted some interesting contrasts between 1926 and 1941.

Time costs have risen about 2,000 per cent. Production of programs has tripled. Music constituted about two-thirds of all program material as compared with one-half today, but there are twice as many music-hours on the air today as in 1926. The morning exercise periods have disappeared from the network but two new types of shows have appeared, the quiz programs and news and special events.

Chiefly because of the advent of daytime serials, dramatic shows have increased from three hours weekly to 65. Talks and discussions have increased from approximately five hours weekly to 27.

The average number of station-sponsored hours on the Red has increased from 149 to 3,709 weekly, and on the Blue, from 24 to 1,443. The average number of stations used on each sponsored program has gone up from nine to 55 on the Red and from three to 57 on the Blue. Sponsored programs filled 15 per cent of all broadcast time in 1926 and 27 per cent in 1941.

Purely Personal: Edward Longstreth, former director of radio for Colgate-Palmolive-Peet, and Bruce Chapman are writing two daytime serials designed to incorporate the commercials in the dialogue. . . . Wallace Brockway and Herbert Weinstock had their book, "The Opera," published by Simon & Schuster last week. . . . Herbert Bayard Swope, Jr., CBS copywriter, will leave the network Nov. 24 to become an ensign in the Naval Reserve. . . . William Bivens, WBT, Charlotte, N. C., announcer, has resigned to become advance man for "Vox Pop." . . . John E. Fogarty, WCPO, Cincinnati, news commentator, and Agnes Devanny were married last week. . . . Jack McCarthy, NBC announcer, became father of a girl Friday.

Latest station to experiment with all-night operation is WABC. Last Friday, Arthur Godfrey conducted his record show over the station from 1-5:15 A.M. and for the next few Fridays he plans to conduct it from 1-6:15 A.M. This is in addition to his program from 6:30-7:45 A.M. over the same station, and another show starts over WJSV, Washington, at 7:45 A.M.

Program News: Liberty magazine will sponsor Paul Sullivan's newscasts over 22 CBS stations Tuesday and Thursday 6-6:10 P.M. beginning tomorrow. . . . "Auction Quiz," heard over NBC-Blue, has become a syndicated weekly newspaper column. Questions used on the broadcasts make up the column. . . . Campana Sales Co.'s "First Nighter" will start its 12th year on the air Friday, Nov. 28 on CBS. More than 500 programs have been presented on the station.

U. S. Fails to Prove Charge, Says Crescent

W. H. Mitchell, representing an associated defendant, Muscle Shoals Theatres. J. D. Mosby, of counsel for Universal and United Artists, said his clients' brief would be filed in 10 days.

Final arguments in the Crescent anti-trust trial, which consumed seven weeks in Federal Court during late Summer, have been set for Dec. 1.

Complaints Brought Suit

Crescent's main brief declared the anti-trust action was the result of complaints made to the Department of Justice by Tim W. Smith, W. F. Roth, Fred Gorman and Mac Buchanan. The brief commented that Judge Elmer Davies, the trial judge, "observed the manner and demeanor of these witnesses while on the witness stand and on more than one occasion, in substance, stated that Smith was entitled to little or no credence—that he appeared to be anxious to give answers which he thought would meet with the approval of counsel for the plaintiff."

The 124-page brief asserted that Section 2 of the Sherman Act is not applicable, declaring: "All of the complaints against the defendant exhibitors have come from so-called independents and have not concerned the quantity of pictures but quality and dating. The charge is that the defendant exhibitors have bought and played the best pictures or that they have been able to play them earlier. It is perfectly obvious that the defendant exhibitors have not 'monopolized' the supply of films in any sense of the word."

Deny Agreements

The brief also declared that there had been no division of territory by the defendant exhibitors, nor any agreement not to compete with each other.

Claiming Crescent operations exerted no unreasonable restraint on interstate commerce, the document said, "it is absurd to say of such a commodity that the buyer in one locality 'controls the market' even if he be the only buyer in that locality. Prints may be shipped in one direction as easily as in another and the distributor alone controls the market. The Department of Justice engages in pure sophistry when it speaks of control by exhibitors of a local or geographical market. . . ."

12% Wage Increase Averts RCA Strike

A strike by RCA Communications employees was averted Friday and a new two-year contract, calling for wage increases of about 12 per cent, was agreed upon after two weeks' mediation.

The cornerstone of the new RCA Laboratories was laid Saturday with Major Gen. J. G. Harbord, RCA chairman of the board, officiating. David Sarnoff, president, spoke by radio from the Matsomia en route from Honolulu to San Francisco.

Ascap Members Meet Dec. 1, Board Later

Ascap's semi-annual membership meeting has been set for Dec. 1 at the Astor Hotel. The meeting of the board of directors to elect officers is expected to be called soon after the membership meeting, according to present plans.

Compromise Expected On Wash. Ascap Fees

SEATTLE, Nov. 16.—It is estimated $250,000 in fees is due Ascap for the period since 1937 when the Washington anti-Ascap law became effective. About half the amount is due from radio, and most of the remainder from exhibitors. A compromise payment is expected to be worked out by all parties.

Ascap officials met with state theatre interests Friday to work out an agreement on license fees, following an agreement with State's Attorney General Smith Troy by which Ascap will comply sufficiently with the state law to permit resumption of business. Ascap also agreed to drop its appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court on the validity of the state law. John G. Paine, Ascap general manager, and Herman Finkelstein, attorney, left here for Chicago over the weekend after the talks and are due in New York Wednesday.

'Swamp Water' Gets $7,500 on Weekend, Big Broadway Draw

"Swamp Water," 20th Century-Fox picture, was an outstanding exception on Broadway over the weekend, taking an estimated $7,500 for Saturday and Sunday. ## Films to Latin America to Be Truthful, Says Whitney

By SHERWIN A. KANE

American films sent to Latin America will be "utterly truthful and authentic picturizations of American life and objectives," John Hay Whitney, head of the film division of the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, declared yesterday.

Whitney, in a review of his recent six-month tour of Latin America, declared that Hollywood will give its cooperation in the production of such films. "We will not combat false impressions with anything but facts," he said. "The 'American way' is its own best ambassador." Whitney will meet on the Coast next week with major

Exhibitor Interest On 'Swamp Water'; B'way Grosses Big

"Swamp Water," 20th Century-Fox picture opening at the Globe tomorrow, holds New York exhibitor interest. The picture comes here after an exceptional campaign and record business in St. Louis. Similarly in San Francisco the picture brought in a gross of reportedly record proportions.

This gives 20th Century-Fox three films on Broadway, with "Week-End in Havana" at the Roxy and "How Green Was My Valley" at the Rivoli, thus dominating the Main Stem.

Appeals Board Revises Award On Clearance

The arbitration appeals board yesterday handed down a decision revising the award of a Washington arbitrator in the clearance case of the K-B Amusement Co., Washington, as an appeal was taken in a New York case, a new complaint was filed in New Haven and a Portland, Ore., complaint was withdrawn.

In the appeals board decision, the original award of the arbitrator held that the complainants' theatre, the Apex, is not in competition with either the Calvert or Uptown and directed that the clearance granted the latter two by Warners and Loew's should be eliminated entirely. The appeals board held that the testimony as to the absence of competition was largely "opinion," while facts disclosed that competition does exist between them.

The board ruled that the seven days clearance of the Calvert over the Apex should be limited to five days and the clearance of the Uptown, which has ordinarily immediately followed the Calvert, also should be limited to five days over the Apex.

The New York case appealed was that of the Alvin Theatre against the five consenting companies, on clearance, and was appealed by the Wilbur Amusement Co., an intervenor.

The clearance complaint of William Graeper, owner of Graeper's Egyptian, Portland, Ore., against all five consenting companies, was withdrawn by stipulation following a settlement agreed upon by the parties involved.

The Grand Theatre Corp., New Haven, filed a complaint involving clearance and withholding of prints against Loew's, RKO, 20th Century-Fox and Warners. The complaint asks that a maximum clearance of seven days be allowed the Pequot over the Grand.

Reviews

"This England"

(British National Films—World Pictures)

THIS picture from England has as its title and takes as its text Shakespeare's lines from "Richard II," "This precious stone set in the silver sea . . . This England."

Here is a documentary film with a real dramatic punch. Some may like it more because of its propaganda, and some less, but it is a moving narrative nonetheless.

Director David MacDonald has selected for his story the Norman conquest, the battle with the Spanish Armada, the Napoleonic wars and the first World War. The Englishman's willingness to fight and his love for liberty carried him through before and it is the theme of this production that England will come through again.

The episodic telling of the story begins with the appearance of a young girl reporter from New York in the village of Claverly on the Channel coast. She is seeking "color" for her story of a nation at war and the four flashbacks effectively tell why England fought before and why the nation is fighting again. MacDonald skillfully has given the story a unity which might otherwise be lost in four isolated episodes stretched over a thousand years, by using the same locale and the same characters. These leading characters are, of course, the succeeding generations who populated the village.

Emlyn Williams, Constance Cummings and John Clements have previously been seen in outstanding box-office attractions. Roddy McDowall, who contributes a fine performance in "How Green Was My Valley," made his film debut in this picture and is seen in one of the episodes. Other supporting roles are of uniform excellence.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G."*

"Wings of Victory"

(Artkino)

"WINGS OF VICTORY," most recent release of Artkino, American distributor of Russian films, is the story of a Soviet aviation hero, Valeri Chkalov, the man who led the flight from Moscow to the state of Washington in 1937 when a young man. Chkalov was dismissed from the Russian Army Air Corps for reckless flying. Later he was a test pilot and helped develop modern planes. Finally he became chief long-distance flyer of the U. S. S. R. Besides flying, much of the film is concerned with the efforts of Olga, his wife, and his former Army squadron leader, to prevent him from being discouraged.

The technical standards of the film are not high. Parts of it are well directed and acted and parts of it very poorly done. The pace is rather slow. If the running time were cut a half hour or more, the film would be improved.

Chief propaganda elements are several scenes in which Stalin is portrayed as a kind and gentle man and some other parts of the picture in which the glories of the Soviet Union are sounded. The film has nothing to interest general American audiences. The few that see it will get a laugh at the Soviet representation of how Americans receive transoceanic flyers. In Russian, English sub-titles make it possible to follow the action.

Running time, 99 minutes. "G."*

"The Perfect Snob"

(20th Century-Fox)

BOY, Cornel Wilde, meets girl, Lynn Bari. He is usually apathetic where girls in general are concerned. She, abetted by her mother, seeks to land a rich husband of social distinction. After some entanglements with one of her prospects, Alan Mowbray, and his best friend, Anthony Quinn, the boy and the girl in the case find true love in each other.

The plot set-up is basically of the usual boy-meets-girl variety with minor variations. It is light, featherweight in fact, and breezy and always pleasant to take. As a supporting feature, it seems completely adequate.

Charlie Ruggles and Charlotte Greenwood are the parents of Miss Bari. Mother and daughter take to Hawaii and undertake to find a desirable mate for the latter. Ruggles follows. The complications then set in. Director Ray McCarey gave the film a snappy pace and commendable treatment on the whole. Walter Morosco is the producer.

Running time, 62 minutes. "G."*

WORD - OF - MOUTH!

The success of a single short subject series, John Nesbitt's "PASSING PARADE," produced by M-G-M, is doing this industry more good than reams of editorials and testimonials.

To have good pictures they must be supported. To do fine things on the screen requires the cooperation of the theatres. All credit to the exhibitors of America for their judgment in booking and supporting the "PASSING PARADE" series.

The public has indicated its absorbing interest in these shorts that tell of the little events that make living an exciting experience. The sincerity of their production, the sound manner of their exposition in the best magazine tradition, the span of their source material across the by-ways of life make them subjects of extraordinary human appeal.

To those thousands of showmen who have already taken John Nesbitt's "PASSING PARADE" to their hearts, we are grateful. To others who have not yet given their audiences the opportunity to experience the warmth and inspirational thrill of these brilliant little entertainments, we urge an immediate booking. Try them once and you will become an enthusiast for one of the best offerings the screen affords.

Sears New U.A. Sales Head; Raftery Named President

Elected to New Posts in United Artists

Laudy Lawrence

Arthur W. Kelly

Alexander Korda, Charles Chaplin and Mary Pickford.

The deal with Sears was arranged last week.

The company will establish a new production committee in Hollywood to be headed by George Bagnall, former general manager of the Paramount studio and more recently general manager of Alexander Korda Films, Ltd. The committee will consist of four members in addition to Bagnall, one each to be designated by Chaplin, Pickford, Korda and Selznick. Selznick has appointed Daniel T. O'Shea, executive vice-president of his company, as his representative on the committee, and the remaining committee members are scheduled to be named within the week.

Will Include Financing

The new production committee will have charge of the company's financial interests in its productions and will direct the operation of United Artists Productions, Inc., the former Walter Wanger production company recently acquired by United Artists and destined to become the company's own producing organization.

Under the plans of the executive reorganization, it is expected that United Artists will appreciably increase its release schedule by signing independent producers who will work through the company's own producing organization.

Arrangements for such additional productions will be made by the new committee, on the advice of Sears and the New York executive committee and will, in turn, be passed upon by the United Artists board only on the joint recommendation of these groups.

Sears will assume his new post on Monday. The other appointments are effective immediately.

Raftery has been identified with the company in legal capacities for 19 years. He will maintain headquarters, he said, in both the United Artists offices and his present law offices and will make periodical visits to the Coast for conferences with owners and producers. The presidency of United Artists has been vacant since Dr. A. H. Giannini relinquished it about five years ago. In the interim, Mary Pickford, George J. Schaefer, Maurice Silverstone and Kelly have acted as temporary administrative heads of the company.

Sears said that it was his intention to retain the present United Artists sales setup in both the home office and the company's 32 exchanges in the United States and Canada. However, it was widely reported yesterday that Carl Leserman, formerly assistant to Sears at Warner Bros., who resigned with Sears two weeks ago, would shortly join United Artists.

In this connection it has been established that the Nathanson interests in Canada have invited Haskell M. Masters, United Artists general sales manager for the West and Canada, to become general manager of their new Odeon Circuit in Canada.

Harry Gold is Eastern and Southern general sales manager for United Artists.

Lawrence said that Walter Gould, foreign manager, will remain in charge of that department and that no immediate changes are contemplated in the personnel of the 27 exchanges abroad.

The number of U. A. productions to be made by the company's new producing unit is scheduled to be set by Sears in the near future. In the meantime, the company was said by Kelly to have $1,200,000 in assets and the exclusive ownership of "To Be Or Not To Be," the Alexander Korda production, starring Carole Lombard and Jack Benny, and directed by Ernst Lubitsch, as well as the last Wanger production, "Sundown." The Korda production is owned by United Artists through Romaine Prod., a wholly owned subsidiary which has the rights to the picture, Raftery said.

Announcement at Party

Announcement of the executive reorganization was made late yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria suite of David O. Selznick, who has been the principal figure in the negotiations under way here for the past six weeks. In the course of those negotiations, the names of not only Raftery and Sears entered the picture, but also that of William F. Rodgers, vice-president and general sales manager of United Artists.

The announcement yesterday was made something of a gala occasion, in the form of a cocktail party, with not only all of the United Artists home office executives in attendance, together with trade and daily press representatives, but also many well known executives of other companies. Among the latter were Nicholas M. Schenck, Joseph M. Schenck, Ned E. Depinet, Carl Leserman, Malcolm Kingsberg, Charles W. Koerner, John Hay Whitney, Lowell Calvert, Sam Rinzler, Colvin Brown and Leo Spitz.

plaintiff deduces therefrom are accurate, applicable statements of the law."

The 86-page reply, supplementary to Crescent's 124-page main brief filed last Friday with Federal Judge Elmer Davies, stated the main brief was filed "purposely" because the defendants desired to get before the "court" the facts and law without at the same time discussing the conclusions drawn by the plaintiff from the facts.

It was argued in the reply brief that Crescent's franchises with Paramount, Warners and 20th Century-Fox "cannot be invalidated for want of necessary parties." Pointing out the three distributors were missed from the Crescent suit following the consent decree, the brief declared, "it is impossible, therefore, to invalidate these franchises at this time because it would adversely affect the right of parties not before this court."

With respect to agreements Crescent had with independent exhibitors not to compete with Crescent after selling their theatres, the brief asserted "it is well settled that reasonable agreements not to compete made in connection with the sales of a business do not violate the (Sherman) Act."

Defendant exhibitors, the brief declared, have not made unreasonable use of whatever circuit buying power of films they may possess.

Ticket Tax Voted By Alabama Town

BESSEMER, Ala., Nov. 17.—The Bessemer City Council has imposed an amusement tax of one cent for tickets of 10 cents or under, and two cents on all tickets over 15 cents. Motion pictures, football games and any other class of public amusement will fall in the classification.

The amusement tax was vigorously opposed by operators of motion picture houses, who claimed that it was unfair to tax one business alone and attempted to show that where the tax was collected in the state there had been a sharp decrease in receipts.

company heads to discuss plans for production of the films.

During his trip through the Southern Hemisphere, Whitney said he had discussions with President Vargas of Brazil, Foreign Minister Rossetti of Chile and with officials of other countries on an extensive program of interchange of shorts and 16 mm. films between the United States and the Latin nations to aid in the familiarization of each people with the other.

Everyone expressed a desire to see more of the United States way of doing things, Whitney said of his trip. He disclosed that Brazil's Minister of Education, Roquette Pinto, told him he is anxious to develop the use of educational films in Brazil's schools and wants United States-made films for the purpose. In Chile the foreign minister is setting up a special committee to cooperate with the Coordinator's office.

The films sent to Latin America will be made under the supervision of Kenneth Macgowan, 20th Century-Fox producer, on loan to the Coordinator's office, Whitney said. Distribution, wholly non-theatrical, will be handled through an organization being set up by Phil Reisman, RKO foreign manager, who has been lent "part-time" to Whitney's office by George J. Schaefer, president of RKO. Reisman's setup will handle distribution of 35 mm. Latin pictures reduced to 16

Move to Level Off Prices in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18.—A move to level off admission prices among subsequent run houses in St. Louis is under way, according to Fred Wehrenberg, head of a circuit of neighborhood houses and president of the MPTO here. Wehrenberg said the movement has been endorsed by the St. Louis Amusement Co. and independent owners are likewise agreeable, except for one in South St. Louis and one in West St. Louis.

The "leveling off" will entail a slight increase in admission, but will include Federal and State taxes, Wehrenberg said. State taxes here are paid in mills, and the movement has a slogan of "No Mills and No Pennies." For example, many of the subsequent run houses are charging 28 cents, and this will be increased to 30 cents. Those charging 22 cents will increase to 25 cents. Wehrenberg said the plan was tried recently at his 24 theatres and was successful.

Hollywood, Nov. 18

THE story of General George Armstrong Custer, U. S. Army cavalry hero extraordinary, is told in epic proportions in Warners' "They Died With Their Boots On." Filmed on a grand scale, and with great attention to detail as well as to spectacle, the picture traces Custer's life from his start as a West Point plebe, through the Civil War to his death at the Little Big Horn in Dakota Territory.

It is a splendid production in all departments. Moving, gripping and leavened with comedy it assumes important stature among action pictures. Errol Flynn as Custer and Olivia de Havilland as his wife are starred. Supporting them is an excellent cast headed by Arthur Kennedy, Charley Grapewin, Gene Lockhart, Anthony Quinn, Stanley Ridges, John Litel, Walter Hampden, Sydney Greenstreet, Regis Toomey, Hattie McDaniel and George P. Huntley, Jr.

Results of careful effort by Robert Fellows, associate producer, and Raoul Walsh, director, are much in evidence. The picture flows, both in the sweeping scenes and in the counterpoints, so that the running time does not seem overlong. Flynn and Miss de Havilland deliver perhaps their best performances to date. Notable in the support are Grapewin, Ridges and Huntley. Bert Glennon's camera work seldom has been equalled.

Custer is depicted as somewhat of a problem at West Point, but is graduated into the thick of the Civil War. Made a brigadier general through an error, he emerges from the war with high honors. Seeing him unhappy in his domestic life after retirement, his wife urges his erstwhile superior to restore him to duty, and he is given command of Fort Lincoln in the Dakota Territory, where he organizes the 7th Cavalry. Unscrupulous traders cause Indian trouble and through politics attempt to get Custer out of the way. The Government treaty with the Sioux, granting them the Black Hills, is imperilled, and Custer rides to his death putting down the uprising.

Running time, 137 minutes. "G."*

"A Missouri Outlaw"

(Republic)

THIS is conventional, entertaining Western melodrama with a little more plot than is usual. The story has two parts, both interwoven about midway through the film. One concerns racketeers preying on local diarmen, while the other has to do with the son of the town's sheriff, accused of murder in another town.

Don "Red" Barry and Noah Berry are son and father, respectively, both giving good performances. Lynn Merrick, Paul Fix, Al St. John, Frank La Rue, Ken Duncan and others are in support. George Sherman directed and was associate producer.

The picture begins with a barroom brawl and subsequent sequences bring in a good deal more action, which is staged convincingly enough. The yarn takes a familiar twist, when after the murder of his father, Barry, accused also of this, tracks down four suspects individually. The racketeering is thus checked and Barry is cleared of all charges. The photography is fine.

Running time, 58 minutes. "G."*

"Frightened Lady"

(J. H. Hoffberg)

THE Edgar Wallace mystery yarn of the title has lost some of its original flavor in its transition to the screen. The presentation is hardly equal to other British films of the type which have given mystery fans here to expect the utmost in suspense and mystery entertainment generally.

The picture does have its merits, however. The story is drawn out, but it has certain unusually interesting features that make it worth consideration especially where murder and mystery pictures have proved worthwhile. Marius Goring, Penelope Dudley Ward and Helen Hay are the principals in the all-British cast. S. W. Smith produced and George King directed.

Running time, 75 minutes. "A."*

Minn. Houses Seek Films to Avoid Closing

weeks. The companies are Paramount, United Artists, RKO, Warners and 20th Century-Fox.

The exhibitor committee plans to confer with the distributors and all holders of first run contracts and circuits operating first runs in an effort to obtain an agreement to waive normal clearance over subsequently, in order to clear product immediately for the houses threatened with closing for lack of film.

Many houses have completely used up the available product already, it was stated. If they are forced to wait three weeks to three months longer, when the product now being sold by the five companies would normally become available, they would be forced to close, in the opinion of some exhibitor observers.

It is believed that efforts will be made to clear the product most rapidly to houses in the greatest danger of closing, and that agreements will be made generally by houses so benefited not to take advantage of the situation by advertising the earlier availability of the product during the emergency period.

Ask 20th-Fox Reply In Pickwick Action

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 18.—Plaintiff's interrogatories in the Pickwick, Greenwich, $5,452,575 anti-trust suit against the eight major companies, will require an answer by 20th Fox to the U. S. District Court here by Nov. 28.

Information is sought on the corporation and whether 20th-Fox has since November, 1929, been a stockholder of Skouras Theatres Corp., Fox Metropolitan Playhouses, Inc., Metropolitan Playhouses, Inc., National Theatres Corp., or Fox West Coast Theatres Corp. Complete information is also sought on contracts with the Embassy and Capitol theatres, Port Chester, N. Y., and what the clearance and availability schedules were for these houses and for the Pickwick between September, 1931, and August, 1933, and whether the Capitol and Embassy had clearance and protection over any theatre in Connecticut other than the Pickwick since November, 1929.

Average Arbitration Cost Put at $87.87 a Complaint

and stenographic work, and do not include attorney fees.

Discussing the comparatively small number of complaints, with only 129 filed to Oct. 25, Sturges said he had been informed that it is a matter of policy for at least some of the consenting companies to adjust disputes with exhibitors before they become arbitration cases.

Explains Opposition

He related that many exhibitors will have nothing to do with arbitration either because of their opposition to the decree or because they allegedly fear "retribution if they invoke their rights." A third group of exhibitors, he said, disregards arbitration because they regard it as either too slow or too costly.

Relating that the first year's cost of the industry's arbitration system will be approximately $300,000, Sturges said that when it is considered that the arbitrators work for $10 a day rather than their professional worth, and the fact that the arbitration system is really the decree enforcement agency, it induces the belief that "the industry gets very full value for its money."

The cost of defending or prosecuting contempt actions under the decree could be much more costly, Sturges suggested.

Sturges said that in cases involving the 51 awards which had been made by arbitrators to Oct. 25, the average time between filing of the complaint and the making of an award was 86 days. The shortest was 27 days and the longest 178 days. In seven cases in which appeals were decided, the average time from the filing of the complaint to the deciding of the appeal was 176 days. The shortest was 113 days and the longest 210 days. The average time between the arbitration award and the appeal decision was 92 days.

Informing his audience that the consenting companies "most generously" offered the 31 arbitration tribunals for the hearing of general commercial and industrial disputes other than those of the motion picture industry, Sturges said: "And we emphasize especially how particularly timely is this action in aid of the peaceful adjustment and settlement of disputes—coming as it does when the national defense program is being stepped up to the maximum capacity of the country. Equally timely is it that these national facilities for arbitration are being made ready to meet the demand for the many adjustments and liquidations of defense contracts and employment relations which almost certainly will accrue upon the termination of the war."

Describes U. S. Aims

Sturges detailed the Government's objectives as presented in its bill of complaint and a supplemental and amended complaint in its anti-trust suit against the consenting companies. He explained the provisions of the consent decree and left to his listeners whatever conclusion they chose to draw concerning "the efficacy of the consent decree as a process of law making and law enforcement, and the potentialities of arbitration as an instrumentality of law enforcement."

Dismiss Counter Suit on 'Lynton'

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand A. Pecora has dismissed a $50,000 counter-claim of Edward Sheldon and Margaret Ayer Barnes against Paramount, Gilbert Miller and Charles Frohman, Inc.

The counter-claim was raised in a suit for $67,608 damages brought by Guthrie McClintic against Sheldon and Miss Barnes with the plaintiff claiming that amount as one-half of a recovery in a successful plagiarism suit over the film, "Letty Lynton," brought by the present defendants against Loew's, Inc.

McClintic claims that he owned one-half the film rights to the plagiarized play, "Dishonored Lady." Paramount, Miller and Charles Frohman, Inc., along with McClintic, were charged with producing a British version of the play without the consent of Sheldon and Barnes, co-authors.

the negotiations for the new United Artists management late last week plans to return to the Coast in about a week. He is scheduled to open negotiations there with several producers who may join the United Artists ranks within the next few months.

Few, if any, changes in the company's executive sales roster are anticipated immediately following Sears' assumption of his new post.

Reports persist that Carl Leserman, assistant to Sears at Warners for many years, will become associate with the company in the near future but the post slated for him appears to be uncertain at this time. Report indicate that he will either become assistant to Sears in United Artists, or will be named Western sales manager in the event Haskell Masters is transferred to his former Canadian sales post for the company, which has been suggested as a possibility. It is also known that Masters has been offered the post of general manager of the Odeon Circuit in Canada and if he accepted, Leserman, presumably would take over the Canadian as well as the Western sales territory.

George L. Bagnall, newly appointed head of United Artists' production left for the Coast yesterday to assume his new duties.

Philadelphia, Nov. 18.—WPTZ, the Philco television station, is picking up programs from WNBC, NBC station in New York, and retelecasting them. About five hours weekly are being retransmitted as part of a special test.

The programs are picked up off the air with a receiver. No telephone line or radio relay is used. This method was employed by the General Electric station in Schenectady but was discontinued when that station went off the air early last Summer.

F.C.C. Authorizes Power Increases

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The FCC has authorized Stations WNBC, New Britain, Conn., and KGER, Long Beach, Cal., to increase their power from 1,000 to 5,000 watts.

Action on a number of other applications was suspended until after hearings which were ordered in the cases of the McKeesport Broadcasting Company, seeking a construction permit for a new 960-kilocycle, 1,000-watt day station at McKeesport, Pa., and Stations KWFT, Wichita Falls, Tex., and WROL, Knoxville, Tenn., asking for increases of night power to 5,000 and 1,000 watts, respectively.

'Times' to Furnish WMCA With News Periods Daily

copy and furnish it to the station and the programs will not be available for sponsorship. A special staff will be employed by the Times for the purpose and the programs will come direct from the Times' newsroom.

"The decision of the New York Times to establish a radio bulletin service every hour on the hour is due primarily to a desire to keep the Times reader in particular and the newspaper reader in general up to the minute with the news," according to a statement by Arthur Hays Sulzberger, publisher.

Edward J. Noble, owner of WMCA, hailed the move as the latest in a series of public service programs offered since he took over the station.

Will Drop Non-Commercials

The station has more than 30 sponsored news periods. What the ultimate fate of these programs will be was not disclosed yesterday, but station officials said they will continue on the same basis, as many listeners may prefer a 15-minute summary in the middle of the day or evening. The reaction of the sponsors to the Times' sustaining broadcasts cannot be judged until the programs have been tested by actual operation over the air, it was pointed out. All sustaining news programs, except those of the Times, will be dropped after Dec. 1, it was said, and arrangements have been made to shift commercial shows which start on the hour.

The Times was interested in establishing an FM station early this year but the matter was dropped about the time the FCC started its inquiry into joint ownership of newspapers and radio.

WOR to Dedicate FM Transmitter Nov. 30

W71NY, the WOR FM station, will dedicate its new 10,000 watt transmitter Nov. 30, with a special program featuring Mayor LaGuardia, Maj. Edward H. Armstrong, developer of the FM system, and army and navy officials. The new transmitter will have a radius of approximately 52 miles from its location at 444 Madison Avenue.

Chicago added its third FM station this week when W67C, owned by CBS, went on the air. In Philadelphia, W53PH, owned by WFIL, started operations last week. Felix Meyer has been named program supervisor of W53PH.

No Criticism Seen of War News Programs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Investigation of the manner in which war news has been handled has given no cause for criticism of broadcasters, it has been disclosed by Federal Communications Commission Chairman James L. Fly.

Fly said the inquiry, ordered by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee some months ago during its hearings on the White Resolution, was nearing completion and a report might be submitted before the end of the year.

The investigation has been a tremendous job, he said, involving the sending of questionnaires to all station operators and intensive studies by the commission staff. While he could not speak for the commission, he explained, it was his own view that little had been developed for which the industry could be criticized.

Transferred by CBC

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—Reginald Horton of the CBO staff of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. here has been transferred to Toronto, and has been replaced here by James H. Book of Sudbury, Ont.

Independent Outlets Form Organization

Disagreement Delays British Fund Division

Loew's Opposes Billings As Basis for Shares

Division of the $20,000,000 allowed to be withdrawn from British revenue during the ensuing 12 months by the eight major companies has been delayed due to opposition by Loew's to the formula or apportionment of the remittances among the companies, it was reported.

Seven distribution companies favor apportionment of the remittances on the same basis as last year, that is on percentage equal to each company's share of gross billings in England for the year before.

Loew's opposed this formula last year and the question went to arbitration.

Republic Acquires Bromberg Franchise

James R. Grainger, Republic Pictures president, has announced that the company has purchased the franchise agreement held by A. C. Bromberg of Atlanta for the Southeast division. Bromberg, who has been in the industry since 1906, stated that he plans to retire from business.

The Bromberg organization has distributed Republic films since the latter company's inception and held the franchise for Atlanta, Charlotte, Memphis, New Orleans and Tampa territories.

Grainger said that the personnel of the branches will remain. Bromberg, who was in New York on the deal, which was announced Wednesday, said he plans to leave shortly after the first of the year with Mrs. Bromberg for an extended tour of South America.

Masters Heads Odeon And Empire Firms

Haskell M. Masters resigned Wednesday as Western and Canadian sales manager for United Artists and will head the new Odeon Circuit in Canada and Empire-Universal Films, with headquarters in Toronto.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY reported exclusively that the Odeon post had been offered to Masters.

The resignation is effective immediately. It is believed that Carl Lescault will be named to head the new circuit.

HOLIDAY GROSSES STRONG OVER U. S.

Business SRO On Broadway

Broadway film houses hung out the S.R.O. sign yesterday afternoon and didn't take it down until after the last show. Despite unseasonably mild weather and a record 70-degree temperature at 2:30 P. M., many of the estimated 1,000,000 persons who viewed the annual Macy parade made a full day of it at the Broadway theatres.

Business at the early shows was slow because of the two-hour parade which started at 11:45 o'clock at 106th St. and went down Broadway. By 3 o'clock, however, most houses were filled to capacity and remained so throughout the day.

The Paramount with "Skylark" and Harry James' orchestra and Ray Bolger drew an estimated $11,600 for the day. This was reportedly better than the three previous Thanksgivings.

"They Died With Their Boots On," another new picture, with Woody Herman's orchestra, brought the Strand its biggest Thanksgiving since the present policy was adopted four years ago, it was stated. The day's gross was estimated at $7,600.

'Suspicion' Opens with $19,500

At the Radio City Music Hall, "Suspicion," which opened yesterday, with the stage presentation drew an estimated $19,500, topping last year's figure by about $1,000. "Week-End in Havana" with a stage show at the Roxy garnered an estimated $10,000, about equal to last year.

"The Chocolate Soldier" at the Astor grossed an estimated $2,100. The Capitol with "Shadow of the Thin Man" and the Rivoli with "How Green Was My Valley" did a capacity business from about 3 o'clock on.

Four of the 21 legitimate theatres giving matinees reported standees, but many of the 26 shows experienced a lull in the evening. Outstanding were "It Happens on Ice" at the Center, which was packed at both performances and grossed an estimated $7,500, and "Lady in the Dark" at the Alvin, which reported 76 matinee standees and capacity in the evening.

New Product, Favorable Weather Help Many Key First Runs

Exhibitors in the 32 states observing Thanksgiving yesterday gave thanks for a healthy box-office. Few exceptions were reported last night, and these were due chiefly to bad weather. Winter roared over parts of the West and heavy rain fell in much of the South.

With strong product available, numerous key city first runs moved up their opening a day to garner the holiday trade. Football, parades and other events were counter-attractions for matinees in many cities.

St. Louis reported S.R.O. at most first runs, with business exceeding last year's. "Keep 'Em Flying" at the Fox was a standout. Downtown Providence was capacity by 4 P. M., with "Keep 'Em Flying" also here leading the parade.

Chicago, Los Angeles Big

Holdouts were the rule in Chicago's Loop. Los Angeles business was big with an array of strong product and, for the first time in years, no heavy holiday competition. Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Denver and Seattle reported matinees above normal and big night business. Boston theatres, quiet in the morning because of a parade which attracted 500,000 spectators, and football games, had a capacity rush beginning in the afternoon.

Milwaukee, where family celebrations held sway, reported first runs slightly above average and subsequent spotty. Expected good business was ruined in Buffalo by a driving rain-storm, a celebration, rodeo and football, but "International Squadron" at the Hippodrome and "Shadow of the Thin Man" at the Great Lakes held up well.

Defense Holiday Booms Baltimore

Baltimore, Nov. 20.—A holiday at defense plants today brought record attendance at downtown film houses. Mild, springlike weather helped. Most theatres opened new pictures today.

'Seventh Trumpet' Will Open Tonight

Tonight's new addition to Broadway's roster of stage plays is "The Seventh Trumpet," written by Charles Rann Kennedy. The cast includes Ian Maclaren, Peter Cushing, Carmen Mathews, A. G. Mathews, Leslie Bingham and Alan Handley. The play is a presentation of The Seventh Trumpet, Inc., of which Kennedy is the principal.

Cut British Release To Save Film Stock

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The eight major American companies here will eliminate one February release, thus effecting a saving of approximately 4,250,000 feet of film.

The decision was taken at a meeting of the Kinematograph Renters Society (distributors) following consultation with the Eastman Kodak Co. and a comprehensive survey of the shortage of film raw stock.

An all-industry conference may be held in the near future to study the present production situation and to agree on a united plan to safeguard the industry's position during the period of the war. The lead for the meeting was taken by the technicians' association.

Urges School Film For Sex Teaching

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—Extensive use of motion pictures in public school to teach children concerning love, sex and marriage, was urged by Judge Lois Mary McBride of the Pittsburgh County Domestic Court in an address yesterday at the annual meeting of the Philadelphia Motion Picture Forum at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

Recognizing the screen as a step in importance only to the printing press, she said the films could be a potential force for good as a means of education for a better and stronger family life, a unit essential for real democracy. While admitting the educating adolescents for marriage "a job of the home," she declared that a second-best solution was to use motion pictures in schools to train young people "to be married and stay married."

Charges Films with Laxness

She accused the screen of contributing to juvenile delinquency, increasing divorces among young people and fostering a moral laxness among adolescents.

At the meeting, attended by many local exhibitors in addition to the 500 members of the Forum, Judge McBride urged the women to campaign for better type of films for children and to "plan the movie lives of the children." She declared that until mothers insist that the screen deliver the proper variety of screen entertainment, the mothers must act as family film censors, shoppers and guides for their children.

Arthur Beach, editor of the National Board of Review Magazine, also addressed the meeting, describing some of the recent picture releases.

Network Affiliates Organize, Pulliam First President

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—The Association of Network Affiliates, Inc., was formed here at a two-day meeting at the Drake Hotel by representatives of nearly 100 independent stations affiliated with networks. Initial steps were taken to organize a drive against permitting super-power operation by existing clear channel stations in excess of 50,000 watts.

The organization holds that an increase in power beyond that point would create a monopoly of broadcasting power in the hands of a few, so that the independents would be unable properly to serve their communities. A legislative committee was named to handle that and other matters. The organization has pledged itself to cooperate with the FCC. Questions involving Ascap contracts with local stations were clarified.

Review

"Keep 'Em Flying"

(Universal)

SCORE another for Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, for Universal, and for the exhibitor. Keyed to the present-day interest in defense and the air corps, brightened with tuneful songs, containing a climax thrill sequence in the air, plus a touch of romance and drama, in addition to the dominating thread of comedy, the film should click at any box-office in the land.

This picture takes the comedy pair, Abbott and Costello, into the air via an Army Air Corps training school, as a couple of carnival barkers who join their pal, Dick Foran, stunt flier who enters the air school. Romance is offered by Foran and Carol Bruce, stationed at the school as a USO hostess. The Costello comedy is abetted by Martha Raye in the dual role of twin-sister hostesses, and William Gargan and Charles Lang assist in the dramatic development.

Arthur Lubin, director, and Glenn Tryon, associate producer, provided an elaborate and effective air corps background and a lively, entertaining pace. Best of the songs are "Let's a Keep 'Em Flying," by Don Raye and Gene de Paul, and "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You," one of several sung effectively by Miss Bruce. Carrying the film, and never out of it for more than a few minutes, Abbott and Costello pile gag on gag and funny situations one on the other to make a laugh fest for any audience which should cause a merry jingle in the theatre's cash register.

Running time, 86 minutes. "G."*

*"G" denotes general classification.

Rule Stage Acts Not Employes of Theatre

ALBANY, Nov. 20.—In a decision by the Appellate Division of the N. Y. Supreme Court made on a claim for credit under the unemployment insurance Act by Radio City Music Hall, New York, it has been held that members of vaudeville acts engaged for weekly periods are not employes of the theatre within the meaning of the law and therefore escape the insurance tax.

The court ruled, four-to-one, that "such special acts and the individual performers working in them are held to be independent contractors and the disallowance of the claim for credit for contributions paid on their wages is reversed and the claim for credit is allowed, with costs and disbursements to the appellant against the Industrial Commissioner."

Full Authority To Schaefer in RKO, Report

Policy and Setup Changes By Board Due Today

By ALFRED FINESTONE

RKO's board of directors is scheduled to meet today for purposes of reorganizing the company's policies and setup under the full authority of George J. Schaefer, it is reported. The latter, as president, is to be offered a new contract. The board may be reduced in membership to make it a more workable body. Also, the board will have the opportunity to decide whether to continue the executive committee.

Some kind of realignment of the board's functions and the services of board members is expected to result, since at today's meeting the directors will be called upon to consider recommendations along such lines by a specially designed committee of directors.

May Share Functions

The various functions of the board may be distributed among committees of directors which are to be set up, it is said. Schaefer is expected to leave for Hollywood following the meeting.

Joseph I. Breen will continue in full charge of production although some changes are expected as a consequence of the director's recommendations which will be made today.

Richard C. Patterson, chairman of the board, is expected to figure more prominently in the reorganized setup. N. Peter Rathvon, chairman of the executive committee, may be given a new post.

Also, the board may set up its own policy, operating and finance committees.

Report McDonough Leaving

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23.—It is reported here that James R. McDonough, RKO studio executive, is leaving the company.

$50,000 Check Is Film Contribution to Red Cross Roll Call

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Will H. Hays, president of the MPPDA, has sent a $50,000 check to the American Red Cross for "war emergency welfare work," Norman H. Davis, Red Cross chairman, announced here today.

The check represents part of the proceeds from the distribution of the film, "Land of Liberty," produced originally as a joint industry venture for the New York and San Francisco world's fairs. It subsequently was generally released with the net proceeds to go to war emergency work.

In his letter, Hays asked that the $50,000 be added to the current Red Cross roll call. "Our organization," Hays wrote, "wants to show its appreciation of the splendid work which your organization is doing and therefore makes this voluntary contribution, hoping it will be of help in connection with your current Roll Call."

Davis, in accepting, asked Hays to thank the industry for the contribution, and expressed appreciation for the cooperation which the film industry always has given the American Red Cross.

Connors Will Be Assistant to Sidney R. Kent

Nicholas Schenck Grants Executive's Release

By SAM SHAIN

Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, is bringing in Tom Connors as his assistant, under a proposed long-term deal. This deal, informed sources aver, will not change the operating setup of the company's domestic, foreign or theatre departments. Announcement of the appointment by Kent awaits formal closing of terms, which is expected sometime this week.

Connors will be responsible to Kent in his new post, and, it is said, will act for Kent in the latter's absence. Connors is one of the best known executives of the industry. He is presently Eastern, Southern and Canadian sales manager of M-G-M. His services are known to have been sought by nearly every other major company, in recent months. His joining Kent is looked upon as a tribute to Kent's leadership in the industry.

That Kent is bringing Connors in with the prior consent of Nicholas M. Schenck for the release of Connors from M-G-M, is taken for granted by the trade, familiar with Kent's methods of operations. Kent would not have it otherwise. Connors is expected to join Kent after details of his deal are worked out and following the M-G-M sales meeting over the weekend in Chicago, which he will attend.

A native of New York City, Connors, after attending Commerce High School and Manhattan College, became a salesman of cotton goods and steel products. He entered the industry as a salesman for Pathe in New York, later joining Metro. He became assistant branch manager and branch manager for Metro. In 1924 he was appointed assistant general sales manager, in 1925 Southern sales manager, and in 1933 Canadian sales manager. Later he was appointed Southern and Canadian sales chief and in 1935 became Eastern, Southern and Canadian sales manager.

Deny Muscle Shoals Crescent Affiliation

NASHVILLE, Nov. 23.—The Government's belief that Muscle Shoals Theatres was an affiliate of Crescent Amusement Co. instead of an independent partnership is the explanation for the inclusion of the small circuit in the Federal anti-trust suit against Crescent and the "Little Three," a brief filed by Muscle Shoals in U. S. District court here late last week asserts.

The brief, filed on behalf of Louis Rosenbaum and Nettie Sudekum, partners in Muscle Shoals, by W. H. Mitchell, counsel, charges that Max Buchanan, who opened a competing theatre in Athens, Ala., supplied the Government with information concerning Muscle Shoals' alleged relationship to Crescent which led to its inclusion in the action. The brief charges that Buchanan's operation was started solely for its "nuisance" value.

"No theory of public welfare can justify bringing Muscle Shoals Theatres into this case," the brief asserts. "So far as we are concerned," it adds, "this action was brought by the United States against Muscle Shoals Theatres to protect the welfare of one Max Buchanan."

October Tax Total Rises to $6,812,275

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Federal admission tax collections in October totaled $6,812,275, an increase of $367,325 over the September revenue of $6,444,950 and $183,845 above the $6,628,430 received in October, 1940, it was reported over the weekend by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

The month's collections brought a total for the first 10 months of the year to $65,995,923, compared with $29,705,178 in 1940, when the 40-cent exemption was in effect for the first half of the year.

A large part of the increase between September and October was experienced in the Third New York (Broadway) District, where total collections increased from $739,831 to $882,332, but the latter figure remained considerably under the October, 1940, level of $1,103,233, the bureau announced.

There was a general improvement in conditions along Broadway, it was indicated, box-office collections increasing from $693,586 to $822,460 receipts from tickets sold by brokers jumping from $3,964 to $7,107, an revenue from admissions to roof gardens and cabarets advancing from $42,281 to $52,451, in addition to which $314 was secured from permanent use or lease of boxes and seats, from which nothing was received in September.

Admission tax collections are due to increase sharply in the bureau's November report as a result of the further reduction of the exemption.

Ask Civil Suit Be Tried First In Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 23.—Distributors' plans to test the validity of the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law by trial of the criminal actions against Paramount, RKO and 20th Century-Fox were complicated at the weekend by the reported insistence of James F. Lynch, Ramsey County Attorney, that the civil actions instituted by the five consenting companies and United Artists against the law be disposed of first.

The distributors regard the criminal actions charging the three companies with violating the state law by selling films contrary to its provisions as a quicker and more definitive means of testing the validity of the statute.

The criminal actions have been set for trial Dec. 15, while the civil actions could be reached by the district court between Dec. 5 and 10, it is said.

The equity actions were instituted by the six companies originally to obtain an injunction restraining the State from enforcing the law, but their application for a temporary injunction pending trial was denied.

Lynch is said to insist that the civil actions be tried first so that the criminal cases may be nolle prossed if the law is held unconstitutional. Appeals will be taken to the Supreme Court in either case, but the distributors believe that an appeal in a criminal action would be heard more quickly.

Northwest Allied, sponsor of the law, has asked the court for permission to intervene to defend the statute.

Home office legal departments said that while they had not been informed of any opposition to their plan to try the Minnesota criminal actions first, they believed that the failure of their counsel in Minneapolis so to advise them indicated that the opposition was not irreconcilable.

The time in which the distributors could take an appeal from the St. Paul court's denial of their application for a temporary injunction against the Minnesota law expired over the weekend without action being taken.

Exhibitor Wins in St. Louis Complaint

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 23.—An arbitration award in favor of Mrs. Mildred Karch, operator of the Ritz, Rolla, Mo., complainant in a some run case against the five consenting companies, was handed down at the local board by John J. Nangle, arbitrator. The award is the first won by a complaining exhibitor in the six cases heard here.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The clearance complaint of the G. C. S. Circuit, operating the Portage here, against the five consenting companies, was dismissed at the local arbitration board Friday by agreement of all parties.

The withdrawal followed the deal last week by which Balaban & Katz will take over G. C. S.'s Portage, Drake and Admiral.

'Hi Gang' Is Called Effervescent Film

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The Gainsborough production, "Hi Gang," previewed here at the Shepherd's Bush Pavilion, is an inspired film which scored a preview bullseye. The BBC program stars, Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon and Vic Oliver, are seen in an effervescent comedy devised around the rivalry between Miss Daniels and Lyon and American broadcasting companies. The effective setting is chiefly in the U. S.

The performances are packed with vitality, and there is excellent use of comedy and music. A BBC show is the climax. Apparently certain of box-office success here, the film also should do well in the U. S. market. Maurice Ostrer and Ted Black produced.

'Purchase' Will Be Offered Separately

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Paramount will sell "Louisiana Purchase" separately, it was announced here yesterday at the company's sales meeting at the Drake Hotel. National release will be Dec. 25 to obtain holiday playing time, with the exception of Chicago, St. Louis, Boston, Philadelphia and Detroit, where the stage show is booked.

Paramount will not ask exhibitors to raise admissions on the picture, it was stated, but will reportedly insist on preferred playing time after key runs. The picture will be given a newspaper and magazine campaign on which about $100,000 will be spent, it was stated. The meeting was told that exchanges will use 350 prints on the film, 100 more than the usual number for the United States. The number is the same as used for "Northwest Mounted Police."

Neil F. Agnew, general sales manager, presided at the meeting, which ended yesterday following discussion of the company's third block-of-five and matters pertaining to consent decree selling.

ers is Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, whose chore for evening will be leading an orchestra composed of outstanding band leaders. Also slated to appear are the Music Hall Rockettes, the Roxy's Gae Foster Girls, and the stars of five Broadway musicals. Also on the program are an international news roundup, a skit featuring Groucho Marx and Gloria Stuart, the Hollywood "Sweater Girl Revue," Ralph Edwards of the "Truth and Consequences" radio program, Fred Waring with his orchestra and glee club, and others.

20th-Fox Party Today

Griffis Acquisition Of Para. Stock Is Reported by SEC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Acquisition by Stanton Griffis, chairman of the executive committee of Paramount Pictures, of 1,000 shares of that company's common stock in September is reported in the final summary for that month by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The SEC report showed also that Griffis made an exchange of 1,000 shares of Paramount second preferred stock for 900 shares of common, and that Maurice Newton, director, exchanged 2,810 shares of the second preferred for 2,529 shares of common. At the close of September, it was reported, Newton held 10,647 shares of common stock and Griffis 7,500 shares direct and 22,900 shares through four trusts.

The only other September transaction reported was the sale of 200 shares of General Theatres Equipment capital stock by R. B. Larue, leaving him with 400 shares.

William Bioff were paid by Browne under special by-laws passed at the 1940 convention, Walsh said. Nothing further has been paid since Browne resigned, Walsh asserted.

Bioff has filed an election to start serving his sentence, it was learned, although Browne is still insisting on his right to remain at the Federal House of Detention pending determination of his appeal. Time spent at the House of Detention is not credited to the sentence. However, if a prisoner elects to do so, he may be transferred to a Federal penitentiary where he receives credit for time spent if the conviction is ultimately upheld.

Televise Title Basketball

The 20th Century-Fox studio basketball team, winner of the 1941 A.A.U. championship, will meet the Philips 66 team, winner of the 1940 title, in a championship game for the Golden Jubilee cup at Madison Square Garden tonight. The game will be televised by NBC and the final 15 minutes of the play will be broadcast by CBS.

WNEW Changeover Dec. 1

Changeover of wave lengths and power between WNEW and WOV will take place Dec. 1, it was announced over the weekend. Both stations will retain their present studios and officers, it was said.

Rites for Exhibitor

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23.—Adolph Buehrig, Jr., formerly manager of Loew's theatres abroad, is the new manager of Loew's State here, succeeding Chick Evens.

Larger Scope Set for USO Camp Shows

which will open Thursday. Approximately $850,000 has been made available by the USO for the Camp Show program.

Present funds will allow for 11-14 road companies but efforts are being made to provide 20 or 25 such shows. Special programs arranged outside the regular schedules will cost little as featured players in the talent pool will donate their services. All unions involved have agreed to lower their minimum scales from 15 to 3 per cent, it was said.

Lastfogel, Doob Aides

Oscar Doob, publicity and advertising head for Loew's Theatres, will handle national publicity. Abe Lastfogel, representing the Artists Managers Guild of Hollywood, will take an unsalaried but active post as assistant to Dowling. Morgan Wallace will be assistant to Arnold.

In recognition of the unions accepting lower minimums, Camp Shows has promised continuity of employment. Three package shows have been purchased at average prices of $2,200-$2,300 a week it was said.

New members appointed to the board were Arnold; Lawrence Tibbett, American Guild of Musical Artists president; George Schaefer, RKO president; Morton Downey, American Guild of Variety Artists president; Mark Woods, NBC treasurer; Charles Koerner, RO Theatres general manager; Joseph Hazen, Warner attorney; Henry Jaffe, union lawyer; Emily Holt, American Federation of Radio Artists executive secretary; Emil Friedlander, theatrical costumer; Lawrence W. Lowman, CBS vice-president; Brock Pemberton, theatrical producer, and Edward Johnson, Metropolitan Opera general manager.

Others on Board

Other members of the board are Dowling; Frank Gillmore, Associate Actors and Artistes of America president; Lastfogel; Harper Sibley, USO president; Walter Hoving, USO chairman of the board; Bert Lytel, Actors Equity president; Lee Shuber, theatrical producer; Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount vice-president in charge of production and Association of M. P. Producers president; Clarence Michalis, Seaman's Bank, and Lawrence Phillips, Camp Shows executive vice-president.

Theatres Give USO Largest Contribution

Motion picture theatres accounted for the largest single contribution to the United Service Organization drive, Thomas E. Dewey, national drive chairman, revealed in a letter to Joseph Bernhard, chairman of the theatre drive committee.

Acknowledging receipt of the theatre's drive check for $943,684, Dewey wrote: "This is a grand result. The committee rendered a very great service both to the USO and, I believe, the nation."

A BOX OFFICE BALL OF FIRE"

RKO RADIO PICTURES INC.
RADIO CITY
NEW YORK

November 13th, 1941

OFFICE OF THE
VICE PRESIDENT

Mr. Samuel Goldwyn
7210 Santa Monica Boulevard
Los Angeles, California

Dear Sam:

Now that I'm back in New York after the preview of BALL OF FIRE and have had time to reflect on its qualities, I want to tell you that the memory lingers on. It has been a long time since I have seen a picture so completely satisfying as this latest production of yours. It is genuine entertainment, Sam, healthy and happy, full of fun and originality. The blending of comedy with romance and sentiment will make it, in my opinion, a box office ball of fire. You and everyone concerned in its making can take a bow.

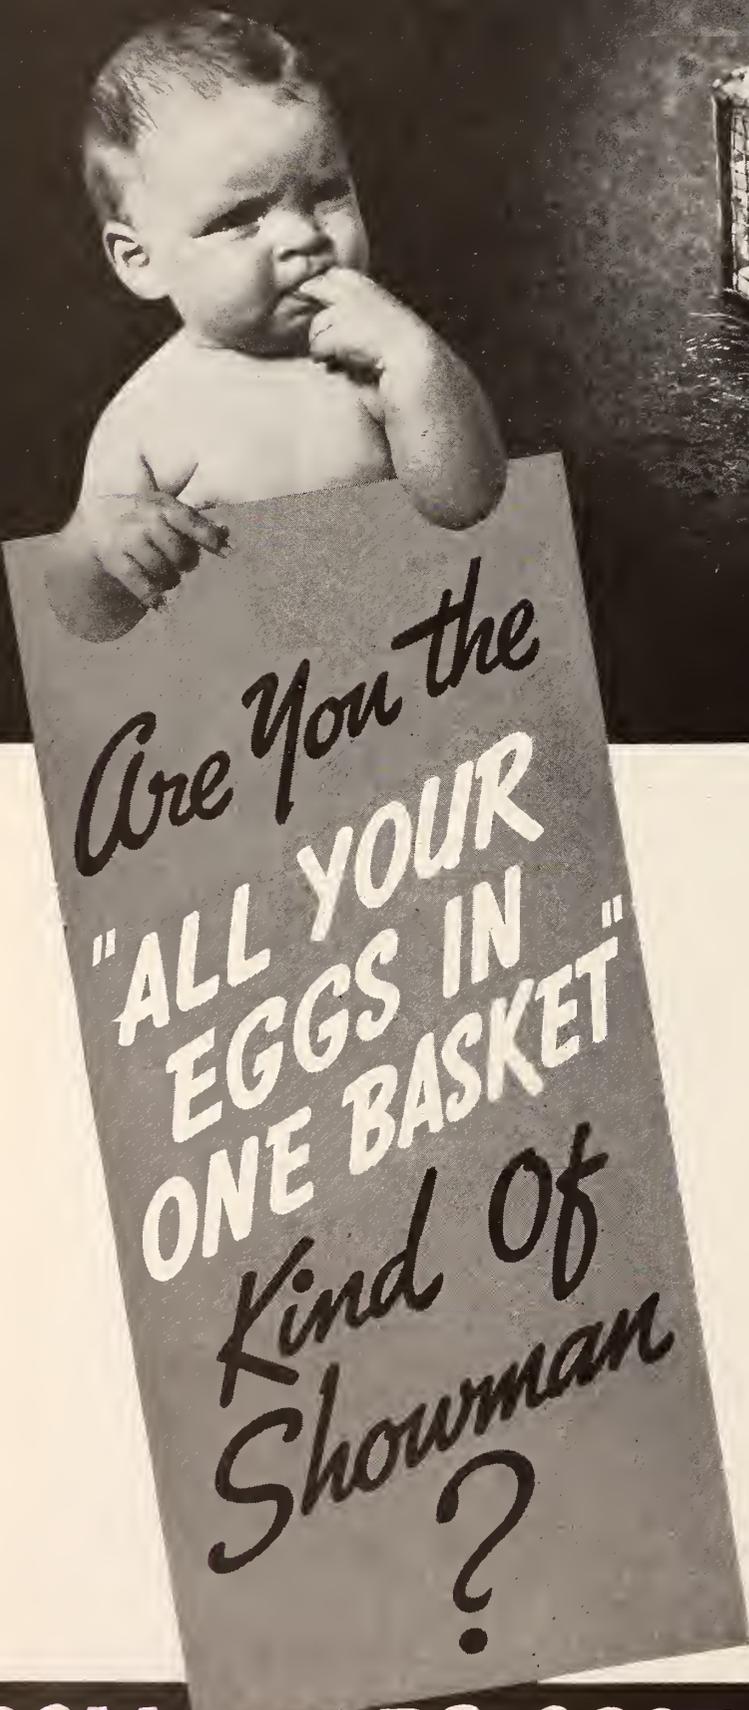

Having read the script and knowing the splendid cast you had assembled, I was prepared to see a fine picture when I went to Hollywood, but BALL OF FIRE exceeded my fondest expectations. Gary Cooper has never had a role better fitted to him than that of Professor Potts and Barbara Stanwyck, fine actress that she is, was a revelation as "Sugarpudding" O'Shea, the night club "Ball of Fire" who burns up "Pottsy". The seven professors who learn about life from "Sugarpudding" furnish as delightful fun as I've ever seen and every member of the cast is excellent. Howard Hawks' work is brilliant. He has given the show pace and excitement as well as masterful direction. Needless to say, Gregg Toland's camera is still full of miracles.

I can assure you, Sam, that every member of our organization considers it a great privilege to distribute your productions and we are more than happy about BALL OF FIRE. It's a picture that will delight every patron and one that will start every exhibitor's New Year off just right.

Congratulations and best wishes,

Cordially,

Ned E. Depinet

Do you rely entirely on one method of advertising?
If you do, DON'T! You'll never hit the high-spots unless you hit hard everywhere.

Lots of people out for a walk will "go for" a good poster display or a dramatic 24-sheet. Lots of peoambling along are attracted by bright lights and colorful display.

Don't put all your advertising eggs in one basket.
Spread them around. Yell your head off with good Use your head. It will show on the BLACK side in

'Skylark' and 'Havana' Big; B'way Strong

Students' Holiday Helps Maintain Pace

With a school holiday Friday, Broadway generally had a weekend of good grosses, while the income at its first runs, the Music Hall, Paramount, Roxy and the Strand, maintained the pace set Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, when all box-offices experienced a boom.

"Skylark" with Harry James' orchestra and Ray Bolger brought the amount an estimated $27,000 Saturday and Sunday. The first week which ends tonight will be good for an estimated $66,000, it is expected.

Columbia's "You Belong to Me" will open at the Roxy Friday following the ree-week run of "Week-End in Havana." The latter with a stage show did an estimated $24,400 Friday through Sunday.

Legion Cites Gain in Objectionable Films

The National Legion of Decency yesterday issued a statement pointing to a decrease in the number of films classified as unobjectionable for general patronage during the past five years, and an increase in those rated objectionable in part. The statement follows:

Rodgers and Nicholas M. Schenck arrived today for studio conferences on new product and release dates.

Decision Today on Leserman to U. A. As Sales Manager

A decision whether Carl Leserman will join United Artists is expected to be made today. Should he join the company he will be general sales manager under Gradwell L. Sears, vice-president in charge of distribution.

A decision regarding Leserman has been in abeyance pending his determination whether he would associate with another company. It appeared, however, that he would yield to Sears' wishes. Leserman formerly was assistant to Sears when the latter was general sales manager of Warners.

Whether Charles Stern, Chicago district manager for U. A., will be appointed Western and Canadian sales manager to succeed Haskell Masters is as yet undetermined. Stern arrived yesterday from Chicago.

Cresson E. Smith, Western division manager for RKO, resigned yesterday to become associated with United Artists in a new sales post under Sears.

David Griesdorf, United Artists branch manager at Los Angeles, has resigned and will become associated

Exempt Radio Time From Price Measure

Washington, Nov. 24.—Specific exemptions of radio time, newspapers and periodicals is contained in the corporation licensing provision restored to the price control bill today by the House Banking Committee. The exemption is seen as strengthening the Administration intent not to make price controls applicable to advertising. Otherwise, the bill permits the Government to place virtually every business under a rigid licensing system to enforce price controls.

RKO Realignment Reported to Board

A committee of the RKO board of directors reported to the full board yesterday on the proposed reorganization of the company's policies and setup under the full authority of George J. Schaefer, president. No action is reported to have been taken by the board and the matter remains in status quo until Friday, Dec. 5, when the board is scheduled to meet again.

Schaefer left last night for the Coast. It is reported that certain changes are to be made in the studio's executive personnel, under Joseph I. Breen.

It is said that the committee's report called not only for realignment of the board's functions and services of members, but included recommendations regarding a reduction in the number of directors. The report also is said to contemplate dissolution of the executive committee.

Neither Bioff nor Browne is expected to be transferred to the penitentiary for about two weeks, it was said yesterday, as they are being examined by the U. S. ## High Court Refuse Nick, Weston Review

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Refusing to upset a verdict of the lower Federal courts, the U. S. Supreme Court today refused to review the convictions of John P. Nick, international vice-president, and Clyde A. Weston, business manager, of the St. Louis IATSE, found guilty of racketeering and sentenced to five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

Nick and Weston were charged with having taken over the St. Louis local and with asking the exhibitors of the city for new contracts at what the Government described as "ruinous wages." They settled for much lower wage rates and, it was charged, assured the exhibitors there would be no trouble if they paid off. They were charged with asking for $10,000 per house, but the Government brief cited a "payoff" of $6,500 in one case, which was made through a third party.

The appeal of the two unionists was based on a challenge of the constitutionality of the anti-racketeering law and contentions that hearsay testimony was accepted by the court. The two men contended that their activities had never interfered with the distribution of films.

Short Subject Reviews

"Main Street, U.S.A." (March of Time) (RKO)

This latest subject in the March of Time series centers its attention on Manchester, N. H., taken as a typical American small town, to picture the effect of the war's impress upon the United States. Lacking something of the dramatic movement characteristic of many of the series, it nonetheless offers a significant and timely theme. Forceful and effective is the device of picturing what life under Hitler's new order would be like in Manchester, N. H., by showing stock troopers in action, censorship, rationing, racial discrimination, concentration camps and mass executions in an American setting. The contrast with the American way of life is sharp and tells its own story. The reel has an essential value in pointing up the necessity of an unflinching defense effort by the whole country, and showing the manner in which a typical family, that of Bill Davis of Manchester, responds to its country's need. Running time 18 mins. Release, Nov. 21, 1941.

"Sittin' Pretty" (Grantland Rice Sportlight) (Paramount)

This offers crisp and thorough coverage of how to ride a horse. It is done in an interesting and enlightening fashion, showing the varied techniques of experts in the field. The reel opens with the American Indian riding without a saddle, and then follows through on the lightweight jockey atop a thoroughbred, students and instructors at a New York school of horsemanship, bronco busting, timber topping, and finally trick riding. It is a good sports short, which, of course, will impress amateur equestrians especially. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Oct. 31, 1941.

"Viva Mexico" (Miniature Series) (M-G-M)

Camera glimpses of the more picturesque centers of Mexico, from the ports to the capital, done in color with good descriptive commentary. The Fitzpatrick crew, provide the reel with enough material to make an acceptable addition to any program. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Nov. 1, 1941.

"Popular Science, J1-2" (Paramount)

Five subjects are the concern of this and each offers modest entertainment, making for a short that compares favorably with its predecessors in the series. It begins with highway connecting Pittsburgh and Harrisburg. Following are an ultramodern kitchen, a microscope which magnifies atoms, an amusing moment with "Professor Oakes" and another of his crackpot inventions, and finally the U. S. Forest Service in action. Running time, 11 mins. Release, Nov. 7, 1941.

"Old Mother Riley's Circus"

(Anglo-American)

London, Oct. 30 (By Mail)

ALTHOUGH the comedy of Arthur Lucan has no obvious appeal outside these isles, it should illustrate a study of what British audiences laugh at and why. Lucan, who has expanded from small time vaudeville to radio and music hall fame, is today among the box-office leaders. Probably only a country where pantomime has come to mean something at the theatre will understand the wherefor.

This latest and probably most ambitious of his comedies is wrapped around a circus which in the end turns out to belong to Old Mother Riley herself. There is a shy shaft of maternal sentiment and note of romance, but the whole development is slapstick, with the grotesque old dame in the tattered skirt and faded bonnet, prancing and prattling away in the garb of a fortune teller, a Countess, a cinema usherette and a circus clown. Not for a moment does the electric vitality of Lucan wane, never for a flash does he aim any further ahead than the bleachers.

Production qualities are adequate, but the direction by Thomas Bentley, a pioneer among British directors, will not ruffle Hollywood.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."*

AUBREY FLANAGAN

with Empire-Universal Films and Odeon Circuit in Canada under Masters, who now heads these companies. Griesdorf was Eastern representative for James Roosevelt when the latter was producing for United Artists. Previously he was United Artists branch manager at Winnipeg.

J. T. McInerney, United Artists branch manager at San Francisco, has tendered his resignation but it has not yet been accepted by the home office.

Sears did not disclose what Smith's new post with the company would be, but it is assumed that it will be with the West Coast sales organization since Smith's resignation from RKO is known to have derived from his wish to make his home on the West Coast, where he recently purchased a ranch. Smith has been with RKO as Western manager for the past eight years. Prior to that he was Chicago district manager for United Artists.

Sears has taken the office at United Artists formerly occupied by Maurice Silverstone, while Edward C. Raftery, new United Artists president, is established in the office formerly occupied by Arthur W. Kelly. The latter has new quarters adjoining Raftery's.

Legion Cites Gain in Objectionable Films

an increase of one and six-tenths per cent in the number of films rated as objectionable in part.

"In appraising the moral status and trend of the motion picture, statistics alone do not provide adequate and final measurement. Statistics should be considered in conjunction with other factors such as the kind and amount of objectionableness in a film rated in any given objectionable or condemned category. The evaluation of the situation must be based on qualitative as well as quantitative considerations. The present grave concern arises out of the unfortunate trend under which a considerable number of films rated objectionable in part have approached the point of condemnation."

Legion Approves Six Of Seven New Films

The National Legion of Decency for the current week has approved six of seven new pictures reviewed, two for general patronage and four for adults, while one was condemned. The new films and their classification follow.

Class A-1, Unobjectionable for General Patronage — "Kathleen," "They Died With Their Boots On." Class A-2, Unobjectionable for Adults — "Date With the Falcon," "Design for Scandal," "Men in Her Life," "Rise and Shine." Class C, Condemned — "Two-Faced Woman."

at $73,000 for the four days beginning Thursday.

The Thursday through Sunday "take" at the Strand, playing "They Died With Their Boots On" with Woody Herman's orchestra, is estimated at $30,000. The show will be held over.

'Thin Man,' $24,500

"Shadow of the Thin Man" went over well at the Capitol, grossing an estimated $24,500 Thursday through Sunday, and will hold for a second week. "Swamp Water" at the Globe is holding up strongly, drawing an estimated $5,500 Saturday and Sunday. Now in its second week, the picture will continue.

At the Rivoli where "How Green Was My Valley" is in its fourth week business Thursday through Sunday amounted to an estimated $16,200. This film also will hold over.

"The Chocolate Soldier," now in its fourth week at the Astor, took an estimated $5,700 Friday through Sunday and will remain. "Mob Town" finished a week's run at the Rialto last night with an estimated $4,300 and is to be replaced today by "A Date With the Falcon."

'Flying' Opens Tomorrow

Universal's new Abbott and Costello comedy, "Keep 'Em Flying," will bow in at the Criterion tomorrow. Carol Bruce, who has the feminine lead in the film, is scheduled to make a personal appearance in the evening. Others of the cast expected to be present are Martha Raye, William Garagan and Dick Foran.

Last night New York's traditional most important first night was observed when the Metropolitan Opera held the premiere of its 59th season. The presentation was Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro."

New York's oldest families mingled with foreign ambassadors and fashionable opera goers. It was a sellout, as usual.

British Film Council Will Ask Quota Cut To 15-20 Per Cent

LONDON, Nov. 24. — The Films Council is understood to have considered British Board of Trade suggestions that the film quota be retained at its present levels, and to have decided to ask for reductions.

It is believed the Council will ask the Board of Trade for reductions to 15 per cent for exhibitors and 20 per cent for distributors, with a similar reduction for short subjects.

Although the Board of Trade has the final decision, it is believed it will not ignore the recommendations of the Council, since the latter functions as an advisory board. Short subject producers and film unions will oppose the Council suggestion for quota cuts.

Pinewood Studio May Reopen

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The Pinewood Studios, closed since the start of the war, will be reopened in January as the center of Government film production, it is reported. Pinewood is controlled by the General Film-Gaumont British interests. The Army film unit has taken over the Curzon Theatre in Mayfair.

Paul Soskin will join the Gaumont-British-Gainsborough producing company as a resident producer on the completion of his current film.

Triple Features in 6 St. Louis Houses

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24.—Triple bills have spread to four independent houses in St. Louis, bringing the total of houses now featuring such programs to six. Fred Wehrenberg, head of the MPTO, who has led the fight against multiple features, said the theatres now using triples occasionally are the Osage, Ozark, Gem and Beverly.

The Pageant and the Aubert of the St. Louis Amusement Co. were among the first to have such programs. Harry C. Arthur, Jr., president of Fanchon & Marco, recently announced he had no intention of discontinuing triple bills in the St. Louis Amusement houses.

Disney's Features Setup Is Realigned

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24.—Walt Disney Productions today realigned its production setup on features, scheduling "Peter Pan" to follow "Bambi," now nearing completion, instead of the previously announced "Wind in the Willows," work on which has been halted. About 150 employes will be temporarily laid off because of the change, leaving about 530 on the payroll. Production will continue on two other features, "Bongo" and "Cinderella." No letdown in shorts production is contemplated.

Para. Sued on Title

Paramount has been named defendant in a suit filed in N. Y. Supreme Court by Jewel Productions, Inc. The plaintiff seeks to restrain Paramount from releasing "Forgotten Men," which, it is alleged, infringes the title of Jewel's film, "Forgotten Men." An answer by Paramount declares the title is in the public domain.

L. Alexander, Fulton Lewis, Jr., Fulton Oursler, George Hamilton Combs, Clem McCarthy, Bert Lee and Dick Fishell. A new WHN choral group and an enlarged orchestra directed by Dick Ballou and Don Albert will provide the music. The program will originate from the Barbizon-Plaza Theatre.

Purely Personal: Bill Berns of the Warner publicity staff will resume his program, "The Camera Turns with Bill Berns" over WPAT, Paterson, N. J., at 2:15 P.M. today. . . . Steere Mathew was appointed assistant manager of the NBC traffic department yesterday. . . . Maurice Rappel has been named Jewish program director for WWRL. . . . Rise Stevens, who performed at the Metropolitan Opera opening yesterday, will be guest on "Treasury Hour" tonight and the Coca Cola show Sunday. . . . George Fuerst, formerly manager of the KGO-KPO, San Francisco, traffic department, has resigned to join the KPO sales department, and his former assistant, Bob Sandstrom, succeeds him in the traffic post. . . . John Gunther, if he returns from Europe in time, will substitute for Raymond Gram Swing when the latter starts a three-week vacation Christmas Day. Gunther, however, is seeking admission to Russia and another substitute will be needed if he obtains the visa. . . . Bob Reichenbach of the KMOX, St. Louis, promotion staff has resigned to organize the Disco Recording Co. Harry Cheshire, "hillbilly" director for KMOX, and Gordon Sherman, engineer at the station, will join him in the venture.

Network officials breathed easier yesterday as word came that the threatened long distance telephone strike had been called off by the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers after an agreement had been reached granting wage increases and setting up boards to adjust remaining differences. The networks, which would have been crippled by a strike, made few preparations to meet it, presumably on the assumption that it would be settled in time.

Norman D. Waters, head of the advertising agency bearing his name, yesterday demanded "prompt action" on his proposals for greater use of television by Government and defense agencies. In a telegram to Lowell Mellett, director of the executive office of the President, Waters pointed out that he had seen FCC Chairman James L. Fly on Oct. 31 and had held a conference of television executives at his office Nov. 4 but little had been done to start the program moving. He asked for fact finding board to study the problem.

NBC yesterday released the Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting standings for half-hour evening shows. In the order of their standing they are: Edgar Bergen; Jack Benny; Fibber McGee & Molly; Bob Hope; "Maxwell House Time," with Fannie Brice; "One Man's Family"; "Fitch Bandwagon"; "Mr. District Attorney"; "Time to Smile," with Eddie Cantor and Dinah Shore; Burns & Allen; Rudy Vallee and John Barrymore, and "Truth or Consequences."

In an effort to build a good children's program, NBC-Blue on Saturday, Dec. 6, 11:30 to noon, will start the first of a weekly half-hour series in which a 15-minute program from WJZ will be paired with a similar show from a station in another city. Each group will run for 13 weeks. The first two programs will be "Fables for Fun," from WJZ, in which an original fairy tale will be dramatized, and "Ask Young America," from WLS, Chicago, with school children participating in an open forum on current events.

Monogram Product Now Available for Television

reverted later to the independent producers.

During the radio fight with Ascap, feature films virtually could not be shown over the television station because it was impossible to separate the music from the dialogue in most instances. However, with the settlement, WNBT resumed its film program and has stepped it up to three or four features each week. In addition to the features, there are advertising films, some independent shorts, defense films released by Government agencies and the like.

Among the independent product booked by NBC are five old pictures released through Grand National and now controlled by Mohawk. These include one with James Cagney and another with Stuart Erwin. NBC is also negotiating with Harold Orlob for "Back Door to Heaven" and possibly "One Third of a Nation." Two pictures have been contracted for with Arthur Lee and about four more are in the negotiation stage. Max Alexander also has a number of westerns which NBC may use, it was said. A group of short subjects, "Music of the Masters," is also being televised.

Since July 1, NBC has been operating its television station on a commercial basis which requires 15 hours of operation weekly and the use of films is an important factor. Audience reaction to feature product, despite its age, has been satisfactory, it was reported.

O.P.M. Names Radio Advisory Committee

Washington, Nov. 24.—A radio industry advisory committee, consisting of 29 representatives from as many manufacturing companies, has been named by the Office of Production Management to cooperate with Sidney J. Weinberg, chief of the Bureau of Industry Advisory Committees, in working out problems involving radio manufacturing in connection with priorities.

FCC Here Monday On NBC Television

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Members of the FCC and their staff will be in New York next Monday to see recent developments of NBC in the field of television, particularly color, it was disclosed today by Chairman James L. Fly.

The trip will be short, Fly said, and it is not intended to attempt a review of the work being done by all of the companies.

In view of the lack of progress which is being made with the synchronous impulse, he said, it is not likely that the commission will undertake the clarification of standards tentatively set for Jan. 1. No move in that direction will be made until the companies report that they have developed satisfactory methods which can be generally adopted.

Station in Indiana Increases Power

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Broadcasting Station WAOV, Vincennes, Ind., has been authorized by the FCC to increase its power from 100 to 250 watts.

Hopkins, Inc., and the Washtenaw Broadcasting Co., Inc., for new 1,050-kilocycle, 1,000-watt day stations at Ann Arbor, Mich.; Bernard N. Walker for a new 1,400-kilocycle, 250-watt station at Concord, N. N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Edward R. Koch yesterday adjourned until today a hearing on an application of Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., for an injunction to restrain the Newsdealers Federal Labor Union, Local 22,371, from boycotting seven morning and afternoon newspapers.

Attorneys for the union declared they had insufficient time to prepare an answer to the Attorney General's allegation that the union had entered into a conspiracy. Assistant State Attorney General Martin J. McLaughlin declared no labor dispute between workers and employers is involved.

Kent Closes With Connors; Deal Revealed

His Duties Will Cover All 20th-Fox Departments

Sidney R. Kent yesterday announced the closing of a five-year contract with Tom Connors to be his personal assistant. In his statement, Kent reveals that Connors will assume his new post within the next few weeks. Also, that Connors will accompany Kent on a trip to the Coast about Jan. 1.

Kent's statement follows:

"I have known Tom Connors since he came into the industry. I have admired his ability and integrity as a man and I have made the choice after careful consideration of several men. I, myself, have come up through distribution and I naturally looked to that field for an assistant. Mr. Connors' duties, however, will not all be in distribution, but will cover other departments as well.

"This move is in no wise a move to appoint a successor to Herman Wobber. Mr. Wobber will remain just as long as he desires to do so. I have made this appointment to give the sales and other departments more help and of a kind that I have been unable to give myself lately. This move will in no way change the company's policy of promotion from within the ranks, which both Mr. Connors and I agree on.

"I am especially pleased at the reaction to this appointment. Many important exhibitors from all over the country have voluntarily phoned or wired me praising the appointment. I know this will be pleasing to Mr. Connors as well."

Columbia Quarter Net Up to $261,705

Columbia yesterday reported net profit of $261,705 for the first quarter ended Sept. 27, after all deductions, as compared with $153,878 with similar deductions for the same period last year. No provision has been made for restricted currencies in England.

The working capital amounted to $11,619,219. The report shows $14,207,784 current assets and $2,588,565 current liabilities. "Results to date for the second quarter indicate a continued improvement in earnings," Harry Cohn, president, stated in announcing the earnings.

Washer to Be Ad Head for Goldwyn

Ben Washer will soon join the Samuel Goldwyn organization as Eastern advertising and publicity director, it is reported. Announcement of his appointment is expected shortly. In the latter post he will succeed Lynn Farnol, who resigned, it is said, because of service in the U. S. Army. Farnol holds a commission as captain. Washer is among the best known publicists in show business, in the opinion of the trade.

Univ., U.A. Reaffirm Right of Selection

Nashville, Nov. 25.—United Artists and Universal Film Exchanges maintained today in stronger terms than heretofore their right to select their customers in the distribution of films "for any reason or reasons." U. A.'s and Universal's brief in the Crescent anti-trust case, filed in Federal Court by John D. Mosby of Nashville, asserted that in the selection of a customer "there can be no more valid and legal reason than their (the defended distributors) financial advantage."

Producers Oppose English Quota Cuts

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Production groups are actively opposing a reduction in the present quota percentages, as suggested by the Films Council. The producers voted today to ask the Board of Trade to leave the quotas as they are, declaring that, despite the reduction in the total of films registered for quota, a substantial volume is now awaiting registration. They forecast a drop in production if the quotas are cut.

They suggest that the exhibitors can meet their present quota by increasing screening time. The shorts producers will meet tomorrow and are expected also to oppose the council suggestion for quota reductions. They contend there is no need for reduction, since exhibitors are screening more than their required percentages. Labor interests also are expected formally to oppose the reductions. It was indicated today that the Board of Trade may make a statement on the quota situation this week.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The most withering critical blast to greet a new play this season appeared in the local press today on "Golden Wings" which opened last night at the National.

Commented Nelson B. Bell (Post), "Swirling dialogue frosted on its wing tips." A "triumph of dullness," reacted Jay Carmody (Star). Don Craig (News) called it "sloppy, corny and embarrassing," while Bernie Harrison (Times-Herald) cited "too much weight," "uninspired plot" and said the William Jay-Guy Bolton story of the R.A.F. "never gets off the ground." Fay Wray, Signe Hasso and Owen Lamont have the leads.

uct by the defendants. The Rialto is not involved in the action. According to the complaint, when Mion & Murray decided to build the three houses in 1940, they were told by the distributing companies that product would be negotiated for.

As soon as the intention to operate was announced, however, Lucas & Jenkins attempted to prevent the operation of these three houses and increased the seating of the DeKalb 50 per cent, purchased a lot on the site adjoining the Little Five Points and built a theatre on it, and erected a new theatre, the Russell, two blocks from the East Point, the complaint sets forth. The petition also points out that Lucas & Jenkins' operation of more than 50 houses in Georgia, of which more than 18 are in the Atlanta area, gives them a great purchasing power, and contends that this power was used to compel discrimination by the distributor defendants against the plaintiffs.

Mion & Murray complain that they frequently could not obtain any product before it was a year old and in any case after clearance for competing neighborhood houses.

ary, it was said. Chaplin also is preparing to re-release "The Gold Rush" during Christmas time.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY reported exclusively yesterday that a decision on the appointment of Leserman as general sales manager would be reached today and that the decision had hinged upon Leserman's action on an offer made him by another company.

Sears' announcement made no mention of Harry L. Gold, Eastern sales manager for the company, but it was indicated elsewhere that Gold would remain in charge of Eastern sales under Leserman. No successor has been named yet to Haskell Masters, who resigned last week as Western sales manager.

Sears said: "It is a source of satisfaction to me that practically my first official act with United Artists is to bring to the company one of the strongest individuals in the sales field of the industry. Leserman has been associated with me for many years, and I am glad to know that he will now make available to United Artists the ability, the experience, the forcefulness and the devotion he has always given to his job."

Leserman was formerly assistant general sales manager and vice-president of Vitaphone, Inc. He resigned those posts when Sears left Warners recently.

Providence Censor Holds Up Garbo Film

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 25.—Captain George W. Cowan, police inspector of amusements, notified Loew's State Theatre here that he would not grant a license for the exhibition of "Two-Faced Woman," the new Greta Garbo picture, at this time.

Cowan left for Boston shortly after with his assistant, Lieutenant William F. McTiernan, and Jack Simon, manager of the State, where the picture will be screened for the police officials at the M-G-M exchange. The police censors have been instructed to submit a confidential report to department heads on their return.

Cowan said the license was withheld after the police censors received word that the Legion of Decency had placed the picture in its "C" classification.

which M-G-M is introducing its mobile Show-Block.

H. M. Richey, assistant to William F. Rodgers, Loew's vice-president and general sales manager, demonstrated the mobile unit to showmen here and explained its purpose of bringing more customers to the theatre, particularly the subsequent run houses. An "exhibitors' forum" was conducted by Richey in connection with the demonstration.

William A. Greene of the American Newspaper Publishers Ass'n explained the fundamentals of amusement advertising, in addressing the opening convention session. He emphasized that the show, not the theatre, should be sold. Other speakers included William R. Ferguson, Loew's exploitation director, and Edward Salzberg, Bluefield, W. Va., exhibitor.

The annual banquet was held to night, followed by a screening of "Keep 'Em Flying" at the Grand.

SPG Talks Broken Off Over Salaries

Negotiations between the Screen Publicists Guild and home office publicity departments were broken off Monday largely because of difference over wage scales, it was learned yesterday. The Guild asked 30 per cent increases for those earning up to $75, 25 per cent for those earning between $75 and $100, and 20 per cent for those earning above $100, while the companies countered with a proposal of a flat 10 per cent raise for all, it was reported.

A tentative agreement was reached on classifying employes as publicists and associate publicists with the Guild asking a minimum of $60 to $75, on a sliding scale, for the former, and $35 to $50 for the latter, while the companies offered a flat $5 and $30 minimum, respectively, it was said. No final definition of publicist and associate was reached, however. A tentative compromise also was reached on the S.P.G. demand for a close shop.

With the breaking off of negotiations, however, both sides regard a tentative compromise as withdrawn. The S.P.G. executive council will meet tonight to consider the next steps to be taken.

U.S. Decree 'Unworkable' Myers Says

that it was written without exhibitor approval and said there are many defects in its makeup.

"Any way you look at the decree, the consenting companies can choose their own selling method after June 1, 1942," Myers declared.

Myers, in expressing hopes for the success of the all-industry unity meeting at Chicago, Dec. 9, said that it offered exhibitors the opportunity of formulating a trade practice policy which would be acceptable to them and to the distribution companies and which might replace the consent decree.

In discussing the unity movement, Myers emphasized the industry's need for a united front to protect itself against unfair taxation.

P. J. Wood, secretary of the ITO, submitted a report to the convention which showed that 110 exhibitors in replying to an organization questionnaire on experiences with the decree selling system had charged one or more distributors in the Ohio territory of violating the decree by demanding the purchase of short subjects and newsreels in advance of discussions of feature picture deals. Others charged that distributors had refused to sell them subsequent picture blocks unless the prior blocks were bought first.

All officers of the organization were reelected and only two changes were made in the directorate. The new directors are Henry S. Fickinger and Willis Vance.

The convention adopted a resolution expressing appreciation to M-G-M for conducting an exhibitor forum on trade building problems in connection with the convention.

No FCC Power to Halt Theatre News

Washington, Nov. 26.—The FCC reports that it has answered an inquiry from a Maine theatre owner that there is no provision in the Communications Act or FCC regulations to prevent a radio receiver being linked to theatre sound equipment for amplifying of newscasts by a local broadcasting station. The exhibitor was not named.

The commission made no mention, however, of a recent injunction granted to Mutual against Muzak, Inc., preventing the latter from picking up World Series broadcasts and transmitting the description over its own leased lines to restaurants and hotels.

Providence Police Bureau Upholds Garbo Film Ban

cation of Loew's State yesterday, stated he based his action on the Legion's condemnation. This was before he had seen the picture at the M-G-M exchange in Boston. The Bureau acted today after receiving a confidential report from Cowan after he had seen the picture.

The Providence Journal in an editorial today censured Cowan, stating in part: "The Legion of Decency is perfectly proper and perfectly valid in rating pictures and making its recommendations for the information and guidance of its members. In doing this, it is using moral suasion.

"But it is something else again when the officials of a community, who are servants of people of all faiths and creeds, invoke the police power to enforce the recommendation of a sectarian organization and impose the judgment of this organization as the official judgment, backed by the police authority.

"The police censor and the Bureau of Police and Fire are to be blamed for this wrongful exercise of power.

They have made it to appear that a private sectarian organization is the censor of this moving picture. We have not seen the picture but we feel that the principle of public authority involved in the issue is the important thing."

An editorial expressing similar views appeared in today's Brown Daily Herald, Brown University undergraduate publication.

Jack Simons, manager of Loew's State, received instructions from the home office to withdraw all advertising on the film, but a company statement added that "this does not mean we have no intention of showing the film in Providence." Amplification of the statement was refused. The censorship action has received page one prominence in the Journal and Evening Bulletin.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 26.—M-G-M executives today declined to comment on the action of the police censor in Providence in holding up "Two-Faced Woman."

Home office attorneys foresee no difficulty in obtaining a trial of the criminal informations first despite reports from St. Paul that the county attorney there would insist upon trial of the equity action brought by the consenting companies in an effort to obtain an injunction against enforcement of the Minnesota law ahead of the criminal cases. The latter are regarded by distributor counsel as offering the quickest and most definitive test of the constitutionality of the Minnesota law.

"Go West, Young Lady"

(Columbia)

HERE'S a rollicking combination of wild comedy and Western melodrama that makes for a choice bit of entertainment, and should please most types of customers. Conceived and executed with little care for convention, it should come as a welcome change both for those who care for Westerns and those who are not generally partial to them.

Producer Robert Sparks employed a competent cast that includes Penny Singleton, Ann Miller, Glenn Ford, Charlie Ruggles, Allen Jenkins, Jed Prouty and others. Miss Singleton, who, as the visitor from the East, handles a mass Indian attack, outlaws and the like with casual effort, is perfectly suited to the role and does very well. Miss Miller's dancing and singing add a good deal of flavor to the production, and Ford, the sheriff who has designs on and finally wins Miss Singleton, also contributes. Frank P. Strayer's direction makes the most of the story.

Running time, 71 minutes. "G."*

"Tonto Basin Outlaws"

(Monogram)

THE Range Busters hit the trail in this above-average western to come out with a mild winner. The trio, Ray "Crash" Corrigan, John "Dusty" King, and comic Max "Alibi" Terhune enlist with T. R.'s Rough Riders. The Army refuses to accept them, and sends them back to King's native Wyoming to track down a gang of crooks who've been rustling Government cattle.

Corrigan, posing as a cowboy out of work, seeks a job with Tristram Coffin's outfit in an attempt to develop a lead on the rustling. Coffin, a boyhood chum of Corrigan, is tipped off to the latter's identity. Terhune and King, meanwhile, go their separate ways to round up the rustlers. The climax is King's stampede of a herd of wild cattle through the town as Corrigan and Coffin shoot it out. Feminine interest is blonde Jan Wiley, as a newspaperwoman sent to the Tonto Basin. A featured song is "Cabin of My Dreams". Robert Cline's photography is good, as is the direction of S. Roy Luby.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."*

"Riding the Sunset Trail"

(Monogram)

SATISFACTORY action fare is this Tom Keene western. Robert Tansey, producer-director, has made some minor alterations in the casting setup which improves this number over its predecessors. Frank Yaconelli has been added to the cast.

The plot is routine with Jib Aubrey, supposedly murdered by his half-brother so the latter could cash in on a fake will, and Aubrey's eventual return to convict the half brother. Betty Dawson as Aubrey's daughter is the feminine interest and Sugar Dawn, another daughter. Keene and Yaconelli make fools of Ken Duncan, the half-brother, and his hirelings, Earle Douglas and Tom Seidel, at every meeting. Duncan finally hires Gene Alsace to ambush Keene, but Alsace turns out to be a crook gone straight. Tansey's production and direction are good and photography by Marcel LePicard is fine.

Running time, 56 minutes. "G."*

*"G" denotes general classification.

Place Ceiling On Film Rental For Dominion

Expect Monday Will Be Effective Date

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—A ceiling has been placed on film rentals in Canada under the Dominion's price control law for wartime, trade officials here learned today.

Details of the regulation were not available immediately and it was not known late today at what level rentals have been frozen. There was considerable speculation in the trade as to whether the ceiling designated is the prevailing price level for films or some other standard, such as the prevailing rentals of a year ago or the average for a period of years.

Indications are that the trade will be formally advised of the regulations promptly, however, inasmuch as the orders establishing price ceilings generally in the Dominion is scheduled to become effective Dec. 1. It is believed that the order applying to film rentals is intended to be effective simultaneously.

The ceiling on admission prices set by the Canadian War Time Price and Trade Board several weeks ago was the maximum charged during the period from Sept. 15 to Oct. 11. A level has also been placed on wages.

Tax, Labor Mexico Theatre Problems

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 27.—One of the most serious problems facing the operators of Mexico's 1,009 theatres is taxation, both in the amount of the impost and in its calculation. It is expected that early next year exhibitors will petition for a reduction in the tax rate and simplification of the method of calculation.

Labor expense is also a problem, but little can be done, it is believed, since labor organizations are particularly strong in the country. Some effort is being made by the Government to protect employers. The tax is 15 per cent of gross receipts for the Municipal Government and nine per cent of the remainder for the Federal Government. Payments, made daily, are computed on the basis of seating capacity. Thus, a 3,000-seat house charging 50 cents pays tax on $1,500 daily gross, whether that actually is attained or not. This sometimes results in an actual daily tax of 50 per cent, and on the average amounts to 25 to 35 per cent.

With the opening of the Cine Inurgentes, seating 4,000, and the reopening of the Cine Palacio, there are 69 houses operating in Mexico City.

Boston Bans Garbo Film; Pa. Approves

not be granted for any showing in the theatres of Boston."

Meanwhile, the Pennsylvania censor board approved the film, which opened at the Boyd, Philadelphia yesterday, but in a special message to the MPPDA asserted that it "looks with disapproval on this type of production." Commenting on the board's action, Mrs. Edna R. Carroll, chairman, remarked that "the situations in the film are more silly and impossible than fallacious, in the opinion of the board."

Yamins Bars Film

Nathan Yamins, former president of Allied States Association, said he would "make no attempt" to show the picture at any of his six Fall River, Mass., theatres because of the "C" rating given it by the Legion of Decency.

Bishop James E. Kearney of Rochester warned Catholics in his diocese against seeing the film, which is scheduled to open a week's run today at Loew's Rochester. His warning was contained in a letter to pastors which referred to the picture as "immoral, indecent and impudently suggestive."

In Providence, where opposition to the film was touched off by the action of police censors in refusing to license it because of the Legion of Decency rating, the Better Films Council of Rhode Island met to consider action in the situation yesterday, but made no public announcement.

Dietz Defends Picture

The New York Times today publishes a statement in which Howard Dietz, M-G-M advertising and publicity director, defends the picture. It follows:

"We have read Archbishop Spellman's statement. It is regretted that the Legion of Decency has seen fit to condemn this picture. It has always been our endeavor to produce quality motion pictures which will not offend good taste or decency. There is no exact science in the production of motion pictures. People do at various times differ as to the effect of a given line or scene, particularly in a picture such as this, which is a comedy and designed primarily to amuse.

"It is only fair to point out that the picture 'Two-Faced Woman,' was presented to the Motion Picture Production Code Authority and received an approval seal from that organization. It has likewise been presented to all state censorship boards and, with slight alterations in a few cases, had been passed by every one for public presentation. Also, the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures has classified the film as 'especially worth seeing and above the average.'"

In Hollywood, Hays said the "matter is under consideration" but declined comment on the situation at this time. M-G-M studio officials also declined to be quoted in any way.

It was learned that Hays had assembled data on the picture prior to the meeting of the Producers Ass'n.

Film Industry Ranked 14th In Business Volume in '37

The motion picture industry ranked 14th in volume of business for 1937 and 11th in total assets among American industries, according to a compilation made by Dr. Leo C. Rosten, analyst, from recent Securities and Exchange Commission surveys of 18 leading industries.

The figures, however, do not include public utilities, railroads, communications, textiles, insurance companies, banks and some other industries. Had these been included, it was pointed out, the position of the motion picture industry would be proportionately lower on the list.

Rankings Listed

Dr. Rosten's industrial ranking by volume of 1937 business was as follows:

1. Oil Refiners .....	$4,122,155,556
2. Steel .....	2,847,988,476
3. Meat Packing .....	2,719,084,404
4. Automobiles .....	2,604,667,667
(excluding Ford)
5. Mail Order Houses.....	1,038,598,068

10. Tires and Rubber Products	784,723,113
11. Chain-Variety .....	782,866,328
12. Agricultural Machinery....	598,196,252

Members of the Production Code Administration hold to the belief that "Two-Faced Woman" was in conformity with the Production Code at the time of issuance of the Code certificate and denied that any complaints against the film have been received by the PCA.

Semi-official assurances were given following the Producers Ass'n meeting that no consideration was given the matter of appointing a successor to Joseph I. Breen as Code administrator.

The situation attracted wide newspaper attention throughout the country. New York newspaper carried extensive news stories, prominently displayed. The World-Telegram yesterday had a six-column layout with stills from the picture.

The National Council on Freedom from Censorship, through Quincy Howe, president, in telegrams to Will H. Hays and Louis B. Mayer, M-G-M production chief, has offered its services "to fight the Providence ruling," which the council believes, "can be a spearhead for a drive on all films," according to a statement.

Sues Over Pathe Deal

Arthur W. Newell, who says he owns 200 shares of Pathe Film Corp. common stock, sued yesterday in N.Y. Supreme Court for the appointment of appraisers of his stock. He objects to the stock exchange between Pathe and E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co. and wants to be paid off in cash.

Para. Sued on Song

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—Dr. Clay A. Boland and S. Bickley Reichner have filed a $50,000 infringement suit against Paramount in Federal Court here, charging that their song, "Midnight on the Trail," was used as the theme song for "Dancing on a Dime."

13. Containers and Closures...	455,371,874
14. Motion Pictures.....	406,855,095

(includes theatre and distribution operations of majors, excluding United Artists)

Rank by total assets:

2. Steel .....	4,181,765,978
3. Chemicals and Fertilizers..	1,688,231,343
4. Automobiles .....	1,525,435,062
5. Meat Packers .....	825,807,223
6. Cigarette Manufacturers...	734,231,460
7. Tires and Rubber Products	724,271,752
8. Agricultural Machinery....	691,658,262
9. Department Stores.....	662,421,723
10. Mail Order Houses.....	544,720,716
11. Motion Pictures.....	520,950,444

However, motion picture executives are paid, both as a percentage of the net profits and as a percentage of the total volume of sales, on a scale only second to the top. Figures are for 1937 also.

Executive remuneration as a percentage of net profits:

1. Department Stores .....	32.10%
2. Motion Pictures .....	18.96%
3. Meat Packers .....	16.11%
4. Chain-Groceries, Food .....	15.58%
5. Cement .....	14.18%

The automobile industry is 18th on the list, paying 1.52% to the executives.

Executive remuneration as a percentage of total volume of sales:

1. Cement .....	1.61%
2. Motion Pictures .....	1.59%
3. Office Machinery .....	1.22%
4. Department Stores .....	.81%
5. Chemicals and Fertilizers.....	.75%

In this classification the automobile industry ranks 16th with a payment of .14%. The meat packers rank 18th with a .11% figure.

Union Election Sunday

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 27.—Local 74 of the stage employes union has postponed its annual election of officers until Sunday.

Review

"Louisiana Purchase"

(Paramount)

THE musical comedy, "Louisiana Purchase," by Morrie Ryskind, with music by Irving Berlin, was a great hit on Broadway, and equally successful on tour. There is every reason to believe that the spectacular screen version by Paramount also should be a box-office winner of the first order.

The film has what it takes to score with the patrons, of all ages, in all places. It has spectacular settings, enhanced by Technicolor; cast names of high marquee caliber, beautiful girls, tuneful music, and a picture-load of comedy, most capably handled by two of the country's comedy experts.

The experts are Bob Hope and Victor Moore, the latter of the original stage version, and they will have any audience in a state between chuckles and guffaws most of the way. In support are Vera Zorina, who dances and sings, and with Hope, supplies the romance; Irene Bordoni, as the New Orleans restaurateur who helps Hope out of a jam, and Raymond Walburn, Maxie Rosenbloom, Frank Albertson and Donald McBride.

The yarn concerns the effort of Hope, unwitting dupe of crooked politicians, to frame Moore, U. S. Senator bent on investigating the city politicians, so that he will whitewash the crooks to protect his own political career. Miss Zorina is hired for the job, but when Moore promises to obtain passage for her mother from abroad, she double-crosses Hope and company. It all comes out for the best when Hope filibusters Moore's planned expose in the State legislature, and the latter gives up when he learns the real crooks have been apprehended and Hope is cleared. The New Orleans Mardi Gras forms an effective background for colorful costumes, songs and dances. Entertainment highlights of the film develop whenever either Hope, Moore or both are handling the comedy situations and the gags.

Running time, 98 minutes. "G."*

Agree to Accept Appeal Decision In K-B Complaint

the industry arbitration system. It was made under Section 18 of the consent decree which permits the appeals board to reopen proceedings in any case within 10 days after a decision in order to correct "inadvertent errors."

James V. Hayes and Robert Sher, former assistants to the U. S. Attorney General in the drafting of the industry decree, are counsel for K-B Amusement Co. The latter operates the Apex Theatre, Washington, which brought a complaint seeking elimination of the clearance held by Warners' Uptown and Calvert. An award eliminating the clearance was made by Louis M. Denit, arbitrator, and Warners appealed. The appeals board ruled that although competition between the theatres involved was slight, it was sufficient to warrant some clearance over the Apex. Accordingly, the arbitrator was reversed and the clearance was set at a maximum of five days.

Preferred Time a Factor

In seeking reconsideration of the case by the appeals board, K-B Amusement Co. contended that the effect of the decision was nil, since the Uptown and Calvert normally change pictures on Wednesdays or Thursdays and, if the Apex were to follow them with a picture strong enough for the distributor to insist upon preferred playing time, the Apex would have to wait nine or 10 days.

instead of five, in order to play the same picture on a weekend.

It was reported that an agreement providing a solution for this situation was reached by the parties involved and led to the stipulation waiving the right to a reconsideration of the case by the appeals board.

Indicate Settlement Of Maryland Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Voluntary settlement of the clearance complaint of the Charles Theatre, La Plata, Md., against Loew's was indicated here today with the indefinite postponement of hearings scheduled to open. The complaint charged that the Marlboro, operated by Sidney Lust, has been granted unreasonable clearance.

Orders Chaplin Suit Quiz

Federal Judge John C. Knox here has ordered examination before trial of Charles Chaplin in Los Angeles on Dec. 18 in reference to the suit of Konrad Bercovici for more than $5,000,000 damages, involving alleged plagiarism. The order, made by stipulation, provides that Bercovici must also submit to examination.

WB Set 'Nymph' Leads

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 27.—Warners have signed Charles Boyer and Joan Fontaine to co-star in "The Constant Nymph," the Margaret Kennedy novel and play. Edmund Goulding will direct. Walter Huston has been signed to support James Cagney in Warners' "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Goldwyn Uncertain Of Future Release; Is Pleased with RKO

Theatre, New Rochelle, Monday night.

"RKO is doing a swell job with 'The Little Foxes,'" Goldwyn said. "I regard Ned Depinet as among the top distribution men in the industry and I am well pleased with my association with the company thus far.

"However," he continued, "I don't know what I'm going to do about distribution of my future pictures after 'Ball of Fire.' I am not negotiating with any distributor now and I see no need of doing so until I have another picture."

Plans Active Year

Goldwyn said his present production plans will make next year his "most active" in a long time. He plans to start the "Life of Lou Gehrig" in January; in March he will start "Treasure Chest," with Bob Hope, and in May or June he expects to start a William Wyler picture. In addition, Goldwyn said he would complete a production on the life of Hans Christian Andersen in collaboration with Walt Disney, adding that Gary Cooper would be in the production and that it would be about 70 per cent "live" action and 30 per cent animation by Disney.

Goldwyn also will have "Spitfire," being made in England in association with C. M. Woolf, which has David Niven and Leslie Howard in the cast, with Howard directing. This should be available here in February or March, the producer said.

Will Talk with Writers

Goldwyn, accompanied by Collier Young, his story editor, said he would see new Broadway plays and confer with writers during his stay here. Among the latter, he said, are Arthur Kober and Nat Perrin, who are doing the story for the Bob Hope picture.

Commenting on increasing production costs in Hollywood, Goldwyn observed that an independent producer today has to deliver a "hit" every time he makes a picture if he is to operate at a profit. He predicted the death of double features in the near future because of high production costs, which he believes will make secondary features too expensive. He predicted a revival for short subjects, as a result.

Three Firms Formed

ALBANY, Nov. 27.—Three companies have been formed and one dissolved, according to the Secretary of State. New firms are: Estates Theatres, Inc., New York, by Paul Raiserler, William Billow and Edna Sharpe; Bridge Amusement Co., Inc., New York, by Benjamin N. Nathan, Sylvia Denmark and Gladys Barnett, and Empire Productions, Inc., by Robert Weemolsen, Arnold Gross and Janet Lovkov. Foreign Distributors Corp. has been dissolved.

Canadian Radio Set Output Is Hard Hit

MONTREAL, Nov. 27.—War demands on the radio industry will make it difficult to supply even the reduced number of private sets allowed by the new curb on radio production, E. C. Grimley, president of the Radio Manufacturers Association of Canada, has revealed. Grimley stressed the industry's desire to give all-out cooperation to the Government in supplying radio communication equipment to the troops.

In view of the scarcity of materials and rising demands for war equipment, he said, it is very doubtful if manufacturers could produce the quantity of home receivers actually permitted by the control board. To offset this prospective shortage every effort is being made to maintain service organizations to keep present sets in good working order, he added.

It is reported unofficially here that the Quebec Municipal Control Commission, in charge of Montreal finances, may abolish the present local city tax of $2.16 on each radio receiving set in the city. Set-owners would continue to pay the Federal radio license fee of $2.50 a year.

CBS School Group Meets

The United States committee of the CBS "School of the Air of the Americas" will meet today to consider plans for 1942.

Off the Antenna

WMCA at 8 A.M. Monday will broadcast the first of hourly news bulletins furnished by the New York Times. WOR's FM station, W71NY, will boost its power to 10,000 watts Sunday. W67NY, the CBS FM outlet, will take to the air with a regular schedule Monday at 3 P.M.

CBS Seeks F.C.C. License For Commercial Television

vision not be standardized at this time although it still believes that color, eventually, may give the needed "fillip" to put television across to the public, Murphy said. When the FCC set standards this year, it was done with the proviso that the question of standardizing color would be re-examined Jan. 1. Since mid-July CBS has been telecasting experimentally in color one hour daily, Monday through Friday, mostly with test patterns and charts, and has totaled about 125 hours of transmission. However, since no manufacturer undertook to make color receivers, and television generally was hampered by the priorities situation, the network is of the opinion that not enough data has been collected at this time to make the fixing of color standards feasible.

Building for Expansion

CBS television has played its part in national defense by televising all programs made available by Government agencies. Asked to explain his reaction toward the first five months of regular operation, Murphy responded that CBS "has been building toward the time when television will be able to expand freely. We are tremendously pleased by the progress we have made, without being cocky that we know it all now. There is still a great deal to be learned. Commercial possibilities at this time are small—later, they will be great. No one can say when that day will be."

"We have confirmed our belief that the informal, unstilted approach to programing has great possibilities," Murphy continued. "Interesting people are interesting on television to a greater degree than in other entertainment media. One of our greatest finds has been that the television camera can be fluid and can pick up almost everything in a studio. We have been handicapped by the lack of remote pickup equipment, which has been promised for almost any day now, but it may have been a blessing in disguise. We have been forced to originate the entire 15 hours in the studio and, although it has been a burden, we have learned a lot while doing it. We have maintained the program pattern substantially the same as it started last July but have considerably improved our technique within that pattern."

Murphy believes that the Metropolitan Museum of Art programs have the makings of a revolution in the teaching of art, just as radio taught millions to appreciate classical music.

Committee Will Supply Individual Studios

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Motion picture producers next year will be given specific quantities of steel and other restricted commodities as one of the many industries using such products, with the allocations to individual companies probably to be worked out by an industry committee, under an allocations system gradually being adopted by the Office of Production Management to replace priorities.

Opposition to Garbo Film Grows; Church Leaders in Protest

Further opposition to the exhibition of "Two-Faced Woman," M-G-M's new Greta Garbo picture, was voiced over the weekend.

Archbishop John J. Glennon of St. Louis advised Catholic pastors in that strong Catholic community to warn parishioners that the film had been placed in the condemned classification of the National Legion of Decency and to "unite in protesting against the showing of the picture."

In Hartford, Conn., Roman Catholic Bishop Maurice F. McAuliffe placed "Two-Faced Woman" on the church's "forbidden" list and notified all pastors in the Connecticut diocese to urge their parishioners to boycott the film.

Rex Williams, manager of Loew's in St. Louis, said that the picture will

By EDWARD GREIF

Government priorities officials are considering aid to television during the emergency by granting manufacturers priorities on supplies to build 25,000 receivers and 10 television transmitters during 1942, it was learned over the weekend.

Mortimer W. Loewi, executive vice-president of DuMont, declared that "I am more optimistic about the immediate future of television than I have been for some time. All we need is a little Government backing to restore the public's confidence."

Reviews

"Tuxedo Junction"

(Republic)
THIS is the type of film with which Republic attained its position in the industry, a modest production, but developed so completely that it affords a fund of entertainment for the theatre audiences for which it is designed. It is commendable work.

Armand Schaefer and Frank McDonald guided the production as associate producer and director, respectively. The cast includes the Weaver family, Frankie Darro, Thurston Hall, Sally Payne and others. It is a light drama concerning a group of wandering boys befriended by a farmer and his family and their clashes with a wealthy neighbor, bubbling over with civic pride. The situation finally is straightened out nicely when the youngsters bring prominence to the town of Glenvale by winning the Tournament of Roses float competition. The film bears relation to the song of the title only in that it is played and sung by the cast members briefly.

Running time, 71 minutes. "G."* EUGENE ARNEEL

"Laburnum Grove"

(Anglo Films)
THE play by J. B. Priestley, "Laburnum Grove," has been transplanted to the screen with Basil Dean as producer and Carol Reed as director. These two able Englishmen, skillfully aided by a pair of brilliant English actors, Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Edmund Gwenn, have fashioned a picture in the clever image of the Priestley play, but it is strictly "English," and appears to have limited appeal for American audiences.

It is too much a play and not enough a "moving" picture for average American audience enjoyment, despite the fact that it is performed with rare skill by the two stars. The supporting cast is unfortunately weak, not approaching the stature of the two leaders.

The picture tells the amusingly satirical story of the respectable businessman and suburbanite, who frightens a couple of sponging in-laws and an unworthy suitor for his daughter's hand with tales of counterfeiting, and a gang of crooks of which he is a member. They believe him, and are terrified, then as their true colors are revealed, they learn it is a hoax, and leave the scene. An extremely clever denouement discloses that he really was telling the truth, and is in fact a crook. His verbal sparring with a Scotland Yard detective is the film's highlight.

Running time, 64 minutes. "G."* CHARLES S. AARONSON

The oboe sounds its "a"

...and a New Century of Music begins

A hundred years ago in the Apollo Rooms on Lower Broadway, an oboe sounded the pitch...the strings, the brasses and the woodwinds tuned...and a Connecticut Yankee raised his baton to signal the start of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. Before him, at their high music racks, stood the first symphony orchestra in America. Behind him an audience of some 400 sat upright in their pews.

Today, in Carnegie Hall, an oboe again sounds its "a"... and the 62nd successor to Ureli Hill raises his baton before the orchestra of the Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York.

And behind him...before him...all around him...an audience of 10,000,000 awaits the opening theme.

10,000,000 people listening to the radio on a Sunday afternoon!...More than have heard the Philharmonic within the walls of a concert hall in the hundred years of its history.

What finer tribute to the world's greatest orchestra on the beginning of its second century? What better evidence of an America musically come of age?

 The oscillograph registers the wave pattern of an oboe's "a" sounded by the Philharmonic's Bruno Labate. Instruments in an orchestra traditionally tune to an oboe because its accurate pitch and penetrating tone are easily caught by the human ear.

Opposition to Garbo Picture Is Spreading

open Thursday regardless of the Archbishop's action, because of booking commitments. Williams said that there would be a routine advertising campaign in advance of the opening.

Letter to Priests

Archbishop Glennon made known his action in a letter to the Catholic priests in which he pointed out the film has been condemned for its "immoral and un-Christian attitude toward marriage and its impudently suggestive scenes, dialogue and costumes."

The Archbishop also recalled the pledge of parishioners on December 15, 1940, in which they promised to do all they could to strengthen public opinion against the production of indecent and immoral films and to unite with all who protest against them.

"We wish you to make known to your people the condemnation of this film which offends not only the moral law but is an insult to the decent and fair minded citizens of our city," Archbishop Glennon asked the parish priests.

Criticism in Press

Criticism of the film appeared in the Catholic press. The Review, Catholic publication of Baltimore serving that city and Washington, in a front-page article referring to the Legion's condemnation of the picture, declared:

It is unfit to be seen by persons, Catholic or non-Catholic, who depend on the National Legion of Decency as a guide to the movies.

"The Review hereby notifies the owners and managers of theatres that the presentation of 'Two-Faced Woman' will be considered by the Catholic Archdioceses of Baltimore and Washington and others as a distinct lowering of standards and an affront to them and will be resented as such."

'Road' Cancellation By Warner Circuit

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—"We're in the business 52 weeks a year and we're not going to defy public opinion," Larry Stein, Warner Theatres district manager here, declared in connection with the circuit's cancellation of the road show of the play, "Tobacco Road," in Hammond, Ind., last week.

Warner officials here called off the engagement, scheduled for the Paramount Theatre in Hammond, at the request of Mayor Frank Martin and civic groups, although a Federal court order had been obtained to prevent the Mayor from closing the show on grounds of obscenity.

Stein also commented: "We can just about tell when the pressure is enough to warrant a change in our policy."

The cancellation is said to have cost the circuit $1,500. The company went from Hammond to St. Louis.

Critics' Quotes . . .

"HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY" (20th Century-Fox)
"How Green Was My Valley" has a quality and distinction inadequately described by calling it one of the year's best films.—Newsweek.

This is a film conceived and executed with dignity, honesty, thoroughness and superlative competence. It is a full-bodied work. It has stature and completeness; a maximum of cinematic skill, the minimum of movie trickery.—Cecelia Ager, PM (New York).

A motion picture of great poetic charm and dignity, a picture rich in visual fabrication and in the vigor of its imagery, and one which may truly be regarded as an outstanding film of the year.—Bosley Crowther, New York Times.

One of the few films of which it can be said that you will be denying yourself a rich experience by missing it.—Howard Barnes, New York Herald Tribune.

One of the outstanding film productions of the year . . . an extraordinarily interesting picture, one that warms the cockles of the heart.—Kate Cameron, New York News.

It is a perfect production.—Lee Mortimer, New York Daily Mirror.

John Ford's masterpiece . . . a ruefully tender, tragic, moving story . . . a beautifully composed mosaic of photography, acting, directing, writing and music.—William Boehnel, New York World Telegram.

"DUMBO" (Disney-RKO)

Disney's fifth feature-length cartoon is as good as his best; technically, it is a good deal better.—Newsweek.

Every minute of it is sheer delight . . . "Dumbo" has replaced "Fantasia" at the Broadway, and while the latter film represents greater accomplishment in the advancement of color, sound and light as applied to the screen, the former has more charm and entertainment value than its predecessor.—Kate Cameron, New York News.

Once again Walt Disney has provided a delightful treat . . . It's a succession of entertaining scenes.—Rose Peltswick, New York Journal-American.

"Dumbo" is the nicest, kindest Disney yet. It has the most heart, taste, beauty, compassion, skill, restraint.—Cecelia Ager, PM (New York).

A show which is so completely captivating that you will be making the mistake of your film-going life if you miss it . . . a Disney masterpiece.—Howard Barnes, New York Herald Tribune.

The most genial, the most endearing, the most completely precious cartoon feature film ever to emerge from the magical brushes of Walt Disney's wonder-working artists . . . a film you will never forget.—Bosley Crowther, New York Times.

The color of the picture, its technical facility in sound and sight, and above all the directorial boldness and assurance of narrative are as good as anything the Disney organization has ever produced. Therefore it is with extreme regret that this reviewer has to note a remarkable failure of the inventive imagination.—Archer Winsten, New York Post.

"YOU'LL NEVER GET RICH" (Columbia)

With Cole Porter music, sensible settings and a solid blend of comic nuances supplied by Guinn Williams, Donald McBride and Cliff Nazaro, "You'll Never Get Rich" is not only a triumphal return-piece for Astaire, but one of the brightest of the service pictures.—Robert W. Dana, New York Herald Tribune.

The material is exceptionally good for a musical comedy and, for the most part, except when army life is exaggerated for a reason, it is believable.—Wanda Hale, New York News.

A lightly diverting comedy with music has been fashioned around Fred Astaire.—New York Journal-American.

The film does sag in places and it rarely matches the better of the Astaire musicals. But it keeps monotony at a reasonable minimum, and with Robert Benchley to strew the script with sheepish gags and with Mr. Astaire and Miss Hayworth out in front most of the time, "You'll Never Get Rich" makes for a gay, lively and fanciful show.—New York Times.

A pleasant little musical . . . Fred Astaire dances at the peak of his form. Rita Hayworth is excellent as his latest dancing partner, and Robert Benchley amusing as the moneyed wretch in the romantic machinery. The Cole Porter score is merely adequate.—Newsweek.

"ALL THAT MONEY CAN BUY" (RKO)

A ticklish job for adaptation to the screen, it has been handled with skill and good humor by Producer-Director William Dieterle . . . definitely superior cinema.—Time.

Whether or not it clicks at the box-office, this 1936 Saturday Evening Post short story that won the O. Henry award is certain to prove an unusual experience for the critical moviegoer and add to the prestige of both RKO and William Dieterle, producer-director.—Newsweek.

A film so beguiling that the devil himself couldn't resist it.—Donald Kirkley, Baltimore Sun.

One of the year's outstanding achievements.—Gilbert Kanour, Baltimore Evening Sun.

A rare motion picture achievement . . . an absorbing novel and generally entertaining work.—Howard Barnes, New York Herald Tribune.

By all the signs and portents, it should be one of the best pictures of the year.—Bosley Crowther, New York Times.

The picture, under William Dieterle's direction, is beautifully made and finely acted by a cast that gave its best to the production. But the story is weighted with doom and is likely to have a depressing effect on a motion picture audience.—Kate Cameron, New York News.

Arbitration Cases Drop To 9 in Nov.

one at the Indianapolis tribunal, which was the first of record there. Two boards, Des Moines and Seattle, still have had no complaints.

Of 59 awards made by arbitrators to date, 32 have been in favor of exhibitor complainants and 27 have been in favor of distributor respondents. However, an appreciable number of cases which have been withdrawn prior to the making of awards involved voluntary settlements which gave complaining exhibitors some relief.

10 Appeals Decided

Of the 59 awards, 18 have been appealed and 10 decisions have been made by the appeals board. Of the latter, eight were in favor of distributors and two for exhibitors.

Only 20 of the 31 local boards have complaints pending. Of the 20, nine boards have only one case pending, leaving only 11 boards with more than one undisposed of. New York continues to lead in number of cases of record with a total of 27; Philadelphia is second with 14, and Washington third with 10.

E. M. Loew Files On Boston Clearance

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—The Boston arbitration boards' seventh complaint was filed yesterday by E. M. Loew's Strand, Boston, against Paramount, RKO, 20th Century-Fox and Warners.

The complaint seeks elimination of the seven days clearance over the Strand now held by the Rialto and a reduction to seven days of the 14 days clearance now held by the Bayliss over the Strand.

Crescent Decision Seen Before Xmas

won a dismissal from the case at the close of trial in September.

Attorneys reported that Judge Davies had informed them that his decision would be ready before he left Nashville for a Christmas vacation.

The final arguments today will present the unusual circumstance of a president of one company, Edward C. Raftery of United Artists, defending another company, Universal, in the action. Raftery was retained as counsel by Universal, as well as United Artists, long before his recent election to the presidency of the latter company. He will be the only New York counsel at today's hearing in Nashville as his associate, Benjamin Pepper of O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery, will be engaged here in preparation of briefs for the coming trial of the Government action against the Schine Circuit and the Little Three at Federal court in Buffalo.

BIG FOR NEW YEAR'S

RKO SERVICE CORPORATION
RKO BUILDING RADIO CITY

November 19, 1941

OFFICE OF THE
VICE-PRESIDENT IN CHARGE OF THEATRE OPERATIONS

Mr. Sam Goldwyn
7210 Santa Monica Blvd.
Los Angeles, Calif.

Dear Sam:

Having gone to Hollywood for the express purpose of looking at BALL OF FIRE and having seen it twice before audiences at sneak previews I want to repeat that I expect it to be one of the year's biggest box office attractions.

To back up that confidence I am happy to tell you that I have arranged for BALL OF FIRE to open in a large number of our theatres New Year's week. I cannot imagine a more suitable or profitable picture for that preferred playing time.

BALL OF FIRE has everything a fine picture should have - marvelous comedy and glorious romance. Gary Cooper is just as the public likes him best. Barbara Stanwyck has the best part in her brilliant career. In fact every member of the cast is perfect and needless to say the whole production reflects the good taste and high quality that we have come to expect in every Goldwyn picture.

I am glad to have seen you again and to have had the opportunity of looking at BALL OF FIRE. It is a grand show and great entertainment. I know that RKO can look forward to one of its biggest New Year's weeks.

Kind personal regards.

Sincerely yours,

Charles W. Koerner

U.S. Considers Priorities on Television Sets

the priority ratings, declared that reaction to the request is quite favorable and that he is "very hopeful." The plan calls for the release of materials to manufacturers for about 2,000 sets monthly. Additionally, there is a move afoot to induce the Government to purchase outright 10,000 receivers and to place them in strategic points in this city and other localities which have television transmitters.

Would Aid in Training

With telecasters cooperating by transmitting special defense programs, groups of civilians such as air raid wardens and similar defense organizations could gather at places where sets are installed and learn their duties en masse, it was stated.

Loewi places DuMont receiver sales since July 1, the date television was commercialized, at "slightly under 200." Recently, however, set sales have increased somewhat, Loewi said. He pointed out that many who would normally have purchased sets have refrained from doing so because they feared television would be forced off the air "for the duration" or that sets would be altered in the near future. The granting of priorities for television, however, would restore confidence and create a demand, according to Loewi.

Average 14 Hours Weekly

DuMont, which operates W2XWV as an experimental station, for the past two months has averaged about 14 hours of transmission weekly, he said. This has been on an irregular schedule, however, and has consisted mainly of test patterns and films. Last Thursday, a feature film was televised and Loewi is hopeful of setting up Thursday evenings as a regular night for programs as the first regular schedule for the station.

The station still operates on a temporary antenna and hopes for delivery from the manufacturer of a permanent antenna have just about disappeared, he said. DuMont will probably build its own. Outdoor mobile equipment is ready, Loewi said, although it will not be used until a full program schedule is begun.

RCA to Form New Firm for Blue Net

by the commission. However, the order may be reinstated at any time, and if that is done, NBC would be compelled to dispose of the Blue Network within six months thereafter.

The new corporation set up for the Blue web is expected to make a sale easier, as all assets and liabilities of each network will be completely separated.

When CBS disposed of its Artists Management Corp. recently, the fact that it was operated by a separate corporation made the sale easier to handle, while NBC, which had no such separate corporation, encountered many difficulties, and to date has failed to dispose of its artists bureau.

Off the Antenna

WITH other independent stations in the New York area increasing their wattage, WMCA is preparing a campaign based on FCC engineering data to prove the importance of dial position. Based on these figures, WMCA will urge that the "progressive loss of power through ground absorption of signal strength among stations higher up on the dial" gives WMCA's 5,000 watts, the equivalent of much greater strength at higher frequencies. Using statistics for non-directional antenna, WMCA points out that 5,000 watts at 570 kc., the WMCA frequency, is the equal of 480,000 watts at 1,600 kc.

Purely Personal: Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be featured speaker on "America's Town Meeting of the Air" over NBC-Blue Thursday. . . . Lily Pons will be guest on short wave stations WRCA and WBOS Wednesday during a Metropolitan Museum of Art lecture program devoted to opera. . . . Alfred Wallenstein, WOR conductor, has selected three of his musicians to lead the WOR Symphony Orchestra as guest conductors for programs in January. They are Milton Katime, Harry Farbman and Frederick Dvornch. . . . Joan Edwards has been chosen as vocalist on the CBS "Your Hit Parade."

An analysis of program material on W71NY, WOR's FM station, released over the weekend, reveals that only 5.4 per cent of its programs are the same as those of its parent station, WOR. The bulk of the material, 45.3 per cent, is high fidelity transcriptions. Mutual network programs not carried by WOR make up 29.6 per cent and W71NY originates 9.4 per cent on its own. The remaining 10.3 per cent is made up of recordings.

David O. Selznick will be guest on Kate Smith's noonday show tomorrow over CBS to receive the N. Y. Daily Mirror award as the "outstanding producer of motion pictures." Kenneth McCaleb, Sunday editor, will make the presentation and Selznick will be introduced by Miss Smith and Ted Collins, producer of the program.

Program News: Edwin C. Hill will take his program, "The Human Side of the News," heard over CBS, to the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers Wednesday and Friday for interviews with business men. . . . A series of six sustaining programs, "Defense and Your Dollar," prepared by the 20th Century Fund, will start over NBC-Blue Saturday 3-3:15 P.M. . . . Bristol-Myers has renewed for another 13 weeks the news commentary by Frank Bingham over the NBC-Red Pacific Coast and Mountain networks. . . . Arthur Tracy, whose "Street Singer" program was notable on the networks, will return to the air Jan. 5 on 23 NBC-Blue stations 4-4:15 P.M., sponsored by Ex Lax. . . . Dogs will be offered for adoption over NBC television in a new weekly series starting Wednesday at 8:45 P.M.

Rita Hayworth and Bob Hope will receive awards tonight from the Hollywood Photographers Association as the most cooperative screen performers of the year. Cecil B. DeMille will make the presentation over CBS during the "Lux Radio Theatre," 9-10 P.M.

House Hears FCC Official Pro-'Red'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Carrying his anti-Communism campaign to the floor of the House, Rep. Martin Dies of Texas asserted Friday that FCC Chairman James L. Fly had evaded the issue raised by the charge that Goodwin Watson, chief FCC broadcast analyst, is a "propagandist for Communism."

"I hold in my hand unimpeachable documents to establish the charge, and I intend to have a showdown with the chairman of the FCC as to the truth or untruth of this charge," Dies told the House.

"I further charge, and I now repeat, that Goodwin Watson has been a propagandist for Communism and the Soviet Union. I have Watson's disputed writings to prove the charge."

Fly "absolutely ignored" an offer to show him the evidence, Dies asserted, but replied to the charge by saying that he had made an inquiry and had found the charge baseless. "Instead of looking at our evidence," Chairman Fly wrote to me that Goodwin Watson is a man of 100 per cent American ancestry," Dies commented.

Producers to Get Allocation On Materials

longer be required to file individual applications for different essential material needs. The necessary forms are now being distributed, covering requirements for the first quarter of next year.

Steel-consuming industries already have been asked to report their needs for the metal for the first quarter of 1942. The needs of all industries will be totaled against the available supply, provision will be made for military needs and then, through the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board, specific quantities will be allocated to various consuming industries.

The allocations system, gradually extended to all commodities under restriction, is designed to eliminate the red tape and delays incident to the curbing of priority ratings which of themselves have lost value because they have been so generously distributed that instances have been uncovered where the top ratings alone called for more of a given commodity than was available.

The allocations to the several industries will be based upon their importance, first from the standpoint of defense and then from that of the public need, which means that the film industry will rank high.

Moskowitz, Brandt To 'Dimes' Meeting

See Failure of Minn. Law to Afford Relief

Theatre Plight Blamed On Consent Decree

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 1.—Intimations that the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law has failed to bring the relief expected of it to the State's independent exhibitors is contained in a message to members of Northwest Allied issued late last week by Fred Strom, executive secretary.

"Exhibitors of the nation, as well as of Minnesota," Strom wrote, "have the consent decree to thank for their present plight. In view of the inordinate earnings and profits of producer-distributors, no exhibitor need question any longer for whose benefit the consent decree was written. It

Arrest Nick Dean In Extortion Case

Nick Dean, associate of William Bioff and George E. Browne, was arrested yesterday in Chicago by FBI agents after a search since last July 9, the Department of Justice announced yesterday. Dean is under indictment with Louis Kaufman for allegedly extorting "upwards of $1,000,000" from the film industry.

Dean, also known as Nick Circella, is being flown from Chicago to New York, and is expected here this morning to face an arraignment in Federal Court. His apprehension is expected to speed the fixing of a date for his trial on the extortion charge.

According to the Government, Dean acted as agent for Bioff and Browne in the collection of tribute money from the film industry in local situations and particularly from Chicago theatre circuits. Kaufman is free on $15,000 bail.

Ascap's Distribution Drops To $2,700,000 This Year

Ascap's total distribution to publisher and writer members for 1941 will be about $2,700,000 as compared with $7,000,000 for 1940, Gene Buck, president, reported at the annual meeting at the Hotel Astor yesterday. The drop was occasioned by the "war" with the broadcasters which began Jan. 1.

Operating expenses of the organization increased from a yearly average of about $1,000,000 to $1,600,000 this year, Buck said, attributing the rise to the radio "war". Because of the settlement of the feud with all the networks and many of the stations, Buck expects to distribute between $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 from radio in 1942. Other revenue sources should bring the total to $5,000,000, he said.

Buck received a rising vote of confidence from most of the approximately 550 in the audience after he had explained his rejection of a $35,000 annuity offered him by a publisher group as an inducement to retire. Buck explained that he would not retire unless

Rafferty Reveals Decision For Both Companies

By JOHN SHUMAKER

Rafferty indicated that he regarded the main object of the meeting to be an attempt to formulate a system of distribution for use "after the consent decree is thrown out." It was believed that the two companies' decisions not to participate in the meeting was for that asserted reason.

Universal officials could not be reached for comment on Rafferty's statement late yesterday.

Clearance Verdict In Jersey Upheld By Appeals Board

A reduction to seven days of the 21-day clearance of the Cort Theatre, Somerville, N. J., over the Raritan Playhouse, Raritan, N. J., by Paul L. Fitzpatrick, arbitrator, at the Newark local board in September, was upheld on appeal in a decision handed down yesterday by the Appeal Board.

The original award, however, set seven days as the maximum "availability" for the Playhouse after the Cort, and the appeals board modified it by making the award read "clearance" instead of availability.

Of the original award, the board said: "The arbitrator filed an able analysis of the evidence. His findings are amply supported by the record. His conclusions from these findings are well reasoned and persuasive. We concur with him that seven days is a reasonable clearance between the Cort and the Playhouse."

The complaint involved Loew's, Paramount, Vitagraph and 20th Century-Fox, and the appeal was taken by the intervenor, Sompru Theatre Co., operator of the Cort. Costs were divided equally among the parties involved.

Four Buffalo Complaints

Four complaints were filed yesterday in Buffalo, all on phases of some run and clearance. They are: Ryan's Ithaca Theatre, Ithaca, naming the Strand, State and Temple theatres, on some run and clearance; Clyde Playhouse, Clyde, naming Schine's Capital, Newark, and the Ohman, Lyons, on clearance; Cuba Theatre, Cuba, charging the State, Palace and Haven, Olean, are favored, and the Astor Theatre, naming the New Family, Batavia. All consenting companies are named in all complaints, except 20th Century-Fox in the Batavia action.

Dallas Case Dismissed

A complaint dismissed at Dallas was the clearance case of B. R. McLendon, operator of the Texan and State theatres, Atlanta, Tex., against Loew's, RKO, 20th Century-Fox and Vitagraph. The Paramount-Richards' Strand and Paramount Theatres at Texarkana, Tex., were named as interested parties and the case attracted wide attention when E. V. Richards, head of Paramount-Richards Theatres, refused to submit to the proceeding. J. B. Adone was arbitrator.

Murphy Named Aide To Braden at AAA

James J. Murphy, former regional director for motion picture tribunals West of the Mississippi for the American Arbitration Association, yesterday was appointed assistant to the executive director, J. Noble Braden, and will be in charge of all tribunals throughout the country.

Samuel S. Perry, former Eastern regional director of the film tribunals, has been named a regional director of the AAA's defense program and will handle general commercial and industrial disputes.

The AA also announced that Harold D. Conners, St. Louis attorney, has been named clerk of the local board in that city, succeeding C. W. Hudson, resigned.

"Ball of Fire"

(Samuel Goldwyn-RKO)

SAMUEL GOLDWYN has compounded a highly entertaining motion picture from a comic romance which embodies as implausible a collection of characters and incidents as playwrights are likely to devise for as competent a producer in this or any other year.

It provides Gary Cooper with a role which theatregoers will compare with the best of his comedy portrayals, that of a young professor who is compiling a section on American slang for a new encyclopedia on which he is working with seven other professors. In his search for the latest in slang he is brought into contact with Barbara Stanwyck, as Sugar-puss O'Shea, night club singer, at the moment at which she is forced to hide out from the police to avoid questioning in the case involving the demise of a gangster.

Her boy friend is suspected of being a factor in the case. She takes refuge in the professional sanctum, maintained by a charitable foundation. In the four days she spends in the place engaged in aiding Cooper in his research work in slang, love blossoms and the guns of gangdom are unable to keep them apart thereafter.

A numerous and uniformly excellent cast contribute rich humor, moments of sentiment, incidents of suspense and even excitement, but never quite succeed in making themselves or their freak lives entirely plausible. However, the result is one that should provide a full measure of entertainment for all audiences and with it, profit for the exhibitor. Outstanding is Howard Hawks' direction, the performances of Cooper and Miss Stanwyck, those of Richard Hayden, as the gangster; Dan Duryea and Ralph Peters as his aides, Allen Jenkins and the six professors.

Running time, 107 mins. "G."*

"The Body Disappears"

(Warners)

THE novelty of bodies dissolving on the screen through the use of camera tricks is employed in "The Body Disappears," and the film is dependent to a large degree on that device for its comedy.

The general production effort is creditable, especially in the amusing performances of Edward Everett Horton and Willie Best. Jeffrey Lynn and Jane Wyman are the top names in the cast. Lynn's is the body of the title and although heard a good deal he is seldom seen. D. Ross Lederman directed, Bryan Foy was associate producer and Ben Stoloff associate producer.

The yarn is light but serves adequately, telling of the college professor (Horton), whose serum restores life to the dead, and his experiences with the wealthy benedict-to-be (Lynn). The patient, who at the outset was intoxicated and not dead, is revived but suddenly disappears. He thereupon goes about as the invisible man, learns that his fiancée is interested only in his wealth, meets the professor's daughter (Miss Wyman), and romance blossoms.

Horton, who must administer an antidote within a certain time to Lynn, is suspected by his colleagues of suffering a mental disturbance and is taken to an institution. Lynn and Miss Wyman, who also takes it in the arm and is unseen thereafter, release him after some harum-scarum sequences. Horton proves his sanity and the efficacy of his serum when Lynn and Miss Wyman are returned to physical being. Best is Horton's frightened assistant.

Running time, 72 minutes. "G."*

"Sealed Lips"

(Universal)

FRESHNESS of idea distinguishes this melodrama of crime, detection and journalism from the welter of product exploiting these three institutions of topical melodrama. Seed of the story is a situation, suspected at the start of the picture and verified subsequently, which has a notorious gangster who is completing a prison sentence turn out to be in fact a double coerced into serving the time for the criminal, who has continued his nefarious activities meanwhile without interruption from the police. The idea is worked out adroitly with such angles as fingerprinting and other expedients of identification effectively taken care of.

Players in the film are John Littel, doubling as gangster and prisoner, William Gargan as the detective, June Clyde as the girl reporter, Anne Nagel, Mary Gordon, Ralf Harolde, Joe Crehan, Addison Richards, Russell Hicks, Ed Stanley and many others rounding out a cast which performs ably for the most part, but shakily in some instances.

George Wagner, accountable for the original screenplay from which the film derives its chief strength, also directed the picture. Jack Bernhard was associate producer.

Running time, 62 minutes. "G."*

B'way Weekend Is Strong; 'Suspicion,' 'Flying' Out Front

The new Abbott and Costello comedy, "Keep 'Em Flying," at the Criterion, is repeating the box-office performance of their previous screen effort, "In the Navy." Leading the Broadway parade, the picture brought an estimated $17,900 since its opening Wednesday, through Sunday. This is about equal to the "In the Navy" business.

Broadway generally had a good weekend with holdover films dominating. Three pictures are now in a second week will be held over for a third. These are "Skylark" at the Paramount, "Suspicion" at the Radio City Music Hall, and "They Died With Their Boots On" at the Strand. "How Green Was My Valley" at the Rivoli goes into a sixth week tomorrow, while "Swamp Water" starts a fourth week Saturday at the Globe.

'Purchase' Opens Dec. 31

The Paramount has already set its New Year's Eve show. The show, which is the first ever to open on Dec. 31, will include the Bob Hope-Vera Zorina musical, "Louisiana Purchase," with Gene Krupa's band on the stage.

"Suspicion" with a stage show drew an estimated $57,000 Thursday through Sunday and starts its third week Thursday. "They Died With Their Boots On" with Woody Herman's orchestra grossed an estimated $24,600 Thursday through Sunday and also starts a third week Thursday. The second week of "Skylark" with Harry James' orchestra and Ray Bolger ends tonight with an estimated $43,000 expected.

'Belong to Me' Big

A new film, Columbia's "You Belong To Me" with a stage show at the Roxy, went over big with an estimated $26,800 for its first three days beginning Friday. The picture will play only one week in spite of this, to be succeeded on Friday by "Rise and Shine."

"How Green Was My Valley" garnered an estimated $13,600 Friday through Sunday. The Saturday and Sunday business at the Globe with "Swamp Water" amounted to an estimated $3,800. "A Date With the Falcon" finished a week's run at the Rialto with an estimated $4,200 and was replaced yesterday by "A Kid from Kansas."

The Music Hall has booked Columbia's "The Men in Her Life," starring Loretta Young, to open Dec. 11.

Counsel Make Final Pleas in Crescent Case

tant to the U. S. Attorney General today filed the Government's reply brief to the defendant exhibitors' brief, and announced the reply brief to defendant distributors' brief, filed Nov. 25, would be filed Dec. 10. Judge Davies has announced he hopes to render a verdict by the last week of December.

Wright today charged both defendant distributors and exhibitors with being at fault in the elimination of independent competition.

Charges 'One-Way Deal'

He described as "strictly a one way proposition" the alleged practice of distributors in negotiating for film contracts with independent exhibitors at the same time they were negotiating with Crescent for a circuit deal to include the towns in which the independents operated.

"The distributor," Wright said, "has everything to gain and nothing to lose by holding out the hope of a film contract to the independent when actually there is no hope if the distributor and the circuit get together."

Willard McKay, counsel for the Schine Circuit, whose anti-trust trial is expected to begin in February, was present for the arguments.

Raftery's Argument

Edward C. Raftery, president of United Artists and counsel for U. A. and Universal, insisted that a film franchise, per se, is a legal instrument.

The distributor, he said, has a real stake in making a franchise. A franchise may assure an outlet for films and it may help a distributor to establish an exhibitor in a position against another exhibitor, he said. The distributor, he said, wants to contract for more than a year's product.

Declaring the Government was attacking merely the right of selection of customers, Raftery asserted U.A.'s output was only five per cent of the total films produced by the eight majors and asked, "How could we be a party even to substantial restraint of interstate trade?"

Arguments Based on Briefs

The arguments of Raftery and J. D. Mosby, of Nashville, also of U.A. and Universal counsel, were almost exclusively based on their brief filed last week.

Mosby declared that "time and time again" independents admitted on the stand that Universal and U.A. sold them films on satisfactory terms. U.A.'s 63 and 71-situation blanket deals with Crescent, he said, were made for "perfectly proper commercial reasons."

Two cases of alleged discrimination by U.A. and one by Universal brought the comment from Mosby that these "isolated, sporadic and doubtful cases can't be sued either to set up intent to conspire or conspiracy."

Allen A. Dobey delivered the longer argument on behalf of the Government. He commented that the defense in the course of the trial had dismissed as "Tennessee horse trading"

Congressman Demands Withdrawal of Garbo Film

duction of the film "must be considered as an affront to the Congress of the United States."

The column, "In the News," in the New York Journal-American, which is understood to reflect the personal opinion of William Randolph Hearst, yesterday was devoted to the controversy. The editorial declares that there is no reason why films should be made that are subject to criticism, calls "indecent the last refuge of incompetence," and scores the screen additionally for the alleged misrepresentation of newspaper people on the screen.

The Catholic Interest Committee of the Knights of Columbus in Manhattan and the Bronx has protested against the film and denounced it as degrading entertainment. The New York State Council, K. of C., has protested to Will Hays.

Ohio, N. Y. Approve

The Ohio censor board passed the film with the elimination of only one line of dialogue, while the New York State censor board approved it without change. Irwin Esmond, New York's censor chief, declared no changes were deemed necessary.

The Providence Journal censured the police censor there for using Legion ratings as a basis for banning the film, and called for revision of the censorship system in Providence. Declaring that a degree of censorship is necessary, the paper urged that police power no longer be exercised on the basis of the opinion of a "sectarian organization." The newspaper proposes a panel of representative members of the community, upon which the police inspectors can call before arriving at a decision in the case of a doubtful film.

A statement condemning the film was read in all Catholic churches in evidence of alleged Crescent practices in acquiring theatres. "They were not horse trading," Dobey said, "because Crescent could afford to operate at a loss in any situation up to three years. They possessed circuit buying power in the contracting for films, and the independent exhibitors could get only those pictures the defendants did not want."

The Government's reply brief stated that exhibitor defendants "concede that they have intentionally monopolized exhibition in a wide area" and declared, "the result of this elimination, a collection of affiliated theatre-operating monopolies in over 55 towns, is not open to dispute, although the defendants seriously urge that this method of arbitrarily fixing the price and character of the only motion picture entertainment available to more than a quarter of a million people is outside the reach of the Federal anti-monopoly statute."

Pathe Film Dissolved

ALBANY, Dec. 1.—Pathe Film Corp. has filed papers of voluntary dissolution with the Secretary of State. The move followed competition of a deal with Du Pont Film Mfg. Co.

Indianapolis on Sunday, on orders of the Archbishop of the local diocese, and similar action was taken in churches in the Richmond diocese. In Newark the Archdiocesan Federation of Holy Name Societies adopted a resolution directing members to contact theatre managers to voice the organization's protest against the film. The film has not yet been shown in Newark.

The city motion picture commission in Milwaukee scrutinized the film closely, and ordered a portion deleted, but did not prevent the film opening at the Fox Wisconsin late last week. Exhibitors there have agreed to the request of Mayor Carl F. Zeidler that the commission be permitted to see doubtful films before they are shown to the public.

Denounced in Philadelphia

The Archdiocese in Philadelphia will take no official notice of protests against the film, which was denounced—but approved—by the Pennsylvania censor board. The film was denounced by some of the clergy on Sunday.

At the regular monthly meeting of Methodist ministers in Philadelphia, Rev. T. W. McKinney of Germantown denounced the distribution of heralds in local churches by the Orpheum Theatre urging attendance at the film, "One Foot in Heaven," charging it is a subterfuge to induce church people to attend the theatre. However, no resolution was adopted, and only a reference was made to the Garbo picture.

becomes Eastern division chief, succeeding Connors.

Rodgers plans to remain here until tomorrow for conferences with district managers. He said he plans to return here for the all-industry meeting Dec. 9.

M-G-M's percentage policy is meeting with approval of exhibitors, Rodgers stated. He said that his experience has proved that once the basis for percentage is established with the exhibitor, he favors the sliding scale plan because it makes him more or less an M-G-M "partner," cashing in on the bigger profits if the picture is successful and having to pay a lower percentage if it is not.

Quebec Church Ban On 'Theatre' Music

OTTAWA, Dec. 1.—Cardinal Villeneuve on Saturday issued an edict banning the playing or singing in Roman Catholic institutions in Quebec Diocese of music "composed in a profane style, or which is reminiscent of theatre motifs."

The edict was based on the report of the Diocesan Sacred Music Commission, and the announcement stated that all colleges, convents, schools and other diocesan institutions must abide by the report of the commission.

Prohibited selections are: Wagner's "Lohengrin Wedding March"; Mendelssohn's Wedding March from "A Midsummer Night's Dream"; Schubert's "Ave Maria"; Faure's "The Palms"; Granier's "Hosanna"; Gounod's "Nazareth"; Verdi's "Agnus Dei"; and "Le Crucifix."

The plan, presented at a recent meeting, was described by Allied members as a step in the right direction for the institutional merchandising of the theatre.

It will be a paid program, the plan calling for all Allied theatres here to share in the cost. Complete details probably will be worked out at the next general meeting.

"For the first time," Kirsch said, "we plan to sell theatre seats, which are merely saleable merchandise, by using radio—the theatre's natural enemy."

The show will be under the direction of Harry K. Smythe of the Craig Dennison agency, and it is planned to use one hour a day, six days a week, over Chicago's new radio station WAIT, with Bill Anson, a popular Chicago radio entertainer, as master of ceremonies. It will embrace music, film reviews, Hollywood gossip, and promotional features designed to produce box-office demand. A complete selling campaign to merchandise Allied Theatres is planned as part of the new radio show.

Members of Allied will participate in the show at their own discretion, but it is reported that with the opening broadcast, on or about Dec. 15, the idea will have practically 100 per cent Allied representation.

Revocation of the permit is provided for in event of non-compliance with city regulations. A bond must be posted to cover possible damages.

The closing, and that this should be remedied promptly.

Saying that he had received information that another reason for the closing had been a question about "the moral tone" of the play, Dullzell pointed out that it has been playing for a year on Broadway, a road company is operating and another is in the process of organization. "A further ironical comment on this objection," said Dullzell, "is furnished by the fact that the New York City School Theatre Program set up by Alfred Harding, Equity's editor, who also worked with Bert Lytell on the army entertainment program, is this very afternoon offering 'My Sister Eileen' to 900 high school students at the request of the schools themselves."

Lawrence Phillips, executive vice-president of Camp Shows, denied flatly that any censorship by his own organization or the Army was involved. He said the play required a two-story set which some camp theatres could not accommodate and it was decided to substitute another play.

RCA Theatre Television Off For Emergency

RCA, which demonstrated large screen theatre television to the industry last May, has virtually abandoned plans for installation of these receivers in theatres during the period of the emergency, it was said yesterday.

The principal reason given was the lack of engineering talent required for such installations. Most engineers are vitally needed in defense work, it was pointed out, and it is difficult to obtain a sufficient number even for existing services.

Nick Dean, also known as Nick Cirella, a former representative of George E. Browne when the latter was IATSE president, was held in $25,000 bail yesterday by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard. Dean interposed a plea of not guilty to the extortion indictment returned against him and Louis Kaufman, business agent of the Newark operators' local of the IA, in which Browne and William Bioff are also named as co-conspirators although the latter two were not named in this indictment.

U. S. Attorney Mathias F. Correa asked Judge Goddard to stipulate that union funds were not to be used for the posting of bail, as was done in the case of the $50,000 bail for Browne and Bioff and Dean's attorney agreed. Up to the time of closing of court yesterday, the bail had not been posted.

At Correa's request, the trial date was set for Jan. 6 but it was indicated later that there is little likelihood that the U. S. Attorney will be ready to proceed on that date.

"All Through the Night"

(Warners)

A MELODRAMA of the moment, with violence, murders, fights, plots, counter-plots, mugs, thugs, and, finally, Nazi fifth columnists, this Jerry Wald production directed by Vincent Sherman presents Humphrey Bogart as a New York racketeer who becomes a front-page hero by turning his underworld talents and associates to the business of outfitting saboteurs who plot to sink an American battleship on New York's doorstep. The picture has a world of gusto, a wealth of complications, lengths of slang dialogue and a maximum of conflict and struggle.

Seen with Bogart are Conrad Veidt as the Nazi chieftain, Kaaren Verne as a girl in his power, Jane Darwell, Frank McHugh, Peter Lorre, Judith Anderson, William Demarest, Jackie C. Gleason, Phil Silvers, Wally Ford, Barton MacLane, Ed Brophy and a dozen other dependables.

The Nazi aspect is come upon about midway in the screenplay by Leonard Spiegelgass and Edwin Gilbert, from a story by Spiegelgass and Leonard Q. Ross, although its work has complicated the hero's existence prior to that. It's a neat trick of development and goes far toward offsetting a running-time which requires a lot of story.

Not to be confused with the everyday anti-Nazi film, nor the everyday metropolitan gangster melodrama, the production is timely, off the beaten track and is fast, save for some speeches.

Running time, 105 minutes. "G."*

"You're In the Army Now"

(Warners)

TWO more zanies, this time Jimmy Durante and Phil Silvers, find themselves enrolled in the U. S. Army and make a shambles of discipline and regulations with their antics. It is all good fun of the tried and true slapstick variety and should please the cash customers, although the comedy bogs down on occasion.

Mainly, though, the slapstick keeps moving along and includes such items as the rookie losing his clothes because they are too large; a tank running wild with Durante at the controls; an innocent visit to the target end of a rifle range; a house being dragged through the streets by a tank while the occupants think an earthquake has struck; the same house teetering on the edge of a cliff after an accidental explosion of shells has blasted away the foundation; officers trying to make speeches after a rookie has dropped alum in the lemonade; salesmen littering up the house in an effort to sell vacuum cleaners, and similar items all done before but still good for laughs.

There is little to the plot. Durante and Silvers, two salesmen, try to sell a recruiting sergeant a cleaner, but wind up as enlistees. They find Jane Wyman as the colonel's daughter (Donald McBride is the colonel) and she asks their aid to convince her father to submit to mechanization of his outfit. Both Miss Wyman and Durante are heard in songs. Others in the cast include Regis Toomey, George Meeker, Joseph Sawyer and William Haade. Lewis Seiler deserves credit for the direction so ably suited to a comedy of this type. Ben Stoloff was associate producer.

Running time, 79 minutes. "G."*

"Steel Against the Sky"

(Warners)

ANOTHER in a series of productions extolling the exploits of those whose dangerous day-by-day labor makes modern-day civilization possible. "Steel Against the Sky" tells the tale of men who build bridges. In it, A. Edward Sutherland, who directed, scores a smash climax with a sequence showing what happens when a derrick breaks loose on top of a half-completed bridge during a driving snow storm.

The fury of the winds, the danger lurking in every step on the ice-coated girders and the tremendous force of the loose derrick swinging in the gale are presented with breath-taking dramatic impact and are likely to be remembered as one of best sequences of its kind.

Unfortunately, however, some weak comedy makes up the early part of the film and prevents the plot from getting off to a faster start. The story concerns itself with three brothers, Lloyd Nolan, Edward Brophy and Craig Stevens, who live with their crippled father, Edward Ellis, and follow the trade he taught them, bridge building. Stevens, the youngest, is not of much account until he falls in love with Alexis Smith, whom Nolan also loves. Stevens and Nolan vie for her attentions and a serious family quarrel starts, but it is settled during the storm sequence and Stevens wins Miss Smith. Walter Catlett, as a "professor" constantly working on his worthless inventions, is responsible for the comedy. Edmund Grainger was associate producer.

Running time, 68 minutes. "G."*

Pizor in Complaint; Dismiss D.C. Case

An arbitration complaint on clearance was filed at the Philadelphia arbitration board by Lewen Pizor, exhibitor organization leader, on behalf of his Tioga Theatre, yesterday, while a Washington complaint was dismissed and one was withdrawn in Chicago.

Second Complaint

Pizor filed a clearance complaint last July on behalf of the Tioga, naming Warners, Paramount and 20th Century-Fox, which was subsequently withdrawn, following a reported settlement. The new clearance complaint names only Paramount and charges that the distributor ordinarily gives the competing Warner Strand 30 to 40 days clearance over the Tioga. It asks an award fixing the maximum clearance of the Strand at 14 days over the Tioga. The Keystone and Great Northern theatres are named as interested parties.

The Chicago case withdrawn was that of the Ogden Theatre, operated by Ben Cooney and Harold McFarland. It named all five consenting companies and alleged unreasonable clearance in favor of the Marshall Square Theatre. A settlement was reported to have been reached.

Linden Loses Case

At Washington, Milton W. King, arbitrator, dismissed the clearance complaint of the Linden Theatre, Baltimore, against Warners, Paramount and RKO, holding that the plaintiff had failed to uphold his contention that the 14 days clearance granted the Met Theatre over the Linden is unreasonable. James Hayes and Robert Sher, former assistants to the U. S. Attorney General, who aided in the drafting of the consent decree, were counsel for the plaintiff in the case.

"The Vanishing Virginian"

(M-G-M)

HERE is a picture of unusual charm; the charm of friendly, civilized people and their kindly way of life; the nostalgic charm of beliefs, traditions and loyalties of the days that are past but whose passing has enriched and endeared them in the memories of many. And it is a picture which because of its substance, its lack of marquee glamor names and its unrevealing title challenges every exhibitor who plays it to get from it the rich rewards which are there waiting for real showmen. It will pay off only in proportion to the exhibitor's ability to realize what he has in it and to communicate that realization to potential customers. Whatever the effort in this respect, the picture merits it and the exhibitor expending it seems destined to meet pleased patrons and new patrons.

There is in it no story that submits to critical analysis. It is an account of the days and the years of a family of Virginians of a generation ago. The love of the parents, Frank Morgan and Spring Byington, and the long professional career of Morgan as public prosecutor in Lynchburg, Va., provide continuity rather than story and plot.

Despite the absence of an easily recognized, standard plot, the picture is not episodic, at least, no more consciously episodic than everyday life. The family members are well-drawn characters who catch and hold audience interest, who succeed in making you care what happens to them this year and the next and the one after that. Wisely, Frank Borzage's direction has seen to it that not all that happens are high spots. He has caught the uneven tenor of family life, the humdrum as well as the joys, the sorrows and the loves. Yet scenes like the funeral of the old, colored family retainer, a rescue of children at play from an enraged bull, a family gathering on a porch-front at dusk, a reunion after father's defeat at the polls, and many others for their sheer human essence must catch and hold the sentiments of many.

Kathryn Grayson, Natalie Thompson, Juanita Quigley, Scotty Beckett and Dickie Jones are uniformly appealing as the children. Lehigh Whipper, as the colored retainer, does an outstanding characterization. Louise Beavers is good as his wife. Lesser parts are capably handled. Edwin Knopf produced.

eliminations in 111 films the previous year.

Statutory reasons were: indecent, 241; inhuman, 35; tending to incite to crime, 18; immoral or tending to corrupt morals, 195, and sacrilegious, 14.

Reduction in rejections and eliminations was due, Esmond said, in part to frequent conferences between his division and license applicants, as well as with producers and exhibitors, whereby it was possible to suggest a plan of revision of pictures in order to relieve them of objections under the statute.

Record Receipts in Year

Gross receipts of the division for the year ending June 30, 1941, were the greatest in the 20-year history of the censor board. The income totaled $316,095 for the 12 months, as against $311,800 the preceding year. Expenditures were up to $68,418 as contrasted with $63,877, with a net revenue to the state of $247,677 against $247,922 for 1939-'40.

Since the board's inception Aug. 1, 1921, to June 30, 1941, the state has received $4,710,170, expending a total of $1,446,521, with net revenue of $3,263,648. The revenue is derived chiefly from a charge of $3 per reel on originals and $2 per reel on prints.

From 22 Countries

Although foreign pictures dropped sharply, Esmond reported the same number of foreign countries, 22, was represented, although they were not always the same countries. Foreign-made pictures reviewed were from: Great Britain and its possessions, Germany, France, China, Mexico, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Sweden, Hungary, Russia, Italy, Finland, Ireland, Spain, Austria, Argentina, Norway, Cuba, Greece, Palestine, Puerto Rico and Siam.

"Babes on Broadway"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Dec. 2

WHEN the title-card reading "Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland in—" flashed on the screen of the Alexander Theatre in Glendale the paying guests shrieked their delight. When the next title-card announced "Babes on Broadway" they screamed anticipation of the entertainment to come and settled into their seats in a hush of expectancy. Thereafter they alternated between chuckles, howls, bursts of applause and stretches of restlessness, punctuated by a couple of touches of weeping, indicating by their behavior at the end that a lot of entertainment, perhaps even a bit too much, had been witnessed.

It is a sort of omnibus-type property that M-G-M has fabricated for its No. 1 Star and his No. 10 associate (their rankings in last year's Motion Picture Herald-Fame poll) and the picture is, as is typical of its kind, very, very good in the good spots and quite to the contrary in the bad ones. It is great stuff when the entertainers are entertaining individually, dually and collectively, in songs, dances, impersonations and satires, and it is, perhaps in part by contrast, extraordinarily inept in the narrative stretches between these numbers.

The story with which the players are occupied between musical numbers is another variant of the tale about people who want to stage a show but lack funds. Fred Finkelhoffe and Blaine Ryan, who wrote it, devised a number of switches and angles, some good and some hard to take, but whatever virtue or cost there may be in audience recognition can be counted on to manifest itself.

The names, as listed, are Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, Fay Bainter, Virginia Weidler, Ray McDonald, Richard Quine, Donald Meek, Alexander Woollcott, Luis Alberni, James Gleason, Emma Dunn, Frederick Burton, Cliff Clark and William Post, Jr.

Rooney, top man in a trio which includes McDonald and Quine, supplies half a dozen sparkling sessions of song and dance, topping them and himself with a burlesque of Carmen Miranda which had the customers screaming.

McDonald twice takes over complete command of camera and set, soloing in two dances—one of them interrupted three times by audience applause—which establish him alongside Fred Astair and Ray Bolger.

It is as a musical, of course, that showmen will be exploiting the attraction and in doing so they are warranted in going the limit. They can say, for instance, that the picture contains 15 musical numbers, among them some of the best they've ever seen, and they can promise that Busby Berkeley, director of the picture, has seen it to that all of his past experience in the field of dance direction is reflected in the enterprise.

Produced by Arthur Freed, manifestly with complete liberty as to budget, the picture is strong enough in music and in solo performances to be forgiven its story.

Running time, 118 minutes. "G."*

"Dr. Kildare's Victory"

(M-G-M)

A NEW love in the person of Ann Ayars enters the life of "Dr. Kildare" to fill the spot made vacant by the "death" of Laraine Day in the previous issue in this series. While it may take some time for Miss Ayars to win the affection in the hearts of the audiences which Miss Day achieved over a period of time and many pictures, Miss Ayars gives every indication that she is entirely capable of filling the spot.

At least for Miss Ayars' first picture in the series, Lew Ayers pays little attention to her wiles, apparently still mourning the death of his former sweetheart. Cast as a debutante glamour girl, Miss Ayars is brought to the hospital with a piece of glass piercing her heart. After a successful operation by Ayers (with Lionel Barrymore on the sidelines explaining what takes place), she has a rapid recovery and promptly falls in love with her doctor.

The picture ranks well up with the rest of the series. A fellow-interne (Robert Sterling) of Kildare's is dismissed for violating a rule which required him to bring Miss Ayars to another hospital because of a territorial division between the two institutions. Sterling plans to go ahead with his marriage to Jean Rogers, a nurse, but the latter is also dismissed when she sends away a patient in observance of the same rule. Finally, Barrymore and Ayers succeed in planting a story of the episode in the newspapers and a more humanitarian rule is effected, together with the reinstatement of Sterling and Miss Rogers. Alma Kruger, Walter Kingsford, Nell Craig, Edward Gargan, Marie Blake, Frank Orth and George H. Reed are among the rest of the cast. Major W. S. Van Dyke II directed.

Chief Judge Learned Hand overruled the argument of the defendants that Section 23 of the copyright law covering renewal rights granted this right to an employer only when the latter had contributed some of the creative work.

Leo J. Rosett, attorney for the plaintiff, stated yesterday that it was the first determination by a Federal court on the question of ownership renewal rights to a song.

represents defendants Louis Rosenbaum, Mrs. Nettie Sudekum and Muscle Shoals Theatres.

He attacked the "theoretical question" of Allen A. Dobby of Government counsel in final argument yesterday: "Can an independent buy against a circuit?" Dobby's question, Mitchell said, is a "contractual question."

He maintained that reputable independent exhibitors can and have bought films successfully "against a circuit," and cited the case of his own client, Rosenbaum, who before 1920 moved into a substantial Arkansas town, built a good independent theatre business, and within five years a competing circuit theatre and another independent had left rather than Rosenbaum.

The final arguments, continuing for a second day, made little headway as most of the day was taken up by another proceeding before Federal Judge Elmer Davies, the trial judge.

Universal and United Artists today filed a supplemental brief in which they declared the Government, in its argument yesterday, made no serious effort to controvert any of the distributors' findings of fact, on file since Oct. 15.

"Only by innuendo and assertion of fact without factual basis, from which it draws wholly unjustifiable inferences," the brief declared, "does the Government seek to meet these facts and to establish its theory of liability, whatever that may be.

"It is elementary that difficulty of proof is no substitute for proof; nor do suspicious circumstances constitute proof. Furthermore, the proof as to intent or as to the fact of conspiracy is dependent wholly upon circumstantial evidence."

eight cents per receiving set for the Society and one cent a set for BMI, based on coverage of individual stations. The CPRS is an affiliate of Ascop.

It is understood that both music organizations will drop their application to the Copyright Appeal Board for permission to increase the broadcasting fees but will still ask a higher fee for "juke" boxes and portable film projectors.

Sedgwick intimated that the agreement between the radio and music interests was reached voluntarily because of the Government stabilization plan freezing wages, retail prices and theatre admissions, as a war measure.

Greene, Revel Form Music Unit With BMI

In the first major move to obtain Hollywood song writing talent for BMI, that organization announced yesterday that Mort Greene and Harry Revel have formed a publishing firm in partnership with BMI.

Although the exact stock ownership of the new company, which will be called Greene & Revel, Inc., was not revealed, it is understood that BMI will own 50 per cent, with the remainder divided between the two writers. The company will specialize in the publishing of film scores, although music from other sources will be used.

The move is expected to aid considerably the exploitation of songs from films over the air. The first five songs to be published will be from the RKO picture, "Call Out the Marines." These songs will be "Be-ware," "Zana Zaranda," "Hands Across the Border," "The Light of My Life Went Out Last Night" and "Call Out the Marines."

Both Ascop Members

Although both Greene and Revel are Ascop members, the radio-music consent decree permits them to grant direct licenses to stations, provided that Ascop receives whatever money is paid for such direct license. The form the arrangement is expected to take is that all Ascop licensees will be permitted to perform the songs under their existing licenses while BMI stations will get direct licenses without charge so that no further payment to Ascop will be required. Since the music of other writers, not necessarily Ascop members, also will be published by the new firm, some of the songs will be exclusively BMI. Promotion offices will be opened in Chicago and New York, as well as Hollywood, it was said.

NBC to Revise Beer Sponsorship Policy

A basic revision of NBC program policies concerning the acceptability of sponsors selling beer or cathartics is in preparation and may be released over the weekend, it was reported yesterday. The revision is expected to state clearly what has already been accomplished in fact—that such business is acceptable.

Some speculation exists, however, on the question of the acceptability of this type of business on NBC's Red network. NBC-Blue has recently accepted business from Ballantine Beer & Ale and Ex-Lax, Inc. Although desirable time on the Red is sold out

Theatres Ask Probe Of Demand by Union

The League of New York Theatres has asked State Attorney General Bennett to investigate a demand by the United Scenic Artists of America that a scene painter be employed continuously during the run of a play. The union plans a referendum which would provide such terms in theatre contracts.

Pleas End, Crescent Case Goes to Judge

By JOHN SHUMAKER

NASHVILLE, Dec. 3.—United Artists and Universal Film Exchanges shared the brunt of the Government's closing argument in the Crescent anti-trust case today, as Robert L. Wright, special assistant to the U. S. Attorney General, asked Federal Judge Elmer Davies not to let the two distributors go free.

Judge Davies took the case under advisement this afternoon after a total hearing of nearly eight weeks.

A decree holding both in violation of the Sherman Act should be entered, Wright declared. Columbia, third of the "Little Three" defendants, was dismissed during the trial last Summer.

The Government's case as to Universal and United Artists is admittedly narrow and is based, in the case of U. A., on alleged discrimination at Rogersville Tenn., and Athens, Ala., and 63 and 71-situation deals with Crescent. The Government holds that Universal discriminated in film

Review

"Paris Calling"

(Universal)

MELODRAMA concerning the underground activities in France of a group of French patriots whose every effort is designed in opposition to the Nazis, this film has pace, movement and suspense to recommend it as first-rate entertainment.

The implausibility of certain situations and the conclusion tend to detract from the effectiveness of the melodrama, but in general the story is well told and well acted. As produced by Benjamin Glazer and directed by Edwin L. Marin, the film has been given ample production values, speed and excitement. Its timeliness, with much made of the "V" for Victory symbol, should be of value in selling the film.

Elizabeth Bergner plays the fiance of Basil Rathbone, Frenchman who turns out to be in league with the Nazis after the occupation of Paris. When her mother is killed in a merciless strafing of French refugees, Miss Bergner joins the underground movement. She meets Randolph Scott, American flier with the RAF, who is left behind in the evacuation of France, and is pursued by the Nazis.

Assigned to trap Rathbone, she contrives to obtain his papers, kills him and escapes to send the information to England via secret short-wave, using piano notes for code transmission. Scott, meanwhile, escapes the Gestapo to come to her aid. An RAF unit of Marines in a transport plane reaches the seaport town in time to effect a rescue of all concerned.

Running time, 95 minutes. "G."*

'Pulham' Has Double Opening in Boston

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—The double world premiere of M-G-M's "H. M. Pulham, Esq." was held here tonight at Loew's State and Orpheum theatres following a full day of preliminaries which garnered plenty of space in local papers.

The premiere audience was headed by Governor Saltonstall of Massachusetts. Robert Young, star of the film, and J. P. Marquand, author of the story, made personal appearances at both theatres.

Prominent in the audience, which included Boston's elite, were many members of Harvard's class of 1915, chief objects of Marquand's ridicule in the story. The picture was well received by local critics.

Resume Paper Sale As Writ Is Granted

The seven New York newspapers involved in the newsdealer dispute went back on the stands yesterday as a temporary injunction restraining the Newsdealers Federal Union from continuing its boycott was granted by Supreme Court Justice Edward R. # 1/2% Slash In British Quota Is Proposed

The quota for the war period, because of the difficulties of maintaining production, due mainly to the shortage of technicians and other workers.

However, production groups and some labor representatives opposed any reduction in the quotas, and had none on record as favoring maintenance of the existing quota percentages for the next three years.

The Board of Trade's new percentages return the quota to the status it had in 1938 when the quota law went into effect. The 10-year law provides for graduated increases in the exhibitor and distributor percentages up to a maximum of 22 1/2 per cent for exhibitors and 27 1/2 per cent for distributors.

tion to help solve the Minnesota product difficulties.

Meanwhile, independent exhibitors here assert that terms asked by major distributors for new product are prohibitive and say that some theatres have only two weeks' product supply on hand.

The situation is described as probably more acute than it was a month ago before four of the five consenting companies obtained authorization from the Federal court to resume selling in Minnesota. Few deals, they say, have been closed since selling began.

NBC to Revise Policy on Beer Sponsorship

almost solidly, the new policy statement is expected to clarify the situation as to both webs. NBC has always taken the position that cathartic sponsors who were on the network before the adoption of the policies would be permitted to continue indefinitely, but new business of this type was turned down. As for beer, it was accepted locally by NBC-owned stations but not on the network.

What Manual Says

At present, according to NBC's "Working Manual for Continuity Acceptance," unacceptable business includes "cathartics, including foods or beverages advertised for their value as cathartics. Also products generally known and used exclusively as cathartics, even when cathartic references are not made in broadcast advertising copy." Also: "Alcoholic beverages may not be advertised on any network program."

The National Association of Broadcasters' code bans neither product. "Hard" liquor is proscribed, as is "continuity which describes, repellently, any functions or symptomatic results of disturbances, or relief granted such disturbances through use of any product."

CBS Policy Cited

The CBS "New Policies" states, in part, "many people prefer not to hear such advertising over the radio, regardless of the excellence of the program. The reason for this viewpoint is obvious; radio broadcasting is heard by mixed and assorted groups of all kinds, in the home, in restaurants, and in public meeting places. In certain groups a listener may find it distasteful to hear a discussion of some subject which under other circumstances he finds wholly fitting and proper. Similarly, we realize that the personal and often intimate quality of the human voice, radio's medium of presenting its sponsors' messages, forbids discussing subjects on the air in a manner which might be wholly acceptable when read in type."

Minneapolis Reel House

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 3.—The Esquire here, purchased recently by Lawrence Cohen of Los Angeles, will be reopened shortly before Jan. 1 as this city's first newsreel theatre, it was announced today. Cohen plans to remodel the theatre.

His Turn Now

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 3

FREDERICK K. MARTIN, former assistant manager of Loew's State here, has been discharged from the Army by virtue of the 28-year age limit. He goes to Harrisburg, Pa., to become assistant chief at Loew's, and the assistant manager there, Robert Gibbons, goes into the Army to take Martin's place as manager of the post theatre at New Cumberland, Pa.

Off the Antenna

REVIEWS of film openings, with excerpts of the film, will be started over NBC television next Tuesday with a criticism by Adrienne Ames of the Walter Wanger-UA picture, "Sundown." The review is planned as a regular feature of "Radio City Matinee" a program produced by Ernest Colling and televised Tuesdays at 3:45 P.M.

Miss Ames, who has appeared in many films herself, now does a Hollywood "chatter" program over WHN, and has also appeared previously on television. During the review of "Sundown," scenes from the picture totaling six minutes' running time will be shown. Arrangements with major companies for reviews of important pictures are being made, it was said. "Sundown" will open at the Criterion on Broadway Dec. 12.

Purely Personal: Clinton Winant, brother of Ambassador John C. Winant, has been appointed CBS correspondent in Vichy. . . . Jack Shaindlin, musical director for Universal and Columbia short subjects, will conduct the symphony orchestra on "Democracy at Work" over NBC-Red Saturday at 2 P.M., when his own original score from the film "Bomber" will be performed. . . . Allyn Corris has succeeded Alan Courtney as master of ceremonies on WOV's "1280 Club."

WMCA and WQXR have leased space on the 54th floor of the Chanin Building for FM stations, it was learned yesterday.

WHN has received 13 additional contracts, following the power boost to 50,000 watts last week. Captain Tim Healy will be heard Monday through Friday, 6-6:10 P.M., sponsored by Hecker Products; "My Daughter Betty" will be sponsored three times weekly by I. Rokeach & Sons; Simon Ackerman is sponsoring George Hamilton Combs, Jr., three times weekly; Railway Express, Stanback Co., Readers Digest, Procter & Gamble, Old Dutch Mills, Welch Grape Juice and National Production Co. are using spot announcements; Simon & Schuster are using five-minute talks for a book; Paragon Oil will use station-break announcements, and Ritz Thrift Shoppe will use participations on "Grouch Club."

Clarence Wheeler, vice-president of WHEC, Rochester, was feted this week on the occasion of the 10th anniversary of his association with the station by others who have been there for a decade. These were Gunnar Wiig, Elizabeth Gledhill, Bernard O'Brien, John O'Brien, Ralph W. Barber, Madeline L. Cleary, Howard Mouatt and Mary F. Carroll.

St. Louis, Memphis Pass Garbo Film, Omaha Cuts

St. Louisans in the management of the theatre would not be changed after seeing the picture. Williams' statement said that the opinion of the special group which saw the picture was that it would not offend decency or good taste.

The film opens in Loew's theatres in Memphis and St. Louis today.

Omaha Cuts Five Minutes

Meanwhile, in Omaha, the City Welfare Board cut a five-minute divan scene from the picture, prior to its opening yesterday at the Omaha Theatre. The action, taken after a private screening, was the first change ever ordered in a film by the Welfare Board, which described the clipped scene as "improper."

Miss Gordon Dissents

Ruth Gordon, who supports Greta Garbo in "The Two-Faced Woman," in an interview in the New York World-Telegram yesterday, expressed herself as being "hurtfully shocked" at the National Legion of Decency's condemnation of the film. She said that the wishes of the Production Code Administration representatives in Hollywood were adhered to whenever a question arose about a certain scene.

"There have been so many other pictures that were considerably more risqué than this one," she is quoted as saying. "There is no tenable basis for action of this kind here."

Shea Drops Garbo Picture in Buffalo

BUFFALO, Dec. 3.—Shea's Theatres, Inc., here will not show the M-G-M film, "Two-Faced Woman," which was condemned by the Legion of Decency. The film was to have opened at the Great Lakes Theatre here on Friday. The decision followed a protest by Bishop John A. Duffy of the Catholic Diocese of Buffalo.

Bishop Duffy said his protest was made "on information I received," not on the basis of his personally having seen it. He expressed his appreciation for the "valuable cooperation" of Vincent A. McFaul, Shea general manager.

Boston Expurgates Abbott's 'Pal Joey'

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—John J. Spencer, city censor, today ordered "several profane expressions" deleted from "Pal Joey," George Abbott musical.

Ask Assessment Cut

ROCHESTER, Dec. 3.—Greater Rochester Properties, Inc., owner of Loew's Rochester Theatre Building, assessed at $1,074,200, is suing the city for a $249,200 cut in the assessment.

Crescent Case Goes to Judge As Pleas End

contracting in favor of Crescent Union City, Tenn., and, to a lesser degree, at Rogersville.

Wright again maintained that distributor-exhibitor franchises are illegal and create unreasonable restraint on interstate commerce.

William Waller and George H. Armistead, Jr., Crescent counsel, presented their final arguments today. Waller charged the Government had not proved conspiracy between the exhibitor defendants and any distributor and said no coercion was brought to bear on the distributors, separately or as a whole.

He maintained also that Crescent franchises with 20th Century-Fox, Warners and Paramount were not illegal and did not prevent the distributors from selling second run to the opposition.

"Furthermore," Waller said, "the Government thinks Crescent is wrong in its interpretation of the Paramount franchise, Crescent is willing for the contract to be amended to provide expressly that the selling of second-run is not prevented."

Armistead declared the anti-trust action against Crescent was solely the outcome of complaints made to the Department of Justice by W. E. Roth, Gallatin, Tenn.; Max Buchanan, formerly of Athens, Ala.; Tim Smith, Knoxville, Tenn., and Fred Gorman, formerly of Erwin, Tenn.

3 Resign Posts at Philco Television

In addition, William Shain has resigned as head of the publicity department, and until a successor is named, the desk will be filled by Herbert Riband of the advertising department.

Raise Seattle Price

Instructed by Archbishop Pending Revisions

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—Archbishop John J. Cantwell today instructed priests in the Los Angeles archdiocese to request parishioners to refrain from attending exhibitions of "The Two-Faced Woman" pending revision of the picture to meet Legion of Decency standards.

It was learned that M-G-M executives who showed the picture to the Legion reviewing group have offered to make any cuts or additions which the National Legion may suggest, including reshooting of scenes if necessary, and to effect such changes in all prints now in distribution.

It was also learned that M-G-M limited contractual obligations which can be abridged only by reason of

Rules Theatre Has Right to Seek Writ on Jurisdictional Picketing

Although denying a temporary injunction, N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Richard Koch ruled yesterday that a theatre owner has a good cause of action for an injunction where a union pickets a house solely in retaliation for an opposition union picketing another theatre. The decision, in the opinion of observers, may have far reaching significance in the recurrent counter-picketing drives between operators' Local 306, IATSE, and the independent Empire State M.P. Operators Union.

The suit involved the complaint of the No. 62 Delancey St. Theatre Corp., operator of the Delancey, in Manhattan, against Local 306. The Delancey employs Empire State operators, and the complaint alleged that Local 306 was picketing the Delancey as "retaliation" against Empire State. Justice Koch, although denying the theatre's motion for a temporary injunction, refused the union's plea for a dismissal of the complaint. He ruled that if the theatre could establish its "retaliation" claim by evidence at the trial, a good cause of action for an injunction would be set forth.

Asked his views on the meeting, Schenck said: "I believe that the theory of the unity plan as outlined is an excellent idea and my company is very much for it. I plan to attend the meeting and am hopeful that something will come out of it that will benefit the entire motion picture business."

Schaefer declared: "My opinion is that the industry will only begin to reap the real benefits when they finally get together and work out a plan such as proposed and contemplated."

Asked if he thought such a plan could replace the consent decree,

Schaefer and N. M. Schenck Approve Unity

Schaefer said: "If the exhibitor and distributor will see eye to eye and think alike, it is possible that a plan could be worked out that would be satisfactory to the Government and the public."

MPTOA Executive Group Will Attend

The entire MPTOA executive committee and possibly several members of the organization's board of directors, in addition, will attend the unity meeting. Ed Kuykendall, MPTOA president, has called a meeting of the group for Monday at the Blackstone Hotel, in advance of the all-industry meeting.

At their separate meeting, the group will discuss unity proposals and formulate an organization policy with respect to recommendations to be made at the all-industry meeting.

ITOA Calls Session

A separate meeting also has been called by Harry Brandt, president of the New York ITOA, for Monday in Chicago. Representatives of exhibitor units which are not affiliated with either national exhibitor organization have been asked to attend. There are about a dozen such organizations, including those in Kentucky, Virginia, Montana, the Dakotas, District of Columbia, Portland, Salt Lake City, Des Moines and the Southern California section of the PCCITO.

Allied States is expected to be represented by a large delegation, comprising its unity committee and many of its directors. In the delegation are expected to be: Abram F. Myers, H. A. Cole, Sidney Samuelson, Jack Kirsch, Roy Harrold, Martin Smith, Fred Strom, Ben Berger and Ray Branch.

Others who may attend but have not definitely decided yet are: Barney Balaban, Paramount president; Jack Cohn, Columbia vice-president, and T. J. Connors and W. C. Michel of 20th Century-Fox.

Maurice Bergman will represent Ampa.

"Sullivan's Travels"

(Paramount)

PRESTON STURGES, whose stories and pictures have maintained a happy blending of entertainment and box-office values, picks up the argument whether pictures with a "message" are preferred by the public to pictures which are unadulterated entertainment. He picks it up and makes a good picture of it, and in so doing manages to deliver a film with a semblance of a "message" which still is highly entertaining.

His chief foil is Joel McCrea, prized Hollywood director, who, after a series of successes built on flyweight themes, suddenly determines to do a picture of social significance, to bring to the screen the message of America's impoverished outcasts. He masquerades as a tramp and sets out from Hollywood to experience the hardships of those he would dramatize. Twice, by comic misadventure, he is unwillingly returned to Hollywood without having accomplished his objective. On the first occasion he meets Veronica Lake, discouraged in her pursuit of Hollywood success, who believes him to be a tramp and befriends him. She accompanies him on his final try at sharing the lot of the downtrodden.

At its conclusion, McCrea sets out to distribute money to the outcasts who, he believes, have contributed much to his experience and understanding. He is beaten, robbed and tossed in an outbound freight car. While his assailant is subsequently killed by a train and the body mistakenly identified as the director's, McCrea is arrested and convicted for assault on a railroad policeman, and sentenced to six years in a work camp, ruled by a brutal overseer. On one occasion, he is taken with the other prisoners to see a film, and laughs with the broken, dejected men at a Walt Disney cartoon.

Subsequently, his release is effected, he is reunited with Miss Lake, while the studio officials, who had tried to dissuade him from making the picture with a message, are convinced that, after his experiences, he could make a successful one. McCrea rejects their urging, voicing his new belief in the virtue of making people laugh.

"Sullivan's Travels" is unique in conception, original in treatment. It is a picture which will be recommended to others by those who see it. It is not, however, an easy picture to sell and exhibitors will do well to give it special attention.

Sturges' direction is excellent, and supporting roles are uniformly well played. Deserving of particular mention are Robert Warwick, William Demarest, Franklin Pangborn, Robert Greig, Eric Blore and Jan Buckingham.

"Midnight Angel"

(Paramount)

AN interesting murder melodrama, against the background of the day's news, has been produced by Sol C. Siegel, who has used the setting of a test blackout in a large American city to give the story timeliness without making it another war yarn.

As the vivacious and impulsive young telephone operator who snatches at excitement and romance wherever she sees it, Martha O'Driscoll gives a first rate performance. The confusion created by an air raid drill and the typical crowd reactions have been caught amusingly by Ralph Murphy, who directed.

Robert Preston, who plays the male lead, is convicted of murder by the testimony of a dancer (Eva Gabor), a woman he had never seen. As he is being driven to jail during the blackout the police van collides with an army truck and Preston escapes. Miss Driscoll sees him, decides he was innocent and undertakes to help. Preston is encumbered by handcuffs and the military police hamper his escape but he finally learns that a friend (Philip Merivale) on whom he had relied really is a foreign spy. In the end, Preston is cleared by a confession overheard by the police through an arrangement with Miss Driscoll's friend at the telephone exchange. Among those in the cast are Louis Jean Heydt, Thurston Hall, Mary Treen, J. Edward Bromberg and Spencer Charters.

stocks, amounting to $1.50 a share of the first preferred and 15 cents a share on the second preferred. The dividends are payable Dec. 27 to common stockholders of record Dec. 1 and to preferred holders of record Dec. 12.

The common dividend is the fourth declared on that stock for the year giving it a 1941 dividend standing at $1 per share.

$10.06 Redemption Price

The redemption of the second preferred will be at the redemption price of $10.06, and will apply as well to the scrip for the second preferred shares at a proportionate rate. There are 412,200 shares of second preferred outstanding, including scrip, and some 22,600 shares in the Paramount treasury.

The second preferred will be convertible into common up to Jan. 20 at the rate of nine shares of common for ten of preferred. Redemption of the issue will leave only first preferred outstanding, apart from the common, and conversion of the first into common is being spurred by the increasing common dividends.

$12,000,000 in Exchange

Paramount's offer to exchange its 3¼ per cent debentures for the new 4 per cent debentures will expire today. Indications are that approximately $12,000,000 face amount of the old debentures will have been tendered for exchange when the offer expires. Approximately $600,000 of old debentures remaining will be called by the company for redemption beginning Dec. 12.

Following an investigation conducted in cooperation with the local Better Business Bureau, the committee turned over to police authorities information disclosing operations of a "studio visit" racket by which visitors denied studio access under the "no-visitor" rule were being charged $7.50 each on promise of a walk through studio premises. The name of one individual who had managed to smuggle in some visitors by misrepresenting them as having business connections entitling them to admittance was turned over to the police.

Publicity assistance for Camp Shows, Inc., was also discussed at the meeting and a report of the mailing list committee charged with reduction of waste in publicity departments was approved.

legal action as the reason why the company cannot withdraw the film from circulation. Up to today the studio had not received notification of specific alterations such as the National Legion has suggested in previous cases, notably "Strange Cargo," with a resultant change in Legion classification.

Will H. Hays, who is expected to leave next week for Indiana and continue on to New York, today maintained his policy of silence with respect to the incident.

"Two-Faced Woman" opened today at Grauman's Chinese and Loew's State following a newspaper advertising campaign which utilized large space but did not connect the attraction with Legion of Decency action or newspaper accounts of the situation.

Loew's Postpones Run in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 4.—The showing of M-G-M's "The Two-Faced Woman" was postponed indefinitely here today following a last-minute decision by Rex Williams, Loew's Theatre manager, to cancel the showing in the face of protests from local Legion of Decency members. Williams said the picture may be shown after Christmas.

"Design for Scandal," M-G-M film, and Columbia's "Secrets of the Lone Wolf" were substituted on the new bill, which opened today.

Williams reached his decision to cancel the Greta Garbo picture about 11 o'clock last night, after conferring with the Loew's circuit home office in New York. This necessitated quick statements to the press and new advertisements to catch the last editions of morning newspapers.

[A Loew's circuit official in New York said yesterday that the policy on showing the picture is guided by local conditions and that the product situation also is a factor.]

Prosecuting Attorney James P. Finnegan was quoted this afternoon as saying the picture was "a little on the immoral side." This was his first statement since seeing the picture Tuesday evening as one of a selected group.

Williams yesterday issued a statement to the press that "The Two-Faced Woman" would open today as scheduled. However, later in the day he received a number of protests from Legion of Decency supporters and the decision to postpone the showing in this strong Catholic community followed.

Action 'Delights' Wehrenberg

Fred Wehrenberg, president of the local MPTO and co-owner of a circuit of 23 subsequent run houses, indicated he would not play the picture unless objectionable portions had been eliminated. He said he was "delighted" by Loew's decision to "pull" the picture as "it would have been waving the red flag in the face of the church."

Wehrenberg said he had learned from his patrons that priests last Sun-

"Mr. Bug Goes To Town"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

THIS feature-length cartoon in Technicolor brings its audience to a new world of make believe, a fantasy depicting a community of bugs and their problems of life. It is an amusing fable that affords pleasant and amusing diversion for the young and old alike.

Technically it is a splendid work, and it attests to the advancement of the animated cartoon art. That great care and skill were exercised in materializing the imaginative idea is evident. The animation and color work are consistently superior and are bound to draw praise from the technical observer. The character creations, particularly "Honey Bee," "Hoppity Grasshopper," "C. Bagley Beetle" and "Mr. Bumble," are quaintly charming.

"Mr. Bug" is endowed further with a musical score of merit. The three songs by the Hoagy Carmichael-Frank Loesser combination titled "I'll Dance At Your Wedding," "We're the Couple in the Castle" and "Katy Did, Katy Didn't" are of the type that usually has the customer humming as he leaves the theatre.

The fable has an amusing plot whose central character is "Hoppity," the hero, who seeks to provide the bug race with a refuge from "the humans," who trample through the community. "Beetle," who has designs on "Honey" and is jealous of "Hoppity," hampers the latter. After many shortcomings by which he loses favor with the community, "Hoppity" eventually finds the refuge in a penthouse garden atop a skyscraper. It is all cleverly worked out with comedy effects.

Running time, 78 minutes. "G."*

"Road Agent"

(Universal)

UNIVERSAL'S three adventure-seekers—Dick Foran, Leo Carrillo and Andy Devine—find action, intrigue, fast shooting and riding and a bit of romance in this film which is a western endowed with more than usual production values for that type of picture by Ben Pivar, associate producer.

The direction by Charles Lamont kept the story moving along and worked in several song interludes for Foran without disrupting the plot. Some humor is supplied by Devine and Carrillo. The cast also includes Anne Gwynne, Samuel S. Hinds, Richard Davies, Anne Nagel and Morris Ankrum.

The three companions recover a gold shipment captured from a stage coach. But they are suspected and just as they are about to be hanged Foran is made sheriff and his partners deputies. Finally they save the bank's deposits. In a gun battle the desperadoes are killed and the bank president learns that the three men were agents for the Wells Fargo Co., sent to the town to restore law and order.

day told parishioners to boycott any theatre which played the picture even after the conclusion of the film's run. Archbishop John J. Glennon had issued a statement last week urging a united protest against the picture.

Williams in a statement late today said "we were not requested by any church official or religious group to withdraw the picture until Tuesday afternoon." He stated that the group which saw the film Tuesday evening approved it, but on Wednesday, he said, he was informed that some persons, "who had not seen the picture, were protesting against its showing," and that prompted the postponement.

The postponement "broke" on front pages of the local newspapers, the third time in less than a week that the situation has been given such prominence here.

Tri-States Extends Use of Usherettes

DES MOINES, Dec. 4.—The Tri-States Theatres have replaced the men ushers at the Des Moines Theatre here with six usherettes and one directress. The replacement is being made because of the scarcity of men ushers due to the draft and the higher-paying defense jobs.

The Tri-States organization for years has had usherettes in the Omaha and Orpheum Theatres, and also in the recently opened Paramount at Omaha, and in two of the theatres at Waterloo, Iowa.

Holdovers Continue Well on Broadway

Short Subject Reviews

"Dick Tracy vs. Crime, Inc."

(Republic)

A SERIAL in 12 parts, this doubtless will lend definite support to the weekend program. It is fantastic, to be sure, but presented in all seriousness by a company of experienced players, it abounds in thrilling action of the sort that attracts and enraptures the serial trade. In the cast are Ralph Byrd as the incredible "Dick Tracy," Michael Owen, Jan Wiley, John Davidson, Ralph Morgan, Kenneth Harlan and others. The yarn has to do with "The Ghost," a fanatic criminal character who with the aid of "science" can fade away into nothing and go along his criminal way, murdering and terrorizing. Based on the content of the first chapter, this is sure-fire material. The first episode runs 28 minutes and the subsequent issues about 20 mins. Release undetermined.

"Changed Identity"

(Miniature Series)

(M-G-M)

This is a good miniature drama, well told in action, enhanced by scarcity of dialogue and possessing a good, surprise ending. The story concerns the assumption by one fugitive of another's identity, only for the first to be apprehended for a crime committed by the other. A substantial contribution to any program. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Nov. 8, 1941.

"Twenty-One Dollars a Day One a Month"

(Walter Lantz Cartune)

(Universal)

The characters in the toy department are seen marching and cavorting in time to the catchy tune of the title. The color cartoon is cleverly done and should satisfy. Running time, 7 mins. Release, Dec. 1, 1941.

"Jingle Bells"

(Personality and Name-Band)

Musical

(Universal)

Here's a good short attraction for the holiday season. In an effective Winter setting, it has the talented and widely known Gloria Jean, sparkling rhythm by the Milt Hearsh Trio, and other entertainment bits by "The Sportsmen," male quartette; Lee, Lynn and Lou, feminine trio, and a few others. A good musical that has names and the added advantage of timeliness. Running time, 13 mins. Release, Dec. 24, 1941.

"Fancy Answers"

(Pete Smith Specialty)

(M-G-M)

A quiz reel which, with pictorial asides and breezy commentary, offers a full measure of diversion and incidental information for any audience. The questions are not too difficult and the answers not too obvious. Audiences are allowed 10 to 15 seconds in which to decide the correct answers. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Nov. 1, 1941.

"In the Zoo"

(Speaking of Animals)

(Paramount)

This is another in the series of humorous absurdities in which trick photography plays a part. Making the rounds at a zoo, the off-screen commentator has a little something to say about and to the residents. The trickery comes in as the animals, in turn, look up and retort. There is a lot of good fun in the short. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Oct. 31, 1941.

"Road in India"

(Fascinating Journeys)

(Paramount)

Here the camera moves along a road in India, observing the different natives who to this day observe the traditions of their ancestors of centuries ago. The local rajah, in colorful clothing and the superstitious holy men of the land are typical of those encountered. The short is splendidly photographed in color, and should appeal particularly to the more serious onlooker. Running time, 11 mins. Release, Oct. 24, 1941.

"Flying Bear"

(Lantz Cartoon)

(M-G-M)

The disastrous experience of a flying bear who does his maneuvering above an army airport provides the story for this Lantz cartoon in color. The subject is mildly amusing in its more preposterous moments. Running time, 9 mins. Release Nov. 1, 1941.

"The Quiz Kids, Q1-2"

(Paramount)

The youngsters whose store of knowledge by far exceeds their age are together again with Joe Kelly, who asks the questions and usually receives the correct answers. The new edition should easily pass as agreeable entertainment. Running time, 11 mins. Release, Dec. 5, 1941.

"The Mighty Navy"

(Popeye Cartoon)

(Paramount)

Popeye has a bang-up time in the Navy, utilizing strength rather than "modern design" in weighing the anchor, handling the big guns and the like. When enemy craft encircle his ship he takes care of them, too. The reel is amusing in spots and should serve to brighten the program. Its chief appeal is to children, of course. Running time, 7 mins. Release, Nov. 14, 1941.

"Quick Returns"

(Sportlight)

(Paramount)

Badminton and table tennis experts demonstrate how it should be done in this, which rates about fair for the sports series. The reel is somewhat lacking in excitement in spite of the fact that the games are fast and, no doubt, thrilling for the players. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Nov. 28, 1941.

"Hobbies of the Stars"

(Picture People)

(RKO-Pathe)

This is an interesting assortment of shots of Hollywood personalities at leisure. Claire Trevor displays some ancient movies; John Beal and Jean Parker are seen sketching likenesses of each other; Alexander Korda, Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin and David O. Selznick sign a "contract" for the camera, and Bob Burns at his home in San Fernando Valley tells a few stories about his dogs. Helen Broderick is the narrator. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Nov. 7, 1941.

"Doin' the Town"

(Personality and Name-Band)

Musical

(Universal)

Not outstanding but more than usually entertaining is this musical with Ozzie Nelson and orchestra, Helen Parrish, Butch and Buddy, Rose Ann Stevens and others. A few tunes are played and sung by Nelson and Miss Parrish, Butch and Buddy and seen briefly to advantage, and Miss Stevens tops it off nicely with an amusing ditty sung with Nelson. Running time, 16 mins. Release, Nov. 26, 1941.

"Polo Champions"

(World of Sports)

(Columbia)

Bill Stern, as commentator, traces the entire story of polo from the training of the ponies to some shots of championship matches. It is an interesting reel, both for lovers of the game and for those who want to learn what it is about. Pictures of the Meadowbrook stars and games are particularly good. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Nov. 11, 1941.

"The Art of Skiing"

(Disney Cartoon)

(RKO-Pathe)

Presenting "Goofy" in all sorts of contortions as he tries to demonstrate the proper technique of skiing, Disney scores again with a real laugh provoker. Goofy's performance on the skis is good for almost continuous laughter. Running time, 3 mins. Release, Nov. 14, 1941.

Commercial Television Not Pushed by NBC: Morton

"NBC doesn't want to push commercial television too fast. We'd rather do a good job for the sponsors we have and gradually increase them," Alfred H. Morton, NBC vice-president in charge of television, said yesterday.

"There is no problem in getting sponsors at this time," he continued. "If we wanted to do so, we could fill up every minute of the 15 hours of weekly program with sponsored programs but we are not yet equipped to give them all satisfactory service."

Four Regular Sponsors

At present, WNBT—NBC's television station—has four sponsors on regular contract. They are Bulova, with one-minute time signals; Botany Worsted Mills, with weather forecasts on cartoon films; Adam Hats, which sponsors the weekly wrestling boats, and Goldmark Hosiery which sponsors a beauty contest each week. Thus, about two hours of the 15 each week are paid for by sponsors, Morton pointed out.

"Each week, listeners send us their ratings of programs," he stated. "Using 3 as a basis for unanimous rating as 'excellent,' we find all three shows rated above 2.5 ever since they started. The entire program schedule hasn't been under 2.35 for the past six weeks."

Two Improvement Factors

Morton accounts for the improvement in program quality by two major factors. The first is the practice of planning the entire month's schedule at least one month in advance, thus permitting better production and longer time to obtain a suitable cast, and the second is the practice of a rigid schedule for rehearsals, thus assuring greater time. "Television couldn't do these two simple things before, but we're on a steadier basis and 1942 will see even greater improvement in programs," he declared.

With the football season about over, most of NBC's television activities in sports will shift to Madison Square Garden. There is a possibility that Pabst Beer may sponsor basketball from there, Morton revealed.

F.C.C. Authorizes Two New Stations; Gets Pleas on Four

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The FCC has granted construction permits for two new stations and received applications for four others.

The permits were granted to the Tar Heel Broadcasting System, Inc. for a 930-kilocycle, 1,000-watt station at Washington, N. C., and the Baltimore Radio Show, Inc., for a 45,900-kilocycle FM station at Baltimore.

The applications were submitted by the Josh Higgins Broadcasting Co. for a 1,540-kilocycle, 50,000-watt station at Waterloo, Iowa; the Sacandaga Broadcasting Corp. for a 1,340-kilocycle, 250-watt station at Gloversville, N. Y.; the Ludington Broadcasting Co. for a 1,490-kilocycle, 250-watt station at Ludington, Mich., and the Hawley Broadcasting Co. for a 46,500-kilocycle FM station at Reading, Pa.

Seeks Frequency Change

An application also was filed by Station WKBZ, Muskegon, Mich., for change of frequency from 1,490 to 1,450 kilocycles.

The commission ordered hearings, on dates to be set later, on the applications of S. Brad Hunt for a new 1,030-kilocycle, 1,000-watt day station at Alton, Ill.; Station WSON, Henderson, Ky., for increase of day power to 500 watts, and Station WIRE, Indianapolis, for change of frequency to 1,190 kilocycles, increase of power to 50,000 watts and move of transmitter from Indianapolis to Zionsville, Ind.

FCC Cuts Listing of Newspaper Stations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The FCC today revised downward its estimate of the percentage of broadcasting stations owned by newspaper interests, deleting from its list 49 of the 298 stations which earlier it had classified as newspaper-owned.

The Commission's action was taken at the resumption of hearings on newspaper ownership, but the new figure immediately was attacked by Harold Hough, of the Fort Worth, Tex., Star-Telegram, chairman of the Newspaper Radio Committee, who charged that many of the stations still listed should be eliminated.

Hough pointed out that the new exhibit placed stations in two groups, one of which, he said, consisted of stations where the newspaper interest is so minor that the paper has no control of their operations.

Kent Designates Connors To Represent Him as First Official Task

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Blending of exhibitor goodwill with distributor interest will be the principal aim of the all-industry unity conferences scheduled to get under way at the Blackstone Hotel here on Tuesday, in the opinion of observers.

Cementing the links between the exhibitor and the distributor will bring about that fundamental basis for unity whereby a united front thereafter can be achieved against problems facing the business from the outside. These problems are many, but principally they can be reduced to three divisions, taxation, legislation and publicity, these observers say.

Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, has designated Tom Connors as his representative at the all-industry conference. This will be Connors' first official task for the company with which he recently signed a contract as personal assistant to Kent.

Connors will attend the unity meeting with Felix Jenkins, general counsel of the company. Designation of Connors to attend the meeting was announced by Kent Friday in New York. His statement follows:

Golden Calls Film Mightier Than Tank in Modern Time

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—In modern times, it is the picture which is mightier than the tank, supplanting the pen which was mightier than the sword, Nathan D. Golden, motion picture consultant of the U. S. Department of Commerce, declared in an article in Foreign Commerce Weekly, issued yesterday.

Extolling the industry's role in domestic commerce and the maintenance of morale, Golden also pointed to the contribution of motion pictures to foreign relations and world trade.

Golden called the influence of films on foreign trade "noteworthy in many ways." Noting that 230,000,000 people see motion pictures every week, Golden called motion pictures an "animated catalogue" of the nation's goods. In normal times, he added, 70 per cent of all motion pictures shown in foreign markets were of U. S. origin. "That American sales abroad were materially aided by that fact admits of no doubt," he observed.

Of major significance, Golden said, was the contribution of films to morale. The U. S. Army M. P. Service operates 555 theatres at 277 army posts with an average attendance of 277,500 daily. There are 2,120 programs weekly with one feature and at least two shorts and with frequent personal appearances of film stars.

Neutral countries have indicated their preference for U. S. films, Golden said, pointing to the fact that in Swedish theatres 56.1 per cent of all product came from the U. S. in 1940 as compared with only 60.8 per cent in 1939.

The 11-month cumulative figure of $6,352,457 was also the highest ever set by the network during a similar period, topping the 1941 total by 58.1 per cent, and by 62.6 per cent if 1940 political billings are deducted.

operation, and his attendance at the Chicago meeting has been made possible through the kindness and courtesy of Mr. Nicholas M. Schenck, who has allowed him to finish his work at M-G-M a week earlier than expected, in order to represent 20th Century-Fox at this coming meeting.

Although at least two of the major companies, such as Universal and United Artists, will not be represented, a welding of interest internally in the trade among all divisions of the business will be attempted, it is said.

Three 'Uns' a Target

A unified front against "unjust taxation" "unfair legislation" and "unfavorable publicity"—the "Three Uns"—appears to be the slogan which may arise from the discussions to get started Tuesday. Similarly, the advance guard of delegates feel that the slogan covers the three great divisions of the industry—distribution, production and exhibition.

Barney Balaban, Paramount president, and Neil Agnew, vice-president and general sales manager, will attend the meeting. Austin Keough and Claude Lee of Paramount were reported earlier as slated to represent the company.

Balaban is the third major company president to accept an invitation to attend the meeting, Nicholas M. Schenck of Loew's and George J. Schaefer of RKO having accepted earlier.

All Exhibitor Groups To Be Represented

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Every distributing company except Universal and United Artists and every exhibitor organization without exception will be represented at Allied's unity meeting, it was said tonight by Abram F. Myers, Allied States chairman.

All participating distributors will be represented by several officials, Myers said. The exhibitor organizations will be represented either directly or through a national group.

The meeting will be the first all-industry conference to be held since the motion picture trade practice conference in 1927, Myers said, pointing out that no general meeting of all branches of the industry was held even during the NRA days.

Lab Union Extends Picketing in Strike

Laboratory Technicians Union, Local 702, extended its activities in the five-weeks-old strike against Moviellab Film Laboratories by starting secondary picketing against Commonwealth Pictures and Guaranteed Pictures on Friday. ### Serial in 15 Episodes Republic's serial, "Dick Tracy vs. Crime Inc." is presented in 15 episodes and not 12, as was stated in MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S review.

Reviews

"Bahama Passage"

(Paramount)

THIS film, produced and directed by Edward H. Griffith, gives the exhibitor a number of good selling points. There is a beautiful background of sea, sky and a tropical isle, photographed magnificently in color. There is Madeleine Carroll, perhaps more attractive than ever before, and wearing costumes that suggest romance in the South Seas. Finally there is Stirling Hayden, a handsome blond who might easily become one of the most popular male stars.

Beyond the pictorial elements, natural and human, this film offers little. An attempt was made to have a slightly different story and a couple of odd characters were created but the result was not a complete success. At the New York trade show a number of the exhibitor critics laughed a few times at the wrong places.

Hayden is heir to Dildo Cay, a small island where his family has operated a salt business for generations. Flora Robson, his mother, hires an Englishman, Leo G. Carroll, to run the island, and his daughter, Miss Carroll, comes with him. Hayden's wife, who refuses to live on the Cay, threatens divorce. There is trouble with the natives, the mother dies of a heart attack and the Englishman is taken by the natives. Hayden and Miss Carroll are alone. He resists her advances but finally falls in love.

Running time, 83 minutes. "A."*

"No Hands on the Clock"

(Paramount)

AS mystery films accumulate and available plots which conceal the identity of the murderer to the very last become fewer, the temptation to resort to by-plots in order to keep the audience in the dark appears to become proportionately greater. In the case of "No Hands on the Clock" this tendency has had unfortunate results in that it has produced confusion rather than mystery.

So numerous are the clues introduced to lead the audience away from the culprit, and so unnecessary are many of them to the telling of the story, that even after the murder or murders have been solved and the goings-on explained, many in the audience are likely to remain as mystified as ever.

Chester Morris, a private detective specializing in tracing missing persons, marries the object of one such search and has his honeymoon interrupted by an assignment to find the son of a wealthy Nevada rancher. Clues run in all directions; murders, shootings, chases ensue, to say nothing of honeymoon misunderstandings. The unravelling of the mystery is accomplished mostly by Morris's elocution, rather than action, and is confusing and unsatisfactory largely for that reason.

Jean Parker, James Kirkwood, Rose Hobart, Dick Purcell, Astrid Allwyn, Loren Raker, George Watts and Robert Middlemass are in principal support.

Running time, 76 minutes. "G."*

"Sing for Your Supper"

(Columbia)

JINX FALKENBURG, Charles "Buddy" Rogers and Bert Gordon, known as the "Mad Russian," appear here in a rather unevenly placed light musical comedy, which is sufficiently amusing in its lighter moments but which moves sluggishly otherwise. It is at its best when Gordon, who has an expert sense of comedy timing, is on the scene wrestling with the English language. The script is not completely polished.

Rogers is an orchestra leader in a dime-a-dance casino; Miss Falkenburg is the heiress who takes the job of hostess because of Rogers, concealing her true identity. He eventually learns of her social status, but doesn't mind too much. Publicist Don Beddoe spreads the news to the newspapers and Miss Falkenburg, thinking Rogers responsible, departs in a huff. Beddoe finally patches things up in a rather implausible manner.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."*

the following day ordered the classification change.

Meanwhile, Archbishop John McNicholas of Cincinnati, chairman of the National Legion of Decency, late last week issued a pastoral letter to all Catholic bishops condemning the film. He ordered an active committee of the Legion be formed, if one does not already exist, in every parish to urge support of his condemnation.

Pickets in Cincinnati

Father Edward Kotter, of the local parish in Cincinnati, placed two pickets before the RKO Palace, where the film was showing, and sent trucks through the streets, bearing banners calling attention to the Legion's ban.

In Chicago, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, after seeing the film at the private screening Thursday night, declared the following day that no definite decision had yet been formed. Four members of the Catholic Archdiocese, who attended the screening with the Mayor and Police Commissioner, reported to Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch, and on the basis of their reactions the Archbishop was considering a demand, such as made by Catholic clerics elsewhere, that the film be withdrawn.

Comerford Theatres will not show the picture anywhere in the Scranton Catholic diocese, circuit officials announced Saturday. Most of the circuit's 100 houses are in the diocese, which covers Northeastern and North Central Pennsylvania.

Buffalo Houses to Cut

Some exhibitors in Buffalo will make several cuts in "Two Faced Woman" before showing it, according to report, although the film was shown at the first-run Century intact. The reason given for the decision to make deletions was that many more children attend the subsequent run showings.

In Toledo, O., the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women protested the showing of the film at Loew's Valentine there. The group was said to represent a membership of 50,000.

Newspaper reviewers in Los Angeles, where the picture opened at Grauman's Chinese and Loew's State to average business, criticized the picture unfavorably.

The Denver Catholic Register on Friday charged that the film was a "deliberate challenge" to the Legion of Decency.

Cross-Picketing Ban Discussed at Hearing

The New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Industrial Labor Conditions on Friday held a hearing on the question of cross-picketing by unions. All speakers, with the exception of the CIO N. Y. State Council representative, favored some ban on cross-picketing.

Sound films were exhibited to the committee to show how a picket line in front of Gimbel's department store was conducted.

Industry Pledge to F.D.R.

The industry's pledge of service and support to the President and the nation in war was sent President Roosevelt yesterday by Will H. Hays, MPPDA president, and George J. Schaefer as chairman of the industry's national defense committee. Hays' message embodied this resolution adopted yesterday by the MPPDA board:

"The Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America hereby pledge our service and support to the President and the nation, and reiterate our resolve to maintain the continued flow of wholesome entertainment as an essential contribution to military and civilian morale and to national spirit."

Schaefer's message to the President said:

"The Motion Picture Committee Cooperating for National Defense, representing more than 12,000 theatre operators and the artists, producers, distributors, newsreels and trade press, reaffirms pledge of all possible service to you, the national Government and the people of the United States in this emergency."

Subsequents Off as Much As 33%, While B'dway Remains Normal

BUFFALO, Dec. 8.—Federal Judge John Knight today set March 3, 1942, for start of the Government anti-trust suit against the Schine Circuit, Columbia, United Artists and Universal in U. S. District court here.

Seymour Simon, special assistant attorney general, said the Government will be prepared for trial on and after Jan. 15, but Willard S. McKay, counsel for Schine, said the defense could not be ready by that time and the March 3 date was agreed upon. Judge Knight indicated he will hear the case without a jury.

It is also learned that Joseph I. Breen, whose authority over the studio heretofore has been restricted by the company directorate, will now have full authority over that phase of the company's operations, subject to

Radio Goes on War Basis

Washington, Dec. 8.—The Defense Communications Board today moved to put the radio industry on a war footing. First move was the order to the FCC to cancel all stations' monitoring schedules maintained for checking frequency stability, so that full use may be made of the stations for defense purposes.

Censorship studies are being made by a number of Government agencies, Chairman James L. Fly disclosed later. The Navy yesterday took over censorship of the international short wave stations, including those in the island possessions, Fly said.

He added that the Navy probably will need some of the properties of the radio communications companies but there is no present indication that broadcasting properties will be taken over by the President under wartime powers granted in the Communications Act. Various industry committees shortly will be asked to aid.

The War Department at 7 o'clock Pacific Time last night shut off and blacked out all but one radio station in the Pacific Northwest. IRO, CBS station in Seattle, broadcast official news.

See Far East Market Open

War in the Pacific is not expected to close the industry's Far Eastern markets, in the opinion of a majority of foreign department officials.

Although no definite information on shipping facilities is expected for another day or two, most export managers are confident that lanes to the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Malay, Hong Kong, Thailand and India will be kept open by the United States and Great Britain. The Far East market, exclusive of Australia and New Zealand, represents about $5,000,000 annual revenue to the industry.

The only countries which foreign managers are agreed will be closed to the industry are Japan, occupied China, French Indo-China and whatever other additional area Japan may succeed in occupying. The loss of

Morgenthau Backs Soldier Exemption

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Plans of members of Congress to revise the admission tax provisions of the revenue law to exempt soldier admissions to Army motion picture theatres have received the support of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

In a letter to Representative John W. McCormack, who inquired about the Treasury's position, Secretary Morgenthau said he would have no objection to lifting the tax so long as the net proceeds from such admissions are used exclusively for the welfare of the military or naval forces.

Webs All-Out In Coverage Of War News

Radio networks and independent stations ripped program schedules to shreds Sunday, as word of the Japanese attack on Honolulu was received shortly before 2:30 P. M. All networks went on the air with the news flash, and continued on 24-hour operation thereafter, a schedule which will continue indefinitely.

Geared for Coverage

All networks immediately offered their full facilities to the war effort, and geared themselves for intensive coverage. Commercial programs were frequently interrupted for bulletins and sustaining periods were given over almost entirely to news.

Late yesterday NBC announced that the first minute of all quarter-hour shows; the first two on half-hour shows, and the first and middle two minutes on hour programs would be used exclusively for news. Regular news shows will continue, and other programs will be subject to interruption if the news is important enough. Operation of the Red and Blue will be combined from 12:30-8 A.M. The network had an eye-witness report of the bombing of Manila by Bert Silen and Don Bell at 2:25 P. M. yesterday.

Amateurs Silenced

All amateur radio stations were silenced by an FCC order Sunday, except those authorized to act in connection with the war. BMI announced that its patriotic music would be available to all music users without charge for the duration.

At the suggestion of Robert A. Catherwood, newly appointed WWRL general manager, all New York City foreign language stations will meet at WHOM this afternoon to set up a permanent organization and determine broadcasting policy.

International short wave stations went on the air with broadcasts to foreign countries as soon as news of the bombing was received Sunday and continued throughout yesterday. The CBS station increased its broadcast time to 24 hours daily with news an almost exclusive feature.

Mutual is presenting news from Washington every hour on the hour and from the West coast on the half-hour.

Browne's $20,000 Fine Paid in Cash

The $20,000 fine imposed on George E. Browne was paid in cash yesterday by E. S. King, his Chicago attorney. William Bioff has not yet paid his $20,000 fine.

Consolidation of the 10 stockholder suits brought against Warners as a result of alleged extortion payments to Bioff and Browne has been ordered by N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand A. Pecora. The court named former General Sessions Judge Alfred J. Talley as chief counsel for the plaintiff.

ilities, most managers reporting normal Sunday business and average Monday attendance. Neighborhood houses in the metropolitan area were hard hit, however, as thousands remained at radios following news developments. Few theatres used news flashes, the managers reasoning that theatregoers were seeking entertainment.

In Los Angeles, programs were interrupted to notify police and firemen off duty to report to their station houses on Sunday and by night it was estimated business was off 15 per cent. Attendance remained subnormal yesterday with many fearing an air attack or sabotage at aircraft plants.

Oakland had a partial blackout when rumors spread that an attacking force was in the vicinity of San Francisco harbor. Grosses for the two days were off about 15 per cent in San Francisco and Oakland.

Washington Slack

Washington theatres experienced a marked setback Sunday as crowds paraded by the White House and the Japanese Embassy, and many thousands sat glued to their radios. Business continued slack until yesterday afternoon.

Chicago Loop houses reported business off seven per cent Sunday, with the exception of the Oriental, which reported one of its biggest Sundays in history.

In Cincinnati, Dayton and Columbus only a slight decrease was reported Sunday and some recovery was experienced yesterday.

St. Louis first-run receipts dropped 15 to 20 per cent Sunday. Bulletins of the attack were announced to matinee audiences.

Tri-States circuit headquarters at Des Moines reported grosses off about 33 per cent Sunday. Most suburban houses, however, reported business at average levels. First runs broadcast occasional news bulletins.

Indianapolis business was not noticeably affected, managers said. A few houses reported attendance slightly off. Two or three had excellent business.

Dallas reported no noticeable change either day. All Interstate Circuit houses interrupted programs for news bulletins.

At Minneapolis, Sunday business was reported moderately off and many managers attributed it as much to a

War 'Specials' Sent Out by All Newsreels

All five newsreels yesterday sent by air express to all accounts "specials" on the declaration of war. The reels, approximately the usual length, are substitutes for the usual midweek issues.

March of Time is preparing a new release, "Your America at War," to be ready for pre-release bookings Thursday through RKO.

snow and sleet storm as to the war. Early Monday business, however, showed a noticeable drop, although the weather had cleared.

Only one theatre in Providence reported business off. At Toronto, attendance showed a strong recovery yesterday after a poor Sunday. Managers believed reaction to war news and rain encouraged patrons to return to the theatres yesterday.

Small Effect on Broadway

Broadway grosses maintained a good level despite war excitement which kept thousands at their radios.

"Rise and Shine," presented with a stage show, had a strong opening at the Roxy, bringing an estimated $29,500 for the first three days beginning Friday. It will hold over. Although in its third week the Radio City Music Hall show, "Suspicion," with a stage presentation, grossed an estimated $50,000 Thursday through Sunday. The film will be replaced Thursday by "The Men in Her Life."

"Skylark" with Harry James' orchestra and Ray Bolger on the stage finishes its third and final week tonight at the Paramount with an estimated $36,000. Saturday and Sunday the show brought an estimated $22,000. "Birth of the Blues" and Orrin Tucker's orchestra go in tomorrow.

At the Strand, "They Died With Their Boots On" and Woody Herman's orchestra drew an estimated $20,200 Thursday through Sunday. The show ends a three-week run tomorrow night to be replaced Thursday by "Blues in the Night." "How Green Was My Valley," now in its sixth week at the Rivoli, did an estimated $11,300 Friday through Sunday and continues. "Swamp Water" in its fourth week at the Globe grossed an estimated $3,000 Saturday and Sunday.

Studios Take on War Aspect; Expect Change in Schedules

Hollywood, Dec. 8.—Hollywood today took on a war aspect. All radio stations and virtually every studio were under augmented guard, with extra fire precautions taken.

Rearrangement of shooting schedules is expected, particularly in case of distant locations, due to expected restrictions on large traveling units. All private airplanes have been ordered grounded, which is causing rewriting of scripts. The studios yesterday supplied the Army with 35 trucks, with 100 more available. The Army picked up all machine guns at studios. Citizens have been asked to stay home as much as possible. Republic has barred all visitors. Paramount demands identification from everyone.

Fourteen AFL studio locals totaling 16,000 workers today pledged an implied "no strike" policy.

See Far East Market Open Despite War

Japan is not considered commercially important by the industry. Because of its import permit system and currency restrictions, it has produced revenue for the past three years.

Despite the hostilities, the eight major distributors collected their third payment, aggregating approximately $210,000, from the Yokohama Specie Bank at San Francisco over the weekend. The payment was under a pact with Japan which set aside $860,000 of the companies' Japanese revenue for that year for payment in four installments beginning last September. The fourth and final payment is due in February.

Few in Tokyo

The outbreak of the war found few American film company officials still in Tokyo. Lewis Pepperman, United Artists manager there, was in communication with the home office from Tokyo last Friday. Harold Dunn and M. Shathin of Warners were last heard from there. Evacuation of Japan by American film employes has been under way for several months and skeleton staffs remain, for the most part.

The Far East film colony is now concentrated mostly in Manila. I. Cohen of M-G-M, Charles Core of United Artists; Larry DePrida, Universal; George Kallman, Cliff Almy, Warners; James E. Perkins, Paramount, and Dan Lederman, 20th Century-Fox, were among those in Manila when last heard from. Several others were last heard from at Shanghai, among them J. D. Berman of M-G-M; Floyd Crowder, RKO; A. L. Kaplan, Warners, and Robert Perkins, Universal. Al Daff of Universal and Sidney Albright of 20th Century-Fox are at Batavia, Java, and James McIlhenny of 20th Century-Fox and Robert Lury, Universal, are at Singapore. Arthur G. Doyle, 20th's Far Eastern supervisor, is believed to be en route to the United States. A. Swemmelaar of Warners is at Hong Kong.

Recalled to U. S.

Morey Marcus of United Artists and Charles Mayer of 20th Century-Fox sailed for the Far East on the President Polk from San Francisco on Saturday. The ship was called back to port Sunday and arrived yesterday.

Japanese were removed from the accredited list of motion picture correspondents yesterday by major company foreign departments.

Recess Hearing on Press-Radio Tieux

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The FCC, which wound up its presentation of the newspaper-radio situation Friday, has recessed hearings to give newspaper interests an opportunity to prepare their evidence on the effects of newspaper ownership of broadcasting stations.

No date was set for further hearings, but it was indicated no sessions probably would be held until after the turn of the year.

The all-industry unity effort is viewed by Barney Balaban, Paramount president, as taking on new significance and importance with the United States in the war.

prestige as its leader, and a person of similar standing as its general counsel.

Peace between factional exhibitor groups of the country is one of the principal objectives of the unity meeting. That such a peace is desired rather than the continuous warfare and prejudices of these groups is readily admitted by leaders already assembled here.

Five separate exhibitor groups met here today to formulate their plans for the meeting. They were: Allied States, the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners, MPTOA, Northwest Allied and groups representing regional exhibitor groups not affiliated with either national exhibitor organization.

At the national Allied meeting were Abram F. Myers, H. A. Cole, Jack Kirsch, Sidney Samuelson, Roy Harrold, Martin G. Smith and Ben Berger. Cole, Allied president, said that Kirsch, head of Illinois Allied, would preside at the opening of the all-industry meeting tomorrow.

Cole said that Allied has no intention of dominating the meeting and that each exhibitor and distributor representative who wishes to do so will have the opportunity to be heard.

War Overshadows Meet Preparation

Chicago, Dec. 8.—The war partly overshadowed the all-industry unity meeting as industry representatives gathering here yesterday and today from all parts of the country gave as much attention to radio bulletins and newspapers as they did to plans for the meeting.

He said Allied has a "definite idea on unity but the plan is new to other exhibitor organizations."

At the MPTOA conference were Ed Kuykendall, president, and members of the organization's executive committee. Their first action was the adoption of a resolution endorsing President Roosevelt in the international situation and pledging the support of the theatres of MPTOA units.

Kuykendall declined to comment on MPTOA's position at the unity meeting. Attending the session in addition to Kuykendall were H. V. Harvey, Max A. Cohen, O. C. Lam, and Fred Wehrenberg. Lewen Pizor and Arthur Lockwood are expected to arrive tomorrow and Morris Loewenstein will not attend, having been designated to represent Kuykendall at the convention of the Oklahoma Theatre Owners at Oklahoma City tomorrow.

Coast Unit Has Plan

The conference of PCCITO delegates was attended by Robert H. Poole, executive secretary; L. O. Lukan, Jack Y. Berman, and H. V. Harvey. It was reported that the Pacific Coast group would recommend the adoption of the organization's 11-point program by the all-industry meeting.

At the meeting of representatives of regional organizations were Harry Brandt, Leo F. Wolcott, William F. Crockett, Harry C. Arthur, Jr., John Rugar, Poole, Berman, W. B. Bryant, Myron Blank, Robert White, Harvey and Robert Barton.

E. L. Peaslee and Fred Strom of Northwest Allied considered procedure for presenting their views on the serious product situation in Minnesota and complaints against product terms to distribution executives who are expected here tomorrow.

answers to the Government's interrogatories. Louis D. Frohlich of Schwartz & Frohlich, New York, appeared for Columbia, and Benjamin Pepper of O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery, New York, for United Artists and Universal.

Setting of the March trial date for the Schine anti-trust suit will make it impossible for the Government to begin trial of its New York action against the "Little Three" in April, as the Government announced recently it planned to do. The Schine trial is expected to last at least a month and preparations for trial of the New York suit would require a minimum of another month, attorneys say.

law against Paramount, RKO and 20th Century-Fox.

The criminal actions are scheduled for trial beginning Dec. 15 and involve what the consenting companies believe will be a quicker and more definitive test of the constitutionality of the law than would be provided by the civil action.

The civil action had been scheduled for trial tomorrow but local counsel for the distributors reached an agreement with state officials.

U.S. Decree 'Mess', MPTO Bulletin Says

"The consent decree is a mess," the MPTOA asserts in an organization bulletin which reviews the workings of the decree thus far.

Issued yesterday, on the eve of the all-industry unity meeting in Chicago, today, the bulletin makes the significant statement that while the industry already has been "dragged so far into government regulation that it will have great difficulty in extricating itself," and that "even if the cooperation and backing heretofore withheld can be secured now, it is a question whether self-regulation and self-discipline can be undertaken by the organized industry at this time."

"Whether the consent decree can be rewritten during its three-year period," the bulletin continues, "how long it would take to get it modified (even if everybody agreed upon the desired changes) and whether legislation (such as the Minnesota law) is the only way it can be changed, are questions that require careful examination. In the meantime, the number of exhibitors who would like to see the consent decree busted up, for a variety of reasons of their own, is steadily growing."

A selective contract offering a reasonable cancellation right, unhampered by conditions, is advocated in place of the block-of-five method.

The bulletin criticizes the operation of the arbitration system.

All Theatres Are Affected By Arbitration

Arbitration awards can be enforced against theatres which refuse to intervene in a proceeding by means of the arbitrator's power to regulate clearance and other provisions of contracts of the consenting companies, the national appeals board said yesterday in a decision reversing the arbitrator's award in the clearance case of the Squire Theatre, Great Neck, L. I.

In its decision, the board increased the clearance of the Skouras Playhouse, Great Neck, to 14 days over the Squire, from the seven days clearance which had been set as a maximum by George H. Spiegelberg, arbitrator, in making the original award. In addition, the board gave the Little Neck Theatre one day's clearance over the Squire, whereas Spiegelberg had abolished all clearance between the two.

Spiegelberg made no award as to the Beacon, Port Washington, and the Manhasset Theatre, which were named as interested parties on the ground that, having failed to intervene in the case, he lacked jurisdiction over them. It was on this point that the appeals board ruled that they may be affected because of an arbitrator's power to set the maximum clearance which a consenting distributor may accord to theatres involved.

The board gave the Beacon a maximum clearance of seven days over the Squire and the Manhasset four days. Spiegelberg's award also was modified to limit it to future contracts entered into by the five consenting companies with the theatres involved and not to existing contracts. The appeal was taken by the intervenors, Skouras Playhouse and Northern Amusement Corp., operator of the Little Neck. The Playhouse, prior to the complaint, had 30 days clearance over the Squire, except from Paramount, which gave it 14 days, and the Little Neck had seven days clearance.

Clearance Altered in Philadelphia Decision

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—Calvin H. Rankin, arbitrator, in an award entered here on Saturday permitted the 28 days clearance of Warners' Logan over A. M. Ellis' Broad Theatre, Philadelphia, to remain, but reduced the 21 days clearance of Hunt's Rockland to 14 days and the 14 days clearance of Warners' Bromley to seven days.

The seven days clearance of Warners' Grange over the Broad also was permitted to stand, although no change had been sought in that situation.

Meanwhile, the clearance complaint of Columbus Stamper, operator of the Rivoli here, was withdrawn.

Ampa Relief Fund Total Now $2,304

The Ampa welfare committee reported yesterday that $2,304 was collected for its relief fund during the first six months of its existence. Because of the need of those being aided, the committee recommended that preference be given present and past members of Ampa.

Schaefer Will Realign RKO Departments

Schaefer's approval. Breen, it is also indicated, will make some changes. The realignment both here and on the Coast is for the purpose of coordinating activities under the direct supervision and authority of Schaefer.

It is also indicated that N. Peter Rathvon will shortly assume the position of vice-president of RKO, in an operating capacity, subject to the supervision of the president.

In the meantime, reports are that among the persons soon to depart from the lot is J. R. McDonough.

Schaefer, it is said, intends to build a more closely-knit and cooperative organization, which will function smoothly and with the greatest coordination under his full authority.

Para. Closes With Loew Metropolitan

Paramount yesterday closed with Loew's metropolitan circuit for the distributor's first two blocks of new season's product. The deal has been in negotiation for months and has held up the playing of Paramount's new product in neighborhood houses of the entire metropolitan area. The negotiations were concluded by C. C. Moskowitz of Loew's and Neil F. Agnew of Paramount.

War Jitters Slash Gross Over Country

Areas With Blackouts or 'Alerts' Hardest Hit

Three days of war jitters, constant radio news bulletins, several air raid alarms and the climax of the nationwide address by President Roosevelt at 10 o'clock EST last night, caused grosses to slump badly from coast to coast.

Many theatres moved to keep their audiences by making arrangements for reception of the speech somewhere in the house, or, in some instances, giving bulletins of the speech.

A 10 P.M. house check at Broadway theatres revealed business fell as much as 50 per cent of normal, according to

Entertainment Only Is Theatres' Policy

Broadway theatres and major circuits are planning to continue a policy of "entertainment only" in the emergency, with respect to interruption of programs to present war news bulletins. A similar decision was reached yesterday by Warner circuit officials meeting in Philadelphia. It was generally felt that theatres could do much to bolster morale by providing uninterrupted entertainment.

Metro Will Resume Minnesota Selling Rodgers Reveals

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—M-G-M will resume selling in Minnesota at the earliest opportunity as a concrete example of its willingness to contribute to industry unity and cooperation, William F. Rodgers, vice-president and general sales manager of Loew's, announced at the all-industry unity meeting here today.

He said that the decision to resume selling had been made only today and at the request of a group of exhibitors representing Northwest Allied at the all-industry meeting.

Details of the procedure by which the company will re-enter Minnesota have not been worked out, it was learned, but are expected to follow that taken by all other consenting companies in applying for an exemption from the sales provisions of the consent decree in order that it can comply with the provisions of the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (Wednesday).—A permanent Motion Picture Industry Committee of 26 members to effectuate the program to be adopted by the all-industry conference will, according to report, be recommended by the ways and means committee at the 10 A. M. session today.

'Last Chance' To Unite, Kent Tells Meeting

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—In the most direct statement uttered at the all-industry unity conference, Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, not only urged a blending of the interests of all branches of the business but warned gravely that this might be the last chance for the industry to stop its internal bickerings and unite, unless it expected to face even graver ob-

The ways and means committee, which elected T. J. Connors chairman, completed its work after an all-night session. CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—With an address by Abram F. Myers, Allied States chairman and general counsel, which enumerated aims of the all-industry unity meeting here today, and a message of encouragement and warning to the industry representatives from Sidney R. Kent, 20th Century-Fox president, the opening session swung into action by designating a

Garbo Picture Is Revised by Metro

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9.—M-G-M last night completed and dispatched East a revised version of "Two-Faced Woman." Due to plane restrictions the film was shipped by train.

The revision of the picture comes in sequel to objections against the original version registered by the Legion of Decency and represents an effort on the part of M-G-M to have the Legion's outright condemnation of the film lifted and placed instead in an unobjectionable for adults classification.

The text of the resolution follows:

Navy Film Service in Year Cost $447,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Motion picture service for the United States Fleet and the Naval shore establishments during the fiscal year ended June 30, last, cost $447,000, of which $197,000 was contributed by the Government and the balance met from profits of ship's stores, ships' services and post exchanges, it was disclosed in the annual report of Rear Admiral C. W. Nimitz, chief of the Bureau of Navigation.

During the year, the report showed, $219,415 was expended on new projection equipment for ships and stations. The Navy Motion Picture Exchange cost approximately $10,000 for maintenance. The motion picture service is a "major element" in the Navy's morale program, Admiral Nimitz declared. # Harmony Keynotes All-Industry Conference

All Enterprises in Canada Included In License System

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—All business enterprises in the Dominion, manufacturing, importing, wholesale, retail and service units, are to be brought under the domination of a license system, it has been announced by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, of which David Gordon of the Bank of Canada is chairman. The move is intended to cover all companies and establishments under a control system, which have not already been brought under the scope of the two Orders-in-Council for the freezing of retail prices, theatre admissions and other consumer costs.

Deadline Today

Those already specifically mentioned as coming within the scope of the regulations which became effective Dec. 1 have been given until Dec. 10 to apply for their business operating licenses and the board has announced: "Other businesses should not apply for licenses until asked to do so." It is anticipated that film distributing companies and importers of equipment and accessories will come under the widened licensing edict so that the releasing of films may eventually be regulated. The official hint of things to come contained the following statement: "All persons coming within the provisions of the new order will be automatically licensed under its terms."

Includes Related Services

In the including of "the exhibiting of motion pictures," the interpretation is made of the word "services" as follows: "Services means the following specified services and any services associated therewith or ancillary thereto, and also any activities or undertakings that may hereafter be designated by the board as services for the purposes of these regulations." Eleven services are designated in the order and one of them is the exhibiting of motion pictures.

Whether control of film rentals is intended to be a part of this requirement or not is a matter of interpretation, it is contended by film trade officials. Film distribution can be called a service associated with the exhibition of films and the wording of the official interpretation also makes it possible for the board to say that film renting or any other activity can be brought under the scope of price level.

war drives that are sure to come, it was stated yesterday by C. C. Moskowitz, co-chairman with Schenck in the 1942 March of Dimes drive.

First instructions were sent yesterday by Schenck to the state chairman for the drive, to be held Jan. 22 to 29. Moskowitz said that leading exhibitors throughout the country have volunteered their services and that a number of important circuits have agreed to cooperate. Collections will be taken in lobbies.

ways and means committee to set up an all-industry program.

Representing exhibitors on the committee are: H. A. Cole and Sidney Samuelson, Allied States; Ed Kuykendall and Max A. Cohen, MPTOA; and Robert H. Poole and Leo Wolcott, representing units not affiliated with either national exhibitor organization, such as the PCCITO, the ITOA of New York and others. Neil Agnew and T. J. Connors were named to represent decree consenting distributors and Steve Broidy of Monogram, to represent non-consenting distributors.

The committee met tonight to draft a program of action and is scheduled to report back to the conference tomorrow morning. The committee was set up on a motion by Kuykendall to form such a group in order to simplify execution of the purposes of the conference and that the committee formulate a program of action.

Jack Kirsch, president of Illinois Allied, presided. The meeting at the Blackstone Hotel today was studded with nearly 100 trade leaders from all over the country. Many addressed the conference which started shortly after 1:00 P.M., with the consciousness of the nation's entry into war overshadowing the thoughts of all.

Top Executives Attend

Among the leaders present were: Nicholas M. Schenck, Barney Balaban, George J. Schaefer, William F. Rodgers, J. Robert Rubin, Austin Keough, Felix Jenkins, Connors, Agnew, Claude Lee, John Balaban, Jack Cohn, Abe Montague, James R. Grainger, Broidy, Joseph Bernhard, Harry Brandt, Ned Depinet, Charles Reagan, Poole, Eddie Rubens, Harry Arthur, Kuykendall, Cole, Samuelson, Cohen, Lewen Pizor, Oscar Lam, Fred Wehrenberg, H. V. Harvey, Jack Miller and Pete Wood.

Myers, in his address, revealed that among the proposals advanced for consideration are the formation of a single, national exhibitor organization, a new selling method to replace the decree's blocks-of-five system and the establishment of a national conference and mediation board for the industry.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY reported yesterday that these three proposals would be among the most important to be broached at the meeting.

Myers informed the delegates that Allied's members are unwilling "at this time" to merge with or become a part of a single, national exhibitor organization. Asserting that the proposal required more thorough study, Myers said that without a background of experience in such a project and particularly because of financial and other requirements, Allied is unwilling now to relinquish its right to function independently when required to do so.

Discussing Allied's motives in calling the unity conference, Myers said that it is Allied's conviction that

Adjust Problems, Schenck Tells Meet

Chicago, Dec. 9.—"Exhibitors and distributors should adjust all problems among themselves," Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, told the all-industry unity meeting here today.

"All problems should be met by unity," he said. "Out of that cooperation will come unity, strength, friendship and security in our industry."

the blocks-of-five sales method "has proved unsatisfactory to the great majority of its members." He said that the conference was arranged without a concrete plan complete in details, and that for the time being Allied "has gone no further than to approve the simplest kind of industry organization based upon the voluntary cooperation of all concerned, namely, a national, joint conference committee which would function as a voluntary planning and mediation board."

In this connection Myers analyzed Allied's seven-point declaration of policy, urging it as being worthy of the consideration of such a board. That policy, as already reported, contemplates an industry defense against unfair taxation and outside attack; the undertaking of goodwill activities, such as institutional advertising; protection of industry priorities on essential materials; the replacement of the decree selling system with a more acceptable one and the establishment of machinery for the discussion and possible adjustment of practices opposed by any branch of the industry or substantial portion thereof.

William F. Rodgers, Loew's vice-president and general sales manager, said in addressing the meeting that in his 32 years' experience in the business he had attended no gathering which compared with this in importance and number of industry leaders present.

"More than ever before do we need unity, with attention being focused on the industry," he said. "There are no problems that cannot be ironed out at a round table."

Offers Ampa's Aid

A resolution giving Ampa's endorsement to a public relations program on behalf of the entire industry and offering the services of Ampa and its industry advertising, publicity and exploitation members to such a project was presented by Maurice Bergman, Ampa's delegate. The resolution proposed that the industry conference appoint a committee to formulate a public relations plan and that this committee submit a report on ways and means of carrying out such a plan within 30 days.

Leo Wolcott of Iowa-Nebraska Allied offered resolutions, which were tabled.

'Last Chance' To Unite, Kent Tells Meeting

obstacles and more serious problems in the future.

Kent presented his views in a letter addressed to Abram F. Myers, who read the missive to the assembled audience.

Introduces Connors

His letter introduced T. J. Connors, newly appointed executive assistant to Kent, who, he wrote, "will carry forward the conviction I have always had with regard to the great value of inter-industry cooperation."

Kent also paid tribute to William F. Rodgers of M-G-M, asserting that if everyone else had done as much as he to preserve industry cooperation there would now be unity in the trade.

Kent drew a comparison between the industry and the experience of American organized labor which, he recalled, after having been high in public favor for many years, now "faces the most drastic laws against any class ever intended in our country."

"We, as an industry, face the same thing if we continue with our internal agitations," he stated. "We will earn just what we will get."

Traces Negotiations

Kent traced the history of inter-industry negotiations from the old 5-5-5 pact up to the present. Asserting that "while the results which we obtained in the past were not always perfect, we kept together," Kent related that ultimately "agitation took the place of good will and cooperation," and that, thereafter, "trade practice conferences failed and the decree, laws and lawsuits took the place of wise industry counsel and cooperation."

"This is our last chance to regain lost ground before we get more legislation and more lawsuits," Kent said.

His letter reminded exhibitors

that despite their cries that they are being driven out of business, "we all have survived and gone ahead." And he said that the distributor must go back to the realization that the independent exhibitor has a proper place in the business "and is an economic necessity and not a hardship."

"As to the problem of chain theatres, it appears about to be tested in the courts and the final answer is now beyond either side," Kent stated.

Foreclose in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9.—Keith's Theatre, 26-year-old vaudeville and film house, will go on the block in about three weeks under mortgage foreclosure proceedings instituted here in Circuit Court against the Maryland Theatrical Corp., which operates Keith's, by the Lexington Theatre Co., of which Morris Mechanic is president.

"Bedtime Story"

(Columbia)

EQUIPPED with a script full of humorous dialogue and amusing complications, Fredric March as a playwright and Loretta Young as his actress wife provide a maximum of onstage, offstage and backstage entertainment in this comedy of careers, conflicts and coincidences.

The story has to do with the actress-wife's determination to retire from the stage to a life of simple domesticity and the playwright-husband's determination that they shall continue their professional careers. She persists, despite his attempts to dissuade her, to the point of divorcing him and marrying another man, but discovers in time that her divorce was not valid and her second marriage is therefore without standing. Reunited, actress and playwright compromise on a life divided between home and career.

Highlight of the picture, according to riotous response of a theatre preview audience, is the sequence in which the husband, discovering as his wife has that her second marriage is invalid, rescues her from a hotel apartment by sending a procession of porters, chambermaids, plumbers, exterminators, waiters, finally a band of celebrating conventioners, into the department which the would-be second husband has dined his supposed bride preliminary to retiring. A free-for-all ensues, out of which husband and wife emerge safely. Handling of the bedroom situation observes the proprieties somewhat more carefully than is typical of sophisticated comedies in general.

Robert Benchley, Allyn Joslyn, Eve Arden, Helen Westley, Joyce Compton, Tim Ryan, Olaf Hytten, Dorothy Adams, Clarence Kolb and Andrew Tombes are seen in competent support. Production is by B. P. ### "Borrowed Hero"

(Monogram)

NOVELTY of story and dispatch in its telling lift this metropolitan melodrama well above the par of contemporary offerings of kindred subject matter and comparable budget.

Approach to the topic of civic corruption, which is the film's principal concern, is by way of a young attorney whose accidental assistance to police in capture of a killer make him a headline hero. The civic leader, who is also the chief grafter, arranges the young man's appointment as special prosecutor, planning to use him as unwitting stooge in the gang's operations. At the turning point, however, the young man adopts gang methods and, taking one of the gang's killers for a ride and threatening him with death, brings the story to righteous conclusion.

Ben Roberts and Sidney Sheldon furnished the story and Earle Snell the screenplay which producer A. W. Hackel and director Lewis D. Collins filmed in a manner to produce maximum screen effectiveness.

Players are Alan Baxter, Florence Rice, John Hamilton, Constance Worth, Wilma Francis, Richard Terry, Mary Gordon, Jerry Marlowe, Stanley Andrews, George Dobbs, Paul Everton, Guy Usher and many more.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."*

"Come On Danger"

(RKO)

LEADOFF in the group of three Tim Holt westerns being offered in a block by RKO, "Come On Danger" piles up more action in its short running time than any outdoor film screened for some time. With Holt supported by Ray Whitley and Lee "Lasses" White, his perennial buddies in the series which is now in its second year, the picture has personal and mob movement, comedy, a dash of romance and music all tied up with an exciting story.

The trio enact the roles of Texas Rangers who, disguising their identity, clean out the gang of a grafting tax assessor who attempts to murder ranchers led by a girl whose land he has stolen. Edward Killy, identified with all previous Holt westerns at RKO, and Bert Gilroy, the producer of the entire group, utilize every foot of the film to best advantage in filling it with ingredients to satisfy action fans. An extremely fast tempo is maintained.

Frances Neal, Karl Hackett, Malcolm McTaggart, Glenn Strange and others support the trio.

Short Subject Reviews

"Holt of the Secret Service"

(Columbia)

Two well-established box-office favorites, Jack Holt and Evelyn Brent play the leading roles in the new 15-chapter serial directed by James H. Horne. Based on a screening of the first two chapters, this is a story which is likely to have considerable appeal both to adults and children, as it is chockfull of action right through. Each episode ends with a short trailer calling attention to the next chapter.

Holt and Brent are assigned by the Secret Service to track down a gang of counterfeiters. Holt poses as an escaped convict while Miss Brent poses as his gun-moll wife. Others in the cast include Montague Shaw, Tristram Coffin, John Ward, Ted Adams, Joe McGuinn, Edward Hearn, Ray Parsons and Jack Cheatham. Running time, first chapter, 30 mins.; others, 20 mins. Release, Nov. 21, 1941.

"The Fox and the Grapes"

(Color Rhapsody)

(Columbia)

There are some clever animations in this story of a wily fox who sets out innocently on a picnic. After spreading his lunch, a crow tempts him with a bunch of grapes, offering to trade the grapes for the lunch, but the fox tries to get them without paying anything. After many attempts, he succeeds, but finds the grapes are sour. It is in Technicolor. Running time, 8 mins. Release, Dec. 5, 1941.

"California or Bust"

(Western Musical)

(RKO-Pathé)

Ray Whitley and his "Six Bar Cowboys" join a wagon train setting out for California where, it is said, lies a wealth of gold. The group sings a number of Western tunes which are fairly enjoyable, but the story and its presentation are barely adequate. Highlight is an Indian attack which is staged in a manner that might impress children. Running time, 18 mins. Release, Nov. 7, 1941.

"The Copacabana Revue"

(Headliner)

(Paramount)

With Pancho and his orchestra, Juanita Juarez, vocalist, and the "Samba Sirens," all concerned with "conga" song and dance, this adds up to a good musical subject. The "Sirens" are a group of girls featured at Copacabana, prominent Broadway night spot. A dance team and acrobats also are on the program. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Nov. 28, 1941.

"Information Please, No. 2"

(RKO-Pathé)

Howard Lindsay, star of "Life With Father," is the guest expert in this continuation of the quiz series. The regular board of experts and Clifton Fadiman are present, as usual. A number of visual queries are used such as quoting lines of poetry suggested by pantomime acts. The caliber of entertainment of the series is maintained with this. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Oct. 17, 1941.

FCC Sets Up Machinery in Raid Areas

Machinery for silencing broadcasting stations in areas where air raids are threatened was set up by the FCC yesterday, it was announced in Washington.

Field inspectors have been assigned to liaison duty between the interceptor command of the Army and the stations in each area. Orders issued by the inspectors to shut down must be complied with immediately, the commission warned.

Meanwhile, in San Francisco, where stations went off the air at about 4 P.M. Monday, normal operations were resumed shortly after 4 P.M. yesterday.

Under the FCC setup, stations will be advised promptly so that they may resume programs and a system of quick communication will be organized to expedite the movement of orders to close down or start again. At present, it was said, inspectors are stationed at interceptor command headquarters at New York, Seattle, Tampa, Fla., and Riverside, Cal., but additional inspectors will be sent to 19 other cities.

In New York, fingerprinting and photographing of every official and employe of networks and stations were begun. Precautions were taken to prevent casual visitors from entering offices unless properly identified.

Short Wave on 24 Hours

Short wave operations at NBC were extended to 24 hours daily with all commentators banned. Network news is no longer being used. Instead, it is being prepared specially by the short wave staff. Like the domestic broadcasters, all short wave stations are concentrating almost exclusively on news. NBC also added a ninth language, Turkish, while CBS broadcasts with 10.

Networks continued for the third day to operate continuously throughout the day and night, with many commercial programs cancelled or shortened. The air raid alert in the SEPARATE corporate setups for the Red and Blue networks were ready to be announced by NBC at the board meeting Monday, but the declaration of war caused postponement of the announcement, it was reported unofficially yesterday.

Purely Personal: Jack Hyatt has joined the radio division of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday. . . . Irwin Elliott, news editor of WFBR, Baltimore, and Ruth Huber will be married Dec. 25. . . . Free E. Willson, formerly with WILL, Champaign, Ill., has joined the sales staff of WIND, Chicago. . . . Chester B. Cahn has joined the WBYN sales staff.

Hundreds of telegrams and letters requesting the text of speeches made last week at the dinner given by William S. Paley, CBS president, to Edward R. Murrow, the network's chief of European correspondents now here on a visit, has resulted in a decision by the network to print a booklet containing the speeches of Paley, Murrow and Archibald MacLeish. Many requests have been received from those attending the dinner, as well as from listeners, it was said.

Despite extra precautions to prevent entrance to NBC offices these days, the network has decided to continue the tours through Radio City. Admittance of all persons to the studio elevators is carefully checked and even newspapermen covering the network are required to carry passes.

Ira Walsh, WPEN, Philadelphia, publicity director, has resigned to take the post of radio and television coordinator for the physical fitness program planned by the Civilian Defense Board.

New York area occupied local stations all day but none went off the air. Later, stations broadcast the information that it was a practice signal. Recognizing the possibility of confusion, NBC banned the sounding of sirens or gongs on all dramatic programs. Even old established programs like "Gangbusters" which have used sirens as themes for long periods will be compelled to change, it was stated.

WOR during the day broadcast air raid sirens to familiarize listeners with the sound and cooperated with police during the alert signal.

Coast Situation Eased

The interceptor inspectors set up yesterday by the FCC eased the West Coast situation where stations previously had understood that they were to go off the air each night at 7 P.M. Under the new order, they will continue to broadcast until ordered to stop. Programs originating on the Coast continued to be fed to the networks despite the fact that the stations there were off the air. The fact that such shows are transmitted by telephone lines, of course, made such continuance possible.

Television, too, played a part in disseminating war news. WCBW, the CBS station televised a copy of Mayor LaGuardia's brochure, "If It Comes," concerning air raid precaution, immediately after it was issued and also picked up a diagram of an Air Raid Protection Service map of a city block prepared by Senior Post Warden Edward E. Georges.

CBC Launches 5th Year with Murray

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. has launched the fifth year of its operation in its present setup under Federal Government auspices, it has been formally announced, under the continued management of Gladstone Murray. The CBC has completed its short-wave receiving station at Britannia Heights in Eastern Ontario as an Empire link. Monitors are on duty 16 hours daily at this station for the maintenance of a listening post to foreign broadcasts.

War Booming Sale Of Portable Radios

The war has boomed the sale of portable radios. A CBS survey indicated that Bloomingdale's was selling them "like hotcakes" with sales about 800 per cent above normal. Macy's reported an increase in its entire radio business, although portables led.

Surveying newspaper sales CBS found the Journal-American circulation on Monday increased about 35 per cent to about the million mark; the World-Telegram increased about 50 per cent, while the Herald Tribune exceeded its normal circulation by about 100,000.

Says Only 2% Listen To European Shows

MONTREAL, Dec. 9.—Only two per cent of the people of the United States listen to short wave broadcasts from Germany and Great Britain, E. P. H. James, sales promotion manager for NBC-Blue, told the Advertising and Sales Executive Club of Montreal. He pointed out that short wave propaganda thus would have very little effect on this side of the Atlantic.

James declared more Canadians listen to U. S. broadcasts than vice versa and that Canadians are therefore more familiar with U. S. thought. He said Canadian sponsored broadcasts should be increased in the United States.

Foreign Language Stations Offer Aid

Foreign language station representative in the metropolitan area, meeting at the offices of WHOM yesterday, called upon national, state and city defense organizations to make fuller use of their facilities to reach foreign-language groups. It was pointed out that many in the city understand fully only their native languages.

Programs are available in Italian, Polish, German, Yiddish, Spanish, Hungarian, Lithuanian, Czech, Ukrainian, Greek, Armenian, Chinese, Syrian, Russian and French. Stations represented were WBYN, WCNW, WBNX, WWRL, WEVD, WHOM and WOY.

War Jitters Slash Gross Over Country

of the loss being after 6:30 P. M., due to the war news and the President's speech. Neighborhood business was off from 10 to 40 per cent, with the smaller houses hit hardest. One Indiana circuit head said that grosses at all its theatres, in towns of 30,000 and up, has been cut almost in half since Sunday.

Theatre attendances in the Los Angeles area dropped an estimated 50 per cent of normal, especially in the Long Beach and San Pedro areas, sections of which were evacuated of civilians. A blackout of that area was ordered at 5 P. M.

Exhibitors in areas where blackouts were ordered, or air raid alerts were in progress, were particularly hard hit.

Schools were dismissed yesterday after the sounding of New York's first air raid signal.

Theatres Carry Speech

The time of the President's speech, 10 P.M., affected Eastern theatres least but the other time zones across the country were hit harder. Most neighborhood houses here made arrangements to carry the speeches over the loud speaker systems. Schedules were adjusted to permit the speech to be heard between features.

In Washington, President Roosevelt's address, combined with a partial blackout, reduced theatre attendance to skeleton figures. The three Loew houses piped in the speech to their audiences. The blackout extinguished all theatre marquee and neon signs.

Loew's, RKO, Century, Randforce and Brandt were among the New York circuits which carried the speeches from the stage. All theatres which did not follow suit, made arrangements to have the speech heard over lobby receivers.

Newsreel theatres in New York receive news from Transradio Press and are flashing important bulletins on the screen as fast as they arrive. Tickers are installed in the lobbies to be watched by patrons.

The League of New York Theatres, organization of legitimate stage producers and theatre owners, announced yesterday that these houses would be furnished with bulletins by the League to be read from the stage during intermissions.

Shutting off of marquee and house lighting in San Francisco during Monday's blackout cut grosses more than 60 per cent, it was reported.

Blackouts in Canada

From Canada came word that the danger of raids on the U. S. coast had resulted in increased air raid precautions at coastal cities. Vancouver, Victoria and other cities on the lower British Columbia mainland have undergone complete blackouts, it was reported, affecting about 45 houses in that area alone.

In Seattle, where blackouts are underway from 11 o'clock, business is at its lowest point in months, it was reported.

"Johnny Eager"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Dec. 9.

THIS is the story of a gangster, a master of men and a magnet for women, whose ruthlessness, skill and complete lack of morals, honor or sportsmanship carry him triumphantly through a series of crimes, ranging from parole violation to murder, to a point where, overtaken by his first honest impulse, he is trapped in a street battle and killed by a policeman after having mowed down a rival gang. A literal interpretation of the eventuation would be that he'd have continued triumphantly if he hadn't yielded to his one honest impulse.

It is one of the longest, most elaborately staged and most "all out" gangster pictures ever produced, although not the most convincing, due in part to some ultra-literate dialogue and in part to accentuation of the character-study angle.

In its combining of killer and Casanova characteristics in the personality of the principal figure, and in its emphasizing of the slavish adulation of the gangster by the women in his life, the film recalls vividly the same studio's 1931 production of "A Free Soul."

Robert Taylor plays the irresistible ex-convict with Lana Turner, Patricia Dane and Glenda Farrell portraying his voluntarily enslaved inamoratas (to use a word made much of in the dialogue) in various stages of preference. Van Heflin, as the gangster's collaborator, and Boswell steals the picture repeatedly, and Edward Arnold dominates the few scenes in which he appears. Robert Sterling, Henry O'Neil, Diana Lewis, Barbara Nelson and Charles Dingle head a long list of supporting players.

The film is unsuitable on several points for exhibition to children and for some types of adult patronage.

Production is by John W. Considine, Jr., direction by Mervyn LeRoy, from a screenplay by John Lee Mahin and James Edward Grant based on a story by Grant.

Running time, 105 minutes. "A."*

"The Wolf Man"

(Universal)

THE fantastic legend of the werewolf again is brought to the screen, this time under the guidance of George Waggner, from an original screenplay by Curt Siodmak. It is still fantastic, still highly implausible, but it does have a full measure of suspense and thrill, and as such offers exploitable entertainment of its kind.

The cast is an unusually good one, and strong in marquee material, including Claude Rains, Ralph Bellamy, Warren William, Lon Chaney, Jr., Bela Lugosi, Patric Knowles and Maria Ouspenskaya.

The story is enacted in an atmosphere of fog and darkness in an English village. Chaney, returned after many years to the ancestral castle where his father, Rains, is master, is bitten by a werewolf in attempting to save the life of a girl, and so becomes a werewolf himself. As the village is panic-stricken, the werewolf strikes, while Rains attempts to lead his son's mind from his condition, and Bellamy, constable, leads the wolf—or man—hunt. In love with Evelyn Ankers, village girl, Chaney seeks to save her for himself. In a suspense-laden final sequence, Chaney is caught in a trap, returns to his proper physical appearance, and word is spread that he died trying to save the girl.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."*

File 29th Complaint At New York Board

The New York arbitration board received its 29th complaint yesterday with the filing of a demand by Loren Theatres, Inc., operator of the New Paltz Theatre, New Paltz, N. Y.

The complaint names Loew's and alleges that the distributor has granted unfair clearance to Loew's Bradwin, Poughkeepsie, and to the Broadway, Kingston, N. Y., over the New Paltz. According to American Arbitration Association headquarters, the complaint seeks an award permitting the New Paltz to play ahead of either one of the two competing theatres named, instead of after both of them.

precautions and studio protection. Fire and police reserves are being enlisted and blackout curtains have been ordered.

Ten IATSE business representatives instituted a survey to determine the qualifications of technicians for service in civilian defense. Thousands of studio workers have already joined these services.

Rearrange Schedules

Studio shooting schedules have been rearranged to avoid the necessity for night location work. Warners began building new exterior sets to take the place of outdoor locations.

Also affected are plans of several companies to shoot scenes on sea locations. All commercial vessels have been ordered into port and harbor traffic is restricted.

Lieut. Col. Richard Schlosberg and Capt. Sy Bartlett planed in today from Washington to confer with officials on increasing the number of training films for the war services. Schlosberg said that a program of offering commissions in the Signal Corps to top creative talent was under consideration and details would be revealed shortly.

SWG Rallies Members

The Screen Writers Guild executive board today placed its members' services at the disposal of all defense services and called a mass meeting of all writers and publicity men for Monday night when plans for extended cooperation will be announced. Captains have been appointed at each studio to enlist volunteers. A wire pledging support was sent to President Roosevelt.

Garbo Picture Is Revised by Metro

Douglas for one day's shooting was necessitated in the revision, which also involved elimination of certain items of dialogue and scenes. It is learned that the effect of the changes is to show that the husband who did not detect the wife's disguise until late in the original version discovers it early in the revised version.

The picture in its original version closes a week's run here tomorrow to moderate business which slumped in proportion to all local grosses following the outbreak of war.

Seattle Censor May Review Garbo Film

SEATTLE, Dec. 9.—With "Two Faced Woman" scheduled for opening at Hamrick-Evergreen's Paramount on Dec. 17, the Seattle Board of Theatre Censors will meet in special session next week to consider the advisability of requesting a preview before the opening date.

Meanwhile, John Hamrick, circuit head, said the public showing would be held as scheduled with such elimination as the censor board requested.

Selznick said he has four scripts in preparation and intends to have two pictures shooting by May, one of which will most likely be "Jane Eyre." Joan Fontaine is slated for the lead, with only a remote chance that she might be replaced by Vivien Leigh if the latter returns from England in time.

INDUSTRY ADOPTS BASIS FOR UNITY

Chicago Meet Creates Permanent Industry Committee with Five Main Objectives; Exhibitors, Distributors Harmonious

By SAM SHAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—With almost cataclysmic suddenness the motion picture industry after only two days of discussion at the historic unity conference held here has finally found a working basis for inter-industry harmony so long and vainly sought over the years.

The Committee

Chicago, Dec. 10.—The members pro tem of the Motion Picture Industry Conference Committee have been named, with Jack Kirsch as chairman. The group includes:

MPTOA — Ed Kuykendall, Fred Wehrenberg, H. V. Harvey, Max A. Cohen, Lewen Pizor.

Allied States—Col. H. A. Cole, Roy E. Harrold, Sidney E. Samuelson, Martin G. Smith, Jack Kirsch.

Independents — Robert H. Poole, Bob White, John Rugar, Leo F. Wolcott, Harry Brandt.

Distributors — William F. Rodgers, T. J. Connors, Neil Agnew, Abe Montague, James R. Grainger, Samuel Broidy.

A permanent committee will be named after the delegates report to their parent exhibitor boards.

For the first time a national conciliation committee has been created with the unanimous approval of all whereby distributor interest and exhibitor desires have been blended. In the opinion of many of the 70-odd delegates here, a miracle has just about occurred. When the conference began and before last Tuesday, they aver, there was open skepticism about the successful outcome of the meeting. The success of this exhibitor-sponsored unity meeting has therefore evoked enthusiastic praise by all delegates, distributors and exhibitors alike.

The unity conference was one which was held under the shadows of war. But this did not impede the purpose for which it had been called, observers say. This meeting was one

FWC Studies Effect Of Coast Blackouts

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—Fox West Coast officials tonight were studying effects of blackouts in the West Coast area for the first indication of the ultimate result on business at the circuit's 20 theatres in San Francisco, Long Beach, Wilmington and Torrance districts. All marquees and other outside illumination have been ordered shut off at night under Army orders until further notice as one of the precautions against air raids.

British Problem in New Calls to Arms

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Cinematograph Exhibitors Association, faced with wholesale depletions of theatre staffs through the Government's new manpower policy, will ask the Ministry of Labor to hear its case immediately after passage of the manpower bill.

Producers believe the Ministry will consider individual applications for exemption of studio technicians. Distributors, also hit, plan to take no action. It is expected all men under 25 will be called, and the present exemptions of certain groups will be cancelled. Without an attitude of conciliation toward films, the industry appears faced with a serious problem, observers declared.

New restrictions on the use of paper are having a serious effect on the use by the industry of posters and stills. However, the poster situation may be eased as the result of a distributor plea to the Board of Trade.

Kaufman Ticket Is Elected in Newark

NEWARK, Dec. 10.—The entire slate of incumbent officers of Local 244 of the operators union here, backed by Louis Kaufman, indicted business agent, has been reelected by a vote of 106 to 51. The opposition vote was larger than many observers expected.

Those reelected included Harold Shabolt, president; Daniel Oliner, vice-president; Harry Oppenheimer, recording secretary, and William C. Uessler, treasurer. George Gilligan led the opposition as candidate for president. The election was supervised by William J. Brennan, Jr., special master in chancery. Kaufman is under indictment in the Federal Court in New York with Nick Dean, alias Circella, on charges of conspiring to extort money from film executives.

... and a New Century of Music begins

A hundred years ago in the Apollo Rooms on Lower Broadway, an oboe sounded the pitch... the strings, the brasses and the woodwinds tuned... and a Connecticut Yankee raised his baton to signal the start of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. Before him, at their high music racks, stood the first symphony orchestra in America. Behind him an audience of some 400 sat upright in their pews.

Today, in Carnegie Hall, an oboe again sounds its "a"... and the 62nd successor to Ureli Hill raises his baton before the orchestra of the Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York.

And behind him... before him... all around him... an audience of 10,000,000 awaits the opening theme.

10,000,000 people listening to the radio on a Sunday afternoon!... More than have heard the Philharmonic within the walls of a concert hall in the hundred years of its history.

What finer tribute to the world's greatest orchestra on the beginning of its second century? What better evidence of an America musically come of age?

 The oscillograph registers the wave pattern of an oboe's "a" sounded by the Philharmonic's Bruno Labate. Instruments in an orchestra traditionally tune to an oboe because its accurate pitch and penetrating tone are easily caught by the human ear.

Reviews

"Thundering Hoofs"

(RKO)

Hollywood, Dec. 10

RKO introduces a few new twists in the western formula with "Thundering Hoofs," another in the series of outdoor action pictures featuring Tim Holt, Ray Whitley and Lee "Lasses" White. Compactly made and tersely told, the story deals with the efforts of a stage line owner to induce his son to handle the company instead of becoming a rancher. The boy refuses, leaves home and stumbles onto a plot to discredit his father in the acquisition of an additional line.

Lesley Selander, late of Harry Sherman's "Hopalong Cassidy" company, directed the picture, cramming it full of mass and individual action. Whitley sings several of his own songs, including one from which the title is derived. Bert Gilroy handles the production well. Supporting the trio are Luana Walters, Archie Twitchell, Gordon DeMain, Charles Phipps, Monte Montague, Joe Bernard, Frank Fanning, Fred Scott and Frank Ellis.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."*

"Confessions of Boston Blackie"

(Columbia)

ALTHOUGH certain of the phases of the picture are not altogether convincing, through no fault of the cast, "Confessions of Boston Blackie" is satisfactory entertainment.

The routine story has been given a substantial lift by good performances, particularly by Chester Morris, the character of the title; Richard Lane, the police inspector who has a tough time matching wits with the elusive ex-safe cracker, and George Stone, as Morris' assistant.

A murder is committed but the body is not found. The finger points at "Blackie," who is really innocent. In trying to clear himself, he searches for the body while dodging Lane. He finally proves his point but finds himself, Lane, Harriet Hilliard and others locked in the basement of a building with little chance of escape. The resourceful "Blackie," however, starts a fire, which attracts Stone, who summons a rescue party. Miss Hilliard and Morris provide the romance. Edward Dymtryk directed.

Running time, 66 minutes. "G."*

EUGENE ARNEEL

"Land of the Open Range"

(RKO)

THIS is a good western. It is a sufficiently sturdy yarn allowing for a good share of action and excitement, all developed on the screen in the customary manner of better Western films. Also it has brief musical numbers by Ray Whitley which are pleasant and do not detract from the story.

Tim Holt plays the lead, as deputy sheriff, supported by Whitley, Lee "Lasses" White, Janet Waldo, Hobart Cavanaugh and Lee Bonnell. The story stems from the will of the town's late outlaw chieftain which stipulates that his property go only to ex-convicts who are to compete in a homestead race. The executor of the will is bent on obtaining the property near the water, planning a dam and making the ranchers pay for irrigation. Holt upsets their plans. Edward Killy directed.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."*

U.S. Requests Writ in Final Crescent Brief

NASHVILLE, Dec. 10.—The Government's final brief in the Crescent anti-trust case, filed here today, charged neither United Artists, Universal and Exchanges, "nor any other private group operating under the system of free enterprise has any lawful right to decree that the local independent operator shall be absorbed by the circuit or chain simply because the latter form of enterprise offers them a greater opportunity to stabilize and control the film business to their advantage."

Aim at Competition

Continuing, the brief said in part: "If they have combined to suppress competition, the defendants have clearly violated the act and are subject to such an injunction as the court believes will make competition possible and thus give effect to the act insofar as this particular struggle for survival is concerned."

"The fact that the form of injunction proposed by the Government may not be completely effective for such purposes, due to the presence of other factors not within the reach of a judicial decree, may be a reason for rejecting that relief in favor of granting other and more effective relief but not for declining to grant relief."

"The most it (an injunction) can do is to provide a better opportunity for competition than heretofore existed."

No Choice, Says U. S.

"We respectfully submit that until and unless the industry advocates and secures for itself legislative recognition that it is a business which may render better service without competition than with it, the Government and the courts have no other choice in enforcing the Sherman Act than to compel it to operate as it claims to operate, that is, upon a competitive basis."

Among the brief's signers were Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold and Robert L. Wright, in charge of the Crescent prosecution.

which also benefited delegates from the interest in its purpose shown by such leaders as Sidney R. Kent, William F. Rodgers, Nicholas M. Schenck, Barney Balaban, H. A. Cole, Tom Connors, Abram Myers, Neil Agnew, Abe Montague, Jack Cohn, George J. Schaefer, Joseph Bernhard, Ed Kuykendall, Max A. Cohen, Robert Poole and others.

Internal bickerings and outside agitations now, leaders believe, can be met by a united industry front.

A report of the Ways and Means Committee was submitted to the meeting today by T. J. Connors, chairman. Harry Brandt moved for its acceptance and Fred Wehrenberg seconded. The report was adopted unanimously.

It provided for the appointment of a Motion Picture Industry Conference Committee of 26 members, as forecast by MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday, and specified five main objectives for a unity program. These dealt with taxation, industry defense against outside attack, institutional advertising and good will activities, obtaining priority ratings and conciliation of internal industry complaints.

Name Subcommittees

Subcommittees were appointed to work on each of the five points. They follow:

Taxation: Cole, Kuykendall, Brandt, Joseph Vogel, Spyros Skouras, Schaefer, Harry Kalmine.

Industry protection: Sidney R. Kent, Schaefer, Balaban, Poole, Kuykendall, Cole, Brandt.

Institutional advertising and good-will activities: Heads of advertising and publicity departments of all distributors and Leo Brecher, New York; Lionel Wasson, Des Moines; Fred Wehrenberg, St. Louis; Lewen Pizor, Philadelphia; Leonard Goldenson, New York; Pete Wood, Columbus; Don Rossiter, Indianapolis, and Moe Rosenberg, Pittsburgh.

Industry priorities: Joseph Bernhard and members of his existing priorities committee, and Sidney Samuelson, Carter Barron, Washington, D. C., and William Crockett, Virginia.

The main committee was designated to handle matters of internal industry complaint arising under Point 5.

Organizations which were represented at the meeting here are scheduled to meet separately to ratify the action taken and report to Kirsch. When approvals have been received the MPICC and its subcommittees will begin to function officially.

Text of Report

Following is the complete report of the Ways and Means Committee:

"In the interest of industry unity, this committee conveys to this assemblage a message of unique importance. It offers a coordination of thought and purpose in that in all of its discussions and debate it found a complete understanding in every direction. It is a pleasure to report to you that complete harmony prevailed and we earnestly look forward to the uniting of all interests represented here for unity in the motion picture industry.

"With our unanimous approval we present to you the following program outlining a proposal of activities, including the forming of the Motion Picture Industry Conference Committee.

In the forming of the MPICC your committee took into consideration the all-embracing inter-industry program and recommends that voting power therein be excluded. untarily because of population evacuations and the establishment of restricted areas.

Theatre business continues "exceptionally good" in Britain, Rose reported, but added that it is now experiencing a seasonal decline due to shorter daylight periods and earlier blackouts.

Action Expected Soon

The Paramount official said that in the very near future he believes the British Treasury may take action to eliminate all restrictions on remittances of the film companies' revenue. While admitting that he has heard of no official consideration given the matter in London, Rose said British officials concede that films are essential to national morale and believes more favorable currency treatment will be accorded the distributors for that reason.

Rose pointed out that with the United States now in war this nation has an equal need for currency and that the British restrictions now in force constitute a measure which this country would not employ against England even as a war move.

In addition to a shortage of technicians, players and materials, he said, studio space is severely limited. Reservations must be made for stages far in advance and there is no guarantee that they will be available even then, Rose said.

'Hatter's' Over Budget

Paramount recently completed "Hatter's Castle" in England in 13 weeks instead of a scheduled seven, and at 60 per cent over budget, due to the difficult conditions. The company plans to make "Quiet Weekend" next but has been advised that no studio space will be available before next April.

Rose plans to be in this country about six weeks and will spend most of the time on the Coast.

Meanwhile, Governor Lehman yesterday ordered immediate test blackouts in all cities in New York State. This, however, does not apply to New York City, which, it is said, is under separate jurisdiction, but plans for a blackout here are being rushed. All outside illumination at places without night watchmen has been banned.

In his order, Governor Lehman informed the mayors of all municipalities that advance notice of the blackouts should be given to the people through the radio and press.

War News Continues To Reduce Grosses

Additional reports from the field of the effect of constant radio war bulletins on theatre grosses indicate heavy losses. Grosses in Cleveland were reported to have fallen off heavily at almost all theatres. Grosses Monday and Tuesday were more seriously affected than on Sunday.

emy raiders; enables the board to regulate the operations of stations more closely from a defense standpoint, if necessary, and permits the board to turn stations over to the Army or Navy if such action is required.

The board's operations under the order will be conducted through the Federal Communications Commission. James L. Fly, FCC chairman, is also head of the DCB.

No Immediate Plans

Fly said after the issuance of the President's order that there are no immediate plans to take over private broadcasting facilities.

Neville Miller, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, yesterday urged all stations not to create any unnecessary alarm.

Meanwhile, following four hectic days of 24-hour emergency broadcasting, stations all over the country moved to prepare for actual war time conditions. Commercial program schedules were still in the discard, for the most part, and news was crowding almost everything else off the air.

In New York, preparations were made to organize definite schedules for the broadcasting of alert, air raid and all clear signals. Texts were written for announcers in the event the signals are to be broadcast. Calmness and speed will be stressed.

On the West Coast, arrangements have been made for the highest powered station on the lowest wave length to act as beacon for air raid signals. All other stations in the area are to monitor this beacon station and leave the air when the beacon station does. This system was followed in the early days of radio when all stations went off the air during an SOS.

A false air raid alarm in Los Angeles caused radio stations to black out for 40 minutes at 12:20 P.M. yesterday.

Notices on WNYC

WNYC will be the first to receive instructions in this area when signals are to be sounded and will be the originating station for special notices to the civilian population. These will include police department requests, information to parents of school children, addresses by city officials and Mayor LaGuardia in his capacity as civilian defense director and the like.

WNEW, WMCA and WHN have installed direct lines to WNYC so that an announcement from the latter station can be carried simultaneously over the other stations. NBC previously had a line to WNYC which was used for feeding network special

Off the Antenna

FOR the past three weeks, it was learned yesterday, the Westinghouse 50,000-watt short-wave station in Boston, WBOS, has been carrying the entire program of NBC short wave, with the exception of two hours. events to the municipal station on occasion.

Extra guards were placed at transmitters yesterday and CBS decided to restrict studio audiences to those originating outside its main building here. NBC discontinued taking visitors on the studio tour to the engineering floor, although the rest of the tour was continued. In Cincinnati, Crosley Corp., operators of WLW and WLWO, asked civil aeronautics officials to declare Mason, O., a restricted area for air traffic. Mason is the site of WLW's 500,000 watt experimental transmitter, and WLWO's 75,000 watt international short wave transmitter.

Ticker on Television

NBC television placed a camera directly in front of an AP news ticker and carried it over the air as it was received. Increased emphasis was placed on civilian defense training classes.

As for network operations, NBC declared that it was operating under "self-imposed censorship" and that only officials alerts and air signals would be broadcast. In a message read over the combined Red and Blue, it was urged that listeners refrain from telephoning the networks or official agencies and use the radio for verification of reports. At the same time, John F. Royal, NBC vice-president in charge of international relations, declared that short wave operations would continue free of propaganda. Mutual announced that arrangements had been made for its Manila correspondent, Royal Arch Gunnison, to broadcast twice daily, with the Navy censoring his scripts.

Operation on a 24-hour basis will continue as long as news reports warrant continuous broadcasting, it was said, with CBS stating definitely that it would continue day and night at least until the end of the week. CBS set up a special news department in San Francisco.

Robert A. Catherwood, WWRL general manager, sent wires yesterday to defense agencies urging that low-powered stations be used to broadcast air raid alarms after midnight. He said the stations would remain off the air but would go on immediately if needed. Thus, a civilian could sleep undisturbed but, if his set were turned on, would hear an alarm immediately.

Many made suggestions for promotion which are now being studied with a view to the adoption of any found feasible.

Hooper, which conducted its survey while the speech was still on the air, gave the speech a rating of 79 per cent, an all-time high which topped the previous record of 70 per cent set by the President's unlimited emergency speech last May. The Hooper survey declared that 92.4 per cent of all persons reached replied that they were listening. The difference between the 79 rating and the 92.4 percentage figure is explained by the fact that some persons did not answer the phone and were therefore catalogued as not listening.

Study Radio Procedure in Raid Alarms

Military Officials Seek To Prevent Panic

Army and Navy officials here are working on plans to prevent panic or hysteria in the event of air-raid alarms over radio stations, it was revealed yesterday by Admiral Adolphus Andrews, naval commandant of the district.

Admiral Andrews will confer with Lt. General Hugh Drum, head of the Army second corps area, and all stations will be instructed how to proceed. There has been considerable criticism of the manner in which the test alert on Tuesday was handled, it was pointed out, and efforts will be made to prevent repetitions.

Yesterday's declaration of war against the United States by Germany and Italy brought swift repercussion here in the almost immediate closing of three film houses in Yorkville, the German section of New York. Foreign department officials believe that air and sea passage to and from Britain will be reestablished promptly over the North Atlantic route. ## What to Do When the Air Raid Alarm Sounds

OFFICIAL air raid warnings sounded by sirens on fire apparatus will consist of a long blast followed by a short blast repeated for about five minutes. The all-clear signal consists of a series of short blasts sounded for about five minutes. The things to do when the signal sounds follow:

IN CASE OF AN ALARM

Above all, keep calm. Don't create panic. Get off the streets, but don't run; walk. If five minutes from home, go there. If at home, stay there. Home is the safest place. Don't mingle with crowds. If more than five minutes from home, seek shelter in the center position of nearest building. Avoid top and lowest stories of buildings. Stay away from windows and outside walls. Avoid elevators. Motorists should park cars and seek shelter. Stay out of subways. They are not safe. Put out lights. Avoid use of telephone, and again remain calm.

IN CASE OF A RAID

In case of a raid, shut off all gas ranges, heaters and furnaces. Turn off pilot lights. Fill bathtubs and buckets for use of firemen if mains break. Go to room with fewest windows and lie down. Keep radio turned on. Leave at least one window open. If incendiary bombs fall, spray water on them. Never use splash or stream of water, as the bomb will explode. Bomb will burn 15 minutes if left alone, only two minutes if sprayed. Don't use a chemical fire extinguisher on bombs. Cooperate with air raid wardens. Obey instructions. ABOVE ALL, KEEP CALM.

Duties of civilians are as vital to the country's welfare as are those of the armed forces. Obey these instructions carefully. Don't get excited. Your safety as well as that of your family, your fellow workers, may depend on how you act.

ALWAYS HAVE THESE INSTRUCTIONS WITH YOU

weight to the negotiations of the IA locals under way with the studios, Walsh has not taken complete charge of the talks with producers, and is acting, it was stated, only upon the eight locals' request for assistance. They were unable to conclude agreements in their individual negotiations in New York last September and have made slight progress since the talks were resumed here several weeks ago.

Don't Use Phones When Air Raid Signals Sound, Lehman Warns

Albany, Dec. 11.—Governor Lehman today issued the following statement:

"When you hear an air-raid warning do not use your telephone. Tuesday's air-raid warning in the New York metropolitan area resulted in so many people using the telephone that the lines in some sections of New York and suburban areas were choked. Civilian defense authorities often were unable to reach air-raid wardens, and the full functioning of the defense organizations was retarded.

"I ask every one when an air-raid warning is sounded to remember that the telephone lines must be kept free for defense purposes. Only the most serious personal emergency warrants use of the telephone when you hear an air-raid warning. In the future, please refrain from telephoning until you are sure the all-clear signal has been given."

police and fire departments for mutual protection.

Four studios today formulated a policy of management during war conditions. Twentieth Century-Fox ordered one production company to start at 7 A.M. and finish at 4:30 P.M. as a test to determine whether all activities could be confined to those hours. The laboratory was placed on a day basis instead of night work, making

In Canada, Too

Toronto, Dec. 11.—Gordon Conant, chief warden of Ontario, today ordered blackout regulations in the Toronto and Hamilton districts effective Dec. 20. On completion of precautionary measures a total blackout will be effective some time in January. Special instructions are going to theatre managers.

rushes of the shots taken the day before available the next afternoon.

All 20th Century-Fox employes will be fingerprinted and photographed for identity cards which they must have on them at all times. Radios were banned.

All Hal Roach employes were ordered to leave the lot at 4:30 P.M. today in order to avoid the rush in getting home in time for the blackout.

Study Safety Rules

Charles Boren, Paramount studio manager, heads a committee of department heads formed today to study recommendations for safety of employes at the studio and at home and will release instructions this weekend. Paramount has one troupe starting at 7:30 A.M. and quitting at 5 P.M. to determine whether that schedule can be made general.

Universal announced the organization of a studio defense corps as a unit of the California State Guard and a Red Cross unit primarily for defense of the studio. Windows have been painted and special lights installed in accordance with blackout specifications. Personal radios have been banned.

Remaining members of the Navy's Hollywood photographic unit will be called to active duty in a few days. The unit includes about 200 cameramen, electricians and sound men.

Speed N. Y. Blackout

New York City officials are speeding preparations to have the city thrown into darkness. The undertaking will be the greatest of its kind, requiring 29,000 wardens to turn off traffic signals and street lights, a job which must be done by hand. It is planned that Times Square will be completely blacked out for five minutes, including the dousing of the smallest neon sign.

Test blackouts in New York State were started Wednesday night. Buffalo was blacked out last night. This was in response to Governor Lehman's

Review

"Melody Lane"

(Universal)

IN this film secondary consideration apparently was given the story. It is, in effect, several musical numbers, mostly a la jitterbug, strung together by a slight yarn about a swing group from Iowa brought to New York by an attractive agency promoter to broadcast for an eccentric sponsor.

In its favor is its energetic presentation. In it are the Merry Macs, Leon Errol, Baby Sandy, Anne Gwynne, Robert Paige, Butch and Buddy, Robert Paige and Ken Douglas. Charles Lamont directed.

Probably the most saleable element of "Melody Lane" is a combination of the tuneful vocal renditions and jive music by the "Rhythmears," as they are labeled, and the fact that they are brought from the corn belt to the big city to promote a breakfast cereal called "Kornies." It has its possibilities.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."* a Variety tent established in New York. He paid tribute to the newsreels and to Ampa for their cooperation with the Variety clubs.

The Dallas tent, headed by O'Donnell, raised five times as much as the next highest tent for Variety activities, it was disclosed by Harris. Among the achievements of the Dallas tent was the building of a hospital wing to care for 2,500 children and a $25,000 swimming pool for underprivileged children of Dallas.

Work such as this has the cooperation and appreciation of civic and religious leaders and the most influential community elements, O'Donnell pointed out. It wins valuable friends and defenders of the industry in many communities and among law-making bodies, O'Donnell said, although it is undertaken without any such design. This result was termed by Harris a "by-product of Variety."

Harris described the origin and work of the organization, relating that it was begun about 13 years ago with the adoption by 11 Pittsburgh showmen of a founding left in the Sheridan Theatre. Without plan or design, he said, it has grown to 25 tents and a national organization which raised $900,000 this year—despite a goal of only $400,000—to bring assistance to order to mayors of all municipalities in the state to hold practice blackout.

New York theatre men, as yet not fully certain about the part they are to play during an air attack, are to be instructed this morning at the Ziegfeld Theatre by Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine. This is an emergency meeting and all exhibitors and their staffs are urged to attend. The meeting will start at 10 a. m.

Theatres throughout the city have had wardens on their staffs for some time, the number in proportion to the size of the house. The Radio City Music Hall, largest theatre in the city, has 22 wardens.

Complete precautions for air raid warnings have been arranged at legitimate theatres in the Times Square area, yesterday announced Robert K. Christenberry, general manager of the more than 750,000 ailing or underprivileged children.

"The by-product of this," Harris said, "is the counteraction of many of the brickbats thrown at the industry."

"Variety did not bring charity to show business," he said. "The industry always has been charitable. But Variety for the first time brought the industry the recognition it deserves for its charitable work."

William McCraw, former Attorney General of Texas, was master of ceremonies. Among those present were: Barney Balaban, Vincent Trotta, Herman Wobber, T. J. Connors, William Clark, Max A. Cohen, Leon Netter, Leonard Goldenson, Sam Dembow, Louis Ruppel, Charles Freeman, Robert Savini, W. F. Rodgers, Edward Saunders, E. K. O'Shea, Edwin Aaron, Abe Montague, Rube Jackter, Sam Shain, H. J. Yates, J. R. Grainger, Ned Depinet, Herman Robbins, J. J. Fitzgibbons, C. C. Pettijohn, Kenneth Clark, Dave Palfreyman, Lou Pollock and Maurice Bergman.

Also: Charles E. Lewis, Carl Leserman, Earle Sweigert, Hardie Meakin, George Tyson, Jack Alicoate, Sidney Schreiber, Arthur Israel, Lester Thompson and F. J. A. McCarthy.

Oscar Wee Rites Today

WAYLAND, Mass., Dec. 11.—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Oscar E. Wee, 60, who died in Cambridge Tuesday. Wee was a noted road-show producer for many years. He is survived by his widow, the former actress, Louise Price. Burial will be in the Natick (Mass.) Cemetery.

Hotel Astor, who is air raid warden for the zone between 40th and 50th St., west of Fifth Ave. Managers, employes and actors will cooperate in reassuring audiences and protecting property, Christenberry said. After calming the audience, the play will be resumed with the lights on in the auditorium. Blackout measures will be taken.

suit to the trial calendar in U. S. District court here. A hearing on the order was set for Dec. 17 before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard, it was indicated that Robert L. Wright, Assistant U. S. Attorney General, at that time will ask the court to set the case down for trial in the early Spring, possibly in April.

If the Government is unable to win that action against the three companies, or failing that, to obtain from them a consent decree substantially similar to the present industry decree by June 1, the selling and trade show provisions of the present decree could become inoperative.

However, attorneys point out that the Government suit against the Schine circuit and the "Little Three" is now set for trial in U. S. District court at Buffalo on March 3 and that on the basis of their experience in the trial of the Crescent suit at Nashville, it may last several months. It was also recalled that Judge Goddard has on several occasions advised the Government attorneys that he would not consent to start a trial here which would force the "Little Three" to defend two cases simultaneously.

In view of these considerations, industry attorneys say, there is little prospect of the Government obtaining an early Spring trial date or of meeting the June 1 escape clause deadline by a victory here over the three companies.

Face Charges for Admitting Children

MONTREAL, Dec. 11.—Additional charges have been made against the operators of film houses for admitting children under 16 years of age. Several will be tried next Wednesday and others next Thursday. ## The unseen star of August 6th, 1926

Helping you to please the ears of the world — through finer sound recording and reproduction — has been Western Electric's privilege for fifteen years.

That night 15 years ago — when "Don Juan" had its world premiere — marked the first public acceptance of talkies. The great success of that night could not have been achieved without this little cone in the loud speaker. The cone made it possible, for the first time, to fill a theatre with high quality sound. This is one of many basic contributions Western Electric has made available to the industry.

can be drawn up, probably by Monday or Tuesday. A hearing probably will be held by the end of the week and the company would resume selling in Minnesota immediately after an order had been signed by the court.

The company's decision to resume selling in Minnesota was made by Nicholas M. Schenck, president, and W. F. Rodgers, vice-president and general sales manager, as a contribution to industry unity after they had been urged to do so by representatives of Northwest Allied at the all-industry unity meeting in Chicago this week. Northwest Allied was the sponsor of the Minnesota law.

Trial of criminal actions for alleged violations of the law against Paramount, RKO and 20th Century-Fox is scheduled to start Monday in Minneapolis, and will provide a test of the constitutionality of the state law.

100,000 Paramount Shares Converted

More than 100,000 shares of Paramount second preferred stock have been converted into common during the past three days, Stanton Griffiths, chairman of the executive committee, reported yesterday.

The company announced a week ago that it would redeem the second preferred at $10.06 a share on Feb. 3 and that the conversion right, at the rate of nine shares of common for ten of preferred, will expire Jan. 20. There were 412,200 shares of the issue outstanding, and 22,600 shares in the Paramount treasury.

Lisbon Routes Are Closed By New War Declarations

New York and Lisbon, yesterday announced cancellation of sailings on Government order. The line's Excalibur is en route from Lisbon, due here Monday. John Ojerholm, managing director of Paramount's British laboratory, is the only known industry member on board.

The same line's Excambion is scheduled to sail from Lisbon today and Francis Harley, 20th Century-Fox managing director for Britain, and Robert T. Kane, head of the company's British production, are in Lisbon with accommodations for that sailing. Officials of the American Export Line said yesterday they have not been informed that the sailing has been canceled.

The Portuguese Embassy at London announced yesterday that it discontinued visas for civilian travelers between London and Lisbon. The American Government ordered discontinuance last Monday of accommodations for civilian passengers on the clippers between New York and Lisbon.

Few American film company employees are known to be in Portugal or Spain. Robert Kreier, manager for 20th Century-Fox in Spain, was in that country when heard from by the home office recently. Universal's Ernest Koenig, who had been stationed at Lisbon, arrived in New York last week.

Max Milder, Warners' managing director for Great Britain, had been reported in Lisbon awaiting transportation to New York, but the Warner home office said yesterday that Milder was still in London.

Several home offices received word yesterday from company representatives in the Dutch East Indies, Manila and Singapore. Those heard from reported that they were safe but that travel was impossible.

The Lurline of the Matson Line arrived at San Francisco yesterday from the Orient but Arthur G. Doyle, 20th Century-Fox Far Eastern manager, who is believed to be enroute to the United States, was not a passenger. Charles Mayer, who was on a ship en route to a Far Eastern post for 20th Century-Fox when the Japanese attack occurred, returned to New York from the Coast yesterday. The President Polk, on which he had sailed, was called back when one day out of San Francisco. Morey Marcus of United Artists also was a passenger on the vessel.

A ruling of the National Labor Relations Board in Los Angeles is holding the attention of industry attorneys. ## Miller Asks for Calm

In a letter to broadcasters Wednesday night, Neville Miller, National Association of Broadcasters president, asked that newscasters and announcers report war news calmly, slowly and liberately, so as to avoid horror, suspense and undue excitement.

"We are in agreement with the War Department recommendation that for the handling of the war news definite periods of time be established, rather than the constant interruption of program service, except for news of transcendent importance," Miller said.

After four days of hectic interruptions, networks and stations yesterday settled down to something resembling regular schedules. The adoption of set periods for newscasts resulted in fewer interruptions, and NBC was considering reduction of the four minutes of flashes per hour if the news gets down.

Reported Interned

Among the missing yesterday were Jim Paul Dickson, Mutual's Berlin correspondent, who was reported interned, and David Colin, NBC's Rome correspondent, about whom no reports have been received. CBS said all its men were present and accounted for. RCA announced that its 24-foot neon sign atop Radio City would be blacked out.

CBS reported that it had increased short wave news 400 per cent since Monday. Instead of the normal proportion of 75 per cent entertainment and 25 per cent news, the news now constitutes 75 per cent, it was said. News commentators, normally restricted to one period nightly, have been required to stay at the stations to interpret news as it comes in. WNEW John B. Kennedy is heard in frequent intervals during the day. Instead of once, and NBC has scheduled H. V. Kaltenborn and John W. Vandercook for nightly programs over combined Red and Blue. Kaltenborn goes on from midnight to 1:50 A.M. and Vandercook from 1:50 to 1 A.M.

CECIL BROWN, CBS Singapore correspondent, who was on the H. M. S. Repulse when sunk by the Japanese, came through yesterday with the first stirring eye-witness story of the current hostilities. Brown, who could not get on the air, sent a cablegram to the CBS home office and followed it with another giving minute-by-minute details. The detailed account was read during the network's 8 P.M. news period.

Brown described in detail how he swam about in oil-covered, shark-infested waters and how any piece of debris which would float was eagerly seized. "After 50 minutes in the water," he said, "I managed to reach a Carley float. It was jammed but a Royal Marine helped me to sit on the edge of the float. Others were sitting inside the float and still others hanging onto the edge. It required an hour and a half to reach the destroyer and we sang 'When Irish Eyes Are Smiling' and 'Anchors Aweigh' and tried to cheer each other up. . . . I saw the Wales lay over on its side, hover there for 10 minutes and then its stern slid under, the jagged bow rose in the air like a crippled limb of a giant and it too disappeared."

Purely Personal: Charles Benzinger has been named assistant trade news editor for CBS. Robert Gerdy is editor. Benzinger joined CBS publicity in February. . . . Al Helfer, master of ceremonies of Mutual's "Spotlight Bands," has been called to active Navy duty as lieutenant, junior grade. Gil Newsome will succeed him. . . . Two CBS page boys won promotions this week. Hamilton O'Hara has been appointed to the sound effects department, while James Beach has been named to the short-wave script department. . . . Jay Sims, WOR newscaster, has been promoted to the rank of captain in the 14th Regiment, N. Y. home guard.

sions. Use of the bulletins is left to the discretion of individual managers.

WOR, which had a patriotic song program, "Songs for Marching Men," is extending patriotic songs to other station-built musical shows. Publishers said thousands of war songs were being submitted and several, including "The Sun Will Soon Be Setting" and "You're a Sap, Mister Jap," have been accepted for publication. BMI, which published "Keep 'Em Flying," accepted another war song yesterday, "They Started Somethin'."

Films Leading Entertainment At Army Camps

Survey Shows Reliance On Screen Fare

Motion pictures are the chief source of entertainment for the thousands of men in training at the Army camps of the nation, a survey by MOTION PICTURE DAILY discloses.

In most of the encampments of the country, now operating at capacity with enlisted and drafted personnel, one or more motion picture theatres, manned for the most part by service men, show the best of the industry's product.

It is fed to them by the Army Motion Picture Service, with short subjects and newsreels making up the same type of full film program shown in the regular theatres of the country.

At the same time, the increase in defense activities in various sections

Cancel New Orleans Mardi Gras for 1942

New Orleans, Dec. 14.—For the third time since its inception in 1827, the city's Mardi Gras, set for next February, has been called off. Decision to cancel most parades and balls was announced after a meeting of the governing committees of the carnival organizations, because of the war. The carnival was called off during the Civil War years and in 1918 and 1919.

Arbitrator Assails Decree and Buying Power of Circuits

The consent decree itself and the buying power of large, established circuits is sharply assailed in an arbitration award handed down over the weekend by George S. Harris, dean of the Newark Law School, in the some run complaint filed at the local board by the Cedar Operating Co., owner of the Strand, Astoria, L. I.

The arbitrator, however, dismissed the complaint without prejudice to its renewal at a time when factual, rather than opinion evidence can be presented. In doing so, Harris held that the limitations of Section 6, the some run section of the decree, make it and the decree, itself, "woefully defective in protecting the rights of new theatre owners in a district where circuit theatres are already entrenched."

The complaint was dismissed, the arbitrator explains, because it was filed "prematurely" with respect to

See U.S. Asking Extension Of Decree Escape Clause

The Department of Justice, according to legal opinion in the trade, will petition Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard for an extension beyond June 1, 1942, of the deadline for the consent decree escape clause.

On Wednesday, the Department is scheduled to apply to Judge Goddard for a reinstatement of the anti-trust suit against Universal, Columbia and United Artists to the U. S. District court calendar here. However, legal observers see little chance of the Government being able to obtain a trial date for the suit before next May, at the earliest, due to the fact that trial of the Government's suit against the Approximately 750 managers and their assistants gathered at the Loew's Ziegfeld Friday to receive instructions on how to handle theatre audiences in the event of blackouts, air raid warnings and possible attack.

Meanwhile, from other sources, it was learned that arrangements were being completed to effect a blackout of the whole Times Square area within five minutes. A test blackout of the entire New York metropolitan area is expected shortly it is also reported.

They heard addresses from police and fire department officials and representatives of the volunteer air raid wardens. The principal theme of the

I. A. Studio Talks Slated for New York

Hollywood, Dec. 14.—The negotiations of eight IATSE studio locals on new contracts will be transferred to New York immediately after the first of the year, Richard Walsh, IA president, stated today.

Walsh left for New York with Lou Krouse, international secretary, after a three-day visit here during which he sat in on the negotiations. The locals will retain their autonomy and will send business representatives to the New York negotiations.

Schine Circuit in Federal court at Buffalo is set for March 3.

Judge Goddard has informed the Government on previous occasions that he would not require the "Little Three" to defend two of the Department's suits simultaneously. Therefore, it is believed that, with the Schine trial consuming at least two months, trial of the New York suit could not be started before May and could not be concluded by the June 1 deadline.

With the New York suit back on the court trial calendar here, however, attorneys believe that the Government

Short Subject Reviews

"Our America at Home"

(March of Time-RKO)
FOUR days after the international conflict struck home—the "March of Time" had made available "Our America at Home," a compelling treatment of something that is deep in the minds of all. Taken for the most part from "The Ramparts We Watch," it draws a striking parallel between the war activity of 1917 and present-day reaction to aggression. Added to the war scenes from "The Ramparts" are President Roosevelt's address to Congress, volunteer swarming to the enlistment depots and the like. It is presented in stirring fashion, and is a most timely and valuable subject. Running time, 10 minutes. Release, Dec. 19, 1941.

"Women in Defense"

(National Defense Committee)
Produced by the Film Unit of the Office for Emergency Management, this defense subject is distributed without charge to participating exhibitors by the Motion Picture Committee Cooperating for National Defense. With commentary written by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and spoken by Katharine Hepburn, the subject merely recounts the varied ways in which women are of assistance in the defense effort. Neither commentary or production are particularly inspired or inspiring, although the subject matter hardly lent itself to extraordinary effort. However, it doubtless will serve the purpose for which it was designed. Running time, 10 minutes.

"How War Came"

(Raymond Gram Swing Historical) (Columbia)
The popular radio commentator Raymond Gram Swing, undertakes to explain the beginnings of the war. For this explanation, Swing sketches the background of events which preceded the outbreak in 1939. His points are emphasized by interesting, color animations. Although the reel has no reference to the U. S. declarations of war, it is extremely timely and should be effective now. Running time, 8 mins. Release, Nov. 7, 1941.

Arbitrator Assails Decree and Buying Power of Circuits

Section 6. The Strand was not opened until 12 days after the complaint was filed. Prior to its opening, the evidence disclosed, the operators of the Strand had been unable to obtain any run of 1940-'41 product in the five consenting companies because it was already contracted for and the decree does not permit existing contracts to be disturbed.

When the Strand's operators asked for 1941-'42 product they were told it could not be offered until after it had been trade-shown, metropolitan showings had been completed and certain road show engagements were ended.

The arbitrator held that since the Strand, as of Aug. 15, when the complaint was filed, could not show other than by opinions that the run offered to the distributors, which was last run in Astoria, was one calculated to defeat the purpose of Section 6, he was obliged to dismiss the complaint.

Harris's opinion was critical of the decree provisions which exempted 10th Century-Fox from the complaint because it has a franchise with the Skouras circuit, named in the complaint as an interested party, which runs until 1948, and was critical, also, because the decree exempted RKO when it was shown that the company, through subsidiaries, controls 20 per cent of the stock of the Skouras operating company involved.

Criticizes Skouras

He was critical of the Skouras circuit for its failure to intervene in the case, concluding it "had complete confidence that its interests would be amply protected by the defendant distributors."

Suggesting that it would be "wise and salutary" for distributors to make "conscientious efforts to reach equitable results in all their dealings with exhibitors," Harris's opinion observes that: "If the distributing defendants can, by designating a run free from interference of any arbitrator to a new theatre coming into an undersaturated district which will not permit that theatre to subsist, then the distributing defendants can throttle new enterprise and can freeze existing enterprises both of ownership and control in the mould of their making."

Files Clearance Case At Kansas City Board

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 14.—J. E. Pennington, operator of the Cozy Theatre, Topeka, has filed a clearance complaint at the local board naming all five consenting companies and nine Topeka first run theatres as interested parties.

The complaint charges that the Cozy is required to follow Topeka first runs by 120 to 128 days and asserting that this is an unreasonable clearance, asks that a maximum clearance of 50 days in favor of the first runs be established.

All Theatres in New York Preparing for Air Raids

meeting was that common sense is needed most. Staffs should be trained, equipment checked immediately and the show should be kept going unless something hits the theatre.

The meeting was originally intended by C. C. Moskowitz, head of Loew's New York theatres, as a class of instruction to his managers but he decided later to include all exhibitors. Harry Brandt presided.

An attempt to exclude the press from this meeting by those in charge was ignored, theatre managers present observing that such an attempt was completely out-of-order.

All speakers urged that audiences should be kept calm and made to understand that they are safer in the theatre than out in the street. Leadership of the audience should be assumed by some one in responsibility, it was stressed. It was suggested that trailers should be prepared for routine showing, explaining that the staff is equipped to handle all emergencies and advising the audience exactly what to do in the event of a raid or blackout.

Speakers declared that no building was completely safe against a direct hit but that death or injuries from direct hits were relatively few, while casualties from shrapnel, spent anti-aircraft shells, flying debris and automobile accidents during blackouts were greater than from direct hits.

Those who spoke included Lieutenant Maley, of the Police Department; Chief John J. McCarthy and Battalion Chief Donahue of the Fire Department; Captain Edward J. Kelly, of the Army chemical warfare division, Ed Sullivan, the columnist representing the voluntary air raid wardens and Brandt. General instructions follow.

Raid Instructions for Personnel of Theatres

Don't send people into the streets in the event of a raid.

Any building is better than no building.

Glass causes many casualties.

If the audience doesn't know about the raid, don't tell them. They won't know unless they are close to the actual bombing area or near the sirens.

Make a brief announcement, if necessary.

Put the Do's and Don'ts before your audience on the screen, and make them aware of what to do. Avoid lectures. Make them aware of their conduct, just as is done with notices about fire exits.

Train the theatre personnel on what to do. Each building will have its control director. He will receive his instructions from the proper authorities and he, in turn, should pass on the instructions to the staff.

Retain children in the theatre during raids.

Keep normal interior lighting on; shut off exterior lights, including exterior exit lights.

If the house is filled, send persons on the street to other shelters; where no other shelters are available, admit them but avoid over-crowding. Crowded theatres create additional hazards.

In raids, the effort should be made to decentralize the population, rather than crowd them in shelters.

No building is entirely safe from direct hits; but any building will provide some shelter against shrapnel, spent anti-aircraft shells, and flying debris.

Fireman Is the Boss

Where a fireman is stationed at the theatre, he is in supreme command.

Keep exits and aisles clear.

Audiences should be led from the topmost balconies to lower levels, in orderly fashion. This rule should be applied particularly in houses with more than one balcony.

Check your fire appliances and first aid equipment. The Fire Department will aid, if you call upon them for assistance.

If there is no direct telegraphic connection box with the Fire Department, have one installed. Don't depend on street boxes. Make sure that all employees know its location. In the event of difficulty, the first thing to do is to call for assistance.

The entire staff should be subject to the direction of the fireman.

Be more alert of the cleaning of courts and fire escapes of snow and ice. They are more subject to use now.

If fire breaks out or a bomb strikes, and there is no fireman present, some one person should be in charge. Don't try to keep the people in the house, because they won't stay. Ask the audience to file out slowly. If there are musicians present, they should assist by continuing the music.

Wait for Orders

Confer with the local police captain on the release of audiences after blackouts. There would be considerable confusion if all theatres in the Times Square area emptied simultaneously into the darkened streets. Hold your audiences in the house and keep them amused if possible. Some theatres have arranged to keep old songs handy and the audience will be encouraged to join in the singing.

Aid the Fire Department by cooperating for enlistments in the Fire Department Emergency Auxiliary Corps.

Nothing definite has been settled about rooftop watchers for incendiary bombs, but it will be arranged soon. Blacken with opaque paint, the skylight over the stage, so that the show can continue.

Arrange to install a small-powered auxiliary lighting system for emergency use in the event of a complete power failure.

Keep a good quantity of sand in bags handy.

Admit persons seeking shelter off the street in the event of a blackout, regardless of whether they have the admission price. You may ask them to leave later, for whatever effect that will have.

Nothing has been considered up to now about camouflaging.

Policeman in Charge

If there is no fireman present, take orders from a policeman; if neither is present, encourage the cooperation of air raid wardens.

Do not conduct fire drills while any

$215,700,084 Was Film Cost for 1939

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Motion picture production activities were at a peak in 1939, with 178 establishments expending $215,700,084 in the production of films, it was disclosed by the Census Bureau on Friday in a final report on that branch of the industry.

The bureau figures indicated there were 95 more establishments operating in 1939 than in 1937, and that the expenditure for production was almost exactly $18,000,000 greater.

The total personnel engaged in the industry was 35,345 against 32,398 in 1937. The number of salaried officers and employes was 9,635 against 13,060, and the number of wage earners averaged 24,052 against 19,338; salary payments totaled $93,341,137 against $102,393,327 (the only item to show a decrease) and wage payments were $45,735,926 against $37,157,753.

Of the total of 178 establishments reported, 93 were in California, 65 of them in Los Angeles City and 23 in the Los Angeles industrial area.

Figures previously published by the Census Bureau showed that during the year 27 features costing $14,356,442 were produced in color; 493 features costing $117,830,011, in black and white, 125 shorts costing $1,723,400, in color, and an unspecified number of shorts, costing $4,251,624, in black and white.

will ask Judge Goddard to extend the escape clause deadline from June 1, probably to the end of the year, as soon as it becomes obvious that there is no possibility of concluding the New York suit by June 1. If the Government has not won a court decision against the Little Three or obtained from them a decree substantially similar to the present one by that date, the trade show and block-of-five sales provisions of the decree may be abandoned.

However, if Judge Goddard was to grant a Government application for an extension of the June 1 deadline, the two provisions would remain in effect for another selling season, it is believed. Observers are of the opinion that, if the consenting companies are unable to show that they have experienced a substantial loss of revenue in favor of the non-consenting companies by the time that a Government request for an extension of the June 1 deadline should be made, the court might feel impelled to grant the Government's request.

A Pen and Pencil Study of Eversharp's "Take It Or Leave It" in its second year on CBS

These gentlemen were worried about selling an $8.75 Eversharp pen and pencil set in a market where you can buy a pen for 29 cents and a pencil for a dime.

But not any more!

. . . not since they put the entire Eversharp appropriation into radio about two years ago, went on the air over CBS with "Take It Or Leave It".

. . . not since their sales jumped more than 100 per cent in less than a year.

. . . not since they found out that radio could sell pens and pencils all year around—on St. Swithin's Day as well as at Commencement and Christmas.

No wonder President Martin L. Straus of the Eversharp Company wrote to CBS:
“Radio has raised sales to new peaks all over the country. Radio alone has enabled us to reach housewives and college students; factory workers and business men; farmers and city folk—for practically everybody listens?”

For more than a year, Eversharp has been writing the script of this brilliant success story on CBS. It’s a script long familiar to people who sell cars or sterling silver. It’s a script for people who make mattresses or refrigerators or cameras. In fact, it’s for all manufacturers whose products cost a lot . . . last a long time. Radio can sell them just as successfully as it sells “quick turnover” items—the soups and soaps, the cereals and cigarettes. Just as successfully and just as surely.

CBS borrowed a pen and pencil from Eversharp (as well as the facts) to produce a new booklet, “Take It Or Leave It.” Copies may be obtained from CBS, 485 Madison Avenue, New York.

of the country has resulted in increased business to theatres located in nearby cities, and in some cases to the construction of new houses.

Indicative of the extent of Army camp film theatre patronage and the building of houses in industrial defense areas, are the following reports from various cities.

Tennessee Camp Has 4 Houses for 24,000 Men

NASHVILLE, Dec. 14.—Camp Forest, 75 miles from here at Tullahoma, Tenn., accommodates 24,000 men, and has four film theatres giving two shows nightly, three on Sunday, and averaging three program changes weekly. Each house seats about 1,200, and the programs generally include features, shorts and newsreels. Admission is 20 cents, and 10 for children. Attendance is about 30,000 average weekly for the four houses, with each house having five program changes weekly.

In Tullahoma, Cumberland Amusement Co., affiliate of Crescent Amusement Co., is building a 1,000-seat house, scheduled to open Jan. 1, which will be the circuit's third house there, charging 25 and 30 cents top, with three changes weekly. Crescent is building a 1,000-seat house in suburban Nashville, near two defense housing projects, for the Vultee Aircraft plant. The house is expected to open March 1.

New Powder Plant Brings House to Town in Alabama

CHILDERSBURG, Ala., Dec. 14.—National defense has led to the establishment of the Coosa Theatre, a 1,200-seat house here, where the Government is building a $75,000,000 powder plant. It is a Martin house, uses current pictures and changes programs four times a week. Admission prices are 10, 15 and 25 cents for daytime and 10, 15 and 30 cents in evening. The show opens at 1 o'clock and is now giving a midnight show. Some 20,000 persons are engaged in building the powder plant.

Fort Des Moines Soldiers Attend Modern Theatre

DES MOINES, Dec. 14.—The Fort Des Moines Army post located just south of the city has an up-to-date motion picture theatre operated five nights a week, for the benefit of the men at the post. No shows are held on Mondays and Wednesday nights. The theatre seats 390 and only first-run pictures are shown.

There are approximately 450 permanent enlisted men at the Fort and the attendance each night at the theatre averages 300. Admissions are 20 cents cash or the men can buy $2 coupon books for $1.40 and $3 books for $2.10, thus enabling them to see a show for an admission of 14 cents. Lieut. James H. Coffin is manager, and Private W. H. Woodward his assistant.

1,000-Seat Theatre Used by Air Cadets at Sacramento

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 14.—Four thousand flying cadets stationed nearby at Mather Field, Government flying school, show a preference for Western films. The theatre seats 1,000.

Sacramento theatres report a continuation of the heavy business which started last Spring when the Army camp was established. The El Rey Theatre, operated by T. & D. Enterprises, is being rushed to completion after a fire. Blumenfeld circuit a month ago opened a 600-seat house, the Times, and has been doing consistently good business.

Minneapolis Arms Plant Results in New Theatre

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 14.—One new theatre is planned here because of defense work, at New Brighton, a suburb where a $30,000,000 small arms plant is being constructed. Construction has not yet begun on the house.

At Fort Snelling, bordering on the Minneapolis city limits, the Post theatre has operated for years. A 573-seat house, it operates at near capacity most of the time, changing pictures four times a week, with single-day runs Friday and Saturday. Runs are generally parallel to and in some case before, "A" runs in the Minneapolis loop. Single admission is 20 cents, but admission by ticket book comes to about 14 cents. Capt. J. A. Free is in charge, with operation by service men.

Theatres Function at 2 Army Camps Near Spokane

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 14.—Two new theatres are in operation at nearby Army camps. They are managed by the U. S. Army Motion Picture Service, with Army personnel operating them at extra pay. They are under the supervision of Lieut. W. T. Lockyer, base morale officer.

The one at Geiger field, air base, seats 388, and the other at Fort George Wright, 288. They are open seven nights a week from 6 to 10 P.M., with matinees Saturdays and Sundays. There are two shows per night. Programs consist of a single feature, newsreel and comedy. An occasional double feature bill is shown. Admission is 14 cents by coupon books, or 20 cents straight.

Martin Bomber Plant Is Expected to Boom Omaha

OMAHA, Dec. 14.—While the defense boom has just started to hit Omaha, there are no special theatres operating for that reason as yet. The Glenn L. Martin bomber plant, five miles south of South Omaha, is nearing completion and when in operation will hire 10,000 men.

A huge defense plant has just entered construction at Wahoo, west of Omaha, expected to benefit theatres at Wahoo and Fremont and also expected to mean the building of at least one other theatre at Wahoo.

Fort Oglethorpe's Two Houses Seat About 850

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 14.—Two houses accommodate the 6,000 troops at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. The older, known as the Sixth Cavalry Theatre, seats 400, and the second, for the 65th Medical Regiment, seats 450, and was opened three months ago. Two shows are run seven nights weekly, 6:15 and 8 P.M., with program changes five times weekly. Double features are occasionally shown, and the films alternate between the houses.

Generally they are shown at the fort three months after local theatres. Soldiers pay 20 cents, or with coupon books, about 14 cents for admission. Programs include feature, shorts and newsreels. Comedies and cartoons are the favorites. The post is eight miles from here, with bus service bringing hundreds into the city daily to patronize the city's three first-run and 10 second-run houses. Recently the soldier patronage has been increased with Coast Guard officers and enlisted men in training at the new Coast Guard Depot at Lake Chickamauga, near here.

NBC Artists' Units Sold to 4 Executives

Levine, managing director of the NBC concert service.

Noran Kersta, now sales head for NBC television, will succeed Morton manager of that division. The sale and Kersta's new assignment become effective Jan. 1. Disposal of the services follows criticism by the FCC in its monopoly report. CBS sold its corresponding services last August.

A new company will be formed, the National Concert and Artists Corp., with offices at 711 Fifth Avenue and branch offices in Chicago, Hollywood and San Francisco. Civic Concert Service will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of the new company.

In the new setup, Tuthill will be manager of the popular division; Levine will be in charge of the concert department; Bottorff will continue as president of the C.C.S. and Morton will become chairman of the board of the subsidiary.

Terms of the sale were not announced, although it is understood that the purchase price will be paid, at least in part, from profits from operations. Approximately 400 artists are involved in the deal. S. Hurok Attractions, Inc., which has given NBC exclusive booking rights to all concert artists managed by Hurok, will continue with the new company.

Screen Guild Show Renewed by Gulf Oil

Gulf Oil Co. has renewed "Screen Guild Theatre" through April 19 on CBS. Since the sponsor pays the Motion Picture Relief Fund $10,000 weekly and all performers contribute their services, the total contributed to the Fund will mount to $1,120,000.

necessitated by technological developments of the past quarter century.

It is probable also that quick action will be taken on draft legislation which will require the registering of all men between the ages of 18 and 65 and under which an Army of many million men will be raised.

CBS, NBC Prepare Theatres for Raids

CBS and NBC have installed emergency equipment in their radio playhouses for blackouts and raids, it was revealed at the meeting of theatre managers at Loew's Ziegfeld Friday.

Two stretchers, cots for those who become ill, and an emergency supply of drinking water should the blackout be of great duration are provided. Ushers have white arm bands and are equipped with white-painted pails of sand. Dressing-room windows have been covered with opaque paint.

Off the Antenna

KNX, the CBS station in Hollywood, will stage a "full-dress rehearsal" blackout drill tonight. All glass brick walls have been covered with opaque paint and corridor windows have also been blacked out. The station will operate, during the rehearsal, on power from an emergency generator. On the assumption that telephone communication may be disrupted, the programs will be sent from studios to transmitter by short-wave radio, and the transmitter, too, will operate on power from an emergency unit. All activities within the studio will be conducted with light from candles and oil lamps.

Purely Personal: Richard G. Spencer, editor of the NBC-Red Network News, a publicity sheet, has been named photo editor and Sid Desjor has been named head photographer. . . . Irving Caesar, who has been composing and singing safety songs for children on WOR, is now writing tunes called "When You Hear the Sirens Blow." . . . Cliff Williams and Wayne Nelson have joined the WIND, Chicago, announcing staff.

Mutual on Friday reduced operations to 18 hours daily.

WEAF and WJZ have set aside specific periods daily for the dissemination of information to the general public and volunteer workers on war problems. It is intended that by scheduling the periods in advance, workers will be able to tune in for instructions from any convenient radio set, without disrupting their regular schedules. On WEAF, the periods will be from 5:45-5:55 P.M., Mondays through Fridays; 5:00-5:05, Saturdays, and 11:45-11:50 A.M., Sundays. WJZ will broadcast these programs from 12:15-12:20 P.M., Mondays through Fridays; 6:25-6:30 P.M., Saturdays, and 11:10-11:15 A.M., Sundays. If necessary, it was added, Red and Blue network periods would be added.

Cecil H. Hackett, WINS managing director, announced over the weekend that he had secured permission from all sponsors on the station for the insertion of defense bond announcements during commercial programs.

NBC-Red over the weekend issued a new rate card. The card lists many technical improvements installed by Red affiliates. Costs are broken down by the zones and C. B. C. services are also shown. The new card is accompanied by a brochure.

NAB Asks Foreign Shows Be Continued

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Continuance of foreign language broadcasts by American broadcasting stations was strongly advised over the weekend by the National Association of Broadcasters. To end them at this time would "tend to demoralize large segments of our population," a special NAB bulletin warned.

"We believe it is of greatest importance that these people, who can best be reached in languages other than English, be kept reliably informed of developments as well as entertained, lest they turn to short wave propaganda of the enemy," said the bulletin.

"A Government committee is investigating the subject. We expect the policy of the Government will be to continue foreign language broadcasts. Stations will be immediately informed of any developments."

In airing such programs, broadcasters were urged to follow these precautions:

Positive establishment of the integrity and loyalty of writers and announcers; a double check in advance of all translations; careful preservation of either script or recording of each broadcast.

The NAB pointed out that an estimated 15,000,000 persons can be reached most effectively by foreign language broadcasts. About 200 stations over the United States broadcast foreign language programs.

Heads Ottawa Cine Club

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—Watson Balharrie has been elected chairman of the board of the Ottawa Cine Club. Directors are: Dr. R. Payfer, vice-chairman; Dr. W. G. McGregory, secretary-treasurer, H. Sedziak, and his son, Pearson Sedziak.

Webs' Action Against FCC Off to Jan. 12

Trial of the injunction suit brought by CBS and NBC against the FCC to restrain enforcement of the new network rules was postponed Friday until Jan. 12 by a U. S. statutory court composed of Circuit Judge Learned Hand and Federal Judges Henry W. Goddard and John Bright. The trial was scheduled to start today.

The postponement, which was opposed by FCC Attorney Thomas E. Harris, was granted at the request of Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., attorney for CBS. Hughes explained he had been retained only three weeks ago and the sudden outbreak of the war had prevented any conferences with network officials. John T. Cahill, NBC attorney, joined in the request.

Harris asked that a stipulation signed previously, which postpones enforcement of the new network rules until a decision is reached in this case, be vacated. Harris asserted that the stipulation had been signed with the understanding that the case would proceed to trial on Dec. 15. However, the court denied this request.

Also denied was a request of the American Civil Liberties Union for permission to file a brief as a friend of the court. The ACLU is understood to favor the new rules because, in the organization's opinion, they will promote competition and therefore aid free speech.

Review

"Red River Valley"

(Republic)

THE homecoming of Roy Rogers and his company of musicians (the Sons of the Pioneers) occasions a celebration in the town of Red River, during which outlaws in cahoots with one on the inside depart with the funds for the completion of the all-important dam. The plot, which is suspended at times for musical interludes by Rogers and company, is concerned with investigation of the matter and an assortment of battles and chases all leading to the capture of the persons responsible.

Splendid photography, a good job of direction, especially the staging of the action scenes, standard performances and nicely handled musical numbers combine to make "Red River Valley" effective entertainment for Western audiences.

The cast includes with Rogers and the "Pioneers" George "Gabby" Hayes, Sally Payne, Trevor Bardette, Gale Storm, Robert Homans and Hal Taliaferro. Joseph Kane was associate producer and director.

Running time, 62 minutes. "G."*

Open Defense Case in Minn. Criminal Trial

State Rests in First Day Of 5-Block Action

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 15.—With the opening of trial of criminal actions against Paramount, RKO and 20th Century-Fox for alleged violations of the Minnesota anti-block-of-five law here today the state completed its opening and the defense began its case.

Attorneys predicted that the defense would require two weeks to present their case and arrangements have been made with Judge Albin S. Pearson to continue through this week and then adjourn until after the holidays. The defense waived a jury trial.

In the court room at the opening of the trial were Herman Wobber, 20th Century-Fox general sales manager; Neil F. Agnew, vice-president and distribution head of Paramount; Colonel Jason Joy, 20th Century-Fox studio personnel head and scenario director; Louis Phillips, Paramount home office attorney; William Zim-

War Information Under FDR to Be Revamped, Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A general shakeup of President Roosevelt's defense information setup to put it on a war basis is rumored here to be in the making, but officials who would be concerned tonight refused comment.

It is reported that in the reorganization John Hay Whitney, head of the film division of the Office of Coordinator of Inter-American affairs, would take over some of the duties of the Office of Facts and Figures, now headed by Archibald MacLeish, and that MacLeish would be given a new post.

No confirmation of these reports could be obtained tonight, but that a general shakeup of the defense information setup is in the offing appeared creditable in view of the possible censorship which may be adopted under the legislation now pending to revive the wartime powers of World War President Woodrow Wilson.

Radio Setup To Remain in Private Hands

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Retention of broadcasting facilities in private hands and as little interference with their operation as possible is contemplated in the Administration's plan for war-time radio, it was asserted today by James L. Fly, chairman of the Defense Communications Board.

However, Fly said, the war will raise new and serious problems for the industry, and already has done so on the West Coast.

"I need not tell you that the DCB is simply not going into censorship,"

B'way Gross Shows Slight Improvement

Broadway grosses showed a slight improvement over the weekend, indicating, say the theatre managers, that the public is gradually adjusting itself to the sudden change of events. Showmen yesterday expressed the belief that business will return to normal in time.

COLUMBIA announced today that cash bonuses in ratio to years of service will be paid employees volunteering for military service.

The final report of the film division of the Los Angeles Community Chest will be made by Louis B. Mayer, chairman, tomorrow noon at the Biltmore Hotel. Mayor Bowron and civic leaders will attend.

Edmund Goulding and a volunteer cast worked through Sunday to complete the fifth sequence of "Forever and a Day," which Sir Cedric Hardwicke is producing for American and British war charities. U. S. entry into the war has caused some script revisions. The start of the sixth and final sequence will follow completion of these changes. Additional talent will be enrolled, all contributing their services, and the roster will reportedly include virtually all marquee names in films.

Delegations from all studio art departments met tonight at the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences headquarters and conferred with Capt. George Hazenbush, commanding officer of the Camouflage Section, 604th Engineers. Voluntary collaboration by the industry for camouflaging aircraft plants, hangars and military objectives of all kinds in view of possible attack was discussed.

B'way Gross Shows Slight Improvement Some Key Cities Off

tonight is expected to reach an estimated $42,000. It continues.

The Radio City Music Hall show, "The Men in Her Life," with the stage presentation, brought an estimated $5,000 Thursday through Sunday. The show will finish a week's run tomorrow night to be replaced Thursday by "H. M. Pulham, Esq." and the annual Christmas stage presentation. M-G-M's "Babes on Broadway" will be the Music Hall's New Year's attraction, scheduled to open Dec. 31.

'Rise and Shine,' $14,700

"Rise and Shine" in its second week at the Roxy with a stage show drew an estimated $14,700 Friday through Sunday. "Confirm or Deny" goes in Thursday. "Blues in the Night" and Count Basie's orchestra gave the Strand an estimated $19,500 Thursday through Sunday. The show starts a second week Thursday.

"The Feminine Touch" grossed an estimated $7,800 at the Capitol Thursday through Sunday and will be replaced Thursday by "Kathleen," the new Shirley Temple picture. "How Green Was My Valley," now in its seventh week at the Rivoli, garnered an estimated $9,200 Friday through Sunday.

At the Astor, "The Chocolate Soldier," also playing a seventh week, did an estimated $9,200 Friday through Sunday. "Swamp Water" brought the Globe an estimated $1,800 Saturday and Sunday and concludes its fifth and final week Friday night.

War Aggravates Pre-Christmas Slump

Reports from various sections of the county continued to indicate for the most part sharply depleted grosses as a result of the war and blackout situation, with the annual Christmas slump also a factor.

The blackout depression caused three houses in San Francisco to close. The legitimate Alcazar may reopen after the holidays, the subsequent run burlesque house, the President, has been closed indefinitely, and the California, Fox West Coast house, probably will reopen as the State after remodeling.

Nightly blackouts in the Pacific Northwest have been discontinued by the Army, with all theatres and radio stations resuming regular operation. However, theatre business remained well below normal levels over the weekend.

New Orleans houses reported a 20 per cent drop since the outbreak of war. A blackout test in Rochester found theatres prepared with all staffs instructed in procedure.

The usual pre-Christmas slump in the Cincinnati trade area has been accentuated this year by the war situation. Suburban and neighborhood houses have been most seriously affected, with reports ranging from a 20 to 60 per cent decrease to "business being demoralized." In Norwood, O., the closing of the Chevrolet and Fischer Body plants has resulted in declining grosses.

Business began picking up over the weekend in the Albany-Troy-Schenectady area, after having been as much as 60 to 75 per cent below normal.

"Riot Squad"

(Monogram)

Hollywood, Dec. 15

MONOGRAM'S "Riot Squad" is a melodramatic story of a young doctor who joins a gang of criminals as their physician in order to trap them for the police. Due to his oath of secrecy he is unable to tell his fiancée of the plan and his private life becomes entangled with his public service.

Richard Cromwell enacts the role of the doctor; Rita Quigley, his fiancée; John Miljan, the leader of the gang, and Mary Ruth, a little girl whose actions supply some of the motivation. Others in the cast are Herbert Rawlinson, Mary Gordon, Donald Kerr, Jack C. Smith, Richard Clarke, Noel Cravat, Arthur Space and Spraky, the dog.

Edward Finney produced and directed the picture, he being hampered, along with the cast, by an inept screenplay and large portions of stilted dialogue replete with clichés. The title has little connection with the story.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."*

To Exempt British Studio Technicians

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The Ministry of Labor has agreed to accept the findings of the manpower committee on production personnel, which is expected to insure a protective minimum of technicians and labor for British studios.

The chief recommendation was that all technicians and skilled workers over 25 be exempt from military service, while certain classifications, where women may replace men, are open to negotiation. It was agreed that where possible women will be trained to replace men.

Approximately 400 key technicians of military age will be exempt. The Labor Ministry agreed also not to do anything which would reduce the present volume of production or total of personnel employed, but it is said this is open to revision if the demand becomes acute. The Ministry likewise will not condone the employment in the industry of women registered for war work. Producers and unions have indicated their satisfaction with the Ministry's position.

The manpower committee was appointed to investigate the actual personnel needs of the production branch of the industry following urgent trade pleas to the Government that the calling for military service of an unlimited number of technicians would seriously hamper the work of production.

Suspend Production Plan

At the same time, it was announced that the company has suspended its plans for actively participating in production itself, but that United Artists Productions, Inc., successor to the Walter Wanger company, will continue to be available for production setups such as the current Ernst Lubitsch filming of "To Be or Not to Be."

The product committee was made a "permanent part of the United Artists organization" and will handle all deals for United Artists release. In addition to Bagnall, members of the committee are Kelly, and attorneys Daniel T. O'Shea and Loyd Wright. Headquarters will be maintained here and Kelly will divide his time between here and New York integrating production and release schedules.

Reports Six Deals

Raftery disclosed that the committee has "six important deals near completion" but would not disclose with whom.

The four company owners, Mary Pickford, David O. Selznick, Alexander Korda and Charles Chaplin, attended the meeting. The owners stated that they would not interfere with the new board and that operating control would be in the hands of the management.

Raftery, in addition to being chairman of the board and president, is general counsel of United Artists and attorney for Miss Pickford. Lawrence has been associated with Selznick; Kelly is looked upon as representing Chaplin, and Bagnall is associated with Korda.

Raftery, Sears and Kelly plan to leave for New York by train on Thursday.

Industry Mindful Of War Task: Hays

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—"The motion picture industry is not unmindful of its responsibility in these days of tense nerves and all-out effort," Will H. Hays told the Indiana Society of Chicago at its annual dinner at the Stevens hotel here last weekend. Hays was guest of honor at the affair.

"With the mental, physical and spiritual health of so many at stake," Hays said, "the inevitable interference with normal life brings new entertainment problems as well as the other social problems. The screen, nurtured in freedom, recognizes its obligation to freedom, and, as the principal amusement of all the people, I declare its determined purpose to make certain the continual flow of the films so vitally necessary to military and civilian morale in the efforts for total defense."

Discuss Newsreel

War Regulations

to time as official regulations are decided upon.

The reels were asked to provide Colonel Wright with data on all cameramen and, pending the issuance of special Army passes or the assignment of cameramen to action zones, each man will be investigated by the Intelligence Department, it is understood. It was indicated that a maximum of two cameramen might be permitted on assignments in action zones and that their material would be turned over to the Intelligence Department for scrutiny prior to release. The pooling of all war footage with its simultaneous release to all reels by the Government, as is done in Great Britain, was also mentioned as a possibility. However, no final regulations have yet been placed in effect.

What material, if any, obtained by cameraman in the Pacific will, of course, be subject to Government censorship prior to release.

prise. At 9:55 a police sound truck instructed air raid wardens—about 150 policemen and 60 firemen served in that capacity—to hold themselves in readiness. Fifteen minutes later the sirens whined, the wardens rushed to their posts and directed the thousands of passers-by and the occupants of the curbed buses and automobiles to office buildings and theatres. Over 200 marched into the lounge of the Paramount Theatre. Police and fire emergency trucks also came on the scene.

Two-Minute Halt

Visible on Broadway were only those working in an official capacity. After a period of about two minutes the "all clear" was heard and the corralled civilians released themselves.

Although the drill was planned to include only persons in the streets, the personnel in some buildings, including Loew's home office at 1540 Broadway, reportedly moved to the center floors in compliance with the regular air raid instructions.

The demonstration was repeated about a half hour later and was pronounced even more successful than the first. A similar demonstration took place in the Gramercy Park vicinity.

Bars Blackout Plan

Meanwhile a plan to have a simultaneous blackout in all theatres in the city was drawn up by the Stagehands' Theatrical Protective Union. The plan was to have been submitted to the Police Commissioner's office for approval but late yesterday a spokesman at the office said that it had not been received. Without consulting either the Mayor's or Commissioner's office, the union had arranged for a test blackout Saturday night in a legitimate house on West 45th Street. Commissioner Valentine, however, turned thumbs down on the plan since it did not have official approval.

A meeting of Times Square air raid wardens was held last night at the Hotel Astor. Robert Christenberry, zone warden; Ed Sullivan and Robert M. Weitman, managing director of the Paramount, addressed the gathering.

New Jersey Allied Meeting Thursday

A meeting of the New Jersey Allied board of directors and another of the entire membership will be held Thursday at the Stacey Trent Hotel, Trenton, for the regular periodic discussions of industry matters including air raid precautions in theatres and the all-industry unity meeting in Chicago last week. Harry H. Lowenstein, president, will preside.

In the evening the members will visit Mrs. Helen Hildinger's new Mayfair Theatre in that city, which is scheduled to open on that day. The house, closed for years, was formerly the Orpheum.

merman, RKO home office attorney and Frederick Lorenzen and Jame Kennedy, New York counsel for Century-Fox. The defendants represented also by Joseph Finley, S. Paul attorney, and David Shearer of Minneapolis.

Ben Blotcky, Paramount Minneapolis branch manager, took the stand first and admitted entering into a deal with David Ratner, operator of a theatre at White Bear, Minn., for the leasing of a block of five pictures without cancellation rights.

Cancellation in Law

A violation is charged in that the Minnesota law specifies an entire season's product must be sold in a single block with a 20 per cent cancellation right.

L. E. Goldhammer, RKO branch manager here, also admitted he had sold Ratner two blocks of five pictures each. Ratner admitted receiving the contract. Both Goldhammer and Blotcky admitted they knew the companies would release other pictures during the season.

Jack Cohan, 20th Century-Fox salesman here, admitted having sold block of five pictures to Theodor Hamm, operator of the Gem and Oxford, St. Paul. All testified that sales were made in accordance with the provisions of the Federal conservation decree before any of the companies had been granted court relief permitting them to sell in Minnesota under the terms of the state law.

Perfunctory Questions

Questioning in all instances was more or less perfunctory and for the record, since the actions admitted are test cases.

Shearer began the opening statement for the defense late today, saying he hoped to prove that the state law is unconstitutional and in restraint of trade, and that his clients are not guilty, therefore. On the conclusion of his statement, the long task of taking defense testimony will begin.

A civil action in which six distributors are seeking a permanent injunction against enforcement of the state law has been set down for trial next February.

Ap Attack Brings Record Radio Use

The highest number of "sets-in-use" ever recorded for an entire evening by E. Hooper, was set during the evening of Dec. 7, the day the Japanese attacked Honolulu, it was reported yesterday. The figure, 47 per cent, compares with 39 per cent set for the comparable Sunday last year and the normal seasonal average of 36.6 per cent set during the Sundays in November of this year.

Edgar Bergen and Walter Winchell led with ratings of 29.9 per cent as the most popular evening programs of November, with Bob Hope third, rating 28.8, and Fibber McGee & Molly fourth, 28.7.

The remaining 11 of the first 15 were "Aldrich Family," 27.8; Jack Benny, 27.1; "Lux Radio Theatre," 27.1; "Maxwell House Coffee Time," 23.7; Major Bowes, 18.9; "Fitch and wagon," 18.8; "Take It or Leave It," 18.5; "One Man's Family," 18.4; "Time to Smile," 18.3; Kay Kyser's College of Musical Knowledge," 17.8, and Orson Welles, 17.8. Red Skelton, with 22.3 per cent, continues to lead among shows not covered on a national basis.

Paley explained that the raise was designed to help employes in the moderate salary range meet the rising cost of living. He explained that past, present and future relations with unions justified allowing "our relations with unionized employes to remain within the existing framework of such relations."

St. Louis Clearance Complaint Dismissed

It has been reported here that the Portuguese Embassy has cancelled visas for civilian travelers between London and Lisbon. However, one Portuguese and one Spanish steamship line still are operating to New York. The 20th Century-Fox home office has not been advised of Harley's and Kane's plans. They had expected to arrive here before Christmas.

Broadcasters should not become unduly alarmed, he added. So far, he said, "they have done a fine job."

Fly refused to speculate regarding the immediate future of television, explaining that so far no definite plans had been developed for any branch of radio. At best, however, he indicated, there can be but a "nucleus" of the nationwide commercial service toward which the industry has been working.

Asked whether there would be any change in the monopoly situation as a result of the war, Fly said the easiest solution would be for the chains to accept the new rules and notify their affiliates accordingly.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Censorship of radio, cables and other media of communication was imposed tonight by President Roosevelt.

Motion pictures were not mentioned specifically in the President's announcement. Observers believe that, except for newsreels, the regulations may not apply to films, since the orders are definitely directed at communications carrying vital information.

Admitting that censorship is abhorrent to all Americans, the President declared that the experience of the past few years has demonstrated that it is necessary in war time, adding, "and we are at war."

Realignment of RKO Effected By Schaefer

Orpheum. (Schaefer is president of K-A-O.)

Leon Gouberg, who has been treasurer of K-A-O, chief theatre subsidiary of RKO, has been elected treasurer of the parent company and additionally will be treasurer of all RKO theatre and picture subsidiaries.

Responsible to Schaefer

All these officials will be directly responsible to the president.

Charles Koerner will be elected a vice-president of the theatre companies and will continue as general manager under Kingsberg.

Kingsberg replaces Major L. E. Thompson, who, it is reported, is headed for some other executive post in the company. Goldberg succeeds William Clark.

Schaefer's announcement stated that all theatre activities will be consolidated under Kingsberg's direction and that the companies of which he will be elected president include RKO Proctor Corp., RKO Midwest Corp., RKO Orpheum Corp. and RKO Service Corp.

One Finance Head

Regarding Goldberg's new posts as treasurer of the parent and subsidiary companies, Schaefer stated: "This move will centralize all financial operations under one head who will be directly responsible to the president."

"The realignment," Schaefer stated, "will streamline the organization as well as more clearly and definitely fix duties and responsibilities."

British Studios Ask Exemption of Talent

LONDON, Dec. 16.—A majority of producers and representatives of the British units of M-G-M, Columbia and 20th Century-Fox, in the British Producers Association, will seek the aid of the Ministry of Information in obtaining the release from military service of necessary talent.

The producers plan to offer full documentary proof of their need, with technicians probably included, and the Ministry has promised to lend its assistance. The producers also are considering a plan under which the association would be a clearing house on the producers' clothing ration system, instead of the present method, under which each producer has coupons to take care of studio needs. Board of Trade approval will be sought.

Extension to Jan. 5 In Pickwick Case

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 16.—A second stipulation has been entered into by the attorney for the plaintiffs in the Pickwick, Greenwich, anti-trust suit against the eight major film companies, and the attorney for 20th-Fox, granting extension of time in which 20th-Fox may answer the long interrogatories of the plaintiffs. The time has been extended to Jan. 5, 1942, when answers will be expected as to corporation, clearance and personnel matters.

governing and needs no legislative regulation.

Shearer, in his presentation, declared that production entailed strong competition, in which large sums were spent.

"Uncanny judgment," in forecasting public taste is a necessary function of the industry, he said. "The ability to forecast what the public wants is one of the basic elements of motion picture success. Even then the producer cannot predict the fate of a picture.

"No expense is spared in giving the public what it wants. Showmanship is indispensable, and showmanship is not subject to monopoly."

Finley discussed distribution. He pointed out that competition forced companies at one time to try to beat each other on convention dates, and the result was confusion.

He pointed out that motion pictures are copyrighted and cannot be sold. He said that in 1941 fewer than 600 pictures were made, but print shipments totaled 10,000,000.

Revenue, Finley said, is evenly divided from first run and subsequent run houses.

"First runs are entitled to protection," he said. "The distributor has his own choice of licensing."

the Government's application to restore its anti-trust suit against Columbia, United Artists and Universal to the Federal court trial calendar here.

It is believed that Loew's application will be granted by the court, since that was the experience of the other four consenting companies in making their Minnesota law applications. The Loew's petition follows the same form as those of the other companies.

'Gesture' Preview Set

United Artists will hold a press preview of Arnold Pressburger's "The Shanghai Gesture" at the Astor Theatre, Dec. 23. Industry executives in addition to press representatives will be invited, it is planned.

Treasury to Enlist Radio, Theatres For 'Minute Men' Bond Selling Drive

Washington, Dec. 16.—The Treasury Department today revived the World War "Four-Minute Men" method of selling bonds, announcing that it was enlisting nationally known Americans to make one-minute selling talks on Government and nationally sponsored network programs and over all local radio stations.

Prominent citizens from the locality will be asked to speak over the individual stations while nationally known figures will be used on the chain programs and the Treasury's own presentations to urge the purchase of defense bonds and stamps.

It is probable that, as in the last war, exhibitors also will be asked to lend their stages for short talks.

that they are safe and that their organizations are still functioning. Virtually all 20th Century-Fox representatives in the Far East also have been heard from. No casualties among industry personnel in the Far East have been reported to home offices.

Hank Henry, manager of Paramount's Manila exchange, who held a commission as Naval Reserve Officer, was called to duty at the outbreak of hostilities.

Film shipments to the Orient are understood to be leaving from New York, instead of the West Coast, as formerly. Shipments are said to be going by way of the Panama Canal through the South Pacific to Australia and will be re-shipped to other Far East ports from there.

Cashier's checks totaling $210,000 on the Yokohama Specie Bank at San Francisco, which were received about a week ago in connection with the third payment on the major companies' 1937 Japanese revenue, have been returned to the companies uncashed, as the San Francisco bank was taken over by the Alien Property Custodian following the declaration of war. In order to cash the checks, the companies, it is said, will have to obtain permits from the Treasury Department at Washington.

Fawcett Readers Call 'Foxes' Best

The others are: "Sergeant York," "The Philadelphia Story," "Citizen Kane," "A Woman's Face," "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," "Honky Tonk," "Kitty Foyle," "The Road to Zanzibar," "I Wanted Wings," "Blossoms in the Dust," "Ladies in Retirement," "A Yank in the RAF," "That Hamilton Woman," "You'll Never Get Rich."

St. Louis Paper Poll Designates 'Blossoms'

St. LOUIS, Dec. 16.—"Blossoms in the Dust" was listed as the outstanding film of 1941 in a reader poll conducted by Colvin McPherson, Post Dispatch critic. Following in order, were: "Sergeant York," "Penny Serenade," "Gone With the Wind," "A Yank in the RAF," "Caught in the Draft," "Blood and Sand," "Kitty Foyle," "The Philadelphia Story," "Hold That Ghost."

Mr. Harmon has resigned from the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., in order to devote full time to the war activities of the industry.

"These changes were determined upon at a meeting of the executive group attended by representatives of exhibitors, distributors, producers, artists and trade press.

ment tax in connection with admissions for such performances.

The ruling limits the admission charge to the scales in effect for the midnight performances last New Year's Eve and, due to the requirement that the exhibitors must absorb the Federal tax, in addition, the scales will represent a 20 per cent reduction to the theatre as compared with the prices charged last New Year's Eve.

The ruling was made necessary because the regulations placing a ceiling on admission prices do not cover special performances such as New Year's Eve midnight shows.

Short Subject Reviews

"Spanish Fiesta"

(Warners)

First of a proposed series, "Spanish Fiesta," is an uncommon type of screen entertainment, far in advance of the regulation subject from the standpoint of artistry. Transplanted to the screen under the direction of Jean Negulesco is the celebrated Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo featuring Tamara Toumanova, Frederic Franklin and Leonide, enacting the story of the gypsy girl who steals away from her camp and ventures to a party of the aristocracy. The entire troupe performs with great skill. The accompanying music by Rimsky Korsakoff has a really fine quality, while the presentation, vividly colored, is compelling in its beauty. The subject is of an esthetic nature. Running time, 19 mins. Release, undetermined.

"Hedda Hopper's Hollywood, No. Z1-2"

(Paramount)

This is average "inside Hollywood" fare. As in the reel's predecessor, a good deal of attention is focussed upon Miss Hopper, who is first seen entertaining a few screen players and veteran William Farnum at her home. Subsequently it shifts to the Milwaukee premiere of Miss Hopper's first "Hedda Hopper's Hollywood," then to the ground-breaking ceremonies at what is to be the Motion Picture Relief Fund home, and finally to the Mocambo, a Hollywood night spot. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Dec. 5, 1941.

"Unusual Occupations, L1-2"

(Paramount)

Presented in color here are six interesting items, some of which have action in addition to interest, making for one of the better shorts in the series. Shown are a woman zoological director in San Diego; the art of coloring glass; aquatic acrobatics; musical instruments composed of animal hides; breeding of goldfish, and finally an exhibition of sharpshooting. Running time, 11 mins. Release, Dec. 5, 1941.

"Kitchen Quiz No. 2"

(Columbia Quiz Reel)

(Columbia)

Ed East and Polly, the network team, again give film fans the benefit of the household tips they have been broadcasting over the air. They illustrate the removal of grease spots from clothing; how to tell whether eggs are fresh without breaking the shells; how to remove the excess salt or the burnt taste from food; how to collect hairs shed by the family dog, and such. Should interest both men and women. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Dec. 12, 1941.

"The Gay Parisian"

(Warners)

This subject with the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, while differing, of course, in choreography, is virtually the same as the first, "Spanish Fiesta," in execution and value for the theatre. It is rich and colorful and brings something new to the screen. The ballet company depicts the tale of the gay Peruvian adventurer in a Parisian cafe, pursuing the girls and creating amusing mayhem. Leonide Massine, Milada Mladova and Frederic Franklin are featured. The presentation is strikingly beautiful and in no small way is Jean Negulesco's direction responsible. His filming of one scene, in which a wall mirror reflects the dancers, drew applause at the preview. Running time, 20 mins. Release, Jan. 10, 1942.

"Campus Capers"

(Personality and Name Band Musical)

(Universal)

This is bright and tuneful, should rate with those who like a little music on the side. It opens with library material on the big football game and then shifts to the victory celebration. Jack Teagarden and his orchestra provide the music with songs by Susan Miller, an attractive and capable vocalist, and Kenny Stevens, young tenor. A few other acts also are on the program. Running time, 18 mins. Release, Jan. 7, 1942.

"Peaceful Quebec—At War"

(Variety Views)

(Universal)

Here traces of the war are reflected only in the stepped-up production of wood pulp. The reel is a nicely filmed travelogue covering native occupations and diversions, farming, industry, the tourist trade at play, and a few spots of historical interest, all shown while the commentator talks about war. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Jan. 5, 1942.

"Annapolis Salutes the Navy"

(Variety Views)

(Universal)

This is a quiet, fairly interesting insight on Annapolis, which focuses particular attention on the relics of Colonial days, such as the homes of three signers of the Declaration of Independence, while the commentator recites their history. It is brought to a close with the naval cadets saluting Tecumseh with the traditional tossing of pennies. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Dec. 8, 1941.

"Strange Facts"

(Cinescope)

(Columbia)

Three items make up this reel. The sea shell industry is shown preparing lamps, jewelry and other ornaments from a huge collection of shells; a sculptor is at work making many things from fresh cocoanuts, and an unusual migration of shad takes over Silver Springs, Fla. Done in color, the reel holds interest. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Dec. 6, 1941.

"She's Oil Mine"

(All Star Comedies)

(Columbia)

Buster Keaton, aided and abetted by Elsie Ames, Monty Collins and Eddie Laughton, indulges in some old style slapstick. As a plumber, Keaton tries to help Miss Ames evade the courtship of an unwanted foreign nobleman. The latter becomes insulted and a duel is fought. There are the usual complications attendant upon the plumber's trade and duelling but laughs are few. Running time, 17 mins. Release, Nov. 20, 1941.

"Battlefields of the Pacific"

(March of Time)

(RKO)

With the war developments, the "dated" news matter that forms "Battlefields of the Pacific" has actually gained in value. It is a special March of Time issue compiled of material from three previous subjects which dealt with what is now the chief focal point of American interests—the Far East—and is frankly labeled as such. It is comprised of sequences from "Crisis in the Pacific," released December, 1939; "The Philippines: 1898-1946," May, 1940, and from "Spoils of Conquest," July, 1940. The film is an intelligent and informative analysis of the military strength, geographical significance and natural resources of the Philippines, the Dutch East Indies, Hong Kong and Guam. Running time, 22 minutes. Release, Dec. 19, 1941.

"Rhythm in the Ranks"

(Paramount)

Disgraced because he tarried by the wayside for a flirtation with a pretty skater while the rest of the wooden soldiers marched off to maneuvers, the recreant redeems himself by repulsing an enemy army single-handed, but with the aid of invisible camouflage paint. George Pal's new Madcap Models Puppetoon is a sprightly subject, pleasing to see. The color is particularly good. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Dec. 13, 1941.

"How to Hold Your Husband—Back"

(Pete Smith Specialty)

(M-G-M)

Several types of wives, all of whom love their hubbies not wisely but too well, are presented for audience amusement by Pete Smith in a new Specialty reel. The well-meaning but disastrous—to their husbands—efforts of the wives should garner a full measure of chuckles everywhere. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Dec. 13, 1941.

"Who's a Dummy"

(Leon Errol Comedy)

(RKO)

Devoid of subtlety, Leon Errol is involved in a series of preposterous situations stemming from his assumption that his wife, Vivian Tobin, is engaged in a torrid love affair with another, which in reality is a rehearsal of a play. It is typical Errol comedy staged only for the laughs it will no doubt draw. In comparison with previous Errol efforts, this is about average. Running time, 17 mins. Release, Nov. 28, 1941.

"Gaucho Sports"

(Sportscope)

(RKO-Pathé)

This is an entertaining sports reel, whose subject, enhanced by good photography, is the occupational and recreational activities of the gaucho on the Argentine Pampas. The great cattle herds, which, incidentally, currently figure in international discussions, skillful riding and a unique method of roping are shown. It should go over well with most audiences. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Oct. 21, 1941.

Radio Placed On Censorship Basis by U.S.

...ship avoiding the dissemination of detailed information of certain kinds, such as reports of the movements of vessels and troops, probably will meet the requirements of the situation.

Definite censorship will be necessary, however, to see that valuable information does not reach the enemy, inadvertently or otherwise, through the medium of the mails, radio or cable transmission, or by any other means. Certain types of information, covered by long-standing laws, also is to be withheld, he said.

Revive War Powers

The announcement that censorship would be established followed by a few hours the quick enactment by Congress of legislation reviving World War powers of the President, including that of censorship of international communications. Domestic broadcasting was not included in the measure, being already taken care of under Section 606 of the Communications Act of 1934.

Outlining the various steps which would be taken to prevent information from reaching the enemy, the President commended the attitude of radio and the press toward the safeguarding of vital news.

"The Government," he said, "has called upon a patriotic press and radio to abstain voluntarily from the dissemination of detailed information of the movements of vessels and troops. The response has indicated a universal desire to cooperate."

Newsreel filming of military or naval activities already is under strict control of the War and Navy Departments, as is the use of such scenes made in the production of features.

Urges Caution on Air News Reports

Urging the importance of accuracy of news reports, even at the expense of immediacy, A. A. Schechter, NBC news and special events director, yesterday sent a memorandum to all the network's news editors listing cautions to be observed. He repeated the previously issued warnings against reading casualty lists, movements of troops, weather information and the like.

Pointing out that the enemy frequently sends out false communiqués to obtain information by denial or affirmation, Schechter warned against dissemination of such reports. He made an exception, however, for commentators who, because they can explain the full meaning, may discuss the communique in its proper light.

Denies Receiver Plea

SCRANTON, PA., Dec. 16.—Judge Samuel E. Shull refused a petition filed by Lou Pollar asking for the appointment of a receiver for the Union Broadcasting Co., operator of WARM here. Pollar is litigating a claim against the company.

Off the Antenna

THE largest single contract with a wine sponsor was signed yesterday by WNEW with K. Arakelian, Inc., makers of Mission Bell Wines. The contract is for 52 weeks and is non-cancellable, even the usual war cancellation clause having been eliminated. The deal calls for 1,267 15-second cut-in announcements, 936 run-of-schedule announcements and 312 15-minute music periods during the year. Other new business includes a 52-week contract with the American Chicle Co. which has added three 15-minute periods weekly on "Make Believe Ballroom" in addition to the spot campaign which has been conducted exclusively on WNEW, and Hensler Brewing Co., which has extended a 30-week contract for three periods weekly on the "Ballroom" for an additional year.

On again—off again—on again—has been the status of the annual East-West all-star football game originally scheduled to be carried by Mutual under the sponsorship of Gillette from San Francisco New Year's Day. When Army officials cancelled the game, it was shifted to New Orleans but Mutual still couldn't carry it because it had previously scheduled the Cotton Bowl game from Dallas, figuring that the difference in time zones would permit carrying both contests. It was all settled yesterday, however, when the East-West game was postponed to Jan. 3.

Weather forecasts faded from the radio picture yesterday as just another war casualty. The War Department asked discontinuance of the reports which might aid the enemy. Stations are arranging with sponsors of these forecasts for other periods. WOR, which frequently broadcasts road conditions, is making arrangements with local police to continue such broadcasts but eliminate weather data.

Program News: Col. Stoopnagle will return to the air next March over NBC-Blue under sponsorship of the Ontario Travel & Publicity Bureau. He will be heard Fridays, 7-7:30 P.M. . . . Sterling Products has renewed "Orphans of Divorce" and "Amanda of Honeymoon Hill" over 66 NBC-Blue stations Mondays through Fridays. . . . Effective Jan. 4, Standard Brands has renewed the Edgar Bergen show and "One Man's Family" heard Sundays over 84 NBC-Red stations.

Short Wave Shifts To Boost Coverage

Starting today, the two NBC short wave transmitters and WBOS, the Westinghouse short wave transmitter in Boston which also broadcasts the NBC programs, will shift their entire schedules and frequencies to adjust their language programs for the greatest amount of listening in foreign countries.

Both NBC and CBS continue to operate their short wave transmitters 24 hours daily. CBS reported yesterday that it had received assurances from Latin American stations of whole-hearted support. Charles Malmstedt, Finnish-born American, yesterday joined the NBC staff as newscaster in Finnish.

FDR Air Talks Holding Nation Close to Sets

Huge audiences continue to stay close to the radio receiver when President Roosevelt is on the air, it was indicated again yesterday by a survey by Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting which reported that 63.3 per cent of all set owners heard the President and the Bill of Rights program Monday night.

CAB reported that the show itself established an all-time high for programs using a regular radio technique and it was the fourth largest audience for the President.

The President's speech the week before drew 83 per cent of set owners, according to CAB. C. E. Hooper rated the broadcast 79 per cent, an all-time record. The address to Congress, earlier the same day, drew 60 per cent, according to Hooper.

Wisconsin Houses Air News Summary

JANESVILLE, Wis., Dec. 16.—Many theatres of southern Wisconsin have made arrangements with station WCLO here to have portions of newscasts on the loudspeakers in theatres so that patrons may be informed of the latest news while watching the show. ## Reviews

"The Bugle Sounds"

(M-G-M)

THE final one-fourth of this production is crammed with action and suspense and does much to offset the laggard pace of the earlier phases. The difficulty seems to be that the real story does not begin until the picture is three-quarters over. That footage is devoted to depicting Wallace Beery as a hard-bitten cavalry sergeant, resentful of the new-fangled Army mechanization.

Then a shipment of tanks is sabotaged and a runaway vehicle kills Beery's well-loved cavalry mount. Apparently resentful, Beery disappears and after a scene of insubordination when he is returned, he is court-martialed and dishonorably discharged. Chance apparently brings him in contact with the saboteurs and it is then the audience learns the discharge of the veteran was designed solely as a blind to track down the saboteurs. It is while on this mission that the picture achieves its stirring action. Its timeliness seems its greatest virtue.

The supporting roles are ably handled by Lewis Stone as the commanding officer; Donna Reed as a trainee's young bride; Marjorie Main as Beery's old friend; George Bancroft, Roman Bohnen and Jerome Cowan as the saboteurs, and William Lundigan as a tank corps trainee. J. Walter Ruben produced and S. Sylvan Simon directed.

Running time, 101 minutes. "G."*

"Mr. and Mrs. North"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Dec. 16

IT'S Gracie Allen across the board for showmen playing this lively comedy of murder and mystification, which is as funny as she is because she is most of it. According to the preview audience which saw it last week in Glendale, that is funny enough. They laughed long, loudly and in all the right places.

Players associated with Miss Allen in the complicated proceedings, which recall "The Gracie Allen Murder Case" without being too much like it for comfort, are William Post, Jr., Paul Kelly, Rose Hobart, Virginia Grey, Tom Conway, Felix Bressart, Millard Mitchell, Porter Hall, Lucien Littlefield, Inez Cooper, Keye Luke, Jerome Cowan, Stuart Crawford and Fortunio Bonanova.

The story baffles synopsis.

Production is by Irving Asher, direction by Robert B. Sinclair and the script by S. K. Lauren, all parties pitching to Miss Allen throughout.

Running time, 67 minutes. "G."*

"West of Cimarron"

(Republic)

"WEST of Cimarron" is a routine Western, neither more nor less. It has the regulation company of characters, a yarn that is not always smooth running, and action.

As they have done before, the Three Mesquiteers ride smack into trouble—post-Civil War Texans vs. tax-minded Union troopers—and waste little time in adjusting matters. The trio, Bob Steele, Tom Tyler and Rufe Davis, have with them in the film Lois Collier, daughter of the commanding officer who is unaware of his assistants' carpet-bagging; James Bush, leader of the battling victims, and others, including Guy Usher, Hugh Prosser, Cordell Hickman and Roy Barcroft.

Steele, Tyler and Davis soon learn the facts, pretend to take sides with the troopers and eventually effect the expose. In a big concluding fight the Texans win. Director Les Orlebeck was not provided with the best of material. Louis Gray was associate producer.

Running time, 56 minutes. "G."*

Abandon Sneak Previews on Coast Due to Blackouts; Seek Papers' Aid

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17.—Discontinuance of the long-standing practice of "sneak" previews not intended for press review in Los Angeles suburbs was announced today by Y. Frank Freeman, president of the Association of M. P. Producers. Freeman asked the cooperation of Los Angeles editors in not printing reviews prior to specified review dates.

He cited war conditions as making journeys to distant points dangerous in the event of blackouts. The zoning system thus ended was invoked several years ago to end a competitive conflict which raged between local publications at that time, to the dissatisfaction of all parties and considerable cost to the studios. Newspaper cooperation is expected to be uniform and spontaneous.

Texas Exhibitor Files Fine Two London Houses on Quota Arbitration Appeal

B. R. McLendon, operator of the Texan and State theatres, Atlanta, Tex., has filed an appeal from the dismissal of his clearance complaint at the Dallas board, American Arbitration Association headquarters reported yesterday.

The complaint named Loew's, RKO, 20th Century-Fox and Warners, and the Paramount and Strand theatres at Texarkana, Tex. J. B. Adone, arbitrator, dismissed the case Nov. 30 after finding that the clearance granted the competing theatres was not unreasonable.

The complaint attracted attention when Paramount-Richards Theatres, of which E. V. Richards is head, and which operates the competing theatres, served notice that it would not intervene in the case and did not recognize the jurisdiction of arbitrators over its operations.

Seek to Regulate L. A. Stage Shows

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17.—Regulation of stage shows and theatre performances other than motion pictures is proposed by the Los Angeles police commission in the draft of an ordinance sent to the city council.

The proposed measure would empower the commission, under the permit section, to take necessary steps "for the maintenance of public order, the promotion of public morals and the orderly conduct of such places."

The measure was discussed by the City council today. Councilmen expressed the view film houses should be exempt from all regulation inasmuch as police now have the power to seize salacious films in theatres. The bill was referred to the Police and Fire Committee.

Walker Heads Cabinet Group Censor Study

the Office of Government Reports, while not a member, is sitting in on the meetings of the committee.

Stephen Early, the President's secretary, said that Byron Price, yesterday named director of censorship, is expected to arrive in Washington Friday to meet with the cabinet committee.

The proposed program will be designed to eliminate the evils and difficulties experienced with censorship during World War I, Early said, and news gatherers in Washington will probably have little contact with the censorship office. This office will seek to suppress at the source information which might be of aid to the enemy.

President to Approve

Early said the committee has been sifting a number of plans developed by Government agencies before the outbreak of war and that the plan will be submitted to President Roosevelt for final approval. It is hoped that the plan will be ready for submission by the time the pending war powers bill is signed.

Mail, cable and radio messages going out of or coming in the country will be subject to censorship. Government sources of information, however, will remain open because the Government considers it "most important" to transmit news from the source to the public with the least possible delay, Early said.

tially similar decrees from Columbia, United Artists and Universal by that date.

Acting on the Government's application yesterday, Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard restored the "Little Three" anti-trust suit to the day calendar of the District court here for February. It is likely to be called for trial within two weeks following its restoration to the calendar.

'Anxious' for Decree

In taking that action, Judge Goddard stated: "I am anxious to see the decree carried out. Too much work has been put into it by all of us to permit it to fall by default.

Restoration of the suit to the calendar was objected to by Benjamin Pepper of O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery, counsel for United Artists and Columbia, and Louis D. Frohlich of Schwartz & Frohlich, counsel for Columbia. They pointed out that the Government only recently moved for trial of the Schine circuit anti-trust suit, in which the "Little Three" also are defendants, in Federal court at Buffalo, with the result that the case was set down for trial on March 3. They contended that the trial will consume several months and reminded Judge Goddard that on several occasions he has told them that he would not require them to defend two of the Government's actions simultaneously.

Judge Goddard responded that "this court will be fair," and indicated that he will not insist upon the New York suit going to trial when it is called in February, or later, if such a trial were to work an unreasonable hardship on the defendants.

Wants Trial Limited

Wright proposed that a trial of the New York suit should be confined only to the sections of the Government's complaint which relate to block booking and blind selling, which, he contended, would make possible a decision in the case by June 1. A Government victory in such a trial would meet the requirements of the decree escape clause and would continue the decree in full force beyond June 1. Both Pepper and Frohlich objected to "a piecemeal trial" of that nature.

They told the court that the Government now found itself pressed for time in the face of the escape clause only because the Department of Justice has been "remiss" in not bringing the New York suit to trial ahead of the Crescent and Schine circuit cases.

Loew's to Resume Minnesota Selling; Given Law 'Escape'

Loew's will resume selling in Minnesota immediately as a result of the signing of an order by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard yesterday granting the company an exemption from the anti-trade show and block-of-five sales provisions of the consent decree.

The exemption permits the company to operate in Minnesota without violating the state's anti-block-of-five law.

Stanley Thompson, Loew's home office attorney, presented the order, which had been agreed upon with Robert L. Wright, special assistant to the U. S. Attorney General. Loew's was the last of the five consenting companies to seek and obtain the court exemption from the decree for Minnesota selling.

All companies now are selling in Minnesota under the state law, which requires distributors to offer an entire season's output at one time with a 20 per cent cancellation right.

"We shouldn't be penalized for that," Pepper said.

"We can be ready to try this case," Frohlich said, "but not the Schine case at the same time."

Frohlich indicated that the "Little Three" counsel might apply to Federal Judge John C. Knight at Buffalo for a postponement of the Schine trial later in order to allow time for preparation and trial of the New York suit. Judge Goddard said that another conference on the trial date of the local suit would be held when the case is called next February.

Stanley Thompson, Loew's home office attorney, who was present at the hearing, asked that notice be given the consenting companies in the event the Government decides to apply to Judge Goddard for an extension of the escape clause deadline. Both the court and Wright agreed to this. Thompson pointed out that any extension of the deadline beyond June 1 probably would mean another year of the trade show and block-of-five provisions, since the companies begin their new production and sales seasons at that time, and could not reverse their policies in mid-season.

5-Block Law Hurts Sales, Wobber Says

mony today. His testimony was substantially similar to Wobber's.

Wobber pointed out that spot deals, spilt deals and spot bookings were outlawed by the anti-block-of-five statute and that all were convenient and widely used practices throughout the trade. He also pointed out that the Minnesota exchange territory includes not only that state, when the statute is in effect, but also North Dakota, South Dakota and part of Wisconsin, where the five consenting distributors must operate under the terms of the consent decree. This creates a problem within the branch office itself, he pointed out.

Wobber Describes Distribution

Wobber traced his 34 years association with the industry and described distribution functions. He testified the Minneapolis territory normally is serviced with six to eight prints of a film. The average playing life of a feature is only nine months, he said, and cited one case where license revenues ran from $200,000 for the first 34 weeks of the picture's run, to $10 and $12.50 about 18 months later. He said that until the consent decree went into effect there was no uniform method of sale.

Joy testified that 35 to 50 per cent of a year's group of pictures require work outside of California. He said the footage cost out of that state, however, was of a much smaller percentage. The exchange and borrowing of stars is on a friendly basis, he testified, but that competition between studios is keen and the trading practice doesn't lessen competition. A studio has enough stars under contract to fulfill all of its needs in certain pictures, he said.

he world of entertainment at the organization luncheon meeting held at the Hotel Astor by the theatre division of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, in that society's new budget campaign to raise $300,000. Willkie was the chief speaker of the occasion. J. Robert Rubin, chairman of the theatre division, was toastmaster. In attendance among the many noted people of the business were Martin Quigley, Nicholas M. Schenck, Jack Cohn, George J. Schaefer, Will Hays, Louis Nizer, Herman Robbins, John Hicks, William F. Rodgers, Tom Connors, Russell Holman, Nate Spingold, David Lipton, John Byram, Ned Depinet, N. Peter Rathvon, Maurice Kann, Malcolm Kingsberg, Gordon Youngman, Herbert Yates, Clare Connolly, Moss Hart, Max Gordon, Howard Dietz, Joseph Vogel, Robert Savini, W. C. Michel, Silas Seadler, Arthur Mayer and others.

Those on Dais

On the dais with Willkie and Rubin were Martin Quigley, George J. Schaefer, Basil O'Connor, Dr. Everett Clinchy, Rabbi Morris Lazaron, Jack Cohn, Will Hays, Nicholas M. Schenck and Louis Nizer.

Among other speakers who addressed the meeting were Dr. Everett Clinchy, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews; Jack Cohn, Rabbi Morris Lazaron of Baltimore, and Basil O'Connor. O'Connor is finance chairman of the National Conference. Rabbi Lazaron was a member of the committee sent by President Roosevelt to Europe to study inter-racial matters such as the Conference is interested in.

Cohn announced that contributions to date to the campaign were gratifying and predicted that it would be successful.

A 16 mm. film, "The World We Want to Live In," produced by Columbia Pictures for the Conference, was shown. This film is intended for showing in schools, churches and similar community groups. It was well received.

Willkie's Address

Willkie's speech in part follows: "It seems almost inconceivable that only some three or four months ago I was associated with some of these very delightful gentlemen present here today in defending the right of the great popular medium—the motion picture—for free expression. It seems almost impossible that it was necessary two or three months ago to demand their right to show pictures depicting Nazi injustice and horror. Yet we have advanced so far so rapidly that nobody would want this great medium of public information to do otherwise today than to bring to the American people stimulation of their own activities by pictures of this great struggle that is going on in the world, and I have no doubt that they will perform their duty thoroughly and magnificently during this period carrying out their part of the national program.

"I do not think that even as yet the American people realize the character of the struggle in which we are engaged. We speak of the historic times of the establishment of this nation as one of the great periods of yesterday, and a period of trial. We frequently refer to the period of the War between the States as another great period of trial. In comparison with them, the United States faces a far more troublesome period, a period of greater trial than it has ever faced.

"Before this war has gone much further the standard of living of every person in America must be reduced and every man in America must work harder. We must grow strong and tough and end our flabbiness and our softness. We must become men and women who are willing to fight and willing to die, and willing to sacrifice and sacrifice and sacrifice completely.

"In the periods when men must sacrifice their daily habits of living, when men must sacrifice and men must die, always there arises under such conditions the spirit of intolerance and prejudice. Men and women become suspicious of each other. Men and women begin to point the finger of scorn at others and at their beliefs, and I am here today—and I expect to appear on many other occasions such as this, in order to raise my voice every time it appears, against the slightest touch of intolerance arising in America at this time.

"We must preserve the civil rights of this country and the freedom of expression, or all of our sacrifices will be in vain.

"This is the kind of cause that many people forget during a crisis of the present kind when there are so many calls, and when they must consider what they can give and how they can give it, but you cannot give to a better thing than one that stands for what all Americans believe—that during a period of stress and strain we—all of us—all of us Americans—may have our birthright of freedom and liberty."

"Hellzapoppin'"

(Universal)

A SCREEN foreword on this Mayfair production by Jules Levey points out that any connection between this and a motion picture is purely coincidental—and that is approximately correct.

For those who like their comedy with music and an endless—and quite noisy—procession of antics, this should prove popular and amusing entertainment.

All the bars are down on a conglomeration of completely insane nonsense, "suggested by" the apparently endlessly popular stage show of the same name featuring Ole Olsen & Chic Johnson. It would appear that the measure of success enjoyed by the stage show in various parts of the country would mark the measure of box-office success for the film.

It must be sold as novel nonsense of the Olsen & Johnson variety. To attempt to indicate the sequence of occurrences—for that is all there is—appears virtually impossible. It is a story about a story about nothing, with a romantic thread which appears to serve merely to hold the component parts from flying completely apart.

Olsen & Johnson talk to the audience; they disappear; chorus numbers appear, on a stage and in a swimming pool; music is heard, songs are sung; the stunts run from Rube Goldberg cigar lighters and old-fashioned slapstick to new-fashioned horseplay. Supporting the cast leaders are Martha Raye, Hugh Herbert and Mischa Auer, specializing in the comedy, and Jane Frazee and Robert Paige, handling the romance and the songs. Glenn Tryon and Alex Gottlieb produced, and H. C. Potter directed, while the music was written by Don Raye and Gene de Paul.

Running time, 84 minutes. "G."*

"Hatter's Castle"

(Paramount-British)

London, Nov. 16 (By Mail)

THE name of A. J. Cronin still means something to the British public and it is probably on this and the pull of his novel that the British exhibitor will seek to sell this newest Paramount-British film.

The subject is gloomy, and the film has been directed and acted with a deliberate inclination towards the melodramatic and somber. While it is in a sense escapist, since it is entirely removed from the present and preoccupations of war, it does not necessarily follow that jaded and nerve-strained wartime audiences will take kindly to its unrelieved solemnity.

The performance of Robert Newton, as the egomaniac Mad Hatter, whose craze for power is the inspiration of the story, is a dominating one and marks the actor as one of the British films' leading artists. Others in the cast are Deborah Kerr, as the daughter; Enid Stamp-Taylor, as the other woman; Emyln Williams and James Mason, all known to British audiences and all giving good performances.

Although the essential theme in "Hatter's Castle" is the power mania of James Brodie, leading hatter of Levinford, the picture is heavy Victorian melodrama in a modern medium.

The film is for the most part adequate technically, with the camera work a notable factor in this regard.

"The Royal Mounted Patrol"

(Columbia)

THIS action film should please the followers of that type of picture. Dealing in the first part with the lighter aspects of the Mounties' curriculum and subsequently developing into more rugged entertainment, the film is nicely balanced and away from routine.

Charles Starrett, Russell Hayden and Lloyd Bridges join the service train together, and have girl (Wanda McKay) problems. The scene shifts to the backwoods where Miss McKay's brother, Donald Curtis, and his crew are cutting too much timber. At this point comes the action. Starrett and Bridges, in charge of the district, are joined by Hayden, member of the air corps, bringing medical supplies for native children. Miss McKay comes to teach. After some minor run-ins, Curtis sets the forest ablaze as an excuse to move his timber. After escaping the fire, Starrett and the Mounties set out for Curtis, and eventually get their man. ## Toronto Executives See B. C. Blackouts

TORONTO, Dec. 17.—The war crisis on the Pacific Coast found a number of Toronto trade executives at Vancouver, B. C., where they gained first-hand information on the effect of air raid warnings and blackouts on theatre business. Among them were President Paul Nathanson and General Manager Haskell Masters of Odeon Theatres of Canada, Ltd., and H. T. Long, general manager of Associated Theatres, Ltd., Toronto, who was looking after Odeon developments until the arrival of Masters on his first trip to the Coast as a circuit official.

According to information received in Toronto, theatre patronage at Vancouver first run houses was at a minimum on the three nights of the total blackout. On the following night, when the street lights were permitted again, theatre receipts were equal to the combined take of the three black nights.

Western Pa. Park Gross Up for 1941

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17.—Amusement park business last Summer in western Pennsylvania was from 15 to 35 per cent ahead of 1940 grosses, a survey of park managers indicated. Opinion was varied on the gate-pulling power of free acts and traveling name bands. Indications are that 1942 business, judging from industrial payrolls and advance picnic bookings, will be even better than this year's.

Blessed with fair weather, most of the Summer, the parks enjoyed heavy attendance of booked outings, and brisk transient trade. Although none of the district parks exact gate admissions and therefore are unable to record the exact total attendance figures, most park managers believed that per capita spending was up, as well as attendance. Nine amusement parks operated in this area last Summer.

Books Admission to 'Corsican' Opening

Daylight Saving Time Proposed for Calif.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17.—The Los Angeles city council and county board of supervisors today recommended the passage of daylight saving time legislation by the Legislature as a war time measure.

Seattle FM Station Building Proceeds

SEATTLE, Dec. 17.—Installation of the Pacific Northwest's first FM broadcasting station, for coordination of Seattle and King County law enforcement work, will proceed as previously scheduled.

It was at first believed that Army authorities might object to the installation, but word has been received by city officials from Gen. Carlyle F. ## Bob Hope Is 1941 Winner Of Radio Poll

Chosen by 600 Editors In Sixth Annual Vote

By EDWARD GREIF

Make way for the new Champion of Champions, Bob Hope! The funny man of the Pepsodent show was accorded top honors by the more than 600 newspaper radio editors and columnists of the United States and Canada, participating in MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S sixth annual radio poll on behalf of Fame.

topped Charlie McCarthy, was named top man three years; Jack Benny, who won last year, was also the leader in the first poll.

This year's voting showed many shifts in the radio editors' tastes and, if past polls are any indication, the results presage a change in the public's taste as well.

Following Hope in the Champion of Champions classification, were Benny, who has never been lower than second, and Bing Crosby, another perennial favorite, who was also in the third spot last year and the year be-

Schine Will Seek Later Date Than March for Trial

BUFFALO, Dec. 18.—Defendants in the Government's anti-trust suit against the Schine circuit, Columbia, United Artists and Universal will be unable to begin trial March 3, "or at any time soon" thereafter, Willard S. McKay, counsel for the Schine defendants, informed the Federal court here today in serving notice of a motion for reargument of an order setting the case for trial on that date.

McKay said he had been unable to be present at the hearing when the March 3 trial date was set and that he had never received a letter notifying him of the motions for the date. His motion for reargument of the order will be heard Dec. 29.

War Cancels 1942 Academy Award Banquet

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 18.—The board of governors of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences late last night cancelled the annual Academy Awards banquet, which had been set for Feb. 26. War conditions were cited as the reason for the decision, which was reached by unanimous vote.

The step is in line with the cancellation of the Rose Bowl football game, the Pasadena Tournament of Roses, the Santa Anita race meet and

Editors Tell What's Right —Or Wrong—About Radio

By SAM SHAIN

Newspaper radio editors and columnists throughout the country and in Canada were asked to express their views on the state of radio in connection with their own participation in MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S sixth annual radio poll, conducted on behalf of Fame, the results of which will be found elsewhere in this issue. What these men and women, keenest moulders of public opinion themselves, observers and listeners of this most potent force in American life, think is right or wrong with radio follows, in sample form, sectionally broken down by states.

The poll was taken before the Japanese war, and the answers therefore in some instances do not reflect developments of the last two weeks in radio.

New York: "Radio is a streamlined version of what our ancestors dreamed we'd be, educational, broadminded, informal, informative, and matured. . . . In season, when broadcasting football games, there is too much duplication. . . . The radio industry can use good showmen to inject some originality and new talent."

Texas: "Radio had one of its worst years from the standpoint of listener appeal. The ASCAP-BMI fight knocked out the best music. Programs were better organized although the leaning to quiz shows is still very heavy. Many variety shows are

Big New Year Business Is Seen on B'way

Public Expected to Be Seeking Gaiety

A New Year's Eve greater than any before is expected by Broadway theatre men who will have top-notch product from all major distributors for the holiday.

Within the next two weeks, it is believed, the public will adjust itself to war conditions and will be in the mood for entertainment to welcome the new year.

Most first runs will bring in new shows Dec. 31, although some will hold over feature and stage attractions opening Christmas Day. All houses will give extra performances, some remaining open all night and others until four or five o'clock in the morning. As in previous years, most managers will keep the show going as long as there is business.

Grosses Reported Above Last Year's

Despite the reaction of the public to the outbreak of war last week, national grosses for the seven days from Dec. 7 through Dec. 13 were above the grosses for the corresponding period a year ago, according to the early business reports to home offices of national circuits.

The decline in receipts for the week, compared with the preceding week, was sharper than the decline for the two comparative periods a year ago. The greater decline this year is attributed by circuit officials

Circuits Distribute Data on Air Raids

All major circuits are informing their managers in the field of air raid precautions and measures to be taken in event of blackouts, it was learned yesterday. Among these, Paramount, it was announced, has sent to its theatre affiliates a complete plan for air raid emergencies, including instructions for training of theatre staffs. The plan was prepared by Henry Anderson, manager of Paramount's insurance department.

In Buffalo, more than 60 Western New York theatre owners met yesterday with Police Commissioner Austin J. Roche to make plans for darkening their houses on the night of Buffalo's first blackout, scheduled for Dec. 26 at 11 P. M.

War Has Effect on Mexican Industry

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 18.—Although the new phase of the war has not hit the Mexican picture industry hard as yet, its effect has been felt. As one leading exhibitor here said, "The truth is we won't know just how we stand for at least six weeks."

The entry of the United States into the conflict has decreased the theatres' business by about 25 per cent. People are more eager now to read the papers, some of which get out extras almost every day, and to listen to radio than they are to see pictures.

There are no demonstrations during the exhibitions of newsreels and pictures with a war tint. However, there is a marked undertone of sympathy with the United States, in accordance with the national policy of cooperating to the fullest extent with Washington.

The studios are worrying. They fear that the war will curtail their working materials from the United States, their only supply source. There is some alarm that production will have to be sharply cut, though it is not thought that the whole business will be stopped, at least for some time. The National Cinematographic Workers Union has pledged its full cooperation to the Government in the emergency. The general opinion is that labor trouble in the industry has been stopped as part of this pledge.

SPG Defense Meeting Will Be Held Tonight

fore that. Hope first started to figure in the poll in 1939, when he placed seventh among the Champion of Champions and second among comedians. Last year, however, he moved up to second place in both groups and this year he is first in both.

Skelton Leading New Star

Red Skelton, whose name has begun to appear prominently on theatre marquees, was voted the Outstanding New Star of the Season. Dinah Shore replaced Kate Smith who held the crown for three years, as the Best Popular Female Vocalist, but Bing Crosby, in the male section, came first for the fifth consecutive year. In a new classification, Best Master of Ceremonies, Bing also won.

The name of Fanny Brice, sometimes known as Baby Snooks, first appeared in the MOTION PICTURE DAILY polls in 1938 when she was voted Best Comedienne and she has remained on top since, including this year, making it four in a row. Fibber McGee & Molly, who have been in the running every year, were named Best Comedy Team for the third consecutive year.

The Best Variety Show on the air, according to the editors, is "Kraft Music Hall," the Best Quiz Show is "Information, Please," the Best Dramatic Program (different plays) is the "Lux Radio Theatre," and the Best Dramatic Series (same cast and characters) is "One Man's Family."

Robinson Chosen Again

The editors chose Edward G. Robinson again as the Most Effective Film Player on the Air. H. V. Kaltenborn, who ruled the roost as Best News Commentator or Analyst for two years until he was unseated in 1940 by Raymond Gram Swing, was reinstated to the top post this year, with Swing second and Elmer Davis, third.

Bill Stern, the NBC sports director, was voted Best Sports Announcer for the second year, while Harry von Zell, who has always been up there right behind the leaders, finally achieved undisputed first place as Best Studio Announcer.

Among the dance bands, Guy Lombardo's outfit was voted Best Dance Orchestra (Sweet) for the third year in a row and for the fourth time in six years. The Best Dance Orchestra (Swing) is Glenn Miller's again.

Moving over to the classical side of music, Richard Crooks again is found chosen as the Best Classical Male Vocalist, just as he was last year. Gladys Swarthout, after several years in one of the runner-up positions, this year was elected by the editors as Best Classical Female Vocalist.

Leopold Stokowski, who is conducting the NBC Symphony Orchestra this year, was named Best Symphonic Conductor, with Arturo Toscanini, second, and John Barbirolli, third.

The CBS "Spirit of '41" was the program which won the award for the Best Special Events or News Job Performed by Radio in 1941, and it was the CBS "School of the Air of the

Big New Year Business Is Seen on B'way

Judy Garland, supported by a holiday stage revue, will be the attraction at the Radio City Music Hall beginning Dec. 31. Opening on the same day at the Roxy will be the 20th Century-Fox film, "Remember the Day," also supported by a holiday stage show. The Roxy will supply noisemakers to patrons and release balloons at midnight.

It is expected that the Capitol will open M-G-M's "Two-Faced Woman" on Dec. 31, while the Rivoli has Universal's Olsen & Johnson comedy, "Hellzapoppin'," opening on Christmas Day and continuing through the New Year.

'Purchase' at Paramount

The Paramount will have "Louisiana Purchase," Paramount's version of the Broadway stage hit, opening Dec. 31, and Gene Krupa's band on the stage. Warners' "The Man Who Came to Dinner" will open at the Strand on New Year's Day, with three preview performances New Year's Eve. Will Osborne will head the stage show on Dec. 31 and will be replaced by Jimmy Dorsey's band the following day.

At the Astor, "Shanghai Gesture," United Artists' release, will start its run Christmas Day and will be the New Year's attraction. Loew's State will have a special holiday show, also opening Christmas Day, consisting of "Bahama Passage" and Ed Sullivan's "Dawn Patrol" on the stage.

Grosses this past week continued off. War news, urgent radio addresses by President Roosevelt and the usual pre-Christmas slump were regarded as responsible.

At the Radio City Music Hall, "The Men in Her Life," with the stage presentation drew an estimated $60,000, but the opening yesterday of "H. M. Pulham, Esq.," with the annual Christmas stage show was big. "Rise and Shine" with a stage show drew an estimated $22,300 for six days of the second week at the Roxy, and "Confirm or Deny" opened there yesterday.

'Valley,' 'Night' Continue

Also below par was the Strand, where "Blues in the Night" with Count Basie's band heading the stage show grossed an estimated $26,500 for the first week and was held over. In its seventh week at the Rivoli, "How Green Was My Valley" drew an estimated $15,100 and continues, while "The Chocolate Soldier," which ended its seventh week yesterday, drew an estimated $5,000 at the Astor and will end its run Sunday night.

At the Capitol, "The Feminine Touch" grossed an estimated $10,500 and made way yesterday for "Kathleen." "Swamp Water," which ends a five-week run at the Globe tonight, should bring an estimated $3,600 for the final week. "No Hands on the Clock" opens at the Globe tomorrow. "Among the Living" should bring an estimated $4,400 for the week which ends tonight at the Rialto, and will be succeeded tomorrow by "The Wolf Man."

Reviews

"Remember the Day"

(20th Century-Fox)

HERE is a warm and human motion picture, produced with consummate skill and performed with such intelligent understanding as to be certain to work its way into the hearts of all who see it. A nostalgic romance of a school teacher and her soldier-husband, it has the quality of greatness in its ability to extract the maximum in sympathetic understanding from those who see it. As such it must be certain of the widest of audience appreciation, with corresponding results at the box-office.

Too much cannot be said for the beauty of the performance of Claudette Colbert as the teacher, perhaps the finest work she has ever done. In no particular is the film weak. Taken from a play by Philo Higley and Philip Dunning, it was woven most expertly for the screen by Tess Slesinger, Frank Davis and Allan Scott. William Perlberg, who produced, and Henry King, the director, have achieved rare success in bringing the story to the screen. Here is ample proof, incidentally, that greatness does not depend upon length.

Miss Colbert's support does not let her down. Most able performances are offered by John Payne, as the soldier; Ann Todd, as a child pupil; Douglas Croft, as another pupil, whose life is guided into a path of future greatness by the understanding of the teacher; John Shepperd as that boy grown to greatness, and all the others.

The story opens with Miss Colbert, elderly and quiet, waiting in a thronged hotel lobby in Washington, trying to see the Presidential nominee, once her pupil. As she waits the story is told. The teacher who is loved by Payne, another teacher, who leaves when scandal would attach to her name, although no possible reason exists, and of the beauty of their love before his leaving; his return, in Canadian uniform, in 1916, and the sorry leave-taking immediately after their marriage.

Then the other half of the story. The small boy, who conceives a deep affection for the teacher, too deep for a boy of his years, and who is made to see that life's disappointments must be met with courage. That is the bare outline of a story poignant with feeling and beauty, however simple. At the conclusion, the nominee suddenly remembers the woman who timidly approaches him, the audience learns that the soldier-husband had never come back, and the teacher, happy in work well done, shares the triumph of the boy she had guided years before.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G."*

"Blue, White and Perfect"

(20th Century-Fox)

LOYD NOLAN as Michael Shayne, the private detective, is on the trail this time of saboteurs. Before tracking them down, he encounters smugglers, escapes death by shooting and drowning and is almost married several times. The story has action enough to satisfy and should do well as a supporting feature.

Nolan returns broke from a previous adventure and finds that his sweetheart (Mary Beth Hughes) is about to marry another man. Through a ruse, he forces the arrest of this man (Ivan Lebedeff), but it actually develops that Lebedeff is wanted as a bigamist. Nolan promises to get a regular job and, although he obtains employment as a riveter, his real duties are to prevent sabotage. Industrial diamonds, needed for defense work, are stolen by a gang led by Steve Geray, and Nolan is off on another hunt.

Ultimately, Nolan, with the aid of George Reeves, an F. B. I. man, rounds up the gang in Honolulu and just as he is about to enter the matrimonial status he is called off to another case in Manila. Curt Bois gives a good performance as the brains behind the gang. Herbert I. Leeds directed with considerable pace. Sol M. Wurtzel was producer.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."*

"Blonde Comet"

(Producers Releasing)

THIS has an excessive amount of auto racing fitted into a thin plot primarily concerned with the romance of two speedsters, one the young lady of the title, Virginia Vale, and the other, Robert Kent, her chief competitor, until he discovers her feminine charm.

The picture, not too well constructed, has little to offer except the racing footage, which should appeal to those who have a particular interest in motor track action. It has, too, the veteran of the speedways, Barney Oldfield, who remains on the sidelines throughout where he has some trouble with the dialogue. For purposes of a comic touch, Vince Barnett also is on hand as the not too bright mechanic.

Running time, 66 minutes. "G."*

to the war reaction, although some decline during the three weeks preceding Christmas is normal and expected.

However, circuit officials say that the level of receipts this year has been so much higher than last year that even the greater decline did not bring last week's gross below that of the comparable week last year. Stronger current film attractions are credited with having maintained receipts at a higher average level 1 week than that of a year ago, due to the fact that stage show houses experienced a more drastic drop 1 week than did straight film houses with outstanding attractions.

Americas" which won as Best Educational Program.

"Vic & Sade" again was elected Best Daytime Serial, with "Against the Storm," a strong editors' favorite, in second place, and "The Goldbergs" and "Life Can Be Beautiful" tied for third. The Best Children's Program is Nila Mack's "Let's Pretend."

Benny, second to Hope as Champion of Champions, is also second among comedians, with Fred Allen again in the third position. Miss Shore, who was named outstanding new star last year and best popular female vocalist this year, was second among the new stars this year with Harold Peary (Gildersleeve) now with a program of his own, third. Hope was second among masters of ceremonies with Clifton Fadiman, of "Information, Please," third. In the dramatic series (same cast and characters), "The Aldrich Family" and "Big Town" were second and third, respectively, this year, the reverse of 1940. The "Helen Hayes Theatre" remained second choice among dramatic programs which change plays weekly, while Orson Welles moved up to third.

'Quiz Kids' in Two Divisions

"Take It or Leave It" moved up one notch to second place among quiz shows, and "Quiz Kids" also moved up one place to third. This last show, incidentally, was also voted second among children's programs followed by Irene Wicker and "Lone Ranger" tied for third.

Rudy Vallee's Sealtest show, aided by the presence of the Barrymores, was named second among variety programs, with Bob Hope's third. Connie Boswell, tied for third last year among popular female vocalists, gained undisputed title to the spot this time behind the Misses Shore and Smith. Kenny Baker and Lanny Ross, respectively, are still second and third among popular male vocalists.

Gracie Allen, always near the top and some years champion among comedienne, is second again, just as she was last year, and Marian Jordan (Molly of Fibber McGee & Molly) has moved up to third from fourth position. Burns & Allen are also second among comedy teams, ahead of Abbott & Costello who are third.

Crosby, way up in many classifications, was chosen second among film players on the air with Bette Davis, tied for fifth last year, third. Don Wilson, out of first position for the first time among studio announcers, falling flat because of poorly conceived gags and stale humor. . . . Radio has done a fine job of presenting spot and feature coverage of the international situation. . . . Corny commercials. . . . Commercial announcers still too emotional."

'Comedy at Low Ebb'

California: "The Government can have no complaint at the co-operation it is receiving from all networks. Comedy material is at a rather low ebb as are the 'soap operas.' . . . Special commendation is due the industry for the fine work in coverage of war, changing conditions and the like, without injection of personal beliefs or propaganda. There still is a tendency for many programs to be pedantic. . . . Many commercials are long-winded."

Pennsylvania: "Some recognition should be especially designed for the stooge-type comedian without whose assistance these comedy programs would not be what they are. . . . The sooner the FCC cracks down on newspaper-owned stations, the safer and better radio will be."

Ohio: "The tremendous programs boosting national defense are rather poorly done, considering the talent that's drafted for them."

Tennessee: "Radio, as lively as ever, is the only amusement that costs no more than a year ago. . . . The industry is making the most of its public service opportunities. . . . With the quiz show era having run its course and interest in war news rising, radio has launched the 1941-42 season with a new high for dull entertainment and lack of innovations. . . . Radio needs new stars and program ideas. . . . Too much commercializing of programs. . . . too much studio mugging for inside audiences and syrupy piffle with film queens obviously will kill radio."

Missouri: "No progress for radio in the year, except defense reporting is second in that group, followed by Milton Cross, also third last time.

Ted Husing and Red Barber continued in the second and third spots among sports announcers.

Melton, Tibbett Selected

James Melton again was second among classical male vocalists, followed by Lawrence Tibbett who moved up from a fourth-place tie. Lily Pons also retained her hold upon second place among classical female vocalists with Margaret Speaks, first for the previous three years, now in the third position.

Wayne King and Sammy Kaye are second and third, respectively, among dance bands specializing in sweet music, and Tommy Dorsey and Benny Goodman fill the second and third spots among swing bands.

NBC's "University of Chicago Roundtable" is second again among educational shows, and Mutual's "American Forum of the Air" is third. Among the editors' choices for special events and news jobs, the NBC general news coverage was tied with the CBS coverage of Army maneuvers for second place, while CBS' general overseas broadcasts tied with NBC's "This Is England" for third place.

and war news. . . . Too much canceling of the few fairly good radio concerts to make room for public affairs and special programs."

New Jersey: "Serious and tragic war news should not be interlarded with commercial announcements."

North Carolina: "Further Government regulation should be avoided. . . . No danger in newspaper and radio co-operation and ownership."

Indiana: "Public is going stale on many radio stories. Scripts should portray the happy side of life. . . . Too much kidding of married life."

'Programs too Similar'

Iowa: "There are too many programs alike each season. . . . Too many good programs are on the air at one time."

Wisconsin: "Radio is growing up into maturity. . . . Let it grow."

Florida: "Spot announcements are the scourge of the broadcasting industry."

Massachusetts: "Radio should not be harassed by politically minded individuals or Government bodies. . . . American Radio is the finest in the world."

Connecticut: "Replace some of those daytime serials with good symphonic music. . . . With the war and national defense boom taking many away from their homes at night, it may be well to provide some good music for these night-time workers during the afternoon."

MBS Sponsors May Cancel on War Cause

Mutual yesterday announced that all existing and future contracts would contain a war clause giving sponsors the right to cancel program commitments in the event the war substantially curtails or interferes with their business. Sponsors must give two weeks' notice of cancellation no later than two weeks after their business is interfered with or curtailed.

NBC stated that there has been no demand by sponsors for a war clause, although many talent contracts contain war cancellation options.

Mexico Restricting Radio in Emergency

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 18.—Mexico has clamped down on radio as a war emergency with the cancellation of all amateurs' sending and receiving permits and stricter regulation of broadcasts by the 106 active commercial and other stations in the country. Inspectors of the Ministry of Communications and Public Works have strict orders to censor rigidly the news phases of these stations' programs and to forbid the transmission of any information that is not verified or at least sponsored by the press associations that the Mexican Government approves for Mexico. The stations are forbidden to broadcast news "flashes."

This action has been adopted, the Ministry explained, to prevent undue alarm and avoid panic.

MPTOA Weighs Abandoning Its Annual Meet

Consider Step Because of War Conditions

The MPTOA is considering discontinuing its annual national convention, ordinarily held in the spring, because of the war, and substitute several meetings of the board of directors, Ed Kuykendall, MPTOA president, said here prior to his departure for his home in Columbus, Miss., over the weekend. Kuykendall said he favored such a proposal but that directors of the organization would be consulted before final action was taken. The MPTOA president said he could issue a bulletin to organization members covering proposals for exhibitor cooperation on various activities relating to the war as soon as unified plans have been formulated by industry agencies. Meanwhile, he said, he favors the use of trailers made by nationally prominent figures instead of

Law Can't Overcome Films' Intangibles, Agnew Tells Court

ST. PAUL, Dec. 21.—Additional evidence that the reaction of the public to Hollywood's production efforts is largely unpredictable was offered on Friday by Neil F. ## NAB Issues War Guide For Broadcasts of News

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The National Association of Broadcasters has issued recommendations "as a guide to wartime broadcasting," after consultation with the military and other Government branches.

It was generally advised that broadcasts of news should be in a manner likely to cause neither undue optimism nor an atmosphere of defeatism. The NAB urged moderation in news broadcasts, avoiding sensationalism, the exercise of extreme care in broadcasting enemy communiques, and Monogram will pay bonuses in the form of defense bonds and stamps to employees of the home office and the New York, Philadelphia and Washington exchanges.

FCC Reports Defense Chief Work of Year

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The time and funds of the Federal Communications Commission have been largely devoted to defense activities during the past year, it was disclosed today in the Commission's annual report.

No specific recommendations for legislation were contained in the report, it being explained that any new measures found necessary would be asked for as the need arose.

The Commission announced that 915 standard broadcast stations were operating or under construction as of Nov. 1, and estimated the number of standard receivers in use at more than 50,000,000. On the same date there

Blackouts of Marquees in Future Seen

O.P.M. Warns of Need to Conserve Power

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Blackouts of theatre exterior lighting in many sections of the country not in primary danger of air raids may be expected next year and through 1943, it was warned today by the OPM.

Explaining the great extent to which the production of aluminum, magnesium, chemicals and other war materials is dependent upon huge supplies of electric current, the OPM revealed that surveys have shown that many sections of the country will not have enough power for those needs and for commercial and household use as well, despite the energetic efforts that are being made to construct new plants and extend existing ones.

The blackouts recently imposed in the Southeastern states, it was warned, will be repeated there and in many other areas during the next two years, at least.

Report Comptroller To Be Named by RKO

It is reported that with the RKO treasurer's functions having been settled and consolidated under Leon Goldberg, a comptroller to function under Goldberg's supervision will be announced by George J. Schaefer, president of RKO, following a board meeting tomorrow, in a further realignment of the company's departmental operations.

Sees Trade Duty to Challenge Censors

It is the duty of the industry to challenge in the courts the right of public officials to overstep their proper function in such instances as the banning in Providence and Boston of "Two-Faced Woman," it is stated by Quincy Howe, president of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, in an open letter to the industry.

The "open letter" is devoted to a discussion of the Greta Garbo film and the Legion of Decency, which originally condemned the picture, then reclassified it as "objectionable in part" after revisions by M-G-M.

Howe, drawing "general conclusions" from the incident, sustains the right of the Legion to ask its members to boycott the film, but questions that the public authorities or any part of the industry has any obligation to follow the advice of any such group as the Legion. It is Howe's contention that a public official has recourse to the courts if he believes a film violates the "laws of obscenity," but any other "interference on the part of the public authorities constitutes censorship," he says.

So. California ITO Calls Defense Rally

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—The board of directors of the ITO of Southern California has put in motion a program to organize all independent theatres in this area in cooperation with Los Angeles civilian defense officials for air raids and other eventualities. A mass meeting of independents has been called for Dec. 29 to plan for action.

The board also instituted a survey of the effects of the war on independent theatres and proposed methods to alleviate the situation. Reports of Robert H. Poole and Jack Y. Perman, delegates to the recent industry unity meeting in Chicago, were heard and approved.

Crescent Decision Seen by Year End

The possibility of a decision before the end of the year in the Government anti-trust suit against the Crescent Circuit, Columbia, United Artists and Universal in Federal court at Nashville was enhanced with the decision of distributor defendants not to file answers to the Government's final briefs in the case.

Distributors' counsel took the view that the final Government briefs raised no new points or issues not already answered or covered by trial testimony and were content to let the case rest. The court, therefore, was permitted to give its final consideration to the case without further delay.

The attorneys' hope for a decision before Jan. 1 also was strengthened by the fact that Judge Elmer Davies has advised them he plans to take a holiday soon and would endeavor to make his decision before leaving Nashville.

'Purchase' to Open in Non-Restricted Spots

Paramount is precluded from selling "Louisiana Purchase" in at least five important territories during the holidays because roadshow engagements of the stage play are current in those locations, Paramount announced Friday. The company, however, has obtained 226 holiday bookings for the picture in non-restricted territories, according to Neil F. Agnew, distribution head.

Day and date Christmas openings have been set for the picture in 87 key cities and New Year's engagements in 139, Agnew said.

Expect Harley, Kane From Europe Today

Francis L. Harley, 20th Century-Fox managing director for Britain, is expected to arrive in New York from Lisbon by way of Brazil today, after having been stranded in Portugal for almost three weeks awaiting transportation.

Although the 20th Century-Fox home office was not definitely advised, it was believed that Robert T. Kane, head of the company's British production activities, is with Harley.

The two originally intended to fly to New York by Atlantic Clipper but the difficulty of obtaining civilian accommodations forced them to book ship passage instead. The declarations of war by Germany and Italy then resulted in the cancellation of that sailing from Lisbon. Meanwhile, Portugal discontinued visas for civilians between London and Lisbon and the two were unable to return to London. It is believed they finally succeeded in obtaining accommodations on either the Italian or German airlines from Lisbon to Brazil and are completing their journey by plane.

Scully West Soon On Product Talks

William A. Scully, Universal vice-president and general sales manager, will go to the Coast shortly after the first of the year to attend the company's product conferences at the studio, at which the 1942-'43 schedule and budget will be taken up, the company announced.

Scully left here for Florida over the weekend on a combined business and pleasure trip. While in the South he will meet with officials of the Sparks Circuit at Jacksonville and the Wometco Circuit at Miami. From there he will go to the Coast.

10,000 Houses Goal Of Industry's Drive In March of Dimes

A goal of 10,000 theatres to cooperate in the industry's March of Dimes drive to aid infantile paralysis sufferers as part of President Roosevelt's birthday celebration has been set by Nicholas M. Schenck, chairman of the industry drive committee, it was announced Friday.

2,500 Houses Pledged

Although the drive is only starting, more than 2,500 theatres already have agreed to participate.

"The motion picture industry," Schenck said in a message addressed to every American exhibitor, "has been called upon to help many worthy charity causes, but, in my opinion, none touches the heart more deeply than does the annual campaign to raise funds for the fight against infantile paralysis. This charity, sponsored by President Roosevelt, is doing a noble, necessary work, more important now than ever.

"While in past years motion picture theatres have aided this campaign, never before have attempted a thorough, nationally-organized drive. This year we hope to have at least 10,000 theatres sign the pledge to give active cooperation.

Collections in Lobbies

"Really, not too much is asked of us. We are merely asked to take collections in our theatre lobbies during the week of Jan. 22-28. If we do this with the proper organization and enough enthusiasm we can make worthwhile industry contribution the good cause."

Barron Names Group For Capital Campaign

industries all the power they need, power for civilian uses will be curtailed," it was declared. "This will include blackouts of non-essential lighting, such as signs and show windows."

Surveys by the OPM have indicated that blackouts probably will be repeated in the Southeast, that shortages of power are possible next year in Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana; a shortage may occur in Buffalo and also in St. Louis, and that the Pacific Northwest also is threatened with an insufficiency of power. Still other areas may have to be rationed, as power is drawn from them to sections where shortages are sufficiently serious to threaten defense production, it was said.

sided over by Joseph Gould, SPG president. A steering committee of five was appointed to coordinate the work of the conference with the War Activities Committee—Motion Picture, the national industry committee, and to consider local problems. The committee includes: Paul Lazarus, Jr., Maurice D. Kann, Jonas Rosenfield, Jr., David Golden and Sal Scoppa. The steering committee will meet shortly.

Harmon, who is executive officer of the War Activities Committee, stressed the need of the industry implementing the good neighbor policy in Latin America, and gave it as his opinion that the use of films in Army training will result in a vastly increased use of films in schools after the war.

Kanin Urges Long Films

Other speakers were Eugene Plisheit, sector warden for Times Square, who spoke on theatre and building control; Garson Kanin, who holds a Government defense post, and who urged longer defense films in theatres than the short trailers and shorts, and Capt. John W. Green, aide to the commander of the New York State Guard.

Represented at the meeting were the following organizations: Ampa, Screen Publicists Guild and auxiliary, Local 306, of the operators' union, Local 109, of the Screen Office and Professional Employees Guild, National Film Board of Canada, Association of Documentary Film Producers, Local 702, of the Laboratory Technicians, Film Exchange Employees union, Local B 51, Local 52 of the Motion Picture Studio Mechanics, NYU Film Library, Municipal Civil Service Commission, the MPTOA, represented by Mark Finkelstein and A. E. Shanley, and the trade press.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 21.—The RKO Shubert, which recently discontinued stage shows in favor of straight films, will resume its combination policy Dec. 26, with Martha Raye as the headline attraction.

Television Camera Needs No Artificial Light, Report

A television camera so sensitive that it can operate without artificial lighting was reported over the weekend to have been developed by RCA engineers. The camera was described as being more sensitive than the human eye, thus permitting pickups under almost any conditions anywhere.

Details of the new invention were withheld and a spokesman for RCA declared that there could be no comment at this time.

Gives High Definition

The new camera was said to be capable of giving excellent definition, despite the fact that little light is needed. It was described as being capable of picking up an image in a room without extra lighting, during day or night. The only lighting required, it was said, would be to obtain extra highlights and spot lights and to eliminate shadows.

According to the report, the camera is ready for use although tests are continuing to eliminate small technical deficiencies which usually are found in the first use of such inventions.

The question of lighting has been one of the principal problems of television. Many actors refuse to appear before the standard television camera, the iconoscope, because of the extreme heat radiated by the lamps. The orthicon camera can pick up a fairly good image using only a bank of neon lamps, which are cooler, but many television engineers use the iconoscope for studio pickups because the latter gives much sharper definition.

The orthicon has proved the best for sports pickups because, although it has less definition, the fact that it works with less light has made it more desirable. Further, it was stated, the constant motion in sports activities makes extreme definition unnecessary. Nevertheless, even the orthicon has not proved satisfactory under all sports conditions. For example, the final period of football contests have frequently been played under daylight which is too weak for the orthicon to pick up.

Scout British Reports

Meanwhile, reports from England that John L. Baird, pioneer television inventor, had last week successfully demonstrated three-dimensional color television over the air were discounted here over the weekend. It was pointed out that the same results had been achieved here some years ago on an experimental basis and that Baird made no claim to anything but an experimental transmission. The Baird demonstration included transmission of a picture of a hand holding some flowers, and smoke rising from a cigarette and a pipe.

British Projectionist Exemption Expected

LONDON, Dec. 21.—Exhibitors are confident now that all chief projectionists at theatres throughout England will be exempt from military duty, following meetings late last week between representatives of the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association and officials of the Ministry of Labor.

Those above the age of 35 already are assured of exemption under a new plan of the Government, and it is now expected that those under 35 years, although not technically exempt, are likely to have their military service deferred.

The development greatly eases the manpower situation in film theatres, although the Government's plans for the use of women in industry and the new feminine conscription plan will deplete the reserves available for training as substitute film labor.

Art Directors Form War Camouflage Unit

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—Studio art directors have completed the organization of a Motion Picture Camouflage Unit, in cooperation with the United States Army, following a meeting at which Lionel Banks, Columbia art department head, was named chairman.

Art departments of all studios were represented, and pledged full cooperation in perfecting defense work in the Pacific Coast defense area. The Army was represented at the conference by Capt. T. George Hazenbush, of the 604th Engineers. Jon Peacock, a member of Banks' staff, was appointed liaison agent to coordinate the work of the studio artists.

Agfa-Ansco Indicted For Trade Restraint

The General Aniline and Film Corp., I. G. Farbenindustrie, Herman Schmidt, Dietrich A. Schmidt, officers of Farben, and Ernst Schwarz, vice-president in charge of the Agfa-Ansco Division of General Aniline, were named defendants Friday in an indictment by a Federal Grand Jury here. They were charged with a conspiracy in restraint of trade in photographic materials and developers.

The indictment claimed that through an agreement of March 19, 1928, which allegedly divided the domestic and foreign markets, Farben and Agfa-Ansco suppressed free competition in the sale of photographic materials and developers. The indictment said that Agfa-Ansco now manufactures 15 per cent of the materials used in the United States.

so-called "four-minute men" drawn from individual localities for the dissemination of wartime addresses to theatre audiences.

Kuykendall said the MPTOA's approval of the program and personnel of the Motion Picture Industry Conference Committee may be taken for granted, since the poll of the organization's directors now is more than half completed and no dissenting opinions have been expressed.

He views the next task of the committee as one of organization, and believes that the next meeting, to be held early in January will concern itself with the election of a permanent chairman, the selection of a full-time executive secretary, means of financing the committee's activities and defining the subjects which may properly be handled by the committee under its all-important Point I. That paragraph of the industry unit programs covers the internal affairs which may be adjusted or modified or complaint of any branch of the industry or members thereof.

"The Corsican Brothers"

(Small-United Artists)

THIS is a swashbuckling adventure story in the Edward Small manner, a colorful exercise of the imagination in the tone and spirit of the same producer's "Count of Monte Cristo," "Son of Monte Cristo" and "The Man in the Iron Mask." Direct index of its box-office value in any given situation is to be had by referring back to the records of those pictures and adding to this the additional attraction in the name of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., as star of this offering.

Associated with Fairbanks, who portrays the two leading characters, are Akim Tamiroff, as their family enemy and the most forceful figure in the story; H. B. Warner, J. Carrol Naish, Ruth Warrick, John Emery, Henry Wilcoxon, Gloria Holden and many other capable performers. The script by George Bruce and Howard Estabrook, from a Dumas novel, distributes the effort interest generously among the several players.

The story, directed with a flourish by Gregory Ratoff, is of Corsican twins, separated by birth when bandits murder their family and seize its estates, who are reunited on coming of age and set out to exact vengeance. It happens in the period when swordsmanship, personal resourcefulness and daring were the great levellers of combatants and there is a wealth of action, excitement and suspense in the presentation of the tale.

Running time, 110 minutes. "G."*

"Mr. District Attorney and the Carter Case"

(Republic)

THIS is another version of the theme of feminine reporter and detective—or assistant district attorney, as here—working on the same case. The film, in a light vein, is entertaining. Leonard Fields was associate producer, and Bernard Barhou directed.

Although three murders are committed before the final curtain, the preponderance of comedy lessens the effect of the mystery element. James Ellison and Virginia Gilmore have the leads while in support are Franklin Pangborn, Paul Harvey (the district attorney), Lynne Carver, Douglas Fowley and others.

First to be murdered is Page, magazine publisher. Ellison and Miss Gilmore start on the case, he suspecting and convicting John Eldredge, whose wife and the victim were friendly. Miss Gilmore believes Eldredge innocent and does her own investigating after losing her job through an erroneous story. Thereafter a series of active sequences lead to the discovery that Pangborn, general manager of the magazine, is really guilty. The last scene in which Pangborn tries to escape with Miss Gilmore and another suspect, Fowley, is comedy of the slapstick variety.

Running time, 68 minutes. "G."*

"War Clouds in the Pacific"

(Warwick-M-G-M)

The Canadian Government completed this film on the war danger in the Pacific just before the attack of Pearl Harbor Dec. 7. While it treats with Japan as a potential danger, the commentary, of course, makes no reference to the outbreak of war. The friendliness of Japan to the Axis, the danger points in the Pacific and the fortifications and fleet ready to meet any threat are described at length. Shown, too, are Japanese factories making munitions, German officers in Japan and the general strategy of defense.

The reel shows intense preparations being made to ward off surprise attacks, with naval officers peering off into the horizon and furious preparations under way at Pearl Harbor—scenes which may make the audience gasp in the light of what actually occurred. Nevertheless, the reel is instructive and its unusual timeliness should make it popular with audiences. Running time, 21 mins. Release, Dec. 24, 1941.

"Scenic Grandeur"

(FitzPatrick Traveltalk)
(M-G-M)

The camera finds picturesque backgrounds and a wide variety of natural beauty in the Northwest for this new FitzPatrick Traveltalk subject. Many of the glacial scenes are impressive, having been caught by the camera from both sea and air. Color makes a vital contribution to the subject, particularly in shots of light effects of the Midnight Sun. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Dec. 13, 1941.

"Wedding Worries"

(Our Gang Comedies)
(M-G-M)

Our Gang worries about what will befall one of its members when her father decides to present her with a stepmother, and decides to do something about it. Their plans for preventing the wedding ceremony fail but leave considerable wreckage and some laughter in their wake. Running time, 11 mins. Release, Dec. 13.

"Porky's Pooch"

(Looney Tune)
(Schlesinger-Warners)

An ex-hobo dog tells another canine still down on his luck how to find a master and live in style. The now wealthy dog describes how he picked Porky Pig as master and, after some difficulty, won the soft spot. Good for a few laughs. Running time, 7 mins. Release, Dec. 6, 1941.

"The Night Before Christmas"

(Technicolor Cartoons)
(M-G-M)

Here is a swell cartoon for any holiday program. It resorts to many of the familiar animations of the cat and mouse chase reels but carries a good Christmas spirit message that provides a fine, original ending. Color adds materially to the eye-pleasing piece. Running time, 9 mins. Release, Dec. 6, 1941.

"Fiesta"

(Roach-United Artists)

Hollywood, Dec. 21

WHEN this item in Hal Roach's sequence of "streamlined features" is devoted to the presentation of singing and dancing ensembles in the Mexican tradition, which is most of the time, it is a treat in Technicolor for eye and ear.

When it is devoted, between ensembles, to telling a tale about a fortune-hunter intent upon wedding the daughter of the rancho, and being exposed as a fraud by her boyhood sweetheart and his pals masquerading as bandits, it is a strain upon credulity and a test of audience patience. It is as a novelty in Technicolor that the film has a chance with an audience brought into the theatre to see another picture.

Production and direction by Leroy Printz are effective in the musical moments, casual elsewhere. Anne Ayars, George Negrete, Armida, George Givot, Antonio Moreno, Nick Moro, Frank Yaconelli, George Humbert, Paco Moreno, Betty Bryson, Carlos Valadez, Jose Arias and his Mexican Tipica orchestra and the Guadalajara Trio are the listed talent.

Running time, 45 minutes. "G."*

"Law of the Timber"

(Producers Releasing)

Hollywood, Dec. 21

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD'S story, "The Speck on the Wall," has been adapted for "Law of the Timber." Strong, melodramatic material, murders, a forest fire, fights and dynamite blasts are presented in the offering, whose story deals with the efforts of several men, through sabotage, to take over a lumber mill engaged in filling a national defense order. It hits the target of action fan patronage.

Marjorie Reynolds, Monte Blue, J. Farrell MacDonald, Hal Brazeal, Sven-Hugo Borg and Earle Ebe head the cast. Effective technical results are achieved by producer-director Bernard B. Ray and George R. Batcheller, Jr., in charge of PRC production, who gave the film quality which belies the budget. The dialogue and the acting are below par in some spots, however.

Running time, 64 minutes. "G."*

VANCE KING

"Billy the Kid's Round-Up"

(Producers Releasing)

EFFECTIVE playing by the personable Buster Crabbe and a few other good action scenes help matters some, but beyond that the Western is of minor caliber. The yarn is typical and its presentation is somewhat shy of color.

Al St. John offers the comedy, while in other supporting roles are Carleton Young, Joan Barclay, Glenn Strange, Charles King, Slim Whitaker and Dan Webster. The director is Sherman Scott and the producer Sigmund Neufeld.

The skullduggery comes in when the sheriff is murdered and the usual group of bad men try to promote the election of the conniving deputy. Crabbe and Young counter by nominating St. John. The battle begins and St. John gets the job.

Running time, 58 minutes. "G."*

EUGENE ARNEEL

"The Lone Rider Fights Back"

(Producers Releasing)

FOR those exhibitors whose patrons care more for fighting on the screen than for what goes with it, this "Lone Rider" issue should be adequate. It opens with a barroom fray and many of the following sequences are similarly hardy.

The smooth talking "Rider" with the lethal punch is George Huston. His comic partner is Al St. John. Others figuring in the story less prominently are Dennis Moore, Frank Hagney, Charles King and Frank Ellis.

The yarn, which might have been told more directly, has to do with the murder of a ranch owner and attempts to wrest the property from the victim's daughter. Huston sees to it that the attempts fail. Sam Newfield directed the Sigmund Neufeld production.

Running time, 64 minutes. "G."*

"The Mechanical Monsters"

(Superman Cartoon)
(Paramount)

Well named is Superman, who has the speed of a discharged bullet, X-ray eyes capable of penetrating metal, etc. In this, his second screen appearance for Paramount, he battles a small army of robots controlled by a villainous inventor after one of the "mechanical monsters" takes to the air with a $50,000,000 jewelry haul. Upon defeating the army in short order, Superman zooms through the air and effects a nick-of-time rescue of the pretty feminine reporter who is suspended over a cauldron of liquid fire. The cartoon is cleverly done in color, is certainly exploitable, and should bring results where the fantastic makes for entertainment. Running time, 10 mins. Release Nov. 21 1941.

"Nothing But Nerves"

(Benchley Comedy)
(Paramount)

This is a quiet and humorous session with Robert Benchley who tells about a man (Benchley again) and his case of the jitters. "Mr. Average Man" starts the day off with an unsuccessful attempt to steady his quivering hand at breakfast, become repeatedly unnerved when the phone rings, the plumbers go to work on the pipes, his cigar lighter actually lights, and finally in his retreat he locks himself in the stall shower only to have the plumber release the water. Benchley's comedy has a definite flavor. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Jan. 2, 1942.

"Screen Snapshots No. 4"

(Columbia)

The entire reel, in this case, is given over to Billy Gilbert who takes a day off to visit San Francisco. He visits City Hall, speaks to the mayor, looks in at the mint, drives a street car, works as a chef, visits Chinatown and winds up with a personal appearance. Should please the Gilbert fans. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Dec. 3 1941.

"Buying a Dog"

(Sportlight)
(Paramount)

This imparts some really worthwhile knowledge about dogs in addition to providing entertainment. With Ted Husing narrating, the short shows a number of prize canines and their proper care and tops it off with the affection between a youngster and his newly acquired pal. It should register with all. Running time, 10 mins. Release, Dec. 26, 1941.

"Rookie Revue"

(Merrie Melodies)
(Schlesinger-Warners)

The usual complications of a rookie's life in the Army camp are satirized. Done in color; the cartoon also makes some pointed references to the lack of equipment in the Army, a factor which some audiences may take amiss in view of the current war situation. It has lots of good gags. Running time, 7 mins. Release, Oct. 23 1941.

SPECIAL ISSUE

Set Clearance For Portland; File N.Y. Case

was withdrawn at the Philadelphia board.

The Portland award establishes the maximum clearance on the three defendant distributors' product for first runs over second runs at 42 days after the close of the first run or after the end of the third week of first run, whichever is the earlier. Clearance of second runs over third runs is set at 14 days; clearance of third runs over fourth runs at 14 days and fourth runs over fifth runs at seven days. The award does not apply to pictures which had not completed its first runs at the time the award was entered.

The agreement affects virtually every theatre in Portland, not only because the award involves everything down to fifth run but also because of the large number of theatre operators who intervened in the case and, therefore, are affected by it. The complaint was brought originally by William Graeper, operator of Graeper's Egyptian, Portland, against all five consenting distributors in an effort to have the 91 days clearance of first runs over his theatre reduced to a maximum of 45 days. The complaint was withdrawn early in November following a settlement agreement among the parties. Subsequently, also by agreement of all parties, it was reinstated and Irving Rand, arbitrator, was asked to enter a consent award embodying the availability schedule described.

In the final award, the complaint was dismissed as to Loew's by agreement and as to 20th Century-Fox because its affiliated theatres were involved as respondents.

The 30th New York complaint was filed by Coy Operating Co., Savoy Theatre, Jamaica, L. I., on some run against Paramount, RKO and 20th Century-Fox. The Skouras Jamaica and Loew's Hillside are named as interested parties. The complaint charges that the Savoy was refused second run in its zone by the defendant distributors because of the circuit buying power of the two theatres named, which were given the run sought by the Savoy. An award is requested prohibiting the distributors named from licensing for second run in the zone other than by separate contracts for individual theatres.

The Philadelphia complaint withdrawn was that of Lewen Pizor and Herman Coane, operators of the Colonial, against all five consenting distributors, on clearance. It was the second complaint to which Pizor was a party that has been withdrawn at the Philadelphia board, although his first withdrawal, involving his Tioga Theatre, subsequently was refiled.

Attorneys Employed in 86% of Arbitration Cases

Attorneys have been employed in 86 per cent of the arbitration cases filed during the first nine months of the operation of the boards, a third quarterly report of the American Arbitration Association published in the current Arbitration Journal, reveals. During that time 139 cases were filed.

The report shows that during only the first six months of the boards' operation costs of cases averaged $87.87, of which exhibitors paid $58.23 and distributors $29.64. The cost figures, reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY Nov. 9, do not include attorneys' fees, costs of appeals or the distributors' cost of maintaining the system.

Law Can't Overcome Films' Intangibles, Agnew Tells Court

The defense indicated it expected to complete its case in one week thereafter. Agnew's testimony, which was completed Friday, contributed another chapter to the defense attempt to show that the unpredictable and intangible elements of the industry cannot be overcome by legislative rules of conduct and might be disastrous if attempted.

Agnew testified that Paramount usually "listened around" when other companies were preparing their product schedules, and that the company determined the number of pictures it would produce in conferences of its officials. He pointed to a long list of pictures as evidence that excellence of product does not necessarily mean proportionately good financial return.

Cites 'Financial Failures'

Cecil B. DeMille's "The Crusades" was "a financial failure of the first magnitude," Agnew said. "Alice in Wonderland," despite a heavy cost, did not return its production outlay, he said.

Other productions which he listed as financial failures were: "Little America," "Peter Ibbetson," "So Red the Rose," "Maid of Salem," "The Angel," "The Light That Failed," "The World in Flames," and, for other companies, "The Little Princess," "The Great Waltz," "The Howards of Virginia" and "Romeo and Juliet."

He contrasted these with such successes as "Going to Town," "Klondike Annie," "The Bride Comes Home," "Waikiki Wedding," "Artists and Models," "The Road to Singapore" and other "light and frothy" offerings.

"H. M. PULHAM, ESQ." (M-G-M)

May prove a quiet affair for some tastes. On the other hand, Marquand's frustrated people and their special problems have been presented with a good taste, subtlety, and conviction that easily makes up for the lack of dramatic action.—Newsweek.

I enjoyed the picture. . . . It's directed with care, set out beautifully and acted with superior ability.—Lee Mortimer, New York Daily Mirror.

J. P. Marquand's novel about a renegade Yankee, "H. M. Pulham, Esq.," has been made into a superior film . . . a tremendously vital and entertaining screen record of an upper class Bostonian trying to escape from the clutch of family, tradition and an ordered pattern of existence.—Howard Barnes, New York Herald Tribune.

In brief, Mr. Vidor has permitted his film to lose ironic point. . . . He has failed to make "H. M. Pulham, Esq.," either a credible social document or an account of a truly pathetic life.—Bosley Crowther, New York Times.

An adult and intelligent motion picture. . . . Of necessity, the Marquand story has been compressed in the translating. Neither the meat nor the savor has been lost in the process although the film is, strangely, less dramatic than the novel.—Eileen Creelman, New York Sun.

"CONFIRM OR DENY" (20th Century-Fox)

With performances nicely taken care of by Don Ameche, Joan Bennett and adoubtable character actors and able direction by Archie Mayo, this 20th Century-Fox production blends tragedy with comedy expertly to make an interesting war drama with a funny side.—Wanda Hale, New York Daily Mirror.

With our own air raid wardens in the audience taking notes, "Confirm or Deny" turns out to have a lot more sock than it knew it had.—Louise Levitas, PM (New York).

Essentially a drama, but it also seems so accurate in all the ramifications of its backgrounds and material that one must consider it as an interesting documentary as well as an entertaining melodrama.—Robert W. Dana, New York Herald Tribune.

Circumstance has provided "Confirm or Deny" with a dramatic intensity which obviously is not inherent in the scenario.—New York Times.

Indeed, this is easily the screen's most vivid and well-considered melodrama dealing with the conduct of people when the bombs are dropping . . . the film, directed by Archie Mayo, is staged so convincingly that it might just as well have been photographed in the London streets.—Donald Kirkley, Baltimore Sun.

"SMILIN' THROUGH" (M-G-M)

Neither much better nor much worse than its predecessors, the new film has the double advantage of color and Miss MacDonald's voice, to which might be added her justly famous red hair and ready smile.—Donald Kirkley, Baltimore Sun.

It is a little long and tear-laden, and the story dated; but its appeal is still obvious. This new version has mood and background, and in addition, several welcome innovations—the use of Technicolor, the beauty and voice of Jeanette MacDonald.—Philadelphia Record.

There isn't much novelty left in "Smilin' Through." And its sentiment has turned so soggy that there seems very little reason for remaking it even with Miss MacDonald and the benefits of color photography.—Mildred Martin, Philadelphia Inquirer.

A lachrymose, sticky, super-sentimental romance conceived and acted by Jane Cowl for the post-war U. S. of 1919. Its present revival differs from its predecessors in one respect: Technicolor.—Time.

The chief trouble of the current version is that, despite Technicolor, songs, and Jeanette MacDonald, it differs so little from its predecessors that you can't miss the dust and occasional cobwebs accumulated with the years.—Newsweek.

"ONE FOOT IN HEAVEN" (Warners)

It is a notable adaptation. The lively, humane, very worldly doings of Parson Spence have been transferred to celluloid with intelligence and charm.—Time.

There is nothing preachy in this film story of the life of a Methodist preacher . . . a camera drama that is humorous, deeply and sympathetically human, interesting and inspiringly entertaining.—Nelson B. Bell, Washington Post.

Warners have succeeded admirably. It is not a fast-paced story, nor is it very carefully strung together, but in its separate anecdotes there is much amusement and much entertainment.—Helen Munchalter, Washington News.

A picture to charm the heart with its sincerity and its simplicity.—Jay Carmody, Washington Star.

"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH" (Paramount)

Although it is the weakest of Bob Hope's recent vehicles, it is good for a reasonable number of laughs.—Newsweek.

An old turnip that was squeezed dry long ago . . . telling the truth isn't funny any more.—Time.

The moment Mr. Hope makes his first appearance, the gags begin to go off like a string of firecrackers. He gives sparkle, zest and renewed life to a type of farce which many thought to be on the way to obsolescence.—Donald Kirkley, Baltimore Sun.

ere 67 FM authorizations and 43 applications pending, with an estimated 20,000 FM receivers in public use. Applications for FM stations in New York City far exceeded the available frequencies there, it was stated.

In the television field, eight stations had been given commercial authorizations and a score of experimental stations had signified their intention of going commercial as soon as possible, it was said.

Defense activities were centered largely in the National Defense Operations Section, which established nearly 100 monitoring stations throughout the country to detect violations of laws, treaties or regulations, and through which several hundred illegal transmitters were closed down; the foreign broadcast monitoring service, which analyzes propaganda, news and entertainment from foreign stations, and the Defense Communications Board, which has developed a program for operation of communications services during the war.

Stick to facts, not underestimating enemy strength.

Do not try to second-guess military officials, broadcast lists of casualties, or permit speakers to say anything of aid to the enemy in the course of discussions.

Do not broadcast the location of plants making war materials, and do not take chances with ad lib programs.

46 Stations Joined NBC Webs in 1941

Technical improvements and the addition of new stations featured the year for NBC, according to a year-end summary of activities released by the network over the weekend. A total of 36 stations joined the Blue network, four were added to the Red and six stations joined as optional outlets for Red or Blue. Power increases were granted 79 stations and nine affiliates received more favorable frequencies. Four stations left NBC during the same period.

330 Hours to Defense

During the first 10 months of the year, 1,062 defense programs were broadcast, of which 338 were originated by NBC and the remainder broadcast in cooperation with Government agencies. Exclusive of spot announcements and local shows, 330 hours were devoted to defense, of which NBC donated 295 hours. At present, the schedule has been increased to more than 100 defense broadcasts monthly.

News shows increased 65 per cent in volume during 1941. Two new listening posts were opened, one on each coast. The short wave network was started with 23 Mexican stations, and there are now three regular commercial accounts on that web. NBC also has five sponsors for its own two stations and WBOS, the Westinghouse short wave transmitter in Boston. The short wave staff increased from 40 to 70 during the year.

On the educational front, NBC has started libraries of recordings for schools and other organizations and hopes to expand this service during 1942. About 600 hours of network time was devoted to women's shows, it was stated. Following difficulties with the American Federation of Musicians, NBC-Red radically revamped its late evening shows.

Four Million Visitors

Visitors to Radio City were many. More than 350,000 persons paid for tours of the plant and another 1,500,000 visited the studios during the year. About 4,000,000 persons, it was said, have taken the tour since the sight-seeing trip was started some years ago.

During the year, the short wave transmitter was rebuilt, new studios were added at Radio City, a new plant is under construction at San Francisco and studios were added at Chicago, Washington and Denver. The FM transmitter is being prepared for commercial use and ultra high-frequency links between various points have been installed for radio relays when telephone lines are cut off or are undesirable for technical reasons.

Television was, of course, a major step forward although its progress was hampered somewhat by the war. NBC became the first and only commercial television outlet in this area during the year and a staff of 80 was maintained. Although only 15 hours of weekly programs are required, December's total is expected to reach 75 for the month. There are four sponsors on the air regularly now.

The Experts, as well as the Listeners, Give NBC RED Top Honors — and That's no Blushing Matter!

OF course we're happy about winning the top three honors in the Fame-Motion Picture Daily Poll—but the Red's fine showing all along the line means a great deal more from a practical angle than just the annual winning of popularity polls.

It demonstrates, primarily, why 36.9% more radio families "listen most" to the NBC Red Network than to any other network by day... and 41.7% more by night... as revealed by the listeners themselves in the All-County Census of Radio Listening Habits.

In addition to winning the top three places in the "Champion of Champions" classification, NBC Red programs took the lion's share of the remaining honors. In all, NBC Red shows won 14 first places—against 7 for the next network and 1 for the third—12 out of 22 second places and 9 out of 19 thirds.

So, to the experts, for doing such a good job of reflecting the vast listening audience's preferences, thanks... to the winning artists and sponsors—congratulations!

Daylight Time Move Seen as Film Problem

Radio Also Affected If Time Is Shifted

Considerable interest was expressed yesterday in film and radio circles as to the effect of a resolution introduced by Senator Sheridan Downey of California expressing Congressional approval of any action President Roosevelt may take to invoke daylight saving time in any section of the country during the war.

Although Majority Leader Barkley blocked immediate consideration of the measure, Downey pointed out that daylight saving on the West Coast would save fuel and power and would aid in the application of nightly blackouts. Barkley warned against taking any hasty action which might be regretted later and suggested that the resolution be studied before it was passed.

Meanwhile, the California State Senate by voice vote yesterday tabled Sen. Ed Fletcher's resolution urging Congress to vote daylight time. Fletcher withdrew another resolution to place California on daylight time

Dietz Hits Critics Of Hollywood in 'Liberty' Article

"The movies didn't just happen. They are the result of hard work, inspiration, and the good judgment of able men."

So writes Howard Dietz, director of advertising and publicity of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in the Jan. 3 issue of Liberty magazine.

Dietz takes to task those who criticize Hollywood. He expresses his views partly as follows:

U. S. Films 'Best in World'

"Over the years the Hollywood movies have become the best in the world, capturing the market wherever they were shown. Despite barriers of language, more than 73 per cent of the seating capacity outside the United States is devoted to American films. . . .

"Somehow, some way, it becomes clear to those who care that the men who make the movies have more sense than those who take them to task. The movies are here to stay and they got that way because this criticized leadership had investment courage in the pioneer stage and enough vision to share this leadership with the growing talent.

"They believed in the movies, risked their security for the movies, and stuck to their job with the tenacity of a sourdough in the days of the gold rush. . . .

"The radio, faced with no alternative, had to derive its revenue from commercials. It is significant, however, that the criticized leadership of the movies, despite the most bewildering temptation, have refrained from using the screen as an advertising medium. Millions of dollars by commercial products have been offered as bait, but the producers refused to violate the amateur standing of the screen. This in itself has kept open every avenue of progress for the future of the cinema.

'Sordid Accusations'

"Had they been greedy they would have fallen for this seemingly easy money, especially those companies which were on their last legs. This adherence to a principle gives the lie to many sordid accusations that have been thrown around when the linen was washed in public. The movie magnates, whatever their frailties and admitted mistakes, have been doing what they thought was for the best interests of the vast personnel involved and for the success of the screen itself. . . .

"Why should every other art form be judged by its exceptions and the movies only by the run of the mill? "When Dickens was a current best seller an awful lot of authors wrote books that no one bothered to remember.

"And a lot of canvasses were daubed while a Rembrandt was painting 'The Night Watch.'

"And a lot of turkeys were produced the same year that Ibsen wrote 'The Wild Duck.'"

"King's Row"

(Warners)

Hollywood, Dec. 22

SCENE of this picture is a small American city, the period is 1890-1910, and the story told with intensity and power is that of the town and its people, many of whom are counterparts of people in every community and many of whom are psychopathic cases, neurotics and emotionalists of one kind or another.

Under impressive direction by Sam Wood a large cast delivers an assortment of performances which combine to produce an over-all effect of extraordinary realism. The screenplay by Casey Robinson, from a novel by Henry Bellaman, gives each player plenty of opportunity in the course of a long and detailed accounting for what goes on in every department of a many-sided narrative. David Lewis, associate producer, distinguished himself in the handling of a subject which offered more problems than most.

Robert Cummings, Ronald Reagan, Ann Sheridan, Betty Field, Charles Coburn, Claude Rains, Judith Anderson, Nancy Coleman, Kaaren Verne, Maria Ouspenskaya, Harry Davenport and Ernest Cosart are the principals in the adult cast. Ann Todd, Scotty Beckett, Douglas Croft and Mary Thomas are excellent juveniles enacting the early portions of the film.

It is a somber story, 125 minutes in the screen telling, and it deals with the morbid, the psychiatric and the fanatic as casually as most melodramas deal with such items as the mortgage on the homestead and the uprising of the Indians. One character is a sadistic surgeon, described as such in the dialogue, who goes about town using his scalpel as an instrument of moral discipline—this includes amputating the legs of a young man whose attentions to his daughter he objects to. Another is a girl kept indoors by her father, who kept her mother indoors for years before her death, until he becomes convinced of her insanity, whereupon he kills her and commits suicide.

It is the stories of these, and of those whose lives they and their doings distort, that make up the master-narrative. So powerfully are these elements stressed that some illicit love affairs conducted by some of the characters are made to seem no more than incidentally important.

There is nothing in the picture for children and there is much in it that is not for them.

The picture is not to be classified as "escapist" save in the sense that it provides a means of escape from real troubles to some unreal ones that are more sordid and terrible than most individuals have the misfortune to meet in their daily lives. It is a magnificent job of production, technically and by all the accepted rules of professionalism, and it is a theatre experience to be remembered, but it is a deadly earnest business making no gesture whatever toward imparting joy to the customers.

Running time, 125 minutes. "A."*

"The Man Who Came to Dinner"

(Warners)

Hollywood, Dec. 22

THE Warner workmen herewith hand to the motion picture exhibitor virtually unchanged the George S. Kaufman-Moss Hart comedy which the legitimate theatre has presented with notable commercial success in most of the nation's larger cities. It would seem to follow that the film can be depended upon to produce a comparable inflow of dollars when presented in the cinemas of those centers. Whether the fame of the stage play in the cities may have carried over into the towns in sufficient force to guarantee a readiness for it there is a matter of conjecture.

On the screen as on the stage, the comedy abounds in sophistication, the cast in sophisticates and the humor in expressions, connotations and references comprehensible and amusing to the aware and informed but sometimes meaningless to the casual and slow of wit. In retaining most of the original dialogue, with only such modification as screen purposes demand, the craftsmen in charge of the enterprise have retained also the form and largely the manner of the stage. To those who go to the theatre expectant of seeing a stage play, doubtless this will be a source of satisfaction, while those who go to see movement and the orthodox processes of screencraft may find it something else.

Bette Davis, Ann Sheridan, Billie Burke, Jimmy Durante, Reginald Gardiner, Grant Mitchell, Laura Hope Crews and many other film names are at hand for marquee use. Monty Woolly, who starred in the stage version, plays the name role in the picture, supplying a commanding performance and a billing-name with significance for the stage-conscious. A Beverly Hills, Calif., audience indicated by frequent and unrestrained laughter its approval of the picture.

Jack Saper and Jerry Wald were associates to Executive Producer Hal B. Wallis and William Keighley directed from a screenplay by Julius J. and Philip G. Epstein, all parties concentrating on retaining in all possible essentials the characteristics of the stage play.

The comedy is not pointed at children, its humor is for the most part beyond their years, and some of its lines are unconditioned to the juvenile ear.

Running time, 150 minutes. "A."*

"Dangerously They Live"

(Warners)

Hollywood, Dec. 22

A NEW twist to the espionage and counter-espionage story is given Warners' "Dangerously They Live," an excitingly told and well done melodrama. The refreshingly effective story has a band of Nazi agents in New York kidnap a girl operative of the British Intelligence who pretends to have amnesia in an effort to foil their attempts to gain information concerning a convoy rendezvous. Aiding her is a young psychiatrist who is used at first as an innocent dupe of the Nazis but who later is convinced of the girl's story concerning their danger and joins her cause.

The picture ends with the bombing by British planes of the German submarines which have been given false information by their aides in the United States. John Garfield as the young doctor, Nancy Coleman as the girl operative and Raymond Massey, as the head of the spies, head a long cast. Miss Coleman, in her largest role to date, delivers exceptionally well.

The original screenplay by Marion Parsonnet and the direction by Robert Florey maintain suspense throughout to achieve as excellent climax. Ben Stoloff was associate producer.

Running time, 78 minutes. "G."*

Daylight Time Move Seen as Film Problem

when he was advised that the subject matter was outside the scope of the Governor's special session proclamation.

May Offset Loss

Although exhibitors previously have opposed daylight time as an adverse influence on the box-office, it was pointed out by observers that in areas requiring blackouts, longer daylight hours may offset the loss of business attendant upon total darkness during evening hours. Also, these observers said, additional daylight may be an inducement to stay outdoors during Summer months but in cold, wintry weather there will be little tendency to stay out of doors whether there is daylight or not. In England, theatres have been compelled to close down early in the evenings because travel is difficult in blacked-out streets. Daylight time, on the other hand, may offer exhibitors additional operating time if blackouts become necessary, it was observed.

Opposition to daylight time centers around the fact that it is not yet definite whether blackouts will be necessary as a daily precaution, and it was felt by some spokesmen, therefore, adoption at this time of a daylight saving measure may be premature.

Would Not Affect Radio

Radio listening falls off sharply during Summer months, as far as home study surveys have been able to determine, but among many radio executives, too, it is felt that additional daylight will not affect listening during Winter months. Radio, of course, has a special problem and the industry long has advocated a Congressional bill which would fix the time on a national basis, either with or without daylight saving. Time zones offer a constant problem to network programs but local or sectional daylight time areas complicate the problem to extreme proportions.

Prepare Plans for Sign Blackout in Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—The Pennsylvania State Council of Defense has approved a plan for immediate blackouts of all outdoor illuminated signs in the state in case of an air raid. Directions for blacking out the sign are to be posted so that clear instructions are easily available. Signs which cannot be so controlled will be turned off for the duration of the emergency.

English Production Is Going Full Blast, Goldsmith Declares

Production in England is running "full blast" and studio space is at a premium, Isador Goldsmith, independent British producer, who arrived here recently, stated yesterday.

There are seven pictures now in production in addition to production activities at studios which the Government has taken over, he said. American companies are engaged in considerable production in London, he said.

Large Risk Eliminated

One of the principal difficulties, that of risk to investments in the event a studio or performer was injured as a result of war activity, has been eliminated by the Government's issuance of indemnity insurance, which Goldsmith said, has been one of the main stimulants to production. But there is still a considerable shortage of technical help and talent, he added.

The Government grants leaves when technical men are required for production but despite every desire to cooperate, there is still a great deal of difficulty, he pointed out. Leaves are granted for specific productions rather than for certain periods of time. In the case of talent, Goldsmith reported, similar arrangements have been made although many actors flatly refuse to leave their posts except for pictures requested by the Government, Goldsmith said. In the latter case, it is not uncommon for an actor to refuse payment for his services, according to Goldsmith.

Theatre Business Booms

Theatre business, especially in the Midlands and the North, has never been better, he declared, pointing out that many workers have money which because of restrictions and rationing cannot be spent except for such items as motion pictures.

Goldsmith has completed "Hatter's Castle" for Paramount and a print is now en route here. In May, Goldsmith said, he plans to produce A. J. Cronin's "Grand Canary," for C. M. Woolf, with distribution by General Film Distributors in England. U. S. distribution on the film has not been set. He expects to spend six to eight weeks additional here and plans to see Cronin in Hollywood. Goldsmith left last night for the Coast.

The negotiations have not yet been concluded but it is believed they may be finalized today.

It is believed that part of the company's refunding plan also calls for Loew's calling part of the issues involved from the firm's cash surplus, said to amount to about $30,000,000.

Loew's negotiations are being directed by David Bernstein, vice-president and treasurer.

sent decree retained all of the evils of the old block booking system without offering any relief; that shorts and newsreels were forced upon the independent exhibitor, together with the forcing of prior blocks of pictures as a condition precedent to the purchasing of subsequent blocks; that under the consent decree no provision has been made for any cancellation privilege, whereas under the old system, many contracts contained a cancellation privilege of anywhere from 10 to 20 per cent."

The exhibitors, according to the letter, suggest that an "alternative plan be evolved whereby we return to the old block buying, which should carry with it a reasonable cancellation privilege on all groups of pictures without any strings attached, and the elimination of the forcing of shorts and newsreels."

Urges Aid Solicitation

"It seems to me," he continues, "that the committee as a preliminary step might enlist the aid of public officials and prominent personages in urging the people to continue their usual pastimes and diversions. All thoughtful persons recognize the need for respite from the strain and anxiety of war. Why not solicit statements along this line from the President, governors, mayors, famous athletes and others in the public eye?"

"The chairman of the subcommittee," Kirsch concludes, "can apportion the work among the committee members and see that the results are duly publicized. Let's not wait for the next meeting. Let's get in our licks while they are most needed."

Monogram plans to produce four features of a higher budget class than the company ever before has scheduled, will increase budgets on several pictures now listed and may add a new series of Westerns to its release schedule, Broidy told the franchise holders.

Plans were discussed at the meeting for special handling to be given the John Boles picture, "Road to Happiness."

Speakers at the meeting, in addition to Broidy, included Trem Carr, production head; George Weeks, producer; Alton Brody, West Coast representative for De Luxe Laboratory and a member of the Monogram board of directors, and Lloyd Lind, assistant sales manager.

'Time' Sues to Enjoin M-G-M Film on War

by the National Film Board of Canada.

The application was in connection with a copyright infringement suit in which March of Time alleged that the film was copied in part from material in five "Time" reels made between 1937 and 1940. Loew's-M-G-M is distributing the film, which was scheduled to open tomorrow at the Capitol on Broadway. Moredall Realty Corp., a Loew's subsidiary which operates the Capitol, was made a party to the action.

Louis de Rochemont, producer of March of Time, in a statement said that the film uses scenes recently taken by its cameramen in the Far East. Since the same scenes are in a special March of Time release, "Battlefields of the Pacific," new being released by RKO, "we have no choice but to seek an injunction," the statement said.

March of Time, during the past three years, has given the National Film Board of Canada scenes from its films for Canadian government defense pictures, with the understanding, according to de Rochemont, that such pictures were for exclusive Canadian distribution or for the Government war archives.

Museum Shows Films For Civilian Safety

The facilities of the museum will be made available to the public in the event of air raid alarms, it was announced. Douglas L. Baxter, former art director and chief of research for 20th Century-Fox, is in charge of the museum's air raid precautionary program.

PLAY IT WHILE IT'S HOT!

Paramount filmed "PACIFIC BLACKOUT" under the title "MIDNIGHT ANGEL." It was originally set for February 2nd release, as a part of Paramount's third block.

It was intended to use title "PACIFIC BLACKOUT" while the picture was in script form. We eliminated this title, however, because we felt it might be too alarming.

TODAY ALARM IS FACT. Blackout came to the Pacific Coast only a few days after the completion of the picture. "PACIFIC BLACKOUT," therefore, comes to you one of the most timely pictures ever made.

PLAY "PACIFIC BLACKOUT" WHILE IT IS HOT. We realize the TIME LOST in negotiating for this hot box office shot WILL COST DOLLARS so we have decided that ANY PARAMOUNT CUSTOMER MAY BUY THIS PICTURE NOW and play it JANUARY 2nd. ## Actor Can Collect On Promise of Screen Test, Court Decides Refusal by a film company to give a screen test to an actor under contract for that purpose makes the company liable for damages, the appellate term of the New York Supreme Court ruled yesterday in upholding a $1,500 judgment obtained against Loew's by Conrad Noles, actor.

The ruling affirmed a decision by New York City Court Justice Frank A. Carlin, who had granted the judgment against the company in a test suit brought by the actor.

The appellate term handed down no opinion but based its decision on one by Justice Carlin. The City Court ruling was to the effect that Loew's was obligated to give the screen test, although it was not obligated under the agreement with Noles to grant the latter a contract after the test.

Because Noles was prevented under the terms of the agreement from seeking employment elsewhere, the court had said, the argument that Loew's was in no event obligated to give anything but a screen test was not available to the defendant. The plaintiff had claimed in trial that he had been prevented from obtaining other employment for a period of 10 weeks from March, 1939, the date of the contract. According to Cecil A. Citron, attorney for Noles, this is the first decision on the question.

Ask Court Review of Opera on Tour Writ

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Reconsideration of the Supreme Court's decision that no Federal question was involved in the granting of an injunction by the New York Court of Appeals to Opera On Tour, Inc., prohibiting the IATSE from interfering with the use of mechanical music, has been asked by the union.

A petition for rehearing has been filed with the court. It seeks a determination whether or not the injunction interferes with the right of free speech and freedom of assembly guaranteed by the 14th amendment to the Constitution.

Opera On Tour produced the opera "Faust," in which recorded music was employed as accompaniment for live talent singers. The IATSE called a strike of the stagehands under a reciprocal agreement with the American Federation of Musicians which had protested against the elimination of musicians. The injunction was subsequently granted and affirmed on appeal by the New York high court. In November, the U. S. Supreme Court refused to review the case on the ground that no Federal question was involved.

Off the Antenna

BMI licenses are now held by a total of 792 stations, according to Carl Haverlin, BMI station relations director. Of these, 756 are commercial stations and 36 non-commercial. Haverlin declared that with the endorsement received last Friday from the Pennsylvania State Broadcasters Association, there is now 100 per cent approval for the long-term BMI contract which begins March 12, 1942, and runs for eight years to March 12, 1950. The expiration date, Haverlin noted, is about two and a half months beyond the date when the present Ascap contract with the broadcasters expires.

Pa. Censor Passes Five Russian Films

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—Since the start of the war, the Pennsylvania censor has approved five Russian pictures, it was disclosed by Mrs. Edna R. Carroll, chairman of the censor board. The change in the board's attitude is significant in view of its stand against foreign propaganda pictures. A court action is still pending in Common Pleas Court here against the board, seeking an appeal on a ban on two Russian pictures submitted shortly after the outbreak of hostilities between Russia and Germany.

Two of the five pictures approved, "A Day in Soviet Russia" and "View of the Soviet World," are admittedly propaganda pictures. The other three are musicals. Mrs. Carroll explained that the two approved pictures are considered documentary films of the Russian armed forces. And since such forces are now battling a common foe, the pictures are classified as military propaganda. She said that such pictures would be approved, pointing out, however, that the board will not countenance any pictures that may be classified as Communist propaganda.

FCC Program To Be Adjusted To Censorship

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The work of the Federal Communications Commission will be fully accommodated to the new Government censorship requirements, FCC Chairman James L. Fly declared today.

A close liaison will be maintained by the FCC with the censorship set up under Byron Price, Fly said.

He expressed the belief that the radio industry has not felt any great fear of censorship, being aware for some time that it was inevitable. He refused to speculate as to what action the Commission could take in the event of censorship violations by a station.

Fly disclosed that he has been in communication with Price by letter, but that no personal meeting has been arranged. However, he said that the broadcasters will have some specific problems to deal with under censorship and he will discuss them with Price at an early date.

Release of Nebraska Members by Ascap Seen Move for Law Repeal

In a move which observers believe is a preliminary to commencement of a series of copyright infringement suits against theatres, radio stations and other places in Nebraska where music is performed publicly, Ascap yesterday released all its members for that state.

Ascap stated that the anti-Ascap law in Nebraska made it impossible to function there and that the release "will permit the individual composers, authors and publishers to issue licenses for their copyrighted musical compositions in Nebraska as well as to take measures to protect themselves against and to seek redress for unauthorized public performances of their compositions."

Actually, according to observers, few members are expected to pay the fee which is a necessary preliminary to licensing performances. Instead, it was said, the members may be expected to refuse to grant licenses and to start prosecutions whenever their music is played. It is expected to cause users to urge the Nebraska legislature to repeal the statute, it was said.

Name Mellett To Coordinate Films of Gov't

no censorship of the motion picture; I want no restrictions placed thereon which will impair the usefulness of the film other than those very necessary restrictions which the dictates of safety make imperative.

"The motion picture, especially as used by the Federal Government, has a very useful contribution to make during the war emergency. In order that the Federal Government's efforts in the field of motion picture production and distribution may serve most effectively and efficiently, it is desirable that all activities of the Federal Government be coordinated under the direction of one central office."

In writing to Schaefer, Mellett said:

"During the past 15 months, as you know, I have fulfilled the function of the Coordinator of Government Films to a limited extent. During that time I have been greatly impressed by the sincerity of the motion picture industry as a whole in its purpose to aid our national defense in every way. All my experience with you and those you represent has been pleasant and I have every reason to feel sure the same will be true during the months ahead. I am confident that we can make this cooperation very effective, indeed."

On receipt of this letter, Schaefer telegraphed Mellett:

"Your reference to the sincerity of this industry's effort during the past fifteen months in aiding the national defense program is deeply appreciated. You may count upon our vigorous cooperation in the achievement of complete victory in this war against those who threaten all freedom."

Harmon, as executive vice-chairman of the industry War Activities Committee, will open offices in the Paramount Building on Jan. 1.

Review

"Wild Bill Hickok Rides"

(Warners)

WITH Bruce Cabot as Wild Bill Hickok, Constance Bennett as a lady card sharp, and Warren William as the villainous, double-dealing bad man, it might be expected that "Wild Bill Hickok Rides" would be a first-rate Western, and it is.

Credit director Ray Enright with having made one of the "shooting-est" outdoor action films of recent date. There is hardly a foot of film that does not have its share of gunplay and action and there is enough gunpowder exploded during the course of the picture's running time to supply a regiment.

When her dance hall burns during the Chicago fire, Miss Bennett teams up with William in an effort to gain control of some valuable ranch land in Montana. She meets Cabot on the train West and falls in love with him after he foils a holdup. Love, however, does not interfere with Miss Bennett's business interests and she agrees to aid William in ousting Cabot's friends (Russell Simpson and young Betty Brewer) from their ranch. Miss Bennett draws the line, however, at murder and ultimately goes over to the homesteaders' side to aid them against the gang.

The film is excellently cast. Besides those mentioned there are Walter Catlett as the local editor; Ward Bond as the crooked sheriff, Frank Wilcox, Howard da Silva, Trevor Bardette, Lillian Yarbo, Lucia Carroll and Faye Emerson. Edmund Grainger was associate producer. The one song, contributed by Miss Bennett and her troupe of girls, "The Lady Got a Shady Deal," is worthy of mention.

Running time, 81 minutes. "G."*

EDWARD GREIF

*"G" denotes general classification.

'John (Allied) Exhibitor' Gives Santa His Order

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—"Johnny Exhibitor," with the assistance of Abram F. Myers, chairman and general counsel of Allied States, today wrote and posted his "letter to Santa Claus" in which he requested only "sensible gifts, gifts that will benefit others as well as myself."

In order, he asks for the following: Victory "for my beloved country over her treacherous enemies and the establishment of a just peace that will endure forever."

Unity through the "success of the M. P. Industry Conference Committee as a mighty shield and defender of the industry and as a forum for the discussion and adjustment of industry problems."

An acceptable substitute on June 1 for the "unworkable and now discredited" blocks-of-five selling method.

Either abolition of or a complete change of personnel in the arbitration appeals board "so that whatever is good in the arbitration system can be salvaged" for, instead of giving effect to the purpose of the decree to curb monopoly and restore competition, the "board has interpreted the decree as a bill of rights for the existing order and has emasculated virtually every award in favor of an independent exhibitor and has offered gratuitous advice to the circuits and distributors as to how to evade the decree."

Asks Ceiling for Rentals

A ceiling for rentals that will assure us a fair profit, which we hope can be accomplished without governmental action—all that is needed is vision on the part of producers-distributors who must realize the inevitable consequences of profiteering when the country is at war; who must view the rentals demanded in the light of their reported earnings and then consider the impression which these will create in the minds of officials charged with preventing inflation."

Fair dealing, including a tacit resolve on the part of distributors not to resort even occasionally to the withholding of pictures to which exhibitors are fairly entitled under their contracts or on demands that exhibitors increase their admission prices.

Worked for Harmony

To establish that he is a deserving recipient this year, "Johnny Exhibitor" reminds Santa Claus that despite the consent decree, higher film rentals, a box-office slump and the withholding of pictures, "I did not raise half of my customary hell." He was "too busy trying to save my property in the face of increased costs and taxes" and working for "industrial harmony as a contribution towards national unity," and cooperating with Uncle Sam by showing defense reels, the "Land of Liberty" at a loss, participating in the USO campaign and contributing to the Red Cross.

"I claim no special credit for these activities," he tells Santa Claus, "although I resent someone else taking the credit, as in the case of Will Hays in transmitting to the Red Cross the check for 'Land of Liberty'."

The remaining $5,000,000 from the First National of Boston is a five year, 2½ per cent loan.

Republic bought "Gold Runs the River," story of early California gold rush days by J. ROBERT BREN and GLADYS ATWATER, and "Water Carnival," by MAURI GRASHIN and ROBERT SHANNON. ## 46 Stores Report Use of Radio Ads

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 23.—Exactly half of the 92 department stores in 56 key cities reported use of radio for advertising, according to a survey recently completed by the Retail Training Bureau of the University of Pittsburgh. Of the 46 stores not using radio now, 26 reported using it in the past.

Regularly scheduled spot announcements were found to be the most popular type employed, followed by shopping programs, news and recordings, in that order. Of the 79 programs or the air when the survey was made, 15 were continuing for 13 weeks or less, and 16 for five years or more.

Among the 46 stores reporting, two said they received greater returns from radio as compared with other media, 27 said there was less return, three said it was equal, and 14 replied "don't know" or made no reply. Of 46 not using radio, 20 replied it was because time rates are excessive.

Twelve stores use more than one station and 34, only one. Advertising is restricted to specific items in 82 per cent of the programs, according to the survey. The six leading classifications of merchandise advertised on the air were electrical appliances, women's accessories, inexpensive dresses, home furnishings, furniture and furs. ### Suspend Licenses Of Two Ky. Houses

FRANKFORT, KY., Dec. 25.—For the first time since the state's amusement tax law was passed in 1936, the State Tax Commission has suspended the permits of two Kentucky theatres.

They are the Dixie Theatre of Olive Hill and the Mills Theatre of Morehead, both owned by L. H. Mills, Ward Oates, Assistant Revenue Commissioner, said. The suspension starts Jan. 2.

The tax commission sustains charges that the theatres failed to keep written records, did not tear all admission tickets in half after they were sold and failed to produce their records for Revenue Department representatives as required by law. Under the amusement tax law, all theatres are required to obtain state permits. There is no charge for the permits, but the theatres must post $1,000 bonds, Oates said.

Rooney Voted Champion in Exhibitor Poll

the only star to be placed among the leading 10 in all 10 years of the poll. The leaders are determined by the combined vote of both independent and circuit exhibitors. Tabulating the vote separately, Gable was in first place among circuit exhibitors, followed by Rooney, Abbott & Costello, Hope, Tracy, Cooper, Miss Davis, Autry, Cagney and Miss Garland, in that order.

Among independent exhibitors, Gable was first, followed by Gable, Tracy, Abbott & Costello, Hope, Autry, Cooper, Cagney, Miss Davis and Miss Garland.

Autry led the Western stars for the fifth consecutive year. He was first in the combined votes as well as the separate groupings by circuit and independent exhibitors. The 10 top Western money making stars, with their respective percentages of possible votes, were Autry, 67; Bill Boyd, 57; Roy Rogers, 39; Charles Starrett, 20; Smiley Burnette, 19; Tim Holt, 17; Johnny Mack Brown, 16; Three Mesquites, 15; Bill Elliott, 14, and Tex Ritter, 10.

Significant in the voting was the comedy trend which placed Abbott & Costello and Hope in the third and fourth positions, respectively. The comedy team made their first appearance among the top 10 while Hope moved up from 18th position last year. The remaining eight are consistent money-makers, all having placed in former polls. Hope was in first place in the MOTION PICTURE DAILY-Fame "Champion of Champions" radio poll.

Spyros P. Skouras, in accepting the temporary chairmanship of the subcommittee on industry taxation, Article 1, wrote: "I am in hearty accord with the plan of action adopted and believe that with the proper cooperation of the appointed committees it will result in greater efficiency within the ranks of the industry as well as the promotion of its best interests without."

Leonard H. Goldenson, head of Paramount theatre operations, who was appointed to serve on subcommittees for Articles 1 and 4, wrote: "I think you gentlemen are on the right track . . . and I am ready to help in every respect."

Harry M. Kalmine, Warners theatre head, wrote that he would be "very happy to serve" on the subcommittee on taxation.

Reviews

"The Shanghai Gesture"

(Arnold Pressburger—United Artists)

THE screen version of the John Colton play which will be remembered as a sensational stage "shocker" in its day is bereft of the more obvious luridness of the original, but in shedding some of its native sordidness it has neglected or failed to replace what was discarded with strengthening screen factors which have so often leavened a motion picture effort of this kind.

"Mother Goddam", played by Ona Munson, and her house of assignation, in the film become "Mother Gin Sling" and an elaborate gambling establishment with unmistakable sidelines; while Poppy, played by Gene Tierney, becomes the victim of her gambling fever rather than of man's lust. Those are the basic concessions made by the film to the audience of the screen. There remain murder, principals without character, wit or morality and, therefore, without claim to audience sympathy, and the tawdriness of a tale lived and told largely within the confines of a "joint," notwithstanding the evening clothes which populate it.

It may be said, however, that Producer Arnold Pressburger's film does make sin unattractive. Josef von Sternberg directed.

In brief, the story is that of Poppy who comes to Mother Gin Sling's place in search of a thrill and becomes a victim of its vices and her own weakness. Her wealthy father, played by Walter Huston, endeavors to get her away from the place and from Shanghai and learns that Mother Gin Sling is the Chinese girl he married in his youth and the mother of his daughter. Informed of this, but unable to break Poppy's fascination for Victor Mature, a hanger-on at the dive, Mother Gin Sling shoots the girl.

"Forbidden Trails"

(Monogram)

AFTER hibernating in the penitentiary for some time, two desperados emerge with intentions of making even the score with U. S. Marshal Buck Jones, who sent them away. Marshals Tim McCoy and Raymond Hatton come to the aid of their colleague with the result that the two ex-cons cease to be and attempts of their partners of the underworld to rob stage shipments are likewise unsuccessful.

The Western, another of the "Range Busters" series from Monogram, should go over well enough. In some spots the writers went slightly overboard in melodrama, as in extricating the trio from difficult situations, but aside from this the yarn is acceptable. It has all and more of what is required in action and generally moves along after the opening sequences at a good clip. Moreover, the names of Jones, McCoy and Hatton have marquee value.

Others in the cast are Tristram Hatton, Charles King, Glen Strange, Dave O'Brien and Christine McIntyre. Robert N. Bradbury directed and Scott R. Dunlap produced. The photography is good.

Indianapolis and Chicago. For many years he was with Hearst's International News Service in Chicago. When Edgar B. Hatrick organized the Hearst-Selig Weekly, newsreel to compete with Pathe Weekly, Hall was named editor. The connection continued into the World War period.

Hall subsequently was named editor of Screen Telegram, wartime newsreel organized by Terry Ramsaye for the Mutual Film Corp., and in turn with Capt. G. McLeod Baynes, Charles Urban and Ramsaye, the newsreel known as "Kinograms." Later Hall was editor of "Fox Varieties," and then went to Pathe News as editor, succeeding Emanuel Cohen, who went to Paramount News.

In association with Marvin McIntyre, Washington representative of Pathe News, Hall had much to do with the screen appearances of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

Loew's Sues Operators On Trust Charge

306 members in all its 65 houses, its home office and exchange, that employees in the shipping, poster and inspection department are members of Film Exchange Employees Union, Local B-51 of the IATSE, and employees in the developing department are members of Local 702, IATSE. Local B-51 men are under a contract which expired Nov. 30 but are continuing to work under the same terms.

Contract Expired

On Aug. 31, 1940, the complaint continues, the contract between 306 and Loew's expired. On Dec. 11 of this year, during negotiations for renewal of the contract, the complaint states, Loew's received a letter from the union demanding the fulfillment of three conditions as a prerequisite to a new contract. These demands allegedly were that Loew's supply films only to exhibitors that employ 306 men; that 306 men be not required to handle films not transported by IATSE members, and that films be delivered by IATSE members only. Loew's ships films through express, parcel post and common carriers.

Must Comply

The complaint further states that the union declared that Loew's must comply immediately with these demands or a strike would be called at once in the home office, the New York exchange, Loew's metropolitan theatres, the Culver City studios, and that Local B-51 would join the strike.

All major companies will face similar demands, according to advice received by Loew's from the IA and 306 officials, the complaint states. Loew's points out that there are 300 independent theatres in New York serviced by it, of which about 20 per cent do not employ 306 men. If Loew's is prevented from servicing these independents, it is claimed, the company will lose $400,000 in the current season. In addition, a closing of the 65 Loew houses will mean a loss of revenue totalling $400,000 weekly, it is alleged.

Loew's also asked for a declaratory judgment stating that the demands are illegal, in restraint of trade, that such contract would violate the consent decree and would require Loew's to interfere with the internal management of independent exhibitors.

Montreal, Dec. 25

SOMETHING new and ingenious in the way of deceiving theatre cashiers occurred at the Rosemount Theatre here during a rush period the other day.

A middle-aged man wearing dark glasses approached the window hurriedly, thrust a $10 bill across the counter, and received a ticket and $9.25 in change. When the cash was counted, it was discovered that the man had split a $10 bill and a dollar bill, pasting the front of the dollar bill to the back of the $10 bill.

He thinks the explosions are fire works until some of the shells drop nearby. Running time, 15 mins. Release, Dec. 19, 1941.

"Crystal Flyers"

(Sportoscope) (RKO-Pathé)

A Swedish ski patrol demonstrates the fundamental techniques of skiing. With excellent photography and an unusual approach, this skiing reel should hold interest. The demonstration is designed to teach the method of travelling cross-country over the snow, rather than the customary instruction of sportsmen. Running time, 8 mins. Release, Nov. 8, 1941.

"Monsters of the Deep"

(Broadway Brevities) (Warners)

The noted fisherman, Michael Lermer, goes angling for deep water fish off the coasts of Chile and Peru. "Strange Testament"

(Passing Parade) (M-G-M)

This story of the French immigrant, who became one of New Orleans' wealthiest merchants and landowners, and who provided in his will for gifts to be made to impoverished brides of the West Baton Rouge Parish because of his 50-year memory of an unfulfilled romance with such a girl, is an unusual and highly interesting subject. Its natural drama and the skillful manner in which it is told here makes it a substantial contribution to any program. Running time, 11 mins. Release, Nov. 15, 1941.

"Carl Hoff and Orchestra"

(Melody Masters) (Warners)

Carl Hoff's band offers five musical numbers, including "I Could Use a Dream," "Blue Danube," "Dark Eyes," "I Knew That You" and "When Yuba Plays the Rhumba on the Tuba." Release, Jan. 3, 1942.

"The Brave Little Bat"

(Merrie Melodies) (Schlesinger-Warners)

An altogether engaging character, a little bat who delivers all his sentences in one breath, is introduced in this color cartoon. Sniffles, the mouse, encounters the bat while seeking shelter from a storm. Very good, indeed. Running time, 7 mins. Release, Sept. 27, 1941.

War Work of Webs Proves Value: Sarnoff

"The facility and speed with which radio has rallied the nation from an 'unlimited emergency' to a wartime basis, emphasizes the value of network broadcasting as conducted in the United States," David Sarnoff, RCA president, declared yesterday in his annual year-end statement.

Sarnoff described the continuing musical, dramatic and comedy programs, as "re-vitalizing tonics, needed more than ever in the busy days and nights of war." He cited the instantaneous news reports from the Pacific and the eye-witness coverage of the war in Europe as revealing "as never before the flexibility with which broadcasting performs its service to the people." He said there are 900 broadcasting stations and more than 55,000,000 receivers in the country.

Declaring that wartime necessity prevents a detailed listing of technical improvements in radio, Sarnoff asserted that the developments during the war period will come to light in later years in much the same way that radio developed after the last war.

Employs Total 30,000

RCA's backlog of unfilled orders is 80 per cent for defense and only 20 per cent commercial, he said, with a total number of employes at an all-time peak of 30,000. Through radio communications the country is in direct contact with 49 other nations, independent of any other country or group of countries. Sarnoff pointed to the fact that when the U. S. Army went into Dutch Guiana it found a direct circuit already established, as was the case with the Philippines and Hawaii, and during 1941 a new circuit was opened permitting transmission of radiophotos from Moscow to New York in 13 minutes.

During 1941 the entire radio industry produced 13,000,000 receiving sets, more than 100,000,000 tubes, and 110,000,000 phonograph records, far ahead of the previous 1921 peak for the phonograph industry.

Sarnoff said he was proud that television could continue during the war and cited the new electronic microscope, an offshoot of television research, which made it possible to photograph the influenza virus for the first time. More than 1,200 students are enrolled in RCA Institute's classes and radio research is developing new metals and plastics.

He added that the huge all-out campaign by radio had aided in the sale of defense bonds and that radio had made entertainment available to the men at training camps to a far greater extent than was possible during the last war.

"All radio is enrolled and lined up to insure final victory," Sarnoff concluded.

Off the Antenna

W WRL will shift all foreign language programs from the day to evening hours, Robert A. Catherwood, general manager, announced Wednesday. The move will become effective when the station shifts to operations on 5,000 watts full time. WWRL now broadcasts approximately 40 hours of foreign language programs in eight different languages. According to Catherwood, the station does not believe it can compete on an equal basis in English with the big name evening shows while it can provide competitive programs during the afternoons when the networks are devoted only to serials. Further, it was pointed out, many foreign language groups are unable to listen during daytime hours, while they would be available in the evening.

Purely Personal: Lloyd A. Free, FCC director of foreign broadcast monitoring service, arrived early this week by clipper from England. . . . Jimmy Durante will be guest on the Kate Smith show over CBS tonight. . . . The NBC network rate will be $120 per evening hour, with $10 night time cut-in rate, $5 days, and $7 on Sunday afternoons.

Johnstone, chairman of the radio division of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday, and Keith Morgan, national chairman, will leave today for a swing through 11 states for the purpose of arranging radio broadcasts, organization dinners and the like. Broadcasting schedules have been set up in all key cities which Johnstone and Morgan will visit. Transcriptions in Italian, French and Spanish have been produced by Norman Warembud of WBYN and are being shipped to all foreign language stations, and transcriptions have also been made of appeals by William Green and Philip Murray, presidents of the AFL and CIO, respectively, for shipment to stations in large industrial areas.

NBC offices in New York are understood to be ready for complete separation of the two webs and are awaiting official approval from the FCC. stations as affiliates for its proposed Latin American network. The two CBS 50,000-watt transmitters are a most completed, it was said. Meanwhile, many important network shows are being sent to Latin America by the existing transmitters. A special news room for short wave has been set up and there are broadcasts in 10 languages, English, German, French, Spanish, Portuguese, Dutch, Italian, Serbo-Croatian, Swedish and Polish. Personnel in the international division has been increased from 10 to more than 50 during the course of the year.

Eight reporters, aided by five technicians, monitor the short wave listening posts now operating 21 hours daily.

Leading the engineering achievements during the year was the construction of a new 50,000-watt transmitter for WABC, key station. The short wave transmitter was moved from Wayne County, N. J., to Long Island. FM broadcasting was started and a regular television schedule began on July 1, the date set by the FCC for the start of commercial television. A staff of more than 80 is now employed for television, and about 100 hours of color transmission were completed during the year.

Columbia's "School of the Air of the Americas," which was expanded to include the entire hemisphere in 1940, continued to grow during the past year. The audience for this program alone is now estimated at 8,000,000 students and 3,000,000 adults in this country and 3,000,000 students, in Latin America.

Leading cultural contributions was the dramatic sustaining series, "26 by Corwin," as part of the "Workshop" series. There were broadcasts by 11 leading religious denominations, all represented in the "Church of the Air," and by other groups as well. Besides religious broadcasts, there were 79 special programs totaling 27 hours, devoted to charitable and eleemosynary organizations.

A hearing was ordered on the application of Station WHAT, Philadelphia, to change frequency from 1,340 to 1,160 kilocycles, change hours of operation from sharing to daytime and increase power from 100 to 5,000 watts.

An application was filed by Eugene P. O'Fallon, Inc., for a construction permit for a new 46,500 kilocycle FM station at Denver, Col.

Only U. S. War Declaration Exceeded Churchill's Daytime Radio Audience

Prime Minister Churchill, in addressing the joint session of Congress on Friday, spoke to one of the largest daytime radio audiences ever recorded, the Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting has reported. The rating of 44.7 per cent was far ahead of the previous Churchill high of 26.1 per cent, set last Aug. 24. The high point of his predecessor, the late Prime Minister Chamberlain, was 13.2 per cent, set on Jan. 9, 1940.

Churchill's speech was even ahead of nearly all of President Roosevelt's daytime addresses, although it fell short of the 65.7 per cent set Dec. 8, when President Roosevelt asked Congress for a declaration of war against Japan.

The Churchill speech was heard over the facilities of the four national networks, NBC Red, NBC Blue, CBS and Mutual, between 12:30 P.M. and 1:05 P.M.

Previous listening ratings on speeches of Prime Minister Churchill broadcast in this country were a figure of 23.7 per cent for the speech from London on Feb. 9, 1941, and a figure of 16.5 per cent, on the speech of June 22, last, also made from London.

Ascap Waives Back Royalties In Washington

Covers 3-Year Period of Anti-Ascap Law

Ascap has decided not to prosecute exhibitors, broadcasters or other music users in the state of Washington for royalties on the music used and not paid for during the three years the music society was prevented by the state's anti-Ascap law from operating in Washington, it was learned yesterday.

Under a recent agreement with state authorities, Ascap will resume operations in Washington by filing a list of its copyrighted compositions with the secretary of state in compliance with the law and has agreed not to press its appeal on the constitutionality of the statute in the U. S. Supreme Court.

Ascap officials said that Washington music users would resume payment of royalties immediately and that no damage actions for the unlicensed performances would be brought by the society. They pointed out that few theatres in the state made provision for contingencies of this kind and that successful damage actions by Ascap would work an unreasonable hardship on many houses in Washington.

Reviews

"Lady for a Night"

(Republic)

SEVERAL well-staged musical numbers enliven this production by Albert J. Cohen. These include "Up in a Balloon" and "Ta Ra Ra Boom De Ay," done in the gambling casino manner, and a spiritual song by the Hall Johnson Choir. Beyond the music, however, there is little to the picture and the story frequently becomes tedious.

Neither the acting nor the dialogue is distinguished. Joan Blondell plays the part of the mistress of a gambling joint whose lifetime ambition is to become a recognized member of Memphis high society. Her first venture, having herself crowned queen of the annual carnival, brings only additional snubs but she tries again. When Ray Middleton, scion of a local family, loses more than he possesses, Miss Blondell takes advantage of the situation to force him to marry her.

This maneuver, too, fails miserably, especially when Middleton's relatives, Philip Merivale and Blanche Yurka, conspire against her. There are efforts on the part of John Wayne, who plays the principal male role as a gambler-politician, to win recognition for Miss Blondell but the whole episode ends sadly when she is accused of the murder of her husband. Ultimately, she returns to her gambling casino as the bride of Wayne convinced that her people are much truer and warmer than the upper crust.

One bit part, that of a voodoo "conjure man," is effective. Others in the cast include Edith Barrett, Leonid Kinskey, both of whom give good performances, Hattie Noel, Montagu Love, Carmel Myers, Dorothy Burgess, Guy Usher, Ivan Miller, Patricia Knox, Lew Payton and Marilyn Hare. Leigh Jason directed.

Running time, 87 minutes. "G."*

"Swamp Woman"

(Producers Releasing)

"SWAMP WOMAN" is a slow drama of the interior of the South's swamp regions, whose main lure would be in certain theatres the fact that it has Ann Corio in the cast. Miss Corio, it is proclaimed in large letters on the marquee of the Central Theatre on Broadway, is the "Queen of Burlesque."

The "Queen" may be depended upon to satisfy her admirers. She is no exponent of overdress. One shot of her on the stage of a burlesque theatre is strictly "shock" material and definitely not fit for any family gathering.

Virtually all of the story takes place in the swamp area, in effective settings. Miss Corio, theatre performer, returns because of her love for one of the natives, Jack La Rue. He in the meantime is preparing to marry her young sister, Mary Hull. Also brought in is a fleeing chain gang prisoner, Richard Deane, who is harbored by Miss Hull, and Jay Novello, Miss Corio's former associate of the theatre, who really committed the murder for which Deane was convicted. It eventually works out for all except Novello, who is tricked into a confession. Ian MacDonald is the detective in search of Deane. Max Alexander and George Merrick produced.

Running time, 68 minutes. "A."*

EUGENE ARNEEL

*"A" denotes adult classification.

Construction in S. A. Price Names Ryan Reported by Ritchey Radio Censor Aide

A great deal of new theatre construction is under way throughout Latin America, Norton Ritchey, vice-president in charge of Monogram foreign activities, reported Friday on his return by plane from a four-month tour.

Declaring that it is "impossible to generalize about Latin America," Ritchey said theatre business was improved in some countries, worse in others. He cited the new construction as being evidence of a general trend for bigger grosses.

Ritchey described his trip, which was for the purpose of reorganizing the distribution setup and a general inspection tour, as "highly successful." Four or five new distributors have been added, he said.

some one in authority on whom executives or newsmen may call for decisions on items in newscasts which are borderline cases. The fact that radio broadcasts may be heard outside the country without the necessity of passing through any other medium of communication requires special handling.

Will Seek Delay on Schine Trial Today

hensive answers to defense interrogatories has prevented the theatre company from making any adequate preparation for defense. Counsel for United Artists, Universal and Columbia will petition a lengthy postponement because the Government has succeeded in having its anti-trust suit against the Little Three placed on the New York Federal court trial calendar for February. They will argue that they should not be required to defend two of the Government's suits simultaneously.

Trial of the Schine suit has been set down for March 3. Attorneys indicated that they believe a postponement of several months would be required if the Government insists on proceeding with the New York suit trial when it is called in February. It is believed that the Government will do this since its chances of preserving the trade show and blocks-of-five provisions of the consent decree hinge upon its gaining a victory in the New York suit prior to June 1.

Radio Ready For War Now, Paley States

Declaring it "fortunate that radio broadcasting had been forged and tempered into a potent instrument of democracy before America became involved in the supreme test of war," William S. Paley, CBS president, in his annual statement, said that radio is ready for war with "responsible judgment, trained personnel and world-wide facilities."

W. S. Paley

"It would not be true to say that we have formulated new policies with regard to the war. It is of the essence of radio broadcasting that it should be swiftly and flexibly responsive to the ever changing opportunities and ever changing needs of a democracy," Paley asserted.

He said that CBS would play its part through "news, through public discussion, through the presentation of historic events as they occur, and through appropriate dramatization," to maintain national morale. This will be done with two goals in mind, he added, "first, the winning of the war, and second, the winning of the peace." "The skills and techniques of radio broadcasting are admirably adapted to promote and intensify nation-wide devotion to the goals I have mentioned, and we shall use all our resources to that end," Paley said.

He said existing programs would continue "with a new significance." These include religious, classical music, light music and "programs of fun and frolic." Asserting that the CBS short wave transmitters will carry the United States message all over the world, Paley concluded that "the power of a free radio in a free country will be felt, as never before, by all the nations of the world."

Off the Antenna

FOLLOWING the announcement by the FCC that it approved transfers of licenses of four NBC-Blue stations as a step in the separation of the Red and Blue networks, Niles Trammell, NBC president, on Friday sent a telegram to all Blue affiliates. He urged all stations to attend a special conference to be held at the Drake Hotel in Chicago on Jan. 15. Although the purpose of the meeting was not stated in the wire, it is understood that the next steps in the separation will be discussed.

"People's Platform," the CBS program usually given over to discussions on controversial subjects, will be devoted next Saturday to predictions by four of the network's leading news analysts on "What's Ahead for the World in 1942?" Lyman Bryson, chairman of the CBS adult education board, will preside. The guest experts will include Edward R. Murrow, chief of the network's European staff, now in this country; Elmer Davis, news analyst; Major George Fielding Elliott, CBS military expert, and Albert Warner, head of the network's Washington bureau.

The networks gave all employees not needed for production or programs a full weekend over the Christmas holiday by working with skeleton staffs Friday and Saturday. The same procedure will be followed for a four-day New Year's weekend.

"Moonlight Saving Time," the all-night show on WOR, with Jerry Lawrence as master of ceremonies, has dropped all request numbers. This follows the move by many independent stations along similar lines to prevent the use of such requests as a possible code of communication among enemy agents. Some stations are continuing request numbers but no longer are announcing the person making the request.

Chicago Firms Cut Civilian Set Output

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—Three radio manufacturers here are reducing their output of sets for civilian use in order to work on defense orders.

Paul Galvin, president of the Galvin Manufacturing Corp., here, and head of the Radio Manufacturers Association, has announced that his company has "frozen" all its civilian models to present designs to facilitate armament production work.

E. F. McDonald, Jr., president of Zenith Radio Corp., reported that because of rapidly expanding war work, his company will be unable to meet the rising demand for its regular line of products, and the Majestic Radio and Television Corp. said it will reduce civilian radio output and step up an army set known as the "walkie-talkie," for military use in the field.

weekend as the outcropping of a long standing issue. The biennial union election will be held Wednesday, with Joseph Basson, incumbent president, opposed by Herman Gelber, secretary. Although Basson's recent discussions with Loew's were regarded as more serious than in the past, it was pointed out that efforts to eliminate Empire generally came during election periods.

The last negotiations for a 306-Empire merger broke down after offers were made and rejected over the status of unemployed Empire men in the 306 setup. It is generally believed that the focal point of the matter is the Century Circuit, with which Empire recently concluded a 10-year contract.

Manages Pa. Theatre

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Dec. 28.—William Blobstein has become manager of the Strand here.

Sees Billion in Air Equipment for U. S.

Present indications are that the Government will call upon the radio industry to begin production of approximately $1,000,000,000 worth of radio equipment for the armed services and home defense in the coming months, James T. Buckley, Philco president, declared in his annual statement.

"Some idea of the magnitude of this task may be gained from the fact that the normal, peacetime output of the industry is only about $500,000,000," Buckley said. He added that "it is hoped and believed that civilian production can be maintained on a reduced basis."

Mutual Added 48 Affiliated Stations During Past Year

With the addition of 25 stations and the replacement of 23 others Mutual added 48 affiliates to the network during 1941 to bring the total number up to an all time high of 193, it was pointed out in the annual year end summary.

During 1941, new station additions included WGR, Buffalo; WFBR, Baltimore, and WCAE, Pittsburgh, all 22 years old and operating with 5,000 watts. The addition of five stations also gave Mutual coverage in Florida for the first time.

Sporting events, always a big feature on the network, grew in emphasis during the year, led by the acquisition of exclusive rights to the Mike Jacobs boxing bouts. For the third year, Mutual broadcast exclusively the World Series play-by-play, and for the second year, the professional football championships.

In May, Mutual broke off from the rest of networks to bring back Ascaph music to the air and followed its action by resigning from the National Association of Broadcasters.

During the year there were 931 special events and sports programs originating at home and abroad. These consumed 492 hours and 56 minutes.

The first Mutual radio theatre was opened during the year. Mutual scored a freak kind of radio scoop when its Washington correspondent failed to shut off his microphone following President Roosevelt's request for a declaration of war against Japan and the network thus became the first to broadcast the actual proceedings of a house of Congress in session.

Critics' Quotes . . .

"BIRTH OF THE BLUES" (Paramount)

That elusive screen form, the musical show, has been brilliantly handled in "Birth of the Blues." The new offering is an ingenious blend of swing music, comedy and straight drama . . . it stacks up as captivating entertainment.—Howard Barnes, New York Herald Tribune.

May not be ranked as one of the outstanding musical productions of the times, but it is a thoroughly entertaining film from the moment it opens until it fades romantically off the screen.—Kate Cameron, New York Daily News.

Whether authentic musical history or not, "Birth of the Blues" marks the crowning of an hour and a half of ne plus ultra entertainment for eyes and ears of any gender and any age.—Nelson B. Bell, Washington Post.

All in all it was quite a birth the blues had and Paramount's account of it gives Crosby the best filmical since he got on the studio's payroll.—Jay Carmody, Washington Star.

Can be put down as one of Paramount's real money makers.—Louella O. Parsons, Los Angeles Examiner.

As long as the film peddles song moments it has something to offer. . . . The only sour note sounded by "Birth of the Blues" is the story.—Harry Mines, Los Angeles News.

"RISE AND SHINE" (20th Century-Fox)

The film is an hilarious musical satire on college football with a gangster angle thrown in and with the usual Hellinger flair for funny dialogue and screwy characters.—Harrison Carroll, Los Angeles Herald Express.

Maybe its past the football season and all that, but "Rise and Shine," 20th Century-Fox gridiron contribution for laugh purposes, would be timely whenever shown.—Edwin Schallert, Los Angeles Times.

They've finally turned out another football comedy as funny as "Hold That Co-ed." . . . completely mad farce.—Virginia Wright, Los Angeles News.

A sillier football film has not been seen since the Ritz Brothers made the 20th Century-Fox varsity back in '37.—Donald Kirkley, Baltimore Sun.

In its considerable retention of Thurber's malicious whimsicality, it amounts to reasonably good, if uneven, entertainment.—Jay Carmody, Washington Star.

One of the gayest and most spontaneously amusing pieces of gridiron nonsense to hit the screen in years.—Don Craig, Washington News.

"KATHLEEN" (M-G-M)

M-G-M made no mistake when they took over Shirley's services. She does more for them than they do for her. . . . Even with a personable supporting cast and all the fixin's in costumes and settings, there's still the story—and that's humdrum.—Edith Werner, New York Daily Mirror.

M-G-M, her new sponsors, haven't done right by our Shirley.—New York Times.

Even if this story passed muster with Mrs. Temple, it won't catapult her daughter back into the Motion Picture Herald's best-ten list of money-making stars.—Newsweek.

A grand girl, Shirley, and although "Kathleen" is deficient as drama, we know you are going to like her.—Gilbert Kanour, Baltimore Evening Sun.

"YOU BELONG TO ME" (Columbia)

Wesley Ruggles has put together a bright, amusing little comedy.—Mildred Martin, Philadelphia Inquirer.

Put it down as apple-snow, palatable but not nutritious.—Philadelphia Ledger.

This is the kind of broad, uproarious comedy of marriage that doesn't wait for the laughs to die. They're practically continuous.—Virginia Wright, Los Angeles News.

The audience appeared to relish every minute of this comedy about a lady doctor and the rich patient she married.—Philip K. Scheuer, Los Angeles Times.

Wesley Ruggles' latest comedy is a comfortable soother for an hour and a half.—Providence Journal.

Somewhat above the normal, and an amible instrument for provoking grins and chuckles over familiar characters and things.—Gilbert Kanour, Baltimore Sun.

"CONFIRM OR DENY" (20th Century-Fox)

There is plenty of excitement to the story, some lively wise-cracking, and considerable tragedy.—Doris Arden, Chicago Times.

Although this one has all the elements of exciting drama . . . it turns out thoroughly ordinary melodrama.—Chicago Herald-American.

Six months ago it probably would have been a very exciting, timely and thrilling film. Today it still has a great deal of merit—but it is yesterday's headline.—Wolf Kaufman, Chicago Sun.

"UNHOLY PARTNERS" (M-G-M)

It is a newspaper story, pretty good, pretty "action-y," and very noisy. You probably will enjoy it.—Wolfe Kaufman, Chicago Sun.

Edward G. Robinson and Edward Arnold are providing double-quick action in melodramatic manner in a story where the suspense is well sustained for the greater portion of the 94 minutes of unreeling.—Dorothy Guinan, Philadelphia Daily News.

Since it deals with an age best forgotten, its melodramatics seem quite naive. Nevertheless, they are exciting.—Henry T. Murdock, Philadelphia Ledger.

The best thing about "Unholy Partners" . . . is that it shows us Laraine Day completely resurrected from her horrible fate in the "Dr. Kildare" series.—Paddison Pretlow, Washington News.

War Effort to Occupy N.Y. Legislature

Opens Jan. 7; Little Film Legislation Seen

By RICHARD J. CONNERS

ALBANY, Dec. 29.—Prosecution of a successful war effort is the major concern of the 1942 New York State legislature, which convenes Jan. 7 to hear Gov. Herbert Lehman's annual message. The motion picture industry has already indicated its enthusiastic support of measures designed to aid in the national effort at home and abroad and the feeling exists that exhibitors particularly will have a real interest in legislative action.

While legislative leaders undoubtedly have not completed

Trade Cooperation Lauded by Mellett

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The establishment of coordination of Government film activities has brought from the industry "wonderful" offers of cooperation, it was said tonight by Arch Mercy, assistant to Coordinator Lowell Mellett.

So far, Mercy said, no definite program has been laid down, but it is planned to set up only a small organization, since it is felt that not many persons will be needed under the policy of cooperation which will be followed, in which the industry will have a point of contact with all the Government film activities.

After the new organization gets started, Mellett said today, he will issue a statement outlining the policies and objectives of the planned coordination.

Clearance Award Affects Theatres In Oakland, Calif.

A clearance decision affecting virtually all theatres in Oakland, Calif., was reported to American Arbitration Association headquarters here yesterday by the San Francisco tribunal.

The decision, handed down in the case brought by the Piedmont Theatre, Oakland, against the five consenting companies and a large number of interested theatres in the city, abolishes the practice in Oakland of figuring first run clearance from the closing day of a "move over" engagement. Donovan C. Peters, arbitrator in the case, held that the practice results in unreasonable clearance over the fifth run Piedmont and directed that in the future first run clearance be computed from closing day at the theatre in which the picture was booked originally.

The arbitrator also reduced the clearance of the fourth run Chimes and Grand Theatres to one day over

Casey Due Today For Union Parley

Pat Casey, producers' labor representative, will arrive from the Coast today to attend the negotiations starting here Monday on new contracts with eight IATSE studio locals.

The negotiations were begun here last September and were adjourned to the Coast when agreements could not be reached. The Coast negotiations ended with agreements being reached with only two of the 10 IA studio locals and were again transferred to New York so that heads of the major companies could participate and make final decisions.

Pledge Little 3 Not to Defend 2 Suits at Once

BUFFALO, Dec. 29.—Counsel for the "Little Three" were assured by Seymour Simon, special assistant to the U. S. Attorney General, in Federal court here today that they will not be required to defend the Government's anti-trust suit against the Schine Circuit here and the suit in Federal court at New York simultaneously.

Simon said that the Government plans to try the Schine suit first and that the New York suit will not be started until the local suit is concluded. He estimated that it would take at least eight weeks for trial of the Schine suit, which is on the court calendar here now for March 3. The New York case will be called about Feb. 16, Simon said, and at that time Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard probably will set the trial date for some time in April.

This, Simon believes, will give time to complete the trial here and to start the New York trial in time to finish that case by June 1. If the Government has not won a victory over the

MPPDA Compiling List of Film Needs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. — The MPPDA is compiling a list of the industry's estimated requirements for scarce materials for the coming year and when completed will submit it to the motion picture section of the Priorities Division for consideration, it was learned today.

Deciding on Capital Birthday Ball Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—At a meeting scheduled to be held here tomorrow, it probably will be decided whether the President's birthday balls for the benefit of paralysis sufferers are to be held as usual next month.

Always a big financial success, due principally to the presence of a dozen or more Hollywood stars, the round of entertainments in Washington hotels now is in danger of being canceled because of the war.

As yet, President Roosevelt has not indicated whether he believes the traditional parties in the nation's capital should be observed on his birthday, Jan. 30.

As coordinator of defense, District Commissioner Russell Young is in the position of discouraging large scale turnouts of the public. But as chairman of the local committee on arrangements for celebration of the President's birthday, he is committed to the policy of raising as much money for the infantile paralysis sufferers as possible. And the birthday entertainments annually raise more than $100,000 here.

Among some members of the local film and theatre industry the feeling prevails that the elaborate parties might be dropped this January and greater stress be laid upon the March of Dimes drive, of which Carter T. Barron, Loew's zone manager, is D. C. chairman.

306 Wins Award in J. J. Circuit Dispute

Operators Union, Local 306, yesterday won an award from Harry C. Kane, arbitrator appointed by N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora, in a dispute with the J. J. Circuit operated by Julius Joelson, the union announced yesterday.

According to the union, Joelson acquired the Consolidated circuit of 18 houses, employing about 100 projectionists, seven months ago and shortly thereafter sought a reduction of $35,000 in the annual operators' payroll of approximately $200,000. Arbitration was resorted to under the terms of the basic contract with the union. Kane ruled that Joelson must continue to pay the scale set for Consolidated and, in addition, must grant the five per cent increase provided this Fall under the N. Y. ITOA agreement, the union said.

DINNER

is # ready!

COME AND GET IT... FROM WARNERS!

Hellzapoppin' On B'way as Grosses Soar

"Big" is the word for the Main Stem's box-office.

"Remember the Day," "H. M. Pulham, Esq.," "Hellzapoppin'," "The Shanghai Gesture," "Birth of the Blues," "Sundown," "Unholy Partners," "You're in the Army Now," "Tarzan's Secret Treasure" and "The Wolf Man" are pictures which are current on Broadway, and all are doing mighty well.

And—the mightiest grosser for this week is "Remember the Day," which with the usual Roxy Theatre's stage show, is running full speed into a new house record of about $100,000, since this theatre embarked on its present presentation policy. The picture will shatter the mark set by "Alexander's Ragtime Band" last year.

Among the festive occasions tomorrow, will be the opening of "Louisiana Purchase," at the Paramount Theatre. This picture will follow an unusually healthy grosser, "Birth of the Blues," which even on its third week will have garnered an unusually excellent figure of $46,000, according to present estimates. Accompanying this film, on the stage, is Orrin Tucker's band. "Louisiana Purchase" will share the program at the Paramount Theatre with Gene Krupa's band on the stage. Another festive moment to come tomorrow will be the opening of M-G-M's "Babes on Broadway," at Radio City Music Hall.

Broadway's houses are opening at 9 o'clock in the morning these days to accommodate the increased patronage.

"Hellzapoppin'," that Olsen and Johnson madcap musical is attracting excellent patronage at the Rivoli, where it is estimated the film will close its first week with a great $34,000.

'Gesture' Is Strong

But—believe it or not (and the critics must bite the dust) among this week's Broadway champions is "The Shanghai Gesture," which is doing as great a business at the Astor Theatre as any film which has played there. Just capacity—that's all! It's been S.R.O. since opening. By present ratings this means fully $22,000.

"H. M. Pulham Esq.," M-G-M's picture at the Radio City Music Hall, accompanied on the stage by the traditional Christmas show of this theatre will do conservatively, it is estimated, about $100,000 this week. That's as big as big can be.

It's Christmas vacation for the kiddies and they are coming in droves with the relatives and friends eager to get in almost any theatre, but many of them show a discriminating taste, the managers state. Good weather has prevailed, too, which has aided the box-office immeasurably—but chiefly, it's been good pictures.

"You're in the Army Now," at Warners' Strand, with Will Osborne's band on the stage, has grossed an estimated $22,000 on the first four days, plenty good. Tomorrow, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," will follow, and Jimmy Dorsey's band will join the new program on the stage Thursday.

At the Globe, "Unholy Partners," the Piedmont. Theatres involved in the case included those of West Coast Theatres, Transbay Theatres, Solano Theatre Corp., Oakland-Berkeley Theatres and Alameda County Theatres.

The clearance complaint brought by Sol Winokur, operator of the Ritz, Watervliet, Mich., has been dismissed at the Detroit tribunal, the AAA was advised yesterday.

The complaint named Loew's and Warners and the Heart Theatre, Hartford, Mich., and Loma, Coloma, Mich. Paul W. Voorhies, arbitrator, ruled that the clearance of seven to 15 days of the intervening theatres over the Ritz is reasonable. The houses are within a seven-mile radius of each other. Costs were divided among all of the parties.

the M-G-M picture starring Edward G. Robinson, got off to a walloping start with about $5,200 reported for Saturday and Sunday. This picture should do as much if not more for the remainder of the week, and that's a high-water mark. "Paris Calling" will open at the Globe Jan. 10.

"Tarzan's Secret Treasure," at the Capitol grossed about $14,000 over the weekend, and at the Rialto, "The Wolf Man," is estimated to have grossed about $2,700, for the same period.

There has been no information forthcoming from the armed services with regard to public protection plans over New Year's eve and the following day, but Police Commissioner Louis Valentine has let it be known that the city is taking no chances and will have the biggest detail of police, 2,100 men including their superior officers, on duty in the Times Square area for the holiday, beginning tomorrow, besides air raid wardens throughout the city.

War Effort to Occupy N.Y. Legislature

the defense formula, there is a general expectation that the blackout situation will importantly concern places of public assembly, including theatres. Throughout the state, many exhibitors have offered their theatres as emergency shelters. More stringent safety inspection of places of public assembly may be in line.

Heading the agenda of direct motion picture legislation of a non-defense nature is consideration again of a measure, certain to be introduced, it is thought there, to equalize the censorship fee on inspection of 16 mm. film. The 35 mm. film is of course subject to a levy of $3 per 1,000 feet on original film and $2 per 1,000 feet on prints, under the law of 1921 which set up the censorship and review features. Since 16 mm. film requires more time for inspection, last year a bill was introduced to raise 16 mm. to a $6 per 1,000 feet fee for originals and $4 for prints. Designed as a revenue raiser for the state, the bill is understood to have the support of the State Education Department, under which film censorship operates. The bill was introduced too late last year for amendment.

Introduction Likely

Last year's bill was understood to have been modeled after the Maryland law, but an amendment was needed to make it practicable here. With a year's additional study, its recommendation by the legislature as revenue for the state budget is quite likely.

No action against the consent decree is anticipated, but the old omnibus bill concerning chain stores and circuits may be reintroduced. The general feeling, however, is that little restrictive legislation will be considered during the wartime emergency unless an imperative need for supplementary revenue arises.

Legislation to straighten out the present restrictive penal law against radio and motion picture theatre stage appearances of children under 16 is expected to be reintroduced. Such a bill was passed by the 1941 legislature but vetoed by Governor Lehman. A new measure which meets the objections raised in the executive rejection is expected, as the present law is too stiff, educators say, adding that they are powerless to grant exceptions.

Abolition of fee-charging employment agencies, always of interest to both motion picture and radio circles due to theatrical agencies, is expected to be proposed. For several years Governor Lehman has advocated restrictions on billboard advertising near intersections and along scenic routes. This subject can conceivably be brought to a conclusion in 1942 if avenues for additional revenues are sought.

The war has removed reasons for a change in the censorship to include newsreels, since enemy propaganda will no longer have any chance to get through in this form. The "Seig Im Westen" case is still in the courts.

Pledge Little 3 Not to Defend 2 Suits at Once

Little Three by June 1 the trade show and blocks-of-five provisions of the consent decree will expire. However, the Government has indicated that, if it cannot conclude the trial against the Little Three by June 1 it will petition Judge Goddard for an extension of the escape clause deadline to some date after June 1. In this event, the trade show and blocks-of-five provisions might be perpetuated for another year, since the new selling season would be getting under way at that time.

Today's hearing in U. S. District court here was on a motion by Willard S. McKay, attorney for the Schine Circuit, requesting Federal Judge John Knight to reconsider his earlier action setting March 3 as the date for the start of trial of the Government suit here. McKay asked for a delay beyond that date on the grounds that the Government has not satisfactorily answered his interrogatories and that, in consequence, he will be unable to prepare his defense by that date.

Counsel for Universal, United Artists and Columbia also petitioned the court for a later trial date on the ground that they would be forced to prepare for and defend two Government actions simultaneously unless the trial date is changed.

Judge Knight reserved decision on the motion after two hours of listening to opposing counsel.

Plan Censorship Parleys for Radio

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Conferences with the broadcasting industry on the matter of censorship during the present war period will be scheduled "from time to time," FCC Chairman James L. Fly, said today in a joint press conference with John H. Ryan, assistant director of the Office of Censorship.

Fly said that as the war progresses new curtailments affecting radio broadcasting undoubtedly will occur which will make it necessary to call in representatives of the radio industry for consultation as to how best to approach their problems.

As to priorities, the chairman said that the commission had been studying the situation and "was ready," but that there had been some reorganization with respect to the OPM which still remained to be settled.

The newspaper-radio hearings, Fly said, would be resumed on Jan. 8. There had been some discussions with reference to the filing of briefs, he said, but up to this time no briefs had been filed nor had any of the parties of interest asked for a postponement.

16mm. Showing Is Violation of Copyright

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30.—The exhibition of a copyrighted film for direct or indirect profit constitutes an infringement despite ownership of a 16mm. print, Federal Judge Ralph Jenney ruled today in granting a permanent injunction against Edward Kohn, operator of the Movie Parade Theatre, who had been showing Charlie Chaplin films at his silent revival house.

The court ordered Kohn to pay Festival Films, Inc., of New York, the plaintiff and owner of the copyrights, $3,500 in damages, assessed on the basis of $250 for each day of unauthorized exhibition. It was established by the testimony that several firms are engaged in selling or renting 16mm. films but the court ruled that unless licenses were granted by the owners of the copyright for exhibition for profit, such showings were in violation of the Federal copyright law.

"This injunction," the court ruled, "shall not restrict private exhibitions"

Bioff, Browne Sued by Para. For $100,000

Cite Extortion Payments to Former IA Heads

Paramount yesterday brought suit in U. S. District court here to recover $100,000 from William Bioff and George E. Browne which it allegedly paid the former IATSE officials "unwillingly and under duress."

The complaint, filed by Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett, counsel for Paramount, asserts that between May, 1936, and January, 1938, "the plaintiff, pursuant to demands of the defendants and under duress, paid to the defendants sums of money aggregating $100,000, which the defendants received and retained for their own use and benefit."

Wellcs will receive a bronze plaque at a private dinner which the film reviewers will give on Jan. 10 at Leone's Restaurant. "Citizen Kane" won on the sixth ballot, 10 out of 18 votes being cast for the picture, after the two-thirds rule was dropped automatically following the fifth ballot. The voting took place Monday afternoon in the private dining room of the New York Times.

Cooper won on the first ballot. Miss Fontaine won two-thirds majority on the fifth ballot.

Although "Two Faced Woman,"

the new M-G-M-Greta Garbo picture, opens only today on Broadway, it was revealed nevertheless that Miss Garbo was among those who received votes for the "outstanding actress award" on the fifth ballot.

Columbus Theatre Wins Two Appeals

Fred Rowlands, Columbus, O., exhibitor, won two arbitration appeals, each involving a seven-day reduction of clearance for his third-run Parsons and Main theatres, in decisions by the national appeals board made public here yesterday, which reversed dismissals by arbitrators who heard the cases originally.

Both of Rowlands' complaints named all five consenting distributors and competing houses operated by J. Real Neth Theatres Co. Both the Parsons and the Main had 52 days availability after Columbus first-runs, while Neth's competing Markham and Eastern had 30 days' availability after first-run. Rowlands' complaints were dismissed by arbitrators who found the clearance involved to be reasonable.

Adjust Schedule

In reversing the arbitrators, the appeals board emphasized that third-runs in Columbus which were not in competition with Neth houses were given an availability of 45 days after first-runs and, accordingly, held that the same availability should apply to theatres which were in competition with Neth. The awards reduced the availability of the two Rowlands houses from 52 to 45 days after first-runs.

New Clerk Is Named At Cincinnati Board

Lorenz Lemper has resigned as clerk of the Cincinnati arbitration tribunal and J. Vincent Aug, formerly with the City Solicitor's Office, Cincinnati, has been named to succeed him, American Arbitration Association headquarters here revealed in an announcement yesterday.

Stamps as Change In Great Demand

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Over $500 in defense stamps has been given in change to patrons of the Indiana-Illinois Theatre circuit in the past 10 days, according to Jack Rose, executive of the company, and the plan is going over big.

"When we started," he said, "we gave each theatre a $15 fund of stamps figuring there would be small response, but since putting the idea into operation we find it hard to keep up with the demand and have run short of stamps on several occasions." All the circuit's 15 houses run a trailer telling the patrons to "Remember Pearl Harbor" and to accept the stamps in change.

Give Defense Stamps

The Casino Theatre in the Yorkville section is distributing defense saving stamp books with the first 10-cent stamp included, gratis to patrons.

He was accompanied by Jack Beaman, of the Los Angeles chapter, and Edward Blackburn, associate of Jules Brulatour.

Ball Programs Cut Summer Air Slump

Baseball broadcasts have had the effect of reducing the annual Summer slump in radio listening, according to the annual report of the Co-operative Analysis of Broadcasting, issued yesterday. The report covers the period from Oct. 1, 1940, to Sept. 30, 1941, during which nearly three-quarters of a million telephone interviews were made.

It was pointed out that radio's loss in daytime listeners last Summer was less than half the drop found among evening listeners. The daytime decrease, as reported by CAB, was 13.5 per cent as compared with a 29 per cent drop for night audiences. Baseball broadcasts closed the season with an average rating of 13.8 per cent. These broadcasts of both major and minor league games were heard in 30 of the 33 population centers where CAB conducts surveys.

Short Subject Review

"Cavalcade of Aviation" (Universal)

The idea of a cavalcade of aviation, with its timeliness and wide appeal, is an excellent one, and as developed in this short subject by Thomas Meade and Joseph O'Brien, the producers, is a fine subject. Although some of the scenes depicting the highlights in the history of aviation have been seen before—such as Lindbergh's takeoff for Paris, the burning of the Hindenburg at Lakehurst, and the like—their presentation with continuity and in chronological order takes on new interest.

The chronicle begins with the Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk, N. C., and Byrd, Chamberlain, Earhart, Elder and others important in the development of aviation are shown along with shots of outstanding events, leading up to the importance of air power in the present war. There is, too, some amusing footage on experiments in aviation by radical inventors. Running time, 19 minutes. Release, Dec. 31, 1941.

Herbert Silverberg, attorney for Festival, said several other actions are pending over the Festival-owned Chaplin films and added that, under the court's ruling, various jack-rabbit shows in the Midwest may be stopped from using other films. The ruling also applies to church charity shows, according to Silverberg. Kohn had been operating the Movie Parade with revivals of important silent films for several years. Festival charged in its action that its contemplated revival of Chaplin shorts had been damaged by Kohn's exhibition. Chaplin films involved in the action were "The Adventurer," "The Vagabond," "The Fireman," "Behind the Screen," "Easy Street" and "The Immigrant."

AS THE GREATEST GROSSER EVER!

The Roxy's tenant, "Remember the Day," broke all records for that theatre since its opening in 1927 when 89,749 persons paid a total of $58,858 during the four days ending Sunday night. The mark topped the previous record holder, "Alexander's Ragtime Band," by $4,748.

And—the mightiest grosser for this week is "Remember the Day," which with the usual Roxy Theatre's stage show, is running full speed into a new house record of about $100,000, since this theatre embarked on its present presentation policy. The picture will shatter the mark set by "Alexander's Ragtime Band".

'Gesture' Is Strong

Among this week's Broadway champions is "The Shanghai Gesture," which is doing as great a business at the Astor Theatre as any film which has played there. Just capacity — that's all! It's been S. R. O. since opening.

THE NEW YORK TIMES

DECEMBER 30, 1941

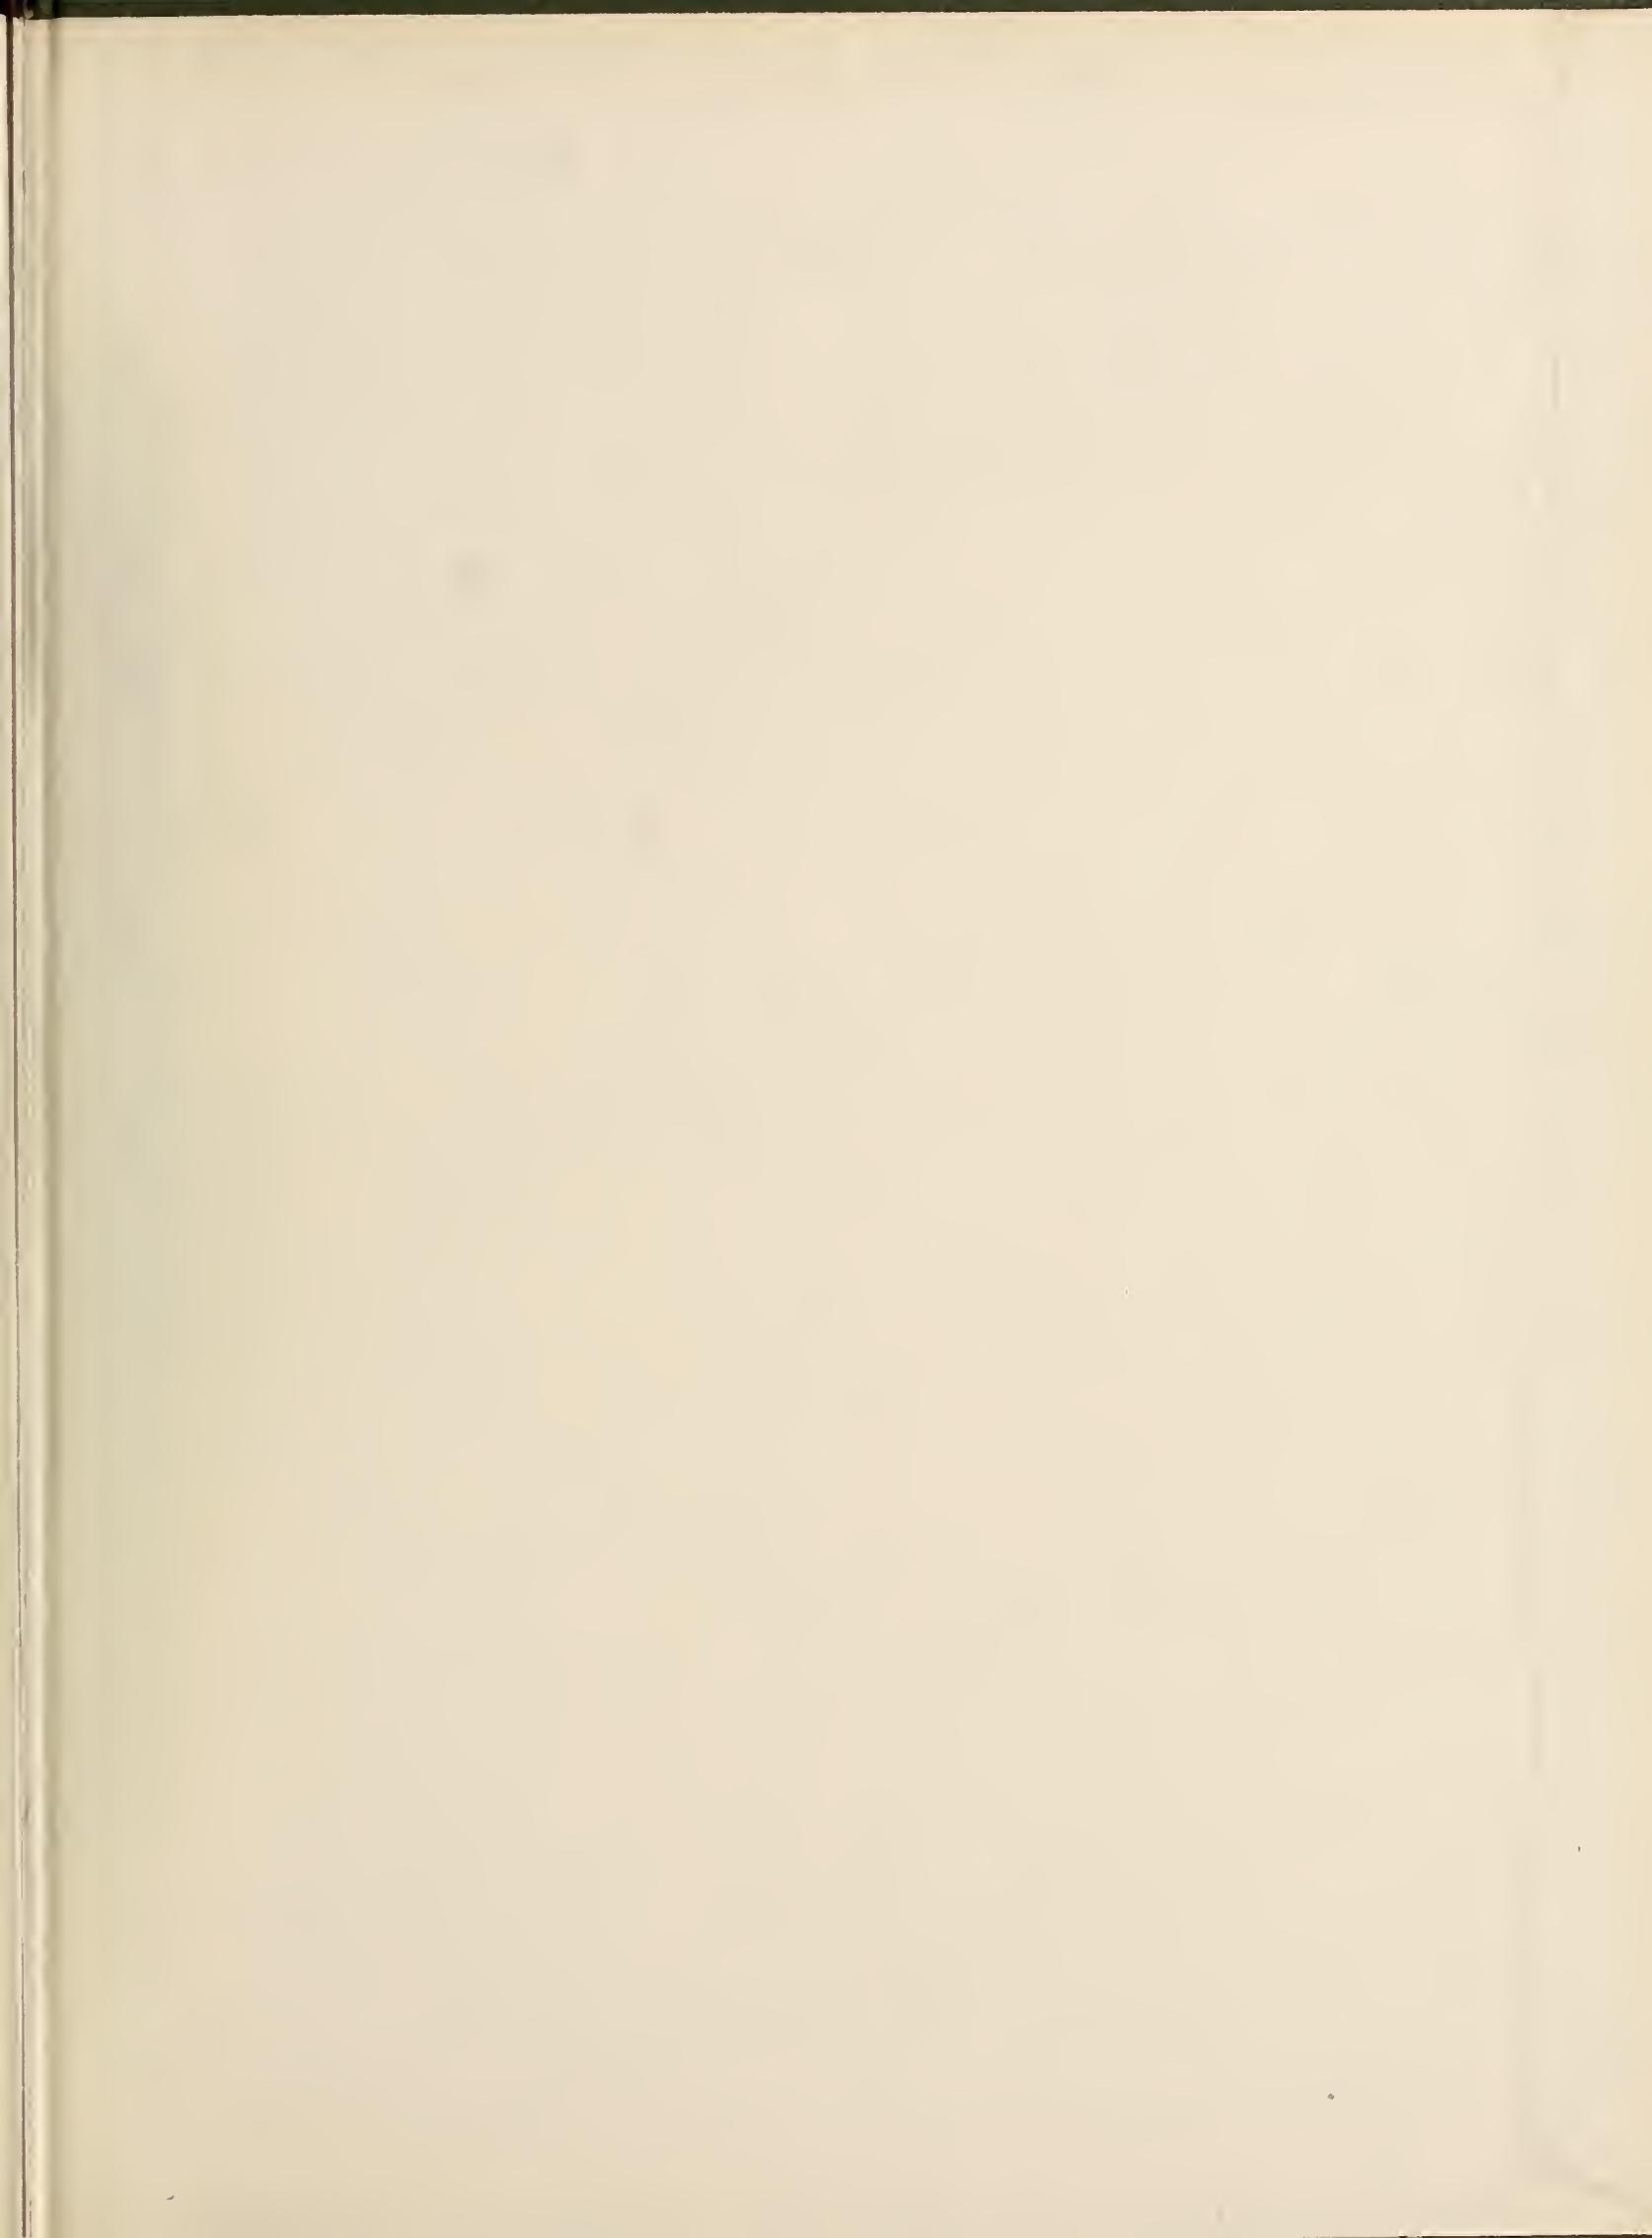

At the Astor, "The Shanghai Gesture" played to 31,612 persons during the four-day week-end. Business during the first four and a half days was in excess of $17,000 and an estimate made yesterday indicated that the film would gross from $25,000 to $27,000 for its first week, which would constitute an all-time money record for the theatre.
